FAIR IS READY! BECOMES WORLD HOST SATURDAY

Prices Are Slashed; More Free Fun.

BY EARL MULLIN.

A Century of Progress Exposition, the 1934 Chicago World's Fair, opens its gates to the public at 9 o'clock next Saturday morning. From that time until midnight Oct. 31, Chicago will be host to the world for the second successive year, presenting an international exposition of education and entertainment.

Although the second year of A Century of Progress the Exposition is not a duplication of the first year. As the industry and science represented by the Exposition has advanced so has the Exposition advanced. A person who saw the 1933 Fair can no more say he has seen the 1934 Fair than can the same person be satisfied with last week's newspaper.

Only Exterior the Same.

The outlines and major specifications at first glance are unchanged. The location is still in Grant park on the shores of Lake Michigan. The Fair as before presents a history of the advance in all lines of man's creative work. Many of the major buildings remain the same as to exterior. There the resemblance between the 1933 and the 1934 Fair comes to an end.

First of all the Fair has increased the number of exhibitors and has improved the types of concessions. The Fair has swung more to the cultural side with symphony orchestras, the finest type of free motion picture shows, and more attention to the social side of modern life, while at the same time not neglecting the scientific and industrial.

Second, the Exposition is to treat visitors much more kindly in a financial way. The admission of fifty cents remains unchanged, but inside the grounds many of the prices have been slashed.

More Free Entertainments.

Third, there will be many more free entertainments this year than last year. Naming only a few of these one thinks immediately of the Chicago Symphony orchestra, the Detroit Symphony orchestra, the wild animal show with thirty lions and tigers, and the nightly fireworks display on the lagoons.

There are several major changes in the Exposition, both as to the layout of the park and as to companies exhibiting. The Midway, which last year was on the mainland in the center of the Fair, has now been moved to Northerly island right on the lake front. In its place there is a row of foreign villages.

Another of the major changes which will be noticed immediately by visitors is in the north and south lagoons. Last year these two bodies of water, as big in area as the rest of the Fair, were merely plain, artificial lakes. The lighting system throughout the Fair grounds has been changed, to give better illumination and at the same time to make the parkway as a whole more harmonious.

New Exhibits Free.

Among the new exhibitors this year, all of which are presenting free shows and displays to the public, are the following: Three packing companies with their own exhibits and buildings, Hiram Walker distilling interests, Ford Motor company, Standard Oil company, Haeger Potteries, Brookhill Dairy, Wonder Bakery, Brewers institute, Western Union hall, Good Housekeeping Gardens, sixteen villages, of which fourteen represent foreign lands, and three new model homes.

It would be impossible to list the number of old exhibitors who have increased the size of their buildings, and in many cases completely changed their exhibits. Of all it can be said that they have brought their exhibits up to date with the new developments in their own fields.

One may break the Exposition down to some extent into its various subdivisions and give a rough idea of the attractions to be offered. Of necessity each description merely a sketch.

Music Programs Improved.

Typical of the cultural aspects of this year's Fair is the musical program. Last year an abundance of dance bands played throughout the grounds. The Fair presented a few programs of classical music, but only in a small way.

This year two of the finest symphony orchestras in the United States, if not in the world, will give free daily concerts. They are the Detroit Symphony orchestra, presented by the Ford Motor company, and the Chicago Symphony, sponsored by the Swift Packing company. The Fair will present chang-

BULGAR ARMY DICTATORSHIP JAILS HUNDREDS

Old Regime Ousted in Bloodless Coup.

[Copyright: 1934: By the Associated Press.]

SOFIA, Bulgaria, May 19.—Striking swiftly before the sun was up, the Bulgarian army today junked constitutional government and took control of the nation under a military dictatorship established by royal decrees.

Whether King Boris, the 40 year old monarch who has the reputation of being a fighter, was the sponsor of the coup d'état, or had it thrust upon him by the army, was not immediately apparent, the manner in which the coup was executed showed evidence of weeks of planning.

Whatever his original position, the king acquiesced promptly to the new state of affairs. He signed some thirty decrees which dissolved parliament and put the new government, with Kimon Gueroguieff as premier, in power.

Cabinet Members Jailed.

Members of the former cabinet were arrested and placed under guard as the soldiers seized the government. It was reported that several hundred persons had been arrested.

[Dispatches did not indicate whether Nicholas Muschanoff, who resigned the premiership last Monday and had been invited by King Boris to form a new government, had been arrested. Muschanoff resigned in the face of demands for a stronger government.]

Soldiers were in absolute control of the situation, not only here but in other cities throughout the country. Heavy guards were on duty at all public buildings and in the streets, and most of the populace remained indoors. No disturbances were reported from any section of the nation.

Soldiers Surround Palace.

One report was that the first information the king had of the movement was when soldiers surrounded his palace. Even if that was the case, the monarch did not hesitate long about giving his approval.

In fact, the decrees, followed by a lengthy manifesto setting forth the objectives of the new government as the creation of a disciplined, orderly state, came so rapidly that one theory was that they had been in the king's hands long before the army struck.

The manifesto described the new government as an "authority" régime, "independent of political passions." There will not even be municipal elections, which have been a source of embarrassment to the government recently because of the huge communist vote piled up in them.

Calls Old System Failure.

Complete failure of the system of party government, the manifesto declared, sowed the seeds of trouble, demoralized the people, and hampered the normal functioning of the state.

The "coöperation of the army" came as a result, the declaration explained, of "the general collapse of the democratic régime and consciousness of the necessity for ending a dangerous situation."

The mayor of Sofia was dismissed from office as promptly as the national government was thrown out, and the view was held that an entirely new set of local officers likely will be named throughout the country.

The program of the dictatorship as outlined in the manifesto involves the following points:

1. Organization of a disciplined state with fusion of some ministries and a reduction in the number of political divisions in the public services.

Plans to Regulate Production.

2. Creation of a stable local administration, with the mayors named by the central government.

3. Reëstablishment of the credit and authority of the state by balancing the budget and creating new sources of revenue.

4. Provisions to make credit more accessible, especially to farmers and artisans.

5. Raising of the cultural level in villages.

6. Regulation of industrial production with respect to the real needs of the country, and the lowering of prices of industrial goods.

7. Reduction of unemployment through measures to provide work by strict application of social legislation.

8. Creation of new markets.

9. A fundamental reorganization of the educational system.

10. Reforms expediting justice.

11. Maintenance of peace and good relations with all powers, particularly neighboring countries, and establishment of relations with soviet Russia.

In line with the policy for a smaller

F. L. WHITCOMB JR. IS MISSING FROM BOSTON-N.Y. LINER

Franklin L. Whitcomb Jr., 37 years old, of Boston, son of the president of the Griffin Wheel company, who lives at 1432 Forest avenue, Evanston, was missing yesterday when the S. S. Boston docked at New York City after its trip from Boston. His luggage was found in the stateroom he had booked and it was reported he was last seen on the ship at 4 p. m., Friday, an hour before the boat left Boston.

Detective William O'Connor of the marine division of the New York police, said it was possible that Whitcomb had stepped ashore after he boarded the boat, and was left behind. His bed in the stateroom had not been slept in. No inquiry had been made about the luggage up to yesterday evening.

Police of both Boston and New York are making inquiries into the case. There is no apparent reason why Mr. Whitcomb should disappear.

A brother, Pemberton Whitcomb of New York City, was unable to throw any light on the disappearance. Franklin L. Whitcomb Sr. likewise was mystified. He said his son had formerly been employed as a salesman by the Griffin company and lived in Evanston, but that he left three years ago. Since then Franklin Jr., who is not married, has been living at the Engineers' club in Boston. The father said he knew of no reason for suicide.

Halsted Street Flees Fire in Wild Disorder

Halsted street—that heterogeneous thoroughfare which is speckled with tiny establishments in its course through the stockyards district—was the scene of wild disorder yesterday when shopkeepers and home owners were forced to flee in the face of the flames.

Eyewitness stories gathered from those who ran for their lives, clutching a few cherished possessions, disclosed how quickly the flames fed upon the tinder of the yard's buildings and leaped upon the shops and small flats across the street.

Rescue Work Difficult.

One block bounded by 41st and 42d streets and by Emerald avenue and Halsted streets was completely burned out. Save for the large bank buildings and the International Amphitheater [on the west side of the street], most of the stores were of narrow frontage. Above them, on second and third floors, were dwelling places. It was with difficulty that police and firemen were able to force these homeowners to leave, even though the fire was roaring toward them.

On Emerald avenue the small homes were blazing furnaces almost as soon as the fire touched them.

"I was just coming home from work," he said, "and I could see the flames were coming our way. I hurried, and just as I got to the back door the shed behind the house was struck by a flying brand. The shed started to burn and I rushed into the house to get Celia, my wife.

Unable to Save Anything.

"At first, we thought we could save some of our stuff, but it was no use. If we had carried anything out, we couldn't have carted it away fast enough to have saved it or ourselves. We just beat it."

Verne Potter, who lived across the street at 4209 Emerald avenue, had better luck. He managed to carry much of his furnishings a block east to Union avenue before the flames reached his home. He placed his furnishings on the curb and mounted guard over them until a temporary shelter was provided.

Mrs. F. Kelly, a widow living at 4202 Union avenue, told a thrilling story. "At 5 o'clock we saw the flames coming," she said. "My son, Joseph, and I shouted to the neighbors, for we all felt our homes would be burned in five minutes.

Bucket Brigade Saves Home.

"We nearly went crazy as we lugged out all our valuables and furniture and piled them on the street. Then the men folks climbed on the roofs and we women got all the buckets we could find and carried them up. They kept dousing the water on while pieces of burning wood as large as your fist fell on them. The fire came within 100 yards of our place, then it stopped. Finally we moved our furniture back."

The work of salvage went on amidst great difficulties provided by a crowd of onlookers estimated at more than 400,000 by police. Every street leading to the fire was blocked with people.

Union avenue looked like a moving day as house holders took their possessions to the sidewalk and placed their children on guard. Some of these possessions were loaded upon trucks, so certain did it appear that all the residences were doomed.

Robert Flynn, a live stock trader in the yards for 17 years, told a pitiful story of the cries of cattle and horses trapped in the pens and barns.

Hurl Goods to Street.

The shopkeepers of Halsted street worked like fiends to remove their possessions before the fire engulfed their establishments. Goods were hurled to the street and the proprietors dashed in for more, hoping to be able to stagger away with all.

Outlined against the scarlet of the sky to the south reared the skeleton of the Stockyards Safety Deposit company, 4150 South Halsted street. The tower was built to resemble Independence hall in Philadelphia. It remained standing above the blackened walls, although the interior was burned out.

OFFERS OF AID FOR FIRE SUFFERERS COME TO TRIBUNE

Several contributions were received last night by THE TRIBUNE—through telephone and the W-G-N station—designed for the aid of homeless victims of the stockyards fire. The number of such victims and their needs are not yet clearly known. It may be small. THE TRIBUNE will be glad to receive these and other such contributions, and if the need clearly develops the funds will be turned over to the proper authorities. Otherwise the subscriptions will be returned to their donors. Last night these unsolicited contributions came in:

The Chicago chapter of the American Red Cross was active last night in inquiring into the needs of families.

FLAMES RAGE FOUR HOURS ON SOUTH SIDE; 50 HURT

Blaze in Stockyards Spreads Across Halsted Street.

A spectacular aerial photograph of the raging fire in the stockyards area as it swept northeastward, leaving an appalling trail of ruin, together with other pictures showing in detail the other thrilling views of the disastrous south side fire, will be found on page 5.

A tremendously destructive fire, which began at 4:14 p. m. yesterday in the Union stockyards on the south side, was only brought under control at 8:30 last night after an area of about eight city blocks—approximately 80 acres—had been burned over. The flames ravaged territory both inside and outside the yards.

Damage was estimated at $8,000,000, though it was admitted that there could be no definite figure on the loss for several days.

More Than 50 Injured.

There were reports of loss of life, but none of these had been substantiated early this morning. More than 50 persons were injured, most of them firemen overcome by smoke or suffering from burns.

About 2:30 a. m. firemen digging in the stockyards ruins along 43d street, west of Halsted street, found a man about 35 years old, apparently a yards employé, buried under a fallen wall. He was taken to Southtown hospital where slight hope was held for his recovery. One fireman was reported missing, but this was denied by Fire Marshal Michael Corrigan.

Firemen were still fighting sporadic outbursts of flame in the affected area at midnight. They declared, however, there was no further danger from the blaze. Two hundred policemen were patroling the district to guard against looting. They were assisted by American Legion volunteers and others.

Heavy Loss in Stockyards.

Considerably more than one-fourth of the pens and barns in the stockyards were utterly destroyed, as were the historic office and exhibit buildings clustered about the entrance to the yards.

Sweeping across Halsted street, the eastern boundary of the yards, the flames attacked buildings on a front nearly two blocks wide and carried destruction beyond Emerald avenue, the first thoroughfare east of Halsted.

All the buildings in the area bounded by Halsted, Emerald, 41st, and 42d streets were attacked by the flames and all but a few were destroyed. Some damage was done to other structures along the east side of Emerald avenue, while business buildings along Halsted street as far south as 42d place were consumed. North of 41st street only one building, an old factory, was burned.

2,200 Men Battle Flames.

For more than four hours 2,200 firemen, with five-sixths of the city's equipment, battled the flames. Reports that the fire fighters had used dynamite to clear away buildings in the path of the conflagration were denied by Marshal Corrigan. Dynamite was at hand, it was said, but was not used.

It was the barrier offered to the flames by the widespread Chicago Junction railway tracks between 40th and 41st streets and the dying down of brisk southwest and south winds shortly after sunset that enabled the firemen to win their battle to save a much greater area from destruction.

Within the yards the flames consumed all the buildings and pens from a point south of 43d street north to the Chicago Junction tracks, and from Morgan street east to Halsted street. Besides the buildings and pens, some 100 freight cars on sidings were destroyed.

Worst Fire Since 1871.

"This is the worst fire Chicago has known since the great one of 1871," declared Mayor Kelly, who went to join the firemen soon after the fire started. The same opinion was expressed by Marshal Corrigan.

The mayor added his thanks to the firemen for their earnest work and complimented the 300 policemen who were hurried to the scene for the perfect order that was maintained throughout.

Marshal Corrigan said that perhaps 150 families were made homeless in the fire swept area east of Halsted street. There was no accurate estimate on this, however, as the buildings burned were mostly business houses with

OLD LANDMARKS OF YARDS ARE LOST IN CONFLAGRATION

Several famous landmarks in the Union stockyards were wrecked by the great fire yesterday. Dozens of homes, shops, rooming houses, saloons, and office buildings were damaged. Estimate 150 families homeless.

It was impossible last night to compile a complete list of the structures wrecked, but among those celebrated in Packingtown were these:

International amphitheater, on the west side of Halsted street between 42d place and 43d street. Formerly Dexter Pavilion, it had been enlarged and was the scene of the International Livestock exposition for 33 years. Flames reduced it to a skeleton of steel.

Saddle and Sirloin club, on Dexter Park avenue, one block west of Halsted, scene of dinners for Presidents, princes and other celebrities who visited Packingtown.

New Exchange building, office structure at Laurel and Exchange avenues, which housed more than 100 commission firms and the Union Stockyards Transit company.

Old Exchange building, just south of the new building.

The Percheron Society of America.

Armour & Co. stock buying office.

Drovers' Garage.

P. Brennan Packing company.

East of Halsted street about fifty buildings went up in smoke.

Capt. John J. McDonald of the Stockyards station reported shortly after midnight that the police had received no requests for shelter.

While the flames were raging Gov. Horner at Springfield put on the radio an appeal for Mayor Kelly to call him. When the mayor reached a telephone and acceded to the request the governor asked what help was needed. If necessary, he said, he would send troops to patrol the devastated area. The mayor told him that the city's police force was adequate for the service and declined with thanks.

Fearing that the human suffering would be much greater than it actually turned out to be, the Red Cross, the Illinois Emergency Relief commission, and the National Guard coöperated in a relief effort. A shelter was opened in the Red Cross sewing factory at 510 East 31st street, but there were few appeals for help.

Smoke Visible for Miles.

The flames for hours furnished a stupendous spectacle. Vast clouds of smoke, mingled gray and black and tinted with the red of the licking tongues of fire, rose into the air and were visible all over the city and the suburbs. Aviators reported seeing the column of smoke as far away as South Bend, 95 miles to the southeast.

The winds carried this smoke northward to the south end of the loop and then drove it across the buildings of the World's Fair and over Lake Michigan.

Vast throngs attracted by this smoke column rushed to the scene. So great was the congestion that twenty-five police captains were ordered to the affected district by Police Commissioner Allman and they responded with the 300 men. A fire protection area bounded by Ashland and Wentworth avenues, 55th street and 31st street was declared in effect and all trafic except that necessary for fire fighting was halted.

Call for Suburban Aid.

Every bit of available fire department equipment except a thinly skeletonized protection for the rest of the city was concentrated against the flames. Suburban fire departments, including those of Blue Island, Chicago Heights, Oak Lawn and Harvey moved companies in to the edge of the city to aid, releasing the outlying Chicago companies for duty at the big fire.

Because it was believed possible that the flames might spread out over a much greater area and endanger all the territory north of the yards and south of the loop, radio stations broadcast for the fire marshal appeals to all firemen off duty. They were requested to report to the fire and hundreds did so.

Before the flames were finally brought under control a 5-11 and 15 special alarms had been sounded.

Buildings Dried by Drouth.

Just north of the pens first attacked was a large barn. It and runways to the east and west were loaded with hay and other feeds for the animals. As the flames, driven by the brisk winds, attacked these they went up in vast billows of smoke and fire. The long drouth had made the ancient wooden structures as dry as tinder and they fed the growing fire and enabled it to spread with great rapidity.

It was hardly a half hour before an area greater than a city block was burning. Employés of the stockyards hastened to drive the sheep in the pens north. They succeeded in saving most of these, but several hundred cattle were reported to have perished, difficulties having been experienced in driving them.

The flames for a time drove almost straight east; then the wind shifted and they were driven to the north and northeast. On a narrow front they even leaped to the west past Morgan street and it was feared the western half of the yards and the huge packing plants of Swift & Co., and Armour & Co., two blocks west of Morgan, at Racine avenue, would be attacked.

Big Packing Plants Untouched.

Firemen were assigned to soak the Armour plant, the nearest, with water, but the fire continued its course east and north and these important buildings, in which many thousands of Chicagoans work, were not touched. The small area of pens west of Morgan street went up, but a ring of fire fighters halted the holocaust there.

All the telephone lines, electric lines and gas mains in the vicinity of the yards were put out of commission.

Swinging over to Halsted street on the southwest winds, the ruddy tongues of flame leaped across and found the old brick and frame buildings extending from 41st street to well beyond 42d ready prey. Observers reported that masses of burning timber from the yards, as large as coal scuttles, rained down on the roofs and on the fire fighters.

From the saloons, the small groceries, the upper floor rooms, fled the terrorized workers and residents. There were loud cracklings in the wind. So swift was the advance of the flames that firemen at times had to lay down their hose lines and flee to save themselves.

The same conditions had prevailed in the yards while the winds blew strong and Mayor Kelly declared last night that six pumpers and a large amount of hose had been burned before the firemen could remove them from danger. He estimated the city's equipment loss at $200,000.

Even a fire station, that of Engine company No. 59 at 826 Exchange avenue, in the yards, was destroyed.

So great was the heat that the Halsted street folk had to flee by rear doors. It was too hot in front. Farther to the east, along the west and east sides of Emerald avenue, householders, convinced that the end of their buildings was approaching, carried out their most precious belongings.

Many Householders Flee.

This attitude of fear extended all the way over to Union avenue and many of the householders there also fled. None of the buildings facing on Union, however, were burned severely. Policemen went through the district urging the residents to hurry and informing them their lives were more valuable than their possessions.

The fire officials at the scene held that the shift of the wind was of great aid and that if strong breezes had continued to blow from the west and the southwest it might have been impossible to save a much larger area to the north and east.

The fire attacked the Stockyards line of the Rapid Transit company at Exchange avenue and damaged the elevated structure as far east as Emerald avenue. The station at Halsted street was burned down and a car, abandoned there by its crew when the power was shut off suddenly, was consumed. The loss to the elevated lines was estimated by Harley Johnson, manager for the receivers, at $500,000.

MAYOR PRAISES EFFECTIVE WORK OF FIRE FIGHTERS

Greatest Blaze Since '71, Says Corrigan.

Mayor Kelly and Fire Marshal Michael J. Corrigan agreed in statements issued last night that the stockyards fire was the "greatest conflagration in the city since the Chicago fire of 1871." Both praised the firemen who toiled constantly in danger. Both said they were grateful to the many outside towns that offered assistance.

"This started out to be a very dangerous fire, and I feared at one time that the entire south side would be affected," said Mayor Kelly. "However, the splendid work by the men in charge of fighting the fire was effective in every way.

"They circled the fire at every possible point, and kept it from spreading. I never before saw such great work. I was impressed in particular by the firemen who were off duty, but who came back to work willingly—and with a smile, carrying their boots in their hands.

Real Chicago Spirit.

"That was the real Chicago spirit. These men showed the loyalty that all Chicago employés have shown, and the citizens owe them a great debt of gratitude. When the fire seemed to be beyond control, they jumped and caught it. They beat it back.

"I wish also to thank the police for their great work in keeping everything orderly and preventing a panic. While I appreciate all the offers of outside help, they were unnecessary—fortunately. I wish to thank the governor and others throughout the state for their offers of help. I also want to thank the several neighboring towns and suburbs whose offer of help we did accept. They filled in at our stations while our own men were out fighting the fire.

"These towns were: Evanston, Cicero, Summit, Elmwood Park, Park Ridge, Willow Springs, Dolton, Glenview, Clarendon Hills, Evergreen Park, Downers Grove, Hazelcrest, East Chicago, Oaklawn, Harvey, and Gary—which was ready but was not needed."

Corrigan Gives Statement.

'So far as area is concerned, this is the greatest fire since the Chicago fire of 1871. The damage is difficult to estimate at present, but it will run into millions. It is fortunate that this did not happen at night, for we might not have been able to fight it so effectively and quickly.

"Most of the time we were pumping water at the rate of 100,000 gallons a minute.

"We suffered some losses. Fire house 59, located at the entrance to the stockyards, was ruined. Also, some motor pieces were burned, one of them a hook and ladder truck. In addition, 5,000 feet of hose line were burned.

"There's not much I can say about the men, except that I want to thank them. They responded nobly. I am proud of every one of them."

The marshal and the mayor spoke over W-G-N in a temporary hookup in the Boulevard telephone exchange at 4122 South Union avenue. Both were smudgy with smoke grime. The mayor, like the chief, had remained continually at the scene of the fire, mingling on foot with the firemen, and encouraging them. He and James McCahey, president of the school board, had been at the White Sox ball park when notified of the fire.

U. S. Sends Supplies to Fire Swept Eastern Town

Newburyport, Mass., May 19.—[U. P.]—Arrival of federal relief supplies and promises of state aid heartened inhabitants of this seacoast community tonight as they contemplated ruins of a $1,000,000 incendiary fire that destroyed 18 buildings, leaving 700 persons jobless and a dozen families without homes.

FIRE BELIEVED TO HAVE STARTED IN A CATTLE PEN

The stockyards fire was believed to have started in a cattle pen, block 17A, near South Morgan street and 42d street, south of the Exchange building. It was discovered by a man named Fuller, who turned in the first alarm shortly after 4 p. m., according to Patrick Condon, night superintendent of the private stockyards police.

It was a small blaze at first, but it spread rapidly to a nearby hay loft and by the time engine company 59 arrived it was a conflagration. On the first floor of the hay loft, a three story structure, was a cattle pen, which provided a draft that swept the flames up to the highly inflammable bales of hay.

The blaze spread with such rapidity that engine No. 59 was abandoned by the company and it was destroyed. Alongside it was another engine, on whose charred body was a number resembling 39. Other engines reported lost were those of companies 49, 8, and 14, and the truck of truck company 15, as well as one other truck, were believed destroyed.

STATIONS SET UP IN BLAZING AREA FOR THE INJURED

A number of emergency dressing stations were set up in the fire area, but the chief activity went on at the Evangelical Deaconess hospital, where most of the injured were taken. Dr. Hal P. Sullivan, chief surgeon of the fire department, and his assistant, Dr. Fred W. Sloane of the St. Anthony hospital staf, directed the work, aided by Hal Henrod, J. L. Fretz, and Kurt Hakman, interns.

An emergency station was set up in the offices of the Boulevard telephone exchange, with a staf of 40 male nurses and workers and 20 women nurses giving first aid treatment.

In a restaurant at 43d and Halsted streets, Dr. John Peterson, Maywood health commissioner, set up a Red Cross station with the aid of six nurses. Emergency treatment was given and serious cases were sent to hospitals.

PREVIOUS FIRES AND DISASTERS IN CHICAGO HISTORY

Previous fires and disasters in Chicago's history which entailed great loss of life and property damage are:

OCT. 8-9, 1871. The great Chicago fire in which 200 lives were lost and a total of $200,000,000 damage done. The conflagration consumed 18,000 buildings and burned over 2,100 acres of ground.

JULY 10, 1893. Seventeen persons were killed in view of 30,000 visitors to the Columbia Exposition in a fire which destroyed the Cold Storage building in the Fair grounds.

DEC. 30, 1903. The Iroquois theater fire in which 575 lives were lost.

DEC. 22, 1910. Twenty-four men, including Fire Chief James Horan, met death in flames that destroyed the packing plant of Morris & Co. in the Union stockyards. Damage estimated at $750,000.

JULY 26, 1915. The Eastland boat disaster which caused the death of 875 persons when the pleasure craft upset in the Chicago river near La Salle street.

AUG. 2, 1919. The race riots which took the lives of 15 whites and 23 Negroes.

MARCH 15, 1922. Losses of $8,000,000 resulted from a fire which swept the Burlington railroad's skyscraper office building at Jackson boulevard and Clinton street, and burned a score of smaller adjacent buildings.

APRIL 13, 1931. Eleven men lost their lives when they were trapped by fire and poisonous gases in an intercepting sewer tunnel 35 feet underground at 22d and Laflin streets.

AUG. 4, 1932. The Quincy grain elevator and the Omaha Packing company plant at Sangamon street and the river were swept by a $6,000,000 fire.

FEB. 9, 1933. The Rosenbaum grain elevator and 1,700,000 bushels of grain on Goose island were burned with a loss of $1,000,000.

JAN. 9, 1934. Fire destroyed Warshawsky & Co.'s automobile accessories warehouse and store at 1915 South State street, causing damages estimated at $1,000,000.

BEHIND SCENES AS FIREMEN AND POLICE BATTLED

City Is Kept Protected at All Times.

In the city hall and the central police building, the headquarters units of the police, fire, water and electrical departments worked throughout the afternoon and late into the night in their unseen rôles as liaison services.

Behind the 1,500 firemen in active service in the fire area was the fire alarm office on the sixth floor of the city hall. There, under the direction of John T. Gegan, chief fire alarm operator, a dozen weary men were coordinating the movements of all fire companies. Their task was to give as much protection as they could, as more and more fire apparatus responded to the special alarms, to the vast area of the city not in the fire zone.

Behind the 2,200 firemen in active at or near the blazing area were Commissioner of Police Allman and Ira McDowell, chief of the uniformed force, in a temporary headquarters at the stockyards station. With crisp orders, they were moving their men like pawns in a gigantic chess game, hastening all available men to the scene, keeping reserves in the stations, and still giving the other districts a measure of protection.

In the fire alarm office also was William A. Jackson, head of the electrical bureau, keeping tab on the progress of the fire to see if he needed more than the regular force to cut off dangerous currents or keep the city's police and fire alarm and street lighting systems in good order.

On the scene of the fire, Loran D. Gayton, acting city engineer, carefully watched the water pressure. He had gone there from home after giving orders to the operating engineer at the Western avenue pumping station to step up to full capacity the No. 4 pump, the one connected with a main leading directly to the stockyards.

Firemen Called by Radio.

The fire department operates under the double platoon system, which was installed 17 years ago. Its 2,600 men in the uniform ranks work 24 hours and are off 24 hours, the 1,260 men who were on duty, having gone to work at 8 o'clock yesterday morning. Radio pleas, however, soon called into service most of the men whose regular shift wouldn't have started until morning.

When fourteen "specials" had been sounded, there were 103 companies at the fire consisting of 103 pumpers and 22 trucks. Off duty men were ordered to report to Company 59's quarters in the stockyards, but when this was found to have been destroyed, to Company 39 at 1618 West 33d street.

Gegan stood before a huge map on which little circles of light indicated the fire houses that were occupied. When a light went out, showing that the company had left for the fire, it was up to him to protect the vacated territory as best he could.

Suburbs Help Out.

Suburban offers of aid and off duty firemen who appealed to the fire alarm office for orders were used by Gegan to fill in. Companies from Evanston, Oak Park, Harvey, Cicero, La Grange, Summit, Elmwood Park, Park Ridge, Glenview, Clarendon Hills, Schiller Park, River Forest, Downers Grove, Hazelcrest, Blue Island, East Chicago, Robertsville, Willow Springs, Orland Park, and Dolton were sent into fire houses emptied by the special alarms.

At 11:30 p. m. Engineer Gayton reported that he had ordered all of the pumps at the Western avenue pumping station, 4929 South Western avenue, continued in service at full capacity instead of pursuing the normal course of shutting some of them down at night. The pumps, he said, were delivering water at the rate of 235,000,000 gallons per day at this one station. Tests were made at all fire hydrants in the area, he said, and the pressure was found to be up to requirements.

Crews Check Water.

Gayton had four crews with him to close valves on any mains that might be broken so as to prevent waste and falling pressure. Other crews from the water purification division sampled the water at 15 different points and found that there was sufficient chlorine in it to render it fit for drinking purposes.

"When we built the Western avenue station several years ago," said Gayton, "provision was made to take care of any and all needs at the yards. We are so connected that the place can be flooded. The yards take only about 35,000,000 gallons of water a day, but we have one main leading there that can deliver 75,000,000 gallons. Lawn sprinkling wouldn't cut down the supply to the yards."

Earlier, reports of lack of pressure were met with an order from Commissioner Allman to all south side police stations to have sprinkling stopped. A similar plea went out from the radio stations, and reports seeped back to the police that neighborhood vigilant committees were going about enforcing the edict.

LIVE STOCK EXCHANGE BUILDING A MASS OF RUINS

The Live Stock Exchange building (tall structure in background), which housed offices of 100 commission firms or live stock brokers, was left a mass of ruins by the stockyards fire. In the foreground is the structure housing the cattle buying offices of Armour & Co. This picture was made in the early stages of the fire. Both of the structures, which stood on Exchange avenue west of Halsted, were destroyed.

INSURANCE MEN LABOR TODAY TO COMPILE LOSSES

Firemen Praised for "Saving City."

Insurance figures on the great stock yards fire will probably not be available until tomorrow, even though insurance men said they will spend all of today in attempting to compile the losses. The underwriters hastened to announce that no insurance company will be put out of business by the disaster, because it is the practice for each firm to limit its liability in any one district, particularly where values are high.

Jay S. Glidden, head of the Chicago Board of Underwriters, said he had listened to radio reports of the fire, but had not visited the scene. However, from an intimate knowledge of the district, he said he believed the $8,000,000 estimate of the loss is "high."

Gives Credit to Firemen.

"A good deal of credit is due the Chicago fire department for saving the city," Mr. Glidden declared. "In the face of the most adverse conditions, the firemen worked heroically to stave off a city-wide disaster."

Chief J. McAuliffe of the fire department insurance patrol said he would spend the entire night in going over the district and records to obtain accurate figures on the damage and destruction. He was working with John Hardwick of the Underwriters' Board, in the absence from the city of John A. Neale, chief engineer for the board.

Chief McAuliffe said he presumed all important buildings will be rebuilt. Mr. Hardwick said he believed $6,000,000 would be a conservative estimate of the loss.

He would not hazard a guess of the total loss, but expressed an opinion that it would certainly be "less than the estimated $8,000,000."

C. M. Cartwright, editor of the National Underwriter, trade publication, said the loss will not be known definitely until the insurance men "get down there and dig it out."

Higher Estimates Made.

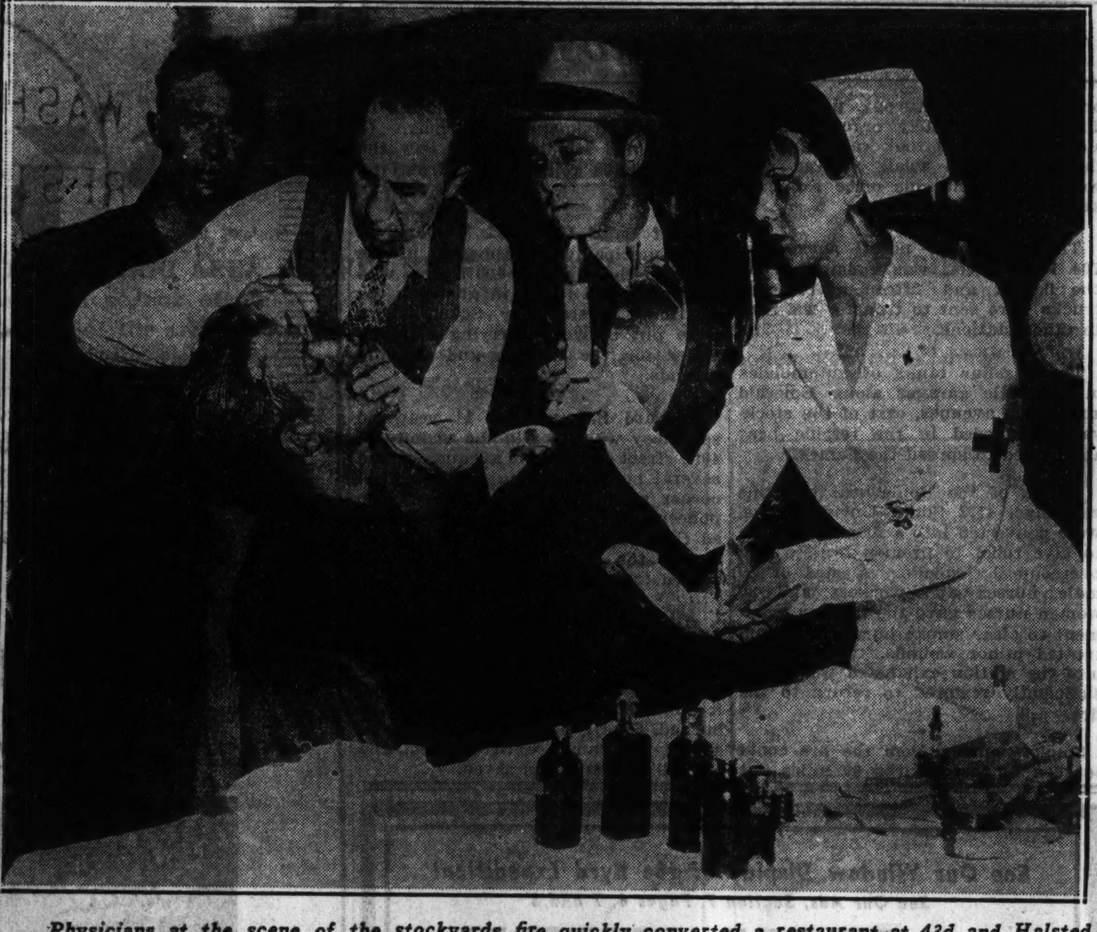
Although the damage estimate of Marshal Corrigan was $8,000,000, there were others who believed the real loss was much larger. One estimator said the Live Stock National Bank building was worth $3,500,000, the New Exchange building, only eight years old, $3,000,000, and the International Amphitheater, although built a third of a century ago, could not be replaced for $3,000,000.

Other loss estimates were: Stockyards inn, $250,000; the records building, $150,000; the Drovers Journal, $50,000; the Department of Agriculture building, $50,000; Armour hog buyers' office, $25,000; International Live Stock Show building, $25,000; the elevated lines, $500,000, and railroad lines and cars, $400,000. Such figures would give a total in excess of $11,000,000.

D. C. Von Behren, of the insurance department of Armour & Co., said the loss of the Union Stockyards and Transit company would be about $4,000,000. O. T. Henkle, official of the stockyards, held the loss would be from $5,000,000 to $7,000,000.



*Physicians at the scene of the stockyards fire quickly converted a restaurant at 43d and Halsted streets into an emergency hospital. # BURNED BANKS OPEN TOMORROW, OFFICIALS SAY

Regardless of the damage caused to its building by the fire, the Live Stock National bank will open for business tomorrow morning, it was announced last night by its president, David H. Reimers.

Unable to determine to what extent his building had been damaged until he could make a survey of the premises, Mr. Reimers said that if the present quarters are found to be unusable the bank will temporarily occupy the building which formerly housed the People's National bank at 47th street and Ashland avenue. Business will be conducted there, he said, until the burned building can be rebuilt or repaired, depending upon the construction needed.

The securities and cash held in the bank are in fireproof vaults in the basement of the building, where they are deposited at the close of each day, Mr. Reimers said. He pointed out the improbability of loss occurring to them there and added that the funds are amply insured. Much of the bank's assets, he said, are in the customary care of the federal reserve bank.

A similar announcement was made by George A. Malcolm, vice president of the Drovers National bank. He said the Drovers National bank and the Drovers Trust and Savings bank will open for business tomorrow morning in the bank building located at the northwest corner of Halsted and 55th streets, where temporary quarters have been established.

BOY BURNED FIGHTING FIRE; MAYOR'S WIFE GIVES HIM HELP

Michael Hickstein, 14 years old, 2901 South Halsted street, was burned on the right hand yesterday because, heroically, he tried to do his bit to put out the big stockyards fire.

Michael sells wax flowers in the stockyards district to help support his mother. He is well known in the neighborhood. Yesterday he was in the yards ampitheater selling flowers when the fire broke out. Michael dropped his flowers. He picked up an ax to do his bit—but the ax was already nearly red hot and it seared his hand.

The boy was taken to an emergency first aid station close by. There Mrs. Edward J. Kelly, wife of the mayor, comforted him while Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, president of the board of health, bandaged his hand.

Charles Swift Hears Fire News on Vacation Trip

WIDELY KNOWN BUILDINGS FALL BEFORE FLAMES

Inn, Sirloin Club and Pavilion Are Gone.

The picturesque Stockyards inn, the Saddle and Sirloin club with its historic art gallery, and the great pavilion that has housed all the international live stock shows since 1900 were left in ruins by the fire yesterday afternoon.

Cattlemen and stockyards officials mourned the burning of these famous landmarks as an incalculable loss. Occupants of the hotel, a three-story ivy clad structure of old English design, with 300 rooms, fled panic stricken when the fire swept in from the southwest and little of value was saved. It could not be determined whether any of the 300 oil paintings in the Saddle and Sirloin club was saved. Members of the club said most of them were certainly lost.

Known For Fine Steaks.

These three buildings were located on the west side of Halsted street between 41st and 42d streets. The inn, renowned throughout the world for its steaks, was erected in 1909 after its predecessor, the old Transit house, equally famous, was destroyed by fire.

The Saddle and Sirloin club formerly occupied quarters in the inn, but its own building, adjacent to the hotel and connected with it, was constructed in recent years. The art gallery contained the portraits of some 300 live stock breeders, agriculture leaders, packers, scientists and educators. Among these were the portraits of John B. Sherman, one of the founders of the Union Stockyards, who built the steam railway across the marshes to 39th and Halsted streets, the beginning of Packingtown, in 1865.

Portraits of the founders of the three leading packing dynasties—P. D. Armour, Gustavus Swift, and Nelson Morris—also were on the walls, as well as of Frederick Prince, present president of the Stockyards company.

Advancement of Agriculture.

The principal function of the Saddle and Sirloin club is to honor contributors to the advancement of agriculture by hanging their portraits in the gallery. Three or four have been added to the collection every year. It long has been regarded as one of the highest honors a man in any phase of agriculture can receive to have his portrait placed there.

The International Arena, official name of the stock show pavilion, was constructed in 1900, incorporating the old Dexter pavilion. The old arena was circular, with steep galleries encircling a small enclosure for the live stock parades. Its successor was of oval shape, and the Dexter pavilion formed its west end. It had a seating capacity of 5,000, with high rafters from which the flags of the nations were draped. Symbolic medalions surrounded the walls above the stands.

Coolidge a Visitor There.

At each end were reserved box seats where the dignataries sat and in the center was a great tanbark arena where the animals were exhibited or where they performed. In the east end was the box seat occupied by the late Calvin Coolidge the only President of the United of the United States who ever visited a stock show.

In addition to these structures, the horse market, also on Halsted street, where more than 500 horses a week were sold, was destroyed. Nearby on Exchange avenue a row of office buildings containing unreplaceable records of live stock breeders' associations were leveled to the ground.

"Jackknife Ben's" famous store on Exchange avenue, that had stood for 50 years, was destroyed. Ben Chon, the proprietor, who is more than 70 years old, is known to thousands of cattlemen and has sold many of them knives, diamonds, watches, or other articles of his lines. During the world war he was said to be Chicago's leading diamond merchant.

PHONE GIRLS STAY ON JOB IN THE YARDS DESPITE FIRE PERIL

In the Yards telephone exchange at 4122 South Union avenue, the girls on the switchboards, true to tradition, stuck to their jobs in the face of danger from smoke and flames.

Three times the building caught fire, sending clouds of smoke into the switchboard rooms. The girls coughed and choked, but kept on the job. Later recruits were drafted from other exchange offices to relieve them. In addition many operators who had gone home for the day returned to the exchange voluntarily on learning of the fire and did relief duty.

"It was necessary to give the girls relief every few minutes because of the smoke," said Trafic Superintendent Norwood Ebert of the telephone company.

According to Mr. Ebert, the fire disrupted service on about 80 per cent of the telephones in the Yards district. More than 100 repairmen were mobilized and at midnight last night had most of the service restored where possible.

LEAVE COOLER TO MAKE DASH THROUGH FIRE

Bert Ebzery and George Mullen, owners of the Great Western Beef company, were in the cooler of their plant at 4126 South Halsted street taking inventory of their stock with two girl employes, unaware that their building had caught fire. Paul Tiller, stock commission man, knowing their custom to take stock on Saturday afternoon, rushed into the building and into the cold storage room and told them their plant was in flames. Wrapping heavy cooler coats around the girls, the four ran through a gauntlet of flames into the street. The building was destroyed.

LIVE STOCK LOSS COMPARATIVELY SMALL IN FIRE

Pens Usually Empty on Saturday Afternoons.

Estimates on the number of cattle that perished in the stockyards fire varied from 400 to 1,000. The loss in live stock was comparatively small, packing company officials said, because it was Saturday afternoon when most of the pens are ordinarily empty.

When the fire broke stockyards employés mounted horses and herded sheep, cattle, and horses, cowboy fashion, to nearly places of safety, but the cattle in several pens were destroyed by the flames before they could be reached.

Rescue Grand Champion Bull.

Highland Stamp, 1933 grand champion bull of the Shorthorn class; eight prize cows, and two other bulls were rescued from the International arena by its caretaker, Homer Theiman, and Charles Fill Martin, 12 years old, 549 West 42d street. The animals were driven to the Boyce playground, an improvised corral two blocks to the east.

Late last night 30 or 40 cows and horses were still at large in the streets near the stockyards, the cowboys having deserted them outside the yards during the fire while they returned for more.

Edward McKenna, 45 years old, 3448 Emerald avenue, suffered a hand injury when a horse he was leading became frightened and raced down the street, dragging McKenna by a bridle rein.

Four Live Stock Barns Left.

It was reported that only four live stock barns were left in the fire area. At the Armour & Co. plant all hog runs and pens east of the general offices were destroyed. The flames reached within 50 feet of the office building. The building was saved by a "water curtain," a pipe running along the eaves which poured out a sheet of water.

No stockyard horses were lost, but 15 perished in a livery stable at 4200-08 Emerald avenue. Twenty wagons also were destroyed in this building.

Several horse barns at 45th and Peoria streets were destroyed, but the animals were removed to safety. Harry McNair, at 41st street and Peoria avenues, operator of a riding school, led his saddle horses to the closed yard of the Graham school. Alec Bruce, 5202 Emerald avenue, a stockyards attendant, hired two men to assist him in rescuing 28 draft horses from the fire area.

SUSPEND HARVEY FIRE CHIEF FOR AIDING CHICAGO

Fire Marshal William Phebus of Harvey received the surprise of his life last night when he returned from Chicago after helping the Chicago fire department in the big stockyards blaze. He learned he had been suspended.

Shortly before 5 o'clock, when the fire was at its height, Marshal Phebus was authorized by Mayor Frank Bruggeman to take an engine and five men to Chicago. Phebus did this and, like other chiefs of neighbor cities and towns who came to Chicago's assistance, received the thanks of Mayor Kelly for his act. At 9 o'clock last night Marshal Phebus and his squad returned to their engine house in Harvey. Posted prominently on the bulletin board was this notice:

"Marshal Phebus is hereby suspended until further notice for leaving the [Harvey] city limits without first notifying the head of the department. Signed, E. J. Harris, commissioner of public health and safety."

Commissioner Harris could not be reached for comment last night. Neither could Marshal Phebus. But Mayor Bruggeman was available—and irate.

"Harris just got a wild idea," said Mayor Bruggeman. "Marshal Phebus obeyed my orders, did not leave Harvey unprotected, and did his part for Chicago. He's not suspended and won't be."

2 KILLED, 1 HURT IN RAIL WRECK ON WEST SIDE

Two trainmen were killed and a third injured yesterday when an engine of the New York Central lines hit an open switch on the right of way of the Chicago Junction railroad at West 40th street and South Damen avenue, and overturned.

The dead are John P. Thompson, 64 years old, of 1648 West 61st street, engineer, who was taken from his cab dead. John Haying, 30 years old, 4819 Lake Park avenue, fireman. Haying died several hours afterward in Mercy hospital. The injured man is C. H. Bell, switchman. Bell's injuries are reported at Mercy hospital as not serious.

The three were making up trains when the engine struck the switch being manipulated by Bell, and toppled over. The caboose and one car were also thrown over.

THRONGS OF SPECTATORS FILL FIRE AREA

*Great crowds of residents of the immediate vicinity of the stockyards and of more distant sections as well flocked to the fire and, since it raged four hours, all were there in time to view the spectacle. # CHICAGO TO GET MEAT ON MONDAY DESPITE BIG FIRE

No Shortage Likely, Officials Indicate.

The marketing of live stock and the providing of meats for Chicago and the hundreds of cities in this area dependent for supplies upon Chicago's Packingtown will proceed Monday in spite of the fire which swept through the stockyards yesterday.

This announcement was made unofficially by spokesmen for several commission firms and by packing concerns last night. The officials of the Union Stock Yards and Transit company, owners of most of the property destroyed, would not make an official statement of their position at a late hour. They were reported to be meeting to plan whether to rebuild the destroyed area or to limit the trading in live stock to that area still intact.

Less than half of the huge area occupied by pens for cattle, hogs and sheep had been so seriously burned as to prevent its use. Shipments of live stock have not been particularly heavy at this season so that the facilities for unloading and caring for the stock are said to be sufficient for what farmers will ship in the next few days.

Live stock farmers of the middle west were being advised not to ship heavily during the week, or until such time as the yards are temporarily reconstructed. The feeding and watering of the stock will present the chief problem, it was pointed out. The watering system owned by the Union Stock Yards and Transit company has been mutilated, and plans are in process for providing temporary watering and feeds for what live stock come in.

Supplies of meats in storage in packing plants were unharmed, with the exception of those held by the small packing plants caught in the path of the fire. Officials of the packing companies said last night that there was no danger of a shortage of meat supplies.

NOTES ON THE THRILLING STOCKYARDS FIRE

Pilots and passengers of a United Air Lines plane first sighted the stockyards fire while flying over South Bend, 95 miles away, where great clouds of smoke were visible. As the plane neared Chicago the ten passengers became alarmed and the plane was flown over the smoke region to ascertain the locality. At 5,000 feet nothing but an enormous pall of black smoke could be seen, but Chief Pilot Monty Brandon recognized the vicinity as that of the stockyards. Stewardess Marie Hess advised the passengers that there was no cause for alarm.

Employés of the Standard, Shell, and Texaco oil companies were given permission by Commissioner Allman to go through the police lines at the fire. The men had been sent by their companies to filling stations in the immediate vicinity to empty the underground gasoline tanks, eliminating danger of explosions.

◆

One of Chicago's landmarks—"Jim O'Leary's gambling emporium," at 4183 South Halsted street, was burned to the ground. The place was a plain two story frame structure. In the old days O'Leary's accepted bets on anything from anybody. Its activities had dimmed in recent years.

◆

Fire Attorney Thomas J. Sheehan arrived on the scene shortly after the sounding of the 5-11 alarm, and immediately received a drenching from a hose. He went home, changed his clothes, and returned.

◆

Assistant Fire Marshal Joseph Mackey, who was on duty at the fire, is a veteran of the great stockyards fire of Dec. 22, 1910. Mackay drove Fire Chief James Horan to the scene of the flames, but escaped the falling walls that brought death to Chief Horan and 21 of his men.

◆

The Thomas Boyce athletic field, Union and Root streets, was turned into temporary quarters for destitute families and their children. Exercises in connection with Youth's week had been in progress during the afternoon but were called off when the fire broke. Owen T. Murphy, playground director, immediately organized first aid quarters and took care of more than a hundred small children who were herded into his office for safekeeping.

◆

The stockyards postal substation, 704 Root street, was endangered by the flames and fifteen government trucks were sent to transfer the mail to other stations.

◆

The gasoline tanks of automobiles in the little garages along Emerald and Union avenues, east of the stockyards, exploded in the terrific heat and helped to spread the flames.

◆

Offices of the Boulevard telephone exchange, 4122 South Union avenue, were converted into a first aid station to give relief to firemen bruised and overcome by smoke. A staf of 40 male nurses and workers and 20 women nurses gave the firemen treatment to clear smoke burned eyes and treated minor wounds. Men coming into the station exhausted were soon sufficiently restored to return to the fire.

◆

Smoke pouring from the fire could be seen in the suburbs 30 miles out along the north shore. Residents of Evanston, Wilmette, and north to Glencoe and Highland Park saw the smoke clouds rolling away from the city.

◆

Chief Bailif Harry L. Williams of the Municipal court appeared at the scene of the fire with 100 bailifs, who were recruited to aid in guarding the district. Several Boy Scout troops were put to work carrying drinking water for the firemen and running errands.

◆

Leonard Smuczymski, 11 year old schoolboy who lives in the vicinity of 40th street and Racine avenue, worked several hours directing trafic on that corner when he noticed there was no policeman on duty. Passers-by reported that he did an excellent job of relieving the congestion caused by rerouted trafic due to the fire.

◆

John Russell, owner of a tavern at 4127 South Halsted street, gave away five barrels of draught beer and a dozen cases of bottled beer to firemen when it appeared that his tavern would be burned. Shortly after the beer was consumed the flames were checked, and Russell's tavern was saved.

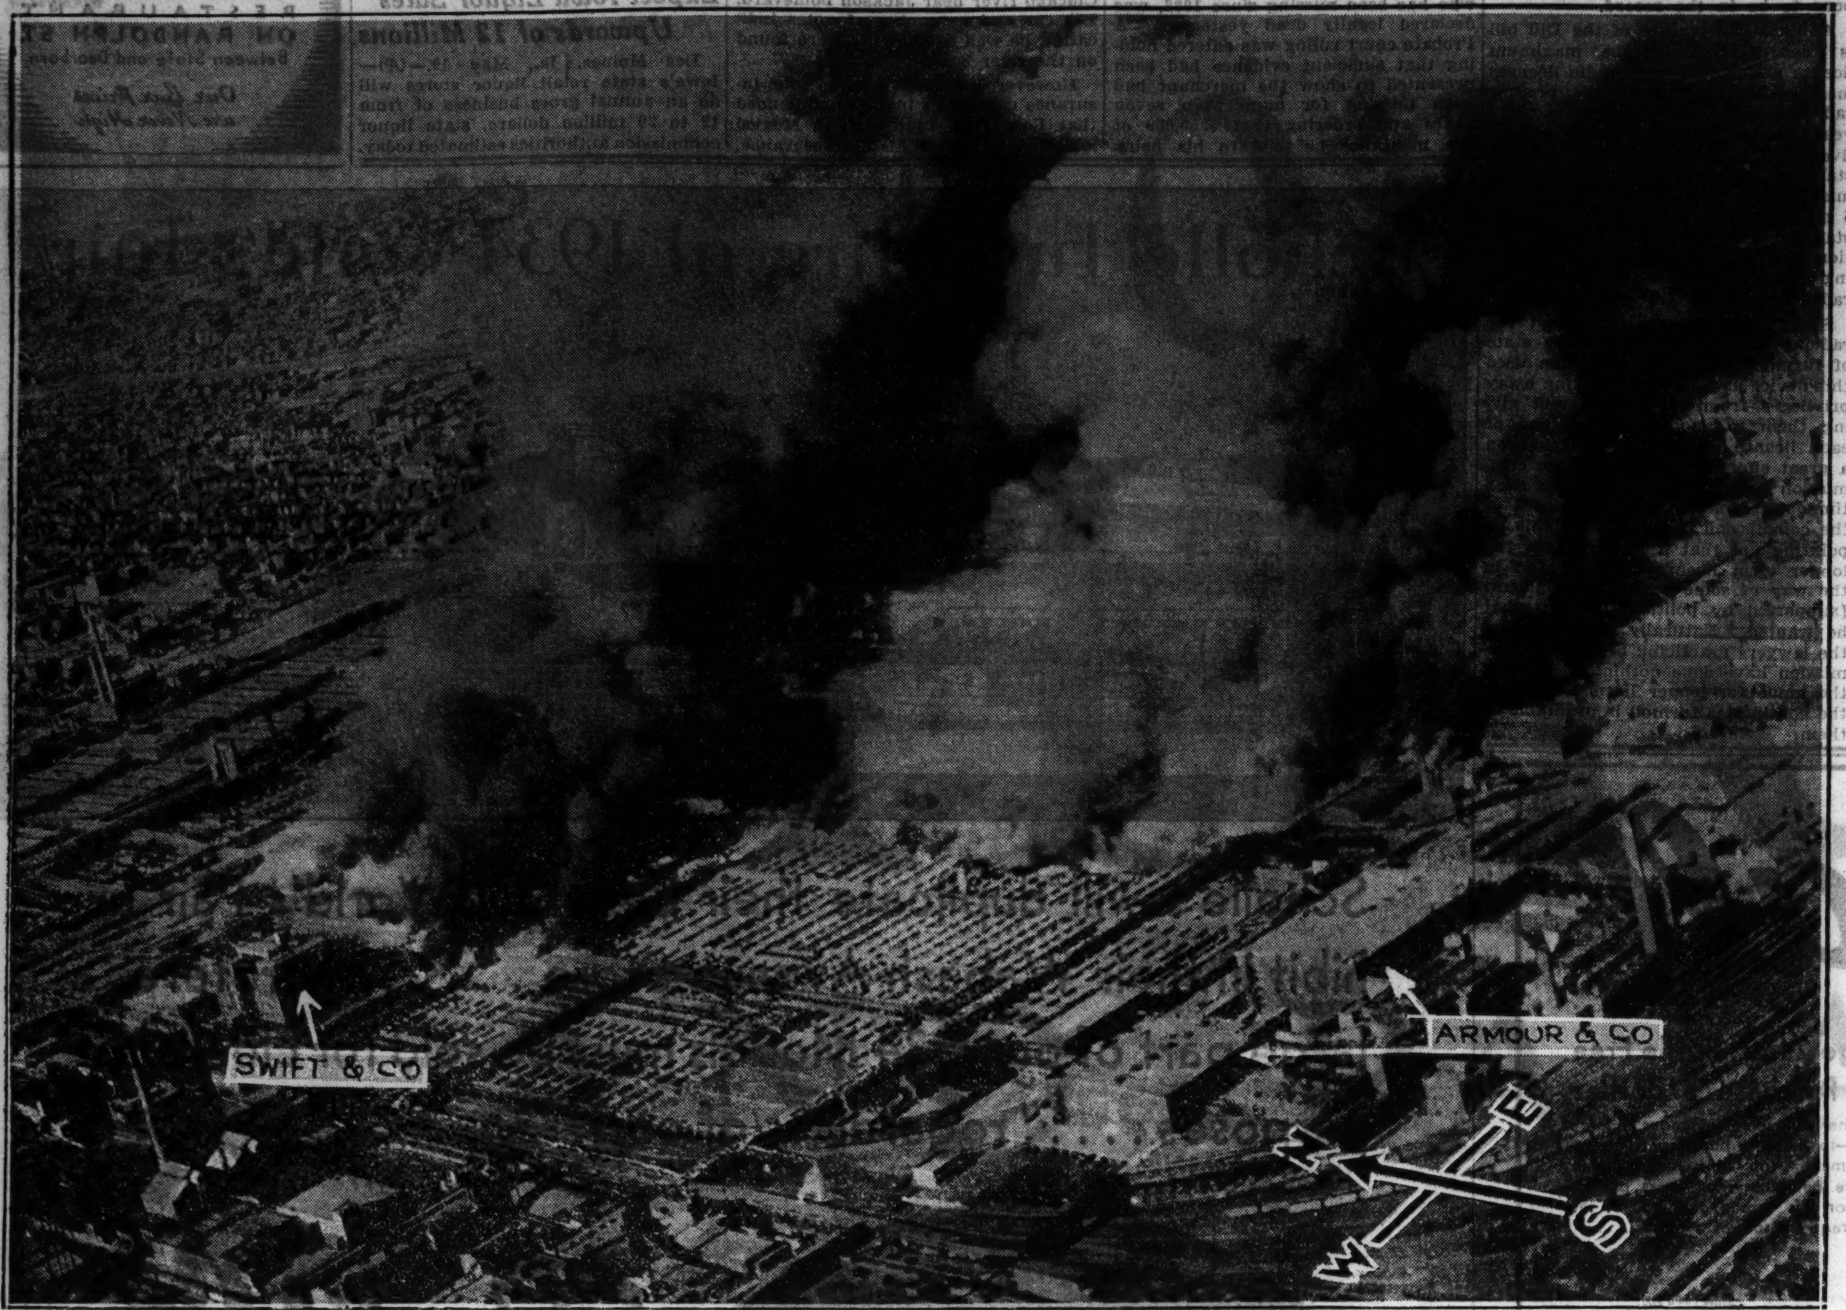
Eight Blocks In and Near Stockyards Destroyed by $8,000,000 Fire, Driven Northeast by Brisk Wind



[Metropolitan Newsreel Photo.]

FLAMES RAGE FOUR HOURS IN STOCKYARDS AND ADJOINING AREA; SCORES HURT; DROUTH AND WIND CAUSE RAPID SPREAD. Spectacular aerial photograph shows fire moving eastward across north portion of Union Stockyards. The view is northeastward, with the World's Fair grounds and the lake in the upper left corner. A score of landmarks of the area occupied by Chicago's largest industry were destroyed, making the property loss the greatest of any Chicago conflagration since that of 1871. Since a large proportion of the area was filled with wooden structures, made tinder by the record drouth, a brisk wind caused the blaze to spread rapidly. Some 2,200 firemen fought the flames.

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

HOME OF INTERNATIONAL LIVE STOCK SHOW IS CONSUMED BY FLAMES. Only smoldering ruins and bare steel framework remain of the International amphitheater, formerly the Dexter Park pavillion, which housed the International Live Stock show. The structure extended along Halsted street from 42d street to 43d.

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

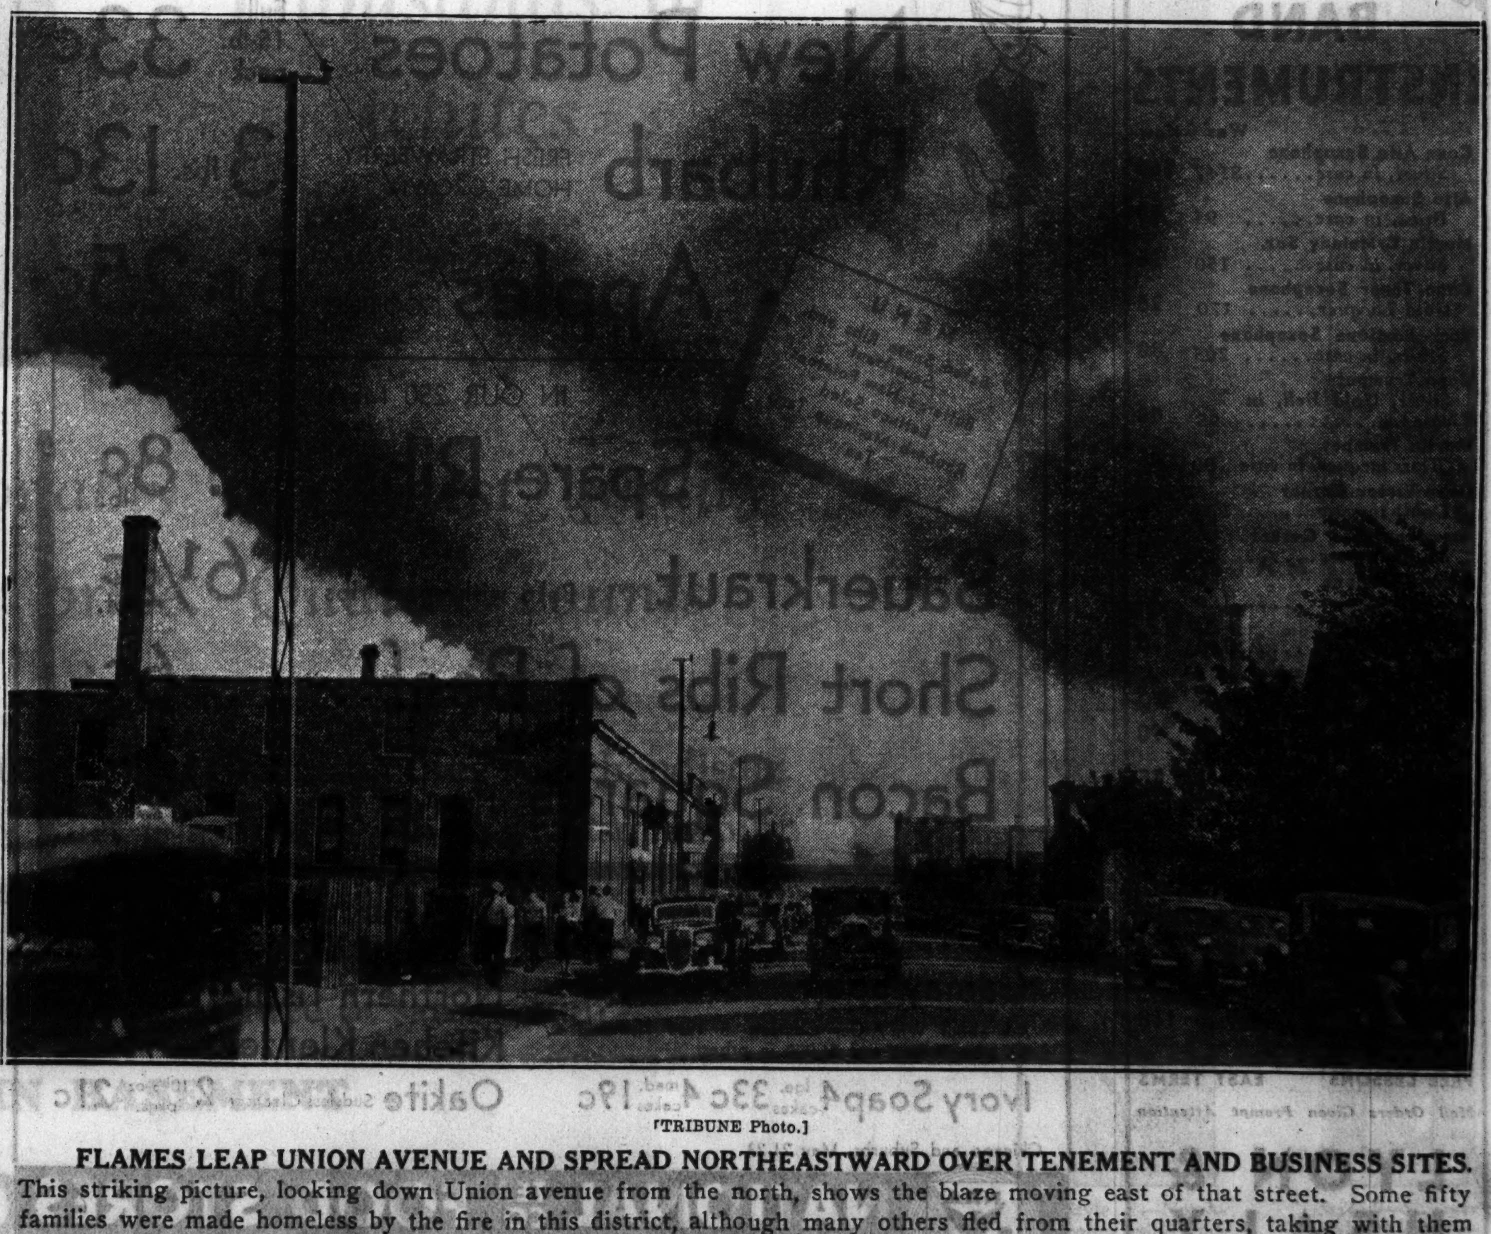
[TRIBUNE Photo.]

AREA OF WAREHOUSES AND WAGON YARDS NORTHEAST OF STOCKYARDS DESTROYED BY THE FIRE. This view northwestward from the intersection of Union avenue and 42d street shows the ruins of warehouses used by various concerns connected with the packing industry and of old wagons stored in a vacant area. The barrier offered by the Chicago Junction railway tracks, between 40th and 41st streets, halted the spread of the conflagration.



[TRIBUNE Photo.]

FLAMES LEAP UNION AVENUE AND SPREAD NORTHEASTWARD OVER TENEMENT AND BUSINESS SITES. This striking picture, looking down Union avenue from the north, shows the blaze moving east of that street. Some fifty families were made homeless by the fire in this district, although many others fled from their quarters, taking with them their most valued possessions because of fear that other buildings would be destroyed. Few residents made appeals for relief.

BILL PROVIDES INDIRECT RULE OVER U. S. PRESS

ets Up Federal Control of Communications.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 19.—[Special.]—With all means of communication controled by a government commission, as provided by the administration bill now in process of passage by congress, it will be possible for the administration to establish an indirect censorship of the press.

An indirect censorship of radio broadcasting has been accomplished under the Roosevelt administration through the radio commission and the communications bill now proposes to bring under such commission control the telephone systems and the telegraph services which transmit news reports to newspapers.

Fear Loss of Licenses.

Political manipulation of the radio commission by the White House and by subordinate leaders of the party in power early inspired fears on the part of the owners of broadcasting stations of the loss of their licenses for offending the administration and caused them to undertake in numerous ways to curry favor with the powers that be. Then came the more pointed hint from the commission on Aug. 14, 1933, that the broadcasting of criticism of the NRA might cost stations their licenses.

The result has been a censoring of broadcasts by the two principal broadcasting chains and by other broadcasting stations with the prime object of keeping off the air anything critical of the administration that might offend the White House. This has been accomplished despite the express provision of the radio act that "nothing in this act shall be understood or construed to give the commission the power of censorship over the radio communications or signals transmitted by any radio station and no regulation or condition shall be promulgated or fixed by the commission which shall interfere with the right of free speech by means of radio communication."

Paves Way for Power.

In the case of the proposed communications commission there will not be even this impediment to the use of its vast powers of control and regulation to bring about indirectly a censorship of the telegraphic news transmitted to the press, for the bill as it passed the senate fails to apply the censorship prohibition to the telephone and telegraph services. The bill merely reënacts the censorship prohibition relating to radio.

There is scarcely a power conferred on the commission by the bill that could not be used unscrupulously to reward telegraph companies for delaying and otherwise discouraging the transmission of dispatches objectionable to the administration and to mulct, harass and persecute telegraph companies that fail to oblige in this respect.

The bill provides for the same court review of decisions of the commission as for orders of the interstate commerce commission except those relating to radio licenses and permits.

Limits Court's Review.

The bill fails to remedy the feature of the radio act which makes it impossible to get any adequate judicial review of a commission decision. The new bill, like the radio act, limits the court's review to questions of law and provides that:

"Findings of fact by the commission if supported by substantial evidence shall be conclusive unless it shall clearly appear that the findings of the commission are arbitrary or capricious."

A review limited to "questions of law," is practically worthless as a means of correcting injustice in commission decisions. In the WIBO case, for example, the Supreme Court of the United States upheld the commission on the ground that the commission's supposed findings of fact in that case were conclusive and could not be disturbed in court, and that these findings of fact justified the commission's decision.

Never Any Reversals.

Although a great many appeals have been taken from the commission's decisions to the Court of Appeals of the District of Columbia [which is the reviewing court] there has never been a reversal of the commission decision under the present appeal section of the radio act, except in the WIBO case [in which case the Court of Appeals was in turn reversed by the Supreme court] and, except in a few cases in which the commission had clearly violated the procedural requirements of the statute, such as by making decisions without notice or opportunity for hearing to interested parties.

The machinery for preparing the commission's written decisions shows what abuse can be made, and is made, of the provision making the commission's findings of fact conclusive. The commission first reaches a decision by a vote of its members and then has its legal division prepare its supposed findings and grounds for decision. The legal division, which is composed of the same lawyers who must later defend the commission's decisions on appeal, naturally draw up findings of fact which seem best calculated to insure victory for the commission in court, regardless of whether these were the real reasons that actuated the commission's decision. They frequently disregard the overwhelming weight of the evidence and make a finding of fact based on some scintilla of evidence the other way that happens to be in the record.

Another bad feature of the Dill bill is that it shortens the maximum license period for which radio licenses may be issued. Under the present radio act the maximum period is three years for broadcasting stations and five years for any other kind of radio station. In actual practice the commission has been limiting licenses to 6 months in the case of broadcasting stations and one year on other stations. The Dill bill limits broadcasting licenses to one year and other radio licenses to three years.

Short term licenses have kept the radio industry in a continuous state of turmoil since the commission used this device as a means of taking away privileges from one station and giving them to another at the end of each license period. There has been a great effort made to have the commission issue longer licenses, but each time some one or more members of the commission has prevented this by pointing out that if it were done the longer term licenses would stand in the way of some particular applicant [supported by politics] getting what he wanted. Naturally a majority of the lawyers practicing before the commission have done nothing to support the move for longer licenses because the continuous turmoil is profitable to them.

LAKESIDE DAIRY GETS PERMISSION TO JOIN FIGHT ON MILK CODE

The Lakeside Dairy company was granted permission by Federal Judge John P. Barnes yesterday to join four other independent milk distributors in a petition for an injunction to prevent federal interference with their business and to declare the milk licensing provision of the agricultural adjustment act unconstitutional. Arguments on the petition will be heard Friday.

The other four firms, all of whom have been targets for charges by the AAA, are the Edgewater Dairy company; the Joliet Dairy company, Joliet; Josef Wagner Sr. of Cicero, and Anton Michalek.

Attorney Arthur R. Seeling filed the petition on behalf of the Lakeside firm which states that the Lakeside company is too small, having only five routes, to pay the $235 assessment for February and $209 for March into the equalization pool provided in the licensing act. No profit would remain for the dairy, the petition said, if these payments were made. Failure to pay these assessments is the basis for the AAA charges against the Lakeside firm.

COURT DECIDES LORCH IS DEAD; MISSING 7 YEARS

Melbert W. Lorch, former head of a produce house bearing his name, who has been missing since 1926, was declared legally dead yesterday. A Probate court ruling was entered holding that sufficient evidence had been presented to show the merchant had been missing for more than seven years and ordering that $250,000 of life insurance be paid to his heirs. Under Illinois law a person missing for seven years is presumed to be dead.

The heirs are Mrs. Wilma B. Morris, 944 East 52d street, a sister, and Harry S. Lorch, 7020 Jeffery avenue, a brother. They claimed that Lorch was drowned on Oct. 3, 1926, in the Chicago river near Jackson boulevard. His car and a number of notes indicating he was tired of life were found on the river bank.

However, attorneys for the four insurance companies involved contended that Lorch had been seen in Mexico and Honolulu since his disappearance, that he had lost large amounts of money in speculation and that his alleged death was arranged to collect his insurance.

An appeal to the Circuit court was taken by attorneys for the insurance companies.

OGDEN L. MILLS URGES G. O. P. TO FIGHT FOR UNION

Former Secretary Attacks New Deal Policies.

White Plains, N. Y., May 19.—(AP)—Declaring that the Republican party was "born to save the Union," Ogden L. Mills, former secretary of the treasury, said today that it "must now go forth to battle to save the principles upon which the Union was founded."

Mills, flaying the "New Deal," said he saw disguised in it "definite steps in a major program looking to the ultimate setting up of a system of economic planning by the government on a nation-wide scale, accompanied by control of industry and the regimentation of the American people."

Predicts Comeback.

Addressing the Association of New York State Young Republican clubs, which cheered predictions of a state and national comeback by the party, Mills said:

"The time has come to present the issue fairly and squarely to the American people, and to let them decide whether they desire to sanction a program which inevitably means revolutionary changes in our government, institutions and civilization. The people are entitled to have the issue sharply drawn. They are entitled to complete candor from both sides.

"There must be no repetition of the 1932 campaign, when the Democratic party made certain specific pledges, practically all of which have since been repudiated, while the true purposes of the present administration were concealed in obscure and equivocal language."

Sees Threat to Liberty.

He said that the "revolutionary process" of the new deal "must end in the destruction of individual liberty, for individual liberty cannot long survive the death of economic freedom."

Saying he appropriated the language of former Gov. Alfred E. Smith, Mills invited his audience to "take a look at the record."

"The surest way to understand the government program and all its implications," he said, "is to turn to the writings of the man who undoubtedly furnished its underlying philosophy—Prof. Rexford G. Tugwell."

He said that Tugwell, assistant secretary of agriculture, advocates complete government control.

"The professor foresees that legal and administrative difficulties are likely to prove embarrassing, but he is equal to the task of overcoming these obstacles," said Mills.

Quotes Prof. Tugwell.

"'We must set up, therefore,' he says, 'devices of a sort to which business men will at first voluntarily agree, and which at the same time contain no threat to the public.'

"The amazing thing is that by setting up the bait of the temporary suspension of the Sherman act our business men fell for the code device just as he had foreseen. A resourceful man, Mr. Tugwell."

Col. Theodore Roosevelt Jr., president of the National Republican club, told the clubs that what the party needed was "new blood."

"Without new blood a political party dies of dry rot," he said. "This is what has been happening to the Republican party.

"No party can hold the younger men and women unless it gives them two things: clear cut policies based on common sense and idealism, and the opportunity to take an active part in party affairs. We need bold action. This is not time for timid evasion."

Hollywood, Cal., May 19.—[Special.]—Kay Francis, movie actress, cut a tendon, a large artery and three small arteries in her right forearm when she tried to enter her own home by breaking the glass in her door and turning the key, late last night. She was given an opiate and 25 stitches taken in her arm.

SEES RIVAL WITH WIFE; STABS HIM TO DEATH

Detroit, Mich., May 19.—[U. P.]—Norman Beerbohm, 28 year old advertising executive, was stabbed to death today as he sat in a car near the center of Detroit's theater district with the estranged wife of the man police said attacked him.

Alvin Meyer, department store efficiency expert, was held as the slayer.

Meyer saw the couple before Beerbohm's offices in a car he had given her before their estrangement three months ago.

He rushed to the car and struck Beerbohm in the side, police said, with a pocket knife. The woman was cut on the hand warding off a second blow. Then Meyer stepped aside and waited quietly for police. Beerbohm died at a hospital.

Beerbohm was a University of Wisconsin graduate. Meyer's wife, Elda, is the daughter of the Rev. Frank Weerts, Cambria, Wis. She said she met Meyer in Milwaukee and married him after a previous marriage had been annuled. She is 19. Meyer is 48.

ASKS RECOUNT AFTER DEFEAT.

Valparaiso, Ind., May 19.—[Special.]—Mrs. Nelle Bartholomew, Democrat, present trustee of Pleasant township, Porter country, who was defeated for renomination by Fred Welch by four votes, today filed a petition for a recount, alleging illegal votes were counted for her opponent.

FORD COMPANY WINS ROUND ONE IN ROW WITH NRA

Court Issues Injunction Against Ickes, Wallace.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 19.—[Special.]—The Ford company drew first blood today in its battle with the NRA when Justice Joseph W. Cox of the District of Columbia Supreme court issued temporary injunctions enjoining Secretary of the Interior Ickes and Secretary of Agriculture Wallace from rejecting bids of the Northwest Motor company for supplying Ford trucks to their departments.

The orders were based on the Ford agency's complaints that the secretaries had refused its bids, which were acknowledged to be lower than those of competitors, on the ground that no certificate had been filed by the Ford Motor company showing that it was complying with the NRA code.

Upheld by McCarl.

The long expected court test between Henry Ford and the recovery administration grows out of an executive order requiring all bidders for government contracts to certify that they and all other parties engaged in the production of the article are operating under their proper codes. The executive order was recently upheld by a ruling by Controler General McCarl.

R. P. Sabine, head of the Northwest Motor company, has announced that the order and supporting ruling have already barred him from contracts for 2,000 Ford cars and trucks and will eliminate him from receiving contracts for 6,000 more. The result will be, he says, that the government will pay $1,000,000 more than it would have paid on his bids.

Involves 522 Trucks.

The case against Secretary of Agriculture Wallace involves 522 trucks. In his complaint Sabine told the court his bid was $30,282 lower than that of the Chevrolet company, to which it was proposed to award the contract. In the case of the interior department, Sabine said his bid was $32,300 lower than that of his competitor.

In his bids Sabine certified that his agency was operating under code, but he refused to speak either for Ford, who has not signed the automobile code, or the 5,000 other manufacturers who, he said, had a part in producing the truck. To require him to make such a certification, he declared, was impractical and unjust.

Woman to Receive Laetare Medal from Notre Dame

Notre Dame, Ind., May 19.—[Special.]—The Rev. Julius A. Nieuwland, C. S. C. Ph. D., of the department of chemistry at the University of Notre Dame, sailed from New York today for Havre on the S. S. Paris. He will go overland to Rome to present the Laetare medal to Mrs. Genevieve Garvan Brady, who will arrive in Rome tomorrow. The medal will be presented sometime in June. The Very Rev. George Sauvage, procurator-general of the Congregation of Holy Cross, will represent Notre Dame at the presentation.

FEDERAL JUDGE AGAIN ASSERTS NRA IS ILLEGAL

It's Bold Usurpation of Power, He Rules.

Louisville, Ky., May 19.—[Special.]—Federal Judge Charles I. Dawson of the western district of Kentucky, in a written opinion today, held that the scheme of regulation of strictly local affairs attempted in the national industrial recovery act has no place in the system of government.

The opinion dealt with the temporary injunction he granted to 34 mine companies and corporations Tuesday restraining enforcement of the NRA wage and hour provisions of the bituminous coal code in western Kentucky.

U. S. to Appeal Case.

Granting the temporary injunction, Judge Dawson gave the opinion that the NRA is unconstitutional in so far as it may be employed to regulate local business. He said the Supreme court has held repeatedly that manufacture and production, including mining, is not of itself commerce, and, therefore, not subject to regulation by congress.

Dwight L. Savage, member of the legal staf of the NRA who represented the government in the case here, announced at the time of the granting of the injunction the case will be appealed to the United States Circuit Court of Appeals at Cincinnati.

The opinion handed down today was an amplification of the oral opinion Judge Dawson gave at the time he granted the order. It repeated that no constitutional justification for attempted regulation of local affairs can be found and declared that such attempted regulation has no place in the system of government.

"Blow to Personal Liberty."

"It is the boldest kind of usurpation," the opinion reads, "dared by the authorities and tolerated by the public only because of the bewilderment of the people in the present emergency. Every person at all familiar with the constitution and our scheme of government under it knows that no such power exists, and its mere academic assertion would be amusing, but its determined exercise is tragic."

The opinion continued that if the existence of such a power in the national government be admitted, "it means the end of constitutional government in this country, under which individual effort and initiative have been fostered and encouraged, and the people generally have enjoyed a degree of liberty of person and security of property unknown to the rest of the world.

"I know of no higher duty of the national courts, the judges of which are sworn to support and defend the constitution of the United States, than to strike down such unwaranted invasion of the reserved powers of the states and the rights of the people."

CITY EMPLOYES TO GET 2 WEEKS' PAY TOMORROW

Mayor Kelly announced yesterday that city employés will be paid tomorrow for the last half of March, which will leave their pay only six weeks in arrears. The $1,900,000 to meet the pay roll will be taken partly from accumulations of tax and miscellaneous revenue in the city's corporate fund, and partly from the proceeds of the sale of $7,000,000 worth of refunding bonds.

NRA IS TERMED A 'SUBTERFUGE' BY GUGGENHEIM

Asks That President Seek Experienced Advice.

Philadelphia, Pa., May 19.—[Special.]—William Guggenheim, New York capitalist and philanthropist, recommended here today that President Roosevelt seek the advice of "men of experience who are only too anxious to coöperate with him for the nation's good."

Speaking at a reunion of the class of 1889 at the University of Pennsylvania, Mr. Guggenheim termed the National Recovery Act a "subterfuge" and expressed the hope that the country would stop "floundering in a sea of experiment instead of using past experience as our guide." He urged that business be allowed a fair profit and that currency debasement be halted by international agreement.

The speaker recalled that in an address in New York in January, 1933, he had said that business had started a "slow but surely upward trend" which would prove quite evident by fall and that two years more would be required to restore the country to conditions existing in 1927. The prophecy, he declared, would be fulfilled barring "unusual disturbances beyond our control," but, he said, the course of normal recovery had been seriously interrupted by the gold hoarding episode and by the failure of the world economic conference in London last spring, except for "such benefit that may have come from the Pittman silver act then agreed upon."

"Since the London conference," he said, "we have been floundering in a sea of experiment instead of using past experience as our guide. How long we are to continue to pursue this unwise policy is difficult to say, but let us hope that it will soon be ended.

"Our genial President, Franklin D. Roosevelt, has had a most difficult task, but, thank God, there are sufficient clean, clear headed business men in our country who can be of great assistance to him in setting things right again, and let us hope that he will ask the advice of men of experience who are only too anxious to coöperate with him for the nation's good."

Income Tax Liens Name Five Film Celebrities

Hollywood, Cal., May 19.—[Special.]—Five movie celebrities were named in federal income tax liens imposed today, the list including Barbara Stanwyck, said to owe $2,675 taxes from 1930; her husband, Frank Fay, $3,645 for 1930; Natalie Talmadge, $120 for 1931; Harry Langdon, $931 for 1933; Director Clarence Badger, $277 for 1931.

Baroness Reports Theft of $10,000 Antique Gems

Los Angeles, Cal., May 19.—[Special.]—Antique jewelry worth $10,000 at present day figures, but priceless because of age and history, has been stolen, Baroness Ryhinel Morrill, reported today.

HOSIERY MILL NRA INDICTMENTS LAID TO SECTIONALISM

Chattanooga, Tenn., May 19.—[Special.]—A claim that sectionalism in the National Hosiery association, administering the hosiery code, was responsible for the indictment of five prominent Chattanoogans as directors of the Richmond Hosiery mill was issued here today by Associate Justice Alexander W. Chambliss of the Tennessee Supreme court, one of those indicted.

Justice Chambliss, the mill, and the board of directors were charged with conspiracy to violate the hosiery code by a federal grand jury at Gainesville, Ga., yesterday.

Justice Chambliss said the National Hosiery association is dominated by northern and eastern mills and that they are responsible for this attempt to shut off and reduce operation in this section in order to boost their sales and prices.

The others named in the indictments were Garnett Andrews, president; J. Harvey Wilson, general manager; John A. Chambliss, director and counsel, and T. R. Preston. Mr. Preston, who claims to have resigned as a director, is president of the Hamilton National bank here. He is also a former president of the American Bankers' association.

"The sole offense, as I understand it," Preston said, "is that the hosiery mill kept on its pay roll 174 persons for a few weeks rather than put them in the breadline. This was sanctioned by the local committee of the NRA at Rossville.

"In no other way, so far as I know, has the mill violated the recovery act."

The mill and the indicted directors will appear for arraignment before Federal Judge E. Marvin Underwood in Rome on Monday.

ROOSEVELT VETO BATTING AVERAGE REMAINS AT .909

Washington, D. C., May 19.—(AP)—President Roosevelt, having swung his veto bludgeon eleven times, is now sporting an effective batting average of .909.

That one, however, was by far the most important play of the veto game. The ball in that case was the independent offices supply bill, carrying $228,000,000 in excess of budget estimates for federal pay and veterans.

The president socked it with a veto, saying congress had failed to devise taxes to raise the money. Congress promptly passed it again, and it became law.

No real effort has been made in congress to override most of the vetoes, the greater part of the killed legislation being of a minor nature.

Move Judge Jarecki Today from Hospital to His Home

County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki will be moved to his home at 1946 Armitage avenue this afternoon from the St. Elizabeth hospital, where he has been confined since May 1 as a result of an attack of influenza and a complication of stomach ulcers. Though he has improved, the judge will be unable to resume his bench duties for six weeks, his physicians announced. His ill health was attributed to overwork.

WORK WILL BEGIN TO REPAIR 6,460 PAVEMENT HOLES

A crew of 120 men will be put to work Tuesday, Commissioner of Public Works Hewitt announced yesterday, to fill 6,460 holes that were made in street pavements on the south side by workmen for the city and the gas and telephone companies in order to repair mains and cables. The total cost of restoring the pavements has been estimated at $14,500, of which the gas and telephone companies will pay their share.

"You Know It's Aged
Every bottle is Brew-DATED"

© 1934, Blatz Brewing Co.

IT takes age — natural, unhurried processing — to bring out all that is best in beer.

We prove to you that Blatz Old Heidelberg Beer is fully-aged — the exact Brew-Date on every bottle is your guarantee.

Aged in the huge Blatz ageing vats, this fine old Milwaukee-made beer is bottled at just that time when "ageing" has produced that distinctive flavor, that mellowness, full body and strength that always identifies Blatz Old Heidelberg Beer. And the actual Brew-Date — proof of definite age — is plainly shown on every bottle.

How superior its flavor, richness and mellow creaminess in contrast with the raw flavor of green, unaged beer. Truly, Blatz Old Heidelberg BREW-DATED Beer is well worth the trifle more it costs!

DROUTH PERIL GROWS AS HEAT GRIPS MIDWEST

Cooler Is Forecast for Tomorrow.

Chicago sweltered yesterday in the grip of the heat wave with some relief forecast for tomorrow. The day the city with 92 degrees reached at 3 o'clock in the afternoon at the government weather station in the United States courthouse. The unprecedented drouth continued in the city and throughout the states in the corn and wheat belts with light local showers promised in only a few areas today. High temperatures were forecast through the entire region.

The heat wave in the city had forced its way through the protective covering of lake breezes late Friday. At 7 o'clock yesterday morning the temperature reading was 67 degrees at the government station. The mercury rose steadily and at 1 p. m. the official reading at the University of Chicago weather station was 88 degrees.

Jumps Two Degrees.

In the next half hour the mercury jumped 2 degrees to 90, which was also recorded at the government station. At 2 p. m. the readings were 91 degrees and at 3 p. m. the mercury reached 92 at the government station. At the municipal air port the reading at 4 o'clock was 95 degrees.

The previous maximum—91 degrees—was on May 19, 1911. Yesterday was the second warmest day of the year, 94 degrees having been reached on May 9.

C. A. Donnel, government forecaster, said that the heat wave would continue today, but that tomorrow would be unsettled and cooler. The probability is that there will be no rain, he said. Moderate southwest winds will prevail.

Unfavorable for Rain.

"Conditions are not good for rain," Mr. Donnel said, "because of the stagnation in the atmospheric areas. Storms and all changes in weather conditions are caused by the shifting of the high and low pressure areas, which should circulate freely. But now they are shifting very slowly and are really in a stagnant state."

As the mercury rose the boulevards and highways leading from the city were crowded. The beaches were thronged with bathers seeking relief in the water. Straw hats appeared throughout the city.

Although the continued drouth has not caused deaths among farm animals and live stock in the middle western region, many such mortalities have been reported farther west. In autopsies performed on these animals, it has been discovered that dust inhaled in the heavy dust storms has caused their deaths.

In the 24 hour period ending yesterday afternoon the only regions in the country which received rain were the northern parts of Washington and Montana and the extreme northern tips of North Dakota and Minnesota.

Today local showers are forecast throughout Michigan, in central and northern Wisconsin, the extreme northern parts of Iowa and Minnesota, and in North Dakota, and northeastern South Dakota.

Twelve States Without Rain.

The precipitation in the corn and wheat belt states which received rain in this period was 1.26 inches in North Dakota, .49 of an inch in Montana, and .20 in Minnesota. The other twelve states in the region, which have received no rain, are Kentucky, Ohio, Michigan, Indiana, Illinois, Wisconsin, South Dakota, Nebraska, Iowa, Missouri, Kansas, and Oklahoma.

The drouth and the failure of power plant owners along the Fox river from Elgin to Aurora to live up to an agreement not to use the water excessively is continuing to dry up the river. Although warned by the state department of waterways that legislation will be enacted to curb the use of water, the plant owners have continued to drain the river.

DRUGGAN TAX CASE DISMISSED BY U. S. JUDGE

Atlanta, Ga., May 19.—A civil suit in which the government sought to collect $600,000 from Terrence Druggan, former Chicago beer baron, in an income tax case was dismissed today by Federal Judge E. Marvin Underwood.

The suit was for $300,000 which the government alleged Druggan, now serving a term in the federal prison here, owed in income tax, plus a like amount for interest.

Judge Underwood dismissed the action for lack of jurisdiction, because Druggan is not a resident of this district.

Throngs Find Relief from Heat in City's Fine Parks

All the city's parks, the forest preserves and country places yesterday attracted thousands of Chicagoans who sought relief from the heat on what was a half holiday for many. Lincoln park lagoons were dotted with boaters, as revealed in this picture of cruising water fans who found vacation land pleasures right in the heart of Chicagoland.

PLAN TO RUSH U. S. CASH TO DROUTH STRICKEN AREA

27 Million to Be Sent to Wheat States.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 19.—[Special.]—Plans to hasten inspection of farms under AAA wheat adjustment contracts in the drouth stricken spring wheat area in order to release the second 1933 benefit payments were announced today as numerous government agencies directed their efforts toward furthering the drouth relief program.

Of the total second payments due of about 27 millions of dollars, payments to the four principal spring wheat states of Montana, North and South Dakota, and Minnesota will amount to some seven and a half million dollars, George E. Farrell, chief of the AAA wheat section, declared. Of this sum Montana will receive about $1,680,00; North Dakota, $3,900,000; South Dakota, $1,400,000, and Minnesota, $500,000.

The second payment is at the rate of eight cents a bushel, less local costs. Almost immediate payment will follow the inspection and certification that farmers have complied with their allotment agreements.

The adjustment administration also announced today that it was preparing to relax the terms of production agreements in the drouth area in order to permit farmers to plant forage crops on land withdrawn from production. Farmers in many midwestern states are under contract to let land taken out of wheat and corn production lie idle. The new plan of the administration would permit the planting of feed corn, grass, sorghum, and other stock feeds. If the dry spell is broken it is estimated enough feed could be produced to carry through stock now actually starving or on the verge of starvation.

Federal relief money will be sent into the drouth area at the rate of some six millions a month, it was estimated.

The Surplus Relief corporation is to buy cattle which have become so thin as to be virtually valueless to owners. Tubercular cattle are to be confiscated and paid for.

NEW CRUISER MINNEAPOLIS IS IN COMMISSION

Philadelphia, Pa., May 19.—(AP)—The U. S. S. Minneapolis, one of the navy's newest 10,000 ton cruisers, was commissioned at the Philadelphia navy yard today.

The vessel cost $11,000,000 and has a designed speed of 33 knots. It will carry four airplanes and its largest guns are 8 inch caliber. It has a length overall of 610 feet. The Minneapolis is one of the thirteen heavier cruisers built under the Washington treaty.

7 DAYS' PRAYER FOR RAIN WILL BE SAID AT JOLIET CHURCH

Joliet, Ill., May 19.—(AP)—A seven days' prayer for rain will be said at St. Anthony's church here at the request of drouth distracted farmers of the vicinity, the Rev. C. P. Lyons, pastor, announced today.

The prayer will be in the form of septenary in honor of St. Jude, patron saint of hopeless cases and will begin Sunday morning. The relic of the saint will be exposed during the services.

Dakotans to Pray for Rain.

Bismarck, N. D., May 19.—(AP)—North Dakotans will pray in unison Sunday for much needed rain to break the protracted drouth. In a proclamation issued today Gov. William Langer asked that Sunday be set aside as a "day of prayer for rain," stating that unless granted rain "North Dakota will enter a period of distress unprecedented in the history of the state."

OPEN FOUR MILES OF LAKE FRONT TO BATHERS TODAY

Four miles of lake front and fifteen hundred acres of dune land will be officially opened to Chicago and Illinois bathers and picnickers today just north of Waukegan and 40 miles from the loop by the Dunes Park of Illinois association.

According to Arthur Fisher, president of the organization, the purchase of the land was recommended to the state legislature by a senate sub-committee in 1929, which stressed the need of an Illinois state park such as the Indian sand dunes. The matter was deferred because of lack of funds and the Dunes Park of Illinois association leased the property for a period of five years.

Other officers of the association, aside from Mr. Fisher, are Wallace Kirkland, boys' group leader at Hull house; Virgil Hancher of Evanston, and Renslow P. Sherer of Highland Park. Fisher said visitors would be charged a small fee.

Mercury Soars to 102 at Mankato; a Record

Mankato, Minn., May 19.—(AP)—The mercury rose to 102 here today, setting an all time record for May.

20 INDUSTRIES AGREE TO SAVE FOX RIVER WATER

Twenty of the 22 major users of water power along the Fox river from Carpentersville to North Aurora will sign a written agreement binding them not to reduce the water level to below six inches from the tops of their dams. The two holdouts will be approached again Tuesday. These developments in checking the exhausting of the water supply by industrial users were announced yesterday by Dr. Walter M. Smith Jr., acting chief engineer of the state waterways division; State Senator Arnold Benson of Batavia, chairman of the Fox Chain of Lakes and River commission; E. A. Keplar, secretary of the Rox River Valley association, and other officials of the two organizations.

Attorney General Otto Kerner will be asked to approve the form of the new agreement, and to determine whether penalties for possible violations may be inserted. If it is not possible to put "teeth" in the agreement, special legislation will be sought at Springfield to this end, as the basis for a permanent remedy for the situation.

KILLER OF WOMAN GETS LIFE.

Center, Neb., May 19.—(AP)—John Hersler, 50 years old, bachelor farm hand, today pleaded guilty of slaying Mrs. Henry Nielsen, 50 years old, Wednesday and drew a sentence of life in prison.

RYE OFFERS WAY OUT OF DAIRY FEED SHORTAGE

Grain Can Be Cut When About Ready to Head.

Midwest farmers who are faced with a shortage of hay and need such feed for their stock can find a way out of this problem if they have stands of rye on their acreage. According to experiments conducted to test the food value of rye, this grain, if cut when it is about ready to head out, is about twice as good as timothy hay, and therefore will do very well as feed for stock.

Although rye does not have as high a protein content as alfalfa, nevertheless it still is classed above Sudan grass and timothy in food value. Alfalfa is given a rating of 14.9 per cent protein. Rye contains 9.8 per cent of protein. Timothy contains only 5.2 per cent protein. Sudan grass, a good drouth resisting plant, but a favorite of chinch bugs, contains 8.2 per cent protein.

Takes Place of Hay.

Considering the comparative food values of these plants farmers can cut their rye, if short of hay, feed it in place of hay and keep their stock in good condition.

For the first time in the history of The Tribune's auxiliary farm, operated in connection with the experimental farm, it is necessary this month to resort to rye for feed. A fairly large tract which has developed in spite of the drouth this spring, will be cut this week and used as a substitute for regular hay because the supply of the latter is short.

Graze Along Highways.

During the last few weeks many farmers in northern Illinois have been obliged to take their cattle and even horses out of the burned pastures and put them to graze along the highways to obtain sufficient feed. Comparatively new highways with shoulders that were seeded last fall or early this spring are growing fairly good stands of grass, so that cattle can find much more feed close to the concrete and whizzing automobiles than can be obtained in the old, worn out pastures which are parched and almost devoid of vegetation.

Herds of cows numbering as high as fourteen have been observed grazing along highways southwest of Chicago, and some farmers are taking time to watch their workhorses several hours each day while the animals get a meal next to a country road.

Purchase Forage Here.

As another result of the drouth farmers and stock raisers of Illinois are beginning to turn to the Chicago grain market to purchase forage for their stock, hay and feed merchants said yesterday.

As yet the movement is not pronounced but if the unseasonable dryness continued another week or ten days the situation will be "calamitous," one commission merchant said. In the last week hay has gone up $2 a ton, as the result of the dwindling forage and one firm has been shipping alfalfa from Arizona—a product rarely brought to Chicago.

Livestock raisers and dairy farmers have been the hardest hit by the feed shortage. They devote most of their lands to pasturage and were not prepared for the drouth. Consequently, their limited supplies of oats and hay have virtually been depleted.

George S. Bridge of the board of trade commission firm of Bridge and Leonard has just returned from a crop survey and predicted yesterday that another week of drouth would produce "a real shortage of hay."

"Some farmers have been using their hay lands for pasturage," said Bridge. "Unless rains come they will have to continue to let their stock graze there. A lot of farmers are close to the point of purchasing grain for feed."

From another source it was pointed out that thousands of farmers sealed their corn to secure government loans and cannot use it for feeding. Ordinarily they would have had enough corn on hand for the present emergency but the government sealing closed this avenue.

Depend Upon Pastures.

Thus the farmers have been depending upon their grass pastures to carry them through this season. Pasturage will not fatten stock as would corn but it was all that could be depended upon.

Then came the drouth and the pastures have yielded little for the stock. On the board of trade yesterday, it was pointed out that there were no offerings of millet and sudan grass seed, none being available. These are fast growing forage crops but the supply has been exhausted by the unusual demand.

Much corn for feeding has been shipped to the Chicago area from Kansas and Oklahoma, but these supplies "have almost been cleaned out," one dealer said.

Some increase in orders from hay and feed merchants in little towns has been noted on the Chicago market, it was said, a circumstance indicating that stores and elevators in the smaller communities have had large sales.

If the dryest spell since 1866 does not come to an end shortly, heavy demands for feed grain and hay will be made upon the Chicago market, most dealers agreed.

HERE'S HOW TO HITCH BIG TEAM HORSES

PARIS-LONDON PLANE CRASHES; U. S. WOMAN HURT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 19.—A French air liner crashed alongside a road within sight of Croydon airdrome this evening. A faulty motor was blamed for the accident in which a woman passenger, who gave her name as Mrs. Oterman of New York, was slightly injured. Three other passenger suffered from shock.

Spectators at a cricket match were forced to dash for safety as the plunging plane headed in their direction. Several motorists also were endangered as the plane skimmed over the tops of automobiles to land in a ditch.

The plane was bound from Paris to Croydon. On May 9 another French passenger plane on the Paris-Croydon line plunged into the English channel. Six lives were lost.

BARS TO BE LEGAL AGAIN TOMORROW IN NEW YORK CITY

New York, May 19.—[Special.]—Drinking of wines and liquors at bars in licensed hotels and restaurants in New York becomes legal next Monday morning.

Most of the hotels and restaurants in the city will have to utilize temporary bars for the lack of time to construct permanent ones. The state alcoholic beverage control board advanced the time for the operation of the bar law from July 1 to May 21.

Many of the hotels plan to have veteran bartenders in charge when the bars open for business.

The rules under which drinking at bars is permitted provides that alcoholic beverages may be sold to be consumed at a bar in a licensed hotel or restaurant "provided that such bar is located in the drinking room of such hotel or restaurant."

WAIT YEAR UNTIL GIRL'S MOTHER IS DEAD; ARREST HER

Philadelphia, Pa., May 19.—(AP)—After federal agents waited a year to save her dying mother from shock, they arrested Margaret C. Ehringer, 32, former assistant head bookkeeper of the Tradesman's National bank, on charges of embezzlement today.

The $1,600 theft the young woman is accused of perpetrating during 1930 and 1931, was reported by national bank examiners more than a year ago to the United States division of investigation bureau here.

Investigation disclosed that the bookkeeper's mother was a bedridden invalid who might be killed by the shock of her daughter's arrest, an agent told United States Commissioner William S. Wacker. So the government waited until the mother died last Tuesday.

The daughter today was held in $2,000 bail for court.

Two Held for Attempt to Kidnap Rich Clothier

Niagara Falls, N. Y., May 19.—(AP)—Two men were held without bail here today on charges of attempted kidnaping. Police said the pair last night tried to kidnap Abraham Wallens, prominent and wealthy clothing merchant. The police said that the two men waylaid Wallens near his home late last night, but the police arrived and arrested the men.

FARMERS TO GET LOANS OF SEED AND EQUIPMENT

Loans of capital goods will be made to families in need of relief who own land in rural areas, as part of the rural relief and rehabilitation program of the Illinois Emergency Relief commission, it was announced yesterday. The capital goods will range from field seed to barn repairs, for example, and will also include live stock, farm equipment, and feed.

The loans will be made only to persons who will be placed on a self supporting basis by the acquisition of the added equipment or supplies. It is planned to supply the goods to the farmer directly rather than to advance funds to buy them, thus effecting savings through mass purchasing power.

No loan will be made until an analysis has been made of a particular family's resources and of its ability to maintain itself through the acquisition of the physical equipment, or other capital.

Neediness of recipients will be determined by the county relief committees operating in rural areas, cooperating with community leaders who are familiar with local conditions.

Signed applications will be received by the county relief committees, and after approval in proper cases, will be sent to a supply division.

The cost of the goods supplied to a person on relief rolls will represent a loan to be repaid by work on some project of general social value to his community, in most cases. In effect, the recipient will earn wages which will become credits against the sum he owes for the capital goods.

The program was developed by officials of the commission and two other experts.

TRIBUNE FARM HOLDS ITS FIRST VISITORS' DAY

Farmers Shown Modern Horse Power at Work.

BY PAUL POTTER.

Yesterday marked the opening day for visitors to the Tribune's experimental farm near Yorkville, in Kendall county, Illinois, and farmers from nearby counties gathered in an unplowed field to witness a demonstration of big team horse hitches under the direction of Wayne Dinsmore, secretary of the Horse and Mule Association of America.

Although the entire farm had been plowed for cultivated crops and planted some time ago, a small patch was found in which teams of five, six and eight horses each could show the modern methods of utilizing horse power. By setting the simple hitching equipment, such as any farmer or blacksmith could make, in correct position, and by harnessing each horse in its proper place it was shown that every horse pulls an equal part of the load, no matter how lazy he might be inclined to be.

Advantages Are Emphasized.

Mr. Dinsmore, in explaining the methods which have been adapted to corn belt farms from those used for 50 years in the northwest wheat fields, emphasized three points of advantage for the hitches. They equalize the load for each horse, they permit each horse to pull squarely and at right angles from his shoulders, and the horses are kept sufficiently far apart to prevent their becoming heated during work.

"On hot days and when pulling heavy loads such as we have now with the soil so dry and hard," declared Mr. Dinsmore, "it is well for farmers to water their horses about every hour. This is the interval which most men require for a brief rest during such work anyway, and it will keep the horses fit for work throughout the season."

Instead of hitching horses four abreast, Mr. Dinsmore advocated using two horses next to the plow, disc or other implement, with two or three horses abreast ahead. The leading horses pull on a chain attached to a crossbar called an evener, to which also is fastened the doubletrees of the rear horses. Farmers were shown how to measure from the furrow edge to determine where to hitch the evener to obtain a maximum of pulling power.

Maximum Power Method.

"For years farmers have been using teams of more than two horses, but all too many of them fail to get the maximum power from them by locating the point of pulling power where there is a minimum of side draft," declared Dinsmore. "Now that horses are being appreciated more on the corn belt farms again we should get the most work out of them with the least strain possible."

Mr. Dinsmore was aided in the demonstration by Clarence Thurow, manager of the farm; his brother, Louis, and the teams were hitched up and driven by Herman Guenther. Guenther, who has driven horses for years but never in the combinations used yesterday, handled the teams alone to show that eight draft horse teams are not too complicated for one farmer to manage.

Aside from the use of horses farmers were most interested yesterday in discussing the seriousness of the drouth and the menace of chinch bugs.

Call Meet on Chinch Bugs.

W. P. Miller, farm adviser for Kendall county, announced that a mass-meeting to discuss the handling of the chinch bug situation would be held in Yorkville next Friday night. On Saturday morning W. P. Flint, entomologist for the Illinois natural history survey, an authority on the bugs, is to visit the Tribune farm and describe methods of combating the bugs.

Steps were being taken yesterday to supply artificial water to the experimental plots where 85 strains or varieties of rare or unusual crops have been seeded. The ground is as dry as powder for eight inches beneath the surface, a condition described by Kendall county farmers as without equal in their experience.

U. S. CONTROL OF ALL BANK CREDIT URGED BY SENATOR CUTTING

Washington, D. C., May 19.—(AP)—Creation of a national bank with a monopoly on the issuance of credit was advocated today by Senator Bronson Cutting of New Mexico.

The Republican Independent, who supported Franklin D. Roosevelt for President, said the government in its relief work is getting into debt to the banks "for the privilege of helping them regain their stranglehold on the economic life of the country."

"For a year or more we have been engaged in currency manipulation," Cutting added. "We have juggled with the currency and we shall no doubt continue to do so. The results have been small. The depression is still with us and it is doubtful if we can cope with it by any such methods."

The reason, the senator said, is that only a small part of our monetary system consists of currency. He added that much the greater part is composed of bank credit.

"Until the government takes control of this most vital part of our financial system it is not going to break loose from the debt which is weighing down the government as well as the private citizens of the nation," he contended.

He pointed out that when a bank makes a loan there is rarely a cash transaction, but rather the amount of the loan is merely credited to the borrower.

DIES OF KNIFE WOUNDS.

Prim Bailey, 32 years old, a Negro, died in the county hospital yesterday of a knife wound he received Friday night in a quarrel with Albert Bryant, 35 years old, also colored, both of 1421 Hastings street. Bryant was held.

DEFY ROOSEVELT; PUSH BILL TO BUY UP CLOSED BANKS

Before House Tomorrow; Will Cost 1½ Billion.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 19.—[Special.]—Legislation forcing the government to buy up closed banks at an estimated cost of a billion and a half dollars will be started through the house of representatives Monday in open defiance of the White House.

All banks which are still closed as a result of last year's banking holiday are to be purchased by the government under the terms of the proposed legislation. The money which the government pays for the assets of the closed banks is to be distributed to their depositors.

Seek to Boost Guarantee.

The same legislation will seek to raise the maximum guarantee which the government has placed behind deposits in going banks from the present $2,500 limit to $5,000.

Both moves are understood to face the tacit disapproval of the White House. President Roosevelt, who wants the present $2,500 limit on deposits in open banks continued through a new law, is reported to have told members of the house banking and currency committee that he wants the buying up of closed banks dropped out of the measure.

In defiance of the President's views, the Democratic members of the house banking and currency committee have caucused and insisted that the relief for depositors in closed banks remain in the bill. They have agreed to report the entire measure out for house action on Monday.

Senate May Kill It.

Because of the President's disapproval the bill has an uncertain future. It is regarded as certain of passing the house where the members, all up for reëlection in the fall, are anxious to do something for those of their constituents who were caught in the banking collapse. The measure may be killed in the senate, however.

If passed in its present form the bill would instruct the federal deposit insurance corporation to buy up the assets remaining in all closed banks at a "liberal" appraised value. This money, estimated to amount to about a billion and a half dollars, would be distributed to depositors and other creditors of the defunct banks, thereby liquidating them finally.

A PROGRESSIVE PARTY FORMED IN WISCONSIN

La Follette Wing Cuts Loose from G. O. P.

BY THORNTON L. SMITH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Fond du Lac, Wis., May 19.—[Special.]—The La Follette radical group which for more than thirty years has competed for control of the Republican party in Wisconsin, today cut loose from its historic affiliations and with the aid of delegations from farm and labor organizations and radicals of a variety of political complexions formed a new party.

The new party is named the Progressive party. The name was selected in competition with the designation farm labor party and after a discussion which evoked more heat than any other point in an all day conference.

John J. Handley, secretary of the Wisconsin Federation of Labor, told the delegates he was disappointed in the character of the conference. Speaking deliberately and carefully for organized labor he said he had hoped and expected the conference was to bring together all of the forces of liberal thought. If it does not, he said, organized labor will not go along.

La Follettes in Control.

The La Follette supporters were in complete control of proceedings from the time the temporary credentials committee ruled out most of Milwaukee's farm labor delegation. William T. Evjue, Madison editor and spokesman for the La Follettes, acting as chairman of the conference, recognized only delegates who would push along the program they had prepared.

The decision to organize a new party was a foregone conclusion when the meeting was called. It took less than an hour's discussion to approve the movement and it took more than two hours to decide the question of a name.

No statement of principles was made. Motions by an occasional delegate to require a declaration of the purposes of the new party or of the principles it espoused were not presented. The form of question on which the delegates voted was only "Shall this conference take steps to organize a new party?"

Vote by Counties.

The vote, which was taken by counties, was 151 yes to 44 no. There was a good deal of talk by the speakers that it was a momentous occasion and that the new party would keep the fires of democracy burning in this great nation but there was no specification in the resolution adopted, nor by any of the speakers, what its platform would contain nor was any pledge made as to the future course the new party will take.

Former Governor Philip La Follette sat throughout the sessions, aiding Chairman Evjue, and sprung to his feet frequently to clarify a question or address a delegate.

United States Senator Robert La Follette kept in the background until questions of organization were settled. With the party name decided and the committee chosen in the May 3 meeting in Madison authorized to function as a temporary state central committee, the senator came into the picture with a prepared speech.

The period called Republican prosperity, he said, had culminated in the collapse of the country's economic life. "The disaster of 1929 and the acute distress and suffering of the American people that followed were made possible by the betrayal of the people's trust by men in both parties, controled through their party organizatione by privileged interests."

BILL TO DEEPEN NEW YORK BARGE CANAL IS SIGNED

Albany, N. Y., May 19.—(AP)—Gov. Herbert H. Lehman signed the Hendel-Lewis bill today, opening the way for the army to improve the barge canal as a great lakes-to-ocean waterway.

The army board of engineers proposed to spend 27 million dollars deepening the canal and raising bridges to permit passage of larger and faster ships. Besides towed barges, large steel motorships now use the canal. With higher bridges these can be built up for safe ocean navigation in winter months when the canal is frozen.

Troops Prepare Martial Law in Minneapolis Truck Riots

Minneapolis, Minn., May 19.—[Special.]—Soldiers and martial law will enforce peace and guarantee food to this beleaguered city if the 5,000 striking truck drivers don't quit forthwith rioting and destroying property, Gov. Floyd B. Olson warned the union men tonight.

When representatives of the employers and of the truckmen turned down a truce proposal drawn by a committee of which Gov. Olson was chairman and advisor, the governor put Adj. Gen. E. A. Walsh instantly to work mapping a campaign to take full charge of Minnesota's largest city within four hours after the executive says the word.

"If it is necessary to establish a military government," Gov. Olson declared, "that administration will take over all the machinery for distribution of food and necessities."

Increase Police by 1,000.

Gen. Walsh is prepared to mobilize nearly 1,000 men on two hours' notice, including two units whose home base is in the city. A national guard staf of 12 officers began reconnoitering tonight to plan for military rule.

At the same time, Chief of Police Michael Johannes announced that he would add 1,000 special police and would crush out any further disorders and disruptions of commerce. He had 550 of his special officers already sworn in tonight.

The Minneapolis-St. Paul street car strike threat subsided tonight with the ruling of the Twin Cities regional labor board that the Rapid Transit company should reinstate 27 of 70 employés laid off this spring. Workers and the company had agreed to accept the board's decision.

Battle in Racket.

St. Paul's impending drivers' strike was called off when the union there voted to submit to arbitration. Men and employers hope to meet with Gov. Olson not later than Monday to iron out their troubles.

Today the first appreciable battle of Minneapolis' four day old labor war took place and a score of men, including four policemen and two men who insisted they were by-standers, received hospital attention. Police with twice repulsed pickets who threw stones to halt produce trucks. Each truck had a police convoy.

The riots occurred in the market district. The first trucks of perishable produce to arrive escaped molestation by the 300 shouting, jeering pickets, who swarmed over the area.

Then a large truck of the C. Thomas Stores, Inc., drew up before a fruit company. Strikers attacked it with stones, loose paving and any other available missils. Police retaliated with swinging night sticks and, aided by reenforcements, succeeded in driving the unionists back.

Labor Board Inactive.

Later in an outbreak at the Thomas Stores headquarters windows in two trucks were smashed, but police sent them safely on their way after they beat back the strikers, injuring several more, and broke up the crowd.

Although the employers are understood to expect action by the regional labor board, members of the board said tonight it would not intervene unless Washington or one of the parties to the dispute asked its participation.

Leaders of the strike, which began Tuesday night and reached its climax today as business men attempted to break the blockade which pickets had placed on the movement of trucks, issued an ultimatum threatening to force a general strike in Minneapolis and to "throw our whole force into the battle," unless Gov. Olson stopped police from interfering with their activities.

Food Gets Through.

The Truck Owners association flatly refused to continue with the governor a conference looking toward amicable settlement and termed the strike "an outrage on the right of Minneapolis citizens."

It was estimated that under police guards and despite the fights with strikers about 80 trucks, mainly carrying food, moved under guard safely to their destination.

The strikers met the augmented police force with new strategy. They enlarged their "flying squadrons" and rocks were distributed to the pickets.

Hotels, Restaurants Hampered.

The food situation continued acute, with many grocery stores reporting that they were out of bread as some of the bakeries remained closed and others were prevented from making deliveries.

Restaurants and hotels were also showing the pinch with reduced menus. In many parts of the city it was impossible to obtain fresh vegetables although grocers were using their own cars to go into the country to seek supplies.

STATE'S DELAY BRINGS PRIVATE BARGE TERMINAL

$150,000 Structure Ready in June.

A $150,000 barge terminal is being constructed by private interests at Western avenue and the sanitary and ship canal because of the state's delay in building its terminal near Damen avenue, four blocks away.

The North Pier Terminal company, which has a long term lease on the terminal and a concurrent freight contract with the federal barge lines—Inland Waterways—announced yesterday that construction is already under way and that the work will be completed by the middle of June. The site, a 16 acre tract, is owned by the Illinois Northern railway, a belt line, which is a subsidiary of the International Harvester company, and the International Harvester company is building the terminal.

Work has been started on the state's $200,000 terminal at the junction of the Chicago river and the sanitary canal, near Damen avenue, but it will require about five months for completion.

W. W. Huggett, vice president and general manager of the North Pier Terminal company, said the new terminal would provide 3,500 feet of dockage, with platforms and transit house. The company expects to do at least 100,000 tons of business this year.

Although the Illinois waterway was opened to commerce in February, 1933, and the state had available a $200,000 fund for a terminal since 1928, work was not started until a week ago. The fund came from the Santa Fe and Illinois Central railroads, through a settlement involving a controversy with the state over the so-called 90 foot strips along the old Illinois and Michigan canal.

FAIR IS READY! HOST TO WORLD THIS SATURDAY

Gates Open at 9 A. M.; Prices Are Slashed.

ing music programs, both instrumental and vocal, on the Floating theater, and in addition will, throughout the summer, have strolling minstrels wandering through the grounds at night. Again the pick of the nation's dance bands will play in the cafés.

The amusement center, as far as carnival fun goes, is again on the Midway. Here in its new berth on the lake shore side of the iland will be every type of game, roller coaster, Ferris wheel, and carnival sport known. Just south of the Midway will be Enchanted island, where children and children's pleasures hold sway.

Beautiful Lighting Plan.

The colors and lighting effects, while no doubt the oddest ever created, give what many artists have termed the most delightful overall effect ever created out of doors. Ten colors are used in the decorating scheme, the primary colors used being a reddish purple, white, black, and yellow. More lights this year, no direct lights, and a more intricate way of reflecting the light characterize the lighting scheme.

Taking the place of the old Midway on the mainland is the Street of Foreign Villages. Here will be found the following villages: Parisian, Oasis, Belgium, Old Colonial, English, German Black Forest, Irish, Midget, Spanish, Italian and Tunisian. Of these all but the Midget and Old Colonial are exact reproductions of typical foreign scenes. At the far end of this row is the Streets of New York, but separated from the foreign row by the Lincoln group. At the far end of this section of the Fair, and next to the official Chinese exhibit is the Swiss village. On the iland are located the Streets of Shanghai, the Dutch village, the Mexican village and the Old Mexico café and night club.

States' Exhibit Space All Taken.

Of the states' exhibiting last year only two dropped out of this year's Exposition due to political and financial difficulties, and they were replaced by others. At the present time, with all exhibit spaces in the states group sold, the Hall of States has the following tenancy: Fourteen states, exhibits of two foreign governments, two territorial exhibits and two city exhibits. The Federal building, around which the states group is constructed, will again show the manifold activities of the federal government.

In the lagoons there are four new exhibitors and the new Fair fountain. Starting at the north end of the lagoon there is the fountain, 670 feet long, 200 feet wide at the widest portion, and throwing water 65 feet high through colored lights. Next, on one side, is the Thompson restaurant group and the Floating theater. The north side of the 16th street bridge is the opening of the Hiram Walker Doodlebug building, and the south side the Armour exhibit. The Swift packing exhibit, where the Chicago symphony plays, is at the south end of the south lagoon.

The entire Exposition is a $43,000,000 show, of which more than $5,000,000 represents entirely new exhibits.

Fair's Great Travel Pageant Ready for Opening Day

SLOAN CALLS 300 BUSINESS CHIEFS TO SESSION HERE

Talk on Future Vital, Says Leader.

Expressing doubt that a scientific and economic Utopia has already been achieved, Alfred P. Sloan Jr., president of General Motors corporation, has summoned a congress of 300 leaders in science and industry to be held next Friday, on the eve of the opening of A Century of Progress, in General Motors building, exposition grounds.

The gathering will be called "Previews of Industrial Progress in the Next Century." In toto it will be looking into the future by men familiar with past and current trends. Modern science will be analyzed; its future will be contemplated. In issuing his call for the meeting, Mr. Sloan expressed disbelief that the "ultimate" in achievement has been reached.

"Is it reasonable to assume," he said, "that the marvelous achievements of industry, made possible by the development of science, as typified by what we see at A Century of Progress Exposition, could possibly represent the ultimate? To my mind such an assumption is an absurdity, and yet as the basis of that thinking we are establishing many of our national economic policies. It seems to me this is an appropriate time for a frank expression of what leaders in science and industry believe the development possibilities appear to be."

"For some time I have been concerned with the thinking of many who believe that our progress in this world is finished: That we must retrogress; that there are no worthwhile possibilities ahead; that we must live merely by dividing up available jobs, and that we must accept a lower standard of living.

Important Question Now.

"Contrariwise, many believe that the amount of available work can be continually expanded; that progressively higher standards of living will result through broadening the activities of industry by developments of science and industrial research. In my judgment this question is exceedingly important at this time on account of its influence in the determination of many of our national economic policies, vitally affecting the future of us all."

The 300 invited guests will gather at a dinner, to be headed by Mr. Sloan. The hour is 7 o'clock, Chicago day-

Notes of a Century of Progress

The Chicago hotels are busily engaged this week in hiring and training additional employés for the increased business expected during the Exposition period. Last year 72 of Chicago's larger hotels hired an additional 23,500 clerks, bell boys, waiters, cooks, maids, and others, according to figures revealed yesterday by Horwath & Horwath, hotel accountants. It is expected that this year's business will be just as large as that of last year.

The show, "World of a Million Years Ago," will be supplanted this year by an aquatic fantasy called "Neptune's Follies." The pageant will be staged by Nicholas Remisoff, local architect and designer.

Three hundred persons who attended the annual Victoria day luncheon of the Doughters of the British Empire in the Gold ballroom of the Congress hotel heard described the wonders of the village Merrie England at A Century of Progress. They were addressed by Maj. C. J. F. Keatings, D. S. O., and Thomas Wood Stevens, who are interested in the designing of the village.

Officials of the Milk Foundation informed Mayor Kelly yesterday the organization will give a bottle of milk to each child who visits A Century of Progress on Children's day, May 31. They expect to distribute close to 200,000 bottles of milk that day.

The Chicago Park District will hold a quilt contest, which will be conducted in connection with its exhibit at A Century of Progress. Members or former members of any park quilting club may enter the contest tomorrow or Tuesday, May 21 and 22. The quilts will be on display at the exhibit in the Hall of States. Prizes will be given at the end of the Fair.

RALLY FOR FAIR TOMORROW WILL DRAW BIG CROWD

Elaborate Program to Be Given in Stadium.

A great crowd is expected in the Chicago Stadium, 1800 Madison street, tomorrow night for the Century of Progress rally which will present a preview of the World's Fair attractions and feature the Century of Progress invitation campaign conducted by the Keep Chicago Ahead committee.

Mme. Ernestine Schumann-Heink, the contralto, heads a program presenting Century of Progress, stage and radio stars. Mayor Edward J. Kelly, who created the Keep Chicago Ahead committee; Gov. Henry Horner, and Rufus C. Dawes, president of A Century of Progress, will make 10 minute speeches describing the 1934 exposition. Robert J. Dunham, president of the new consolidated park board, will preside.

Twenty Acts on Program.

Phil Baker, stage and radio comedian, will be master of ceremonies for the rally show. Twenty acts will be presented, offering selections from the Hawaiian, Irish, Mexican and Italian villages at the Fair, and from loop theaters and the broadcasting studios.

Well known Chicago orchestras and reviews are on the program: Ted Weems and his Palmer house review, Clyde Lucas and his Terrace Garden floor show, the Chez Paree orchestra and floor show, Paul Ash and his stage act, Frankie Masters and the College Inn review, and Jan Garber's orchestra.

The doors of the Stadium will be opened at 7 o'clock and the rally entertainment will start at 8:30. Streets adjacent to the Stadium and nearby parking lots will be kept free of cars so that an expected overflow crowd can be entertained through loud speakers and by acts to be presented outside the building. The day's program will start in the afternoon, with a parade of eight bands downtown.

Ten Million Invitations.

The Stadium program is planned as the high point of the World's Fair invitation week starting yesterday and arranged by the Keep Chicago Ahead committee. Ten million invitations to A Century of Progress are expected to go into the mails before the campaign is ended.

The committee has provided envelope inserts and sticker stamps which are given free to any persons wishing to send them out in their mails. In addition rotogravure sections, showing World's Fair views, have been published and are provided at cost to firms desiring to mail them. More than 1,600 business firms have cooperated in the committee's program to date. All who visit the Stadium will be given World's Fair post cards and will be requested to mail them to friends.

PLOT TO KILL SEVERAL BY POISON WHISKY IS UNCOVERED ON COAST

Oakland, Cal., May 19.—(AP)—An apparent plot to kill several persons by poison whisky mailed in "sample" bottles was uncovered here today and police, postoffice inspectors and operatives of the district attorney's office went into action.

In addition to broadcasting warnings to others who might have received similar bottles, authorities traced clews in an effort to roundup suspects.

At least eight bottles of the whisky had been recovered tonight. Each contained enough poison "to destroy a regiment," Captain of Inspectors Trotter said.

The eighth bottle was turned in by Arthur Cleu, a pressman employed by the Oakland Tribune, who, learning while at work of the intensive hunt for the liquor mailer, recalled that he, too, had received a sample bottle this week and added it to the police collection. Names of the recipients of the other bottles were not disclosed.

The bottles, police said, were all mailed May 15 from a branch Oakland postoffice. Across the face of each was stamped the word "sample" and on each the government stamp over the cork had been tampered with.

Count up the dollar value in a GRAHAM

IF THE citizens of Chicago are content to choose a car on the basis of a demonstration, we have only one thing to say: Take the 1934 Graham out on the road. But if they are hard-headed, practical, don't want to be swept off their feet, we submit this car on another basis: Go over the Graham carefully, and count up the comparative dollar value in it.

Graham engineers have done their own thinking, developed many features that are definitely plus values in a car of this price. Outboard Springs, Banjo Frame, wide 61-inch tread, geometric steering . . . three-passenger seating front and rear . . . aluminum cylinder head . . . full-length water-jackets . . . centrifugal Supercharger in Special and Custom Eights.

Compare the Graham item by item—compare it for performance and "feel"—with any other car in its price class and many that cost more. Then let the ungarnished facts give you the answer.

ALUMINUM CYLINDER HEAD
The aluminum cylinder head was perfected by Graham engineers. It permits very high compression with ordinary fuels—gives increased power with reduced fuel consumption. Graham has the highest compression ratio of any stock car using ordinary fuels.

BANJO FRAME
In the Graham, the rear axle passes through an opening in the frame. The combined weight of axle and rear wheels helps to anchor the car to the road, especially over bumps and around sharp curves. One demonstration shows the improvement in roadability.

DESCRIBES AUTO CRASH FATAL TO WILLIAM FULLER

Inquest Continued Until Woman Recovers.

The inquest into the death of William A. Fuller, society man, who was killed early yesterday morning when he was thrown from his motor car against the base of the Grant monument in Lincoln park, was continued yesterday until June 5 pending the recovery of his woman companion, who was seriously injured.

She is Miss Betty Ryder, 34 years old, 830 Sunnyside avenue, a program writer employed by the National Broadcasting company. Physicians at the Columbus Memorial hospital said she suffered a severe scalp wound, which required 14 stitches to close, and a possible fracture of the spinal column.

Grandson of Pioneer.

Fuller, a war time aviator, was the grandson of the late William A. Fuller, pioneer Chicago lumberman. He was a member of the Chicago, Onwentsia, Casino, Saddle and Cycle, Racquet, Lake Shore, and Winter clubs. He was 40 years old and lived at 209 Lake Shore drive.

Lincoln Park Policeman Edward Graf, who took Miss Ryder to the hospital, testified at the inquest that he smelled liquor on her breath. The inquest was conducted by Deputy Coroner Lawrence Rassmussen.

Witness Describes Crash.

Fuller was not a drinking man, to his knowledge, Borland testified. He added that the victim had worked steadily for the car seal firm for the last five years until he was laid off a month ago.

Carl Bartz, 1873 Home street, a Lincoln park watchman, a witness of the crash, said he was seated on the grass when he observed the Fuller car speeding down the drive.

"No other car was on the drive to cause him to swerve from side to side," he testified. "He was weaving back and forth and finally crashed into a parked car. I saw one body go hurtling through the air and land against the monument. The Fuller car glanced off the parked car and stopped. I ran over and found a young woman pinned under the car."

Policeman Graf declared the car skidded sixty paces before crashing into the parked machine on the High drive. The latter car was owned by Carl Freiman, 23 years old, 1836 Wabansia avenue, who was selling bait to fishermen in the park. He did not see the crash, but assisted in removing Miss Ryder from the wreckage.

Wife of Lawyer Killed.

Mrs. Cecile Melaniphy, 36 years old, 6804 Crandon avenue, wife of John Melaniphy, a lawyer with offices at 139 North Clark street, was fatally injured in an unusual automobile accident last night. She was riding north in Indiana avenue in a car driven by her husband when at 141st street, Dolton, the door at her right flew open. She fell out on the pavement. She died later in the Roseland Community hospital.

The deaths of Fuller, Mrs. Melaniphy and one other raised the Cook county motor toll to 434 since Jan. 1. The other victim:

Antonia Miccihelazzo, 44 years old, 341 East 117th street, Roseland. Died in St. Francis hospital, Blue Island, of injuries suffered when the truck in which he was riding collided with a car driven by Carroll Nichols, a salesman of Manhattan, Kas., at Vermont street and Ashland avenue, Calumet Park.

Douglas Diamond, 24 years old, of Chicago, a salesman employed by a Dallas shoe firm, died in San Antonio, Tex., yesterday of injuries suffered in an automobile crash near there, according to word received here today. He had been unconscious since Monday night.

James Gibson, 19 years old, of Zion died in St. Mary's hospital at Racine yesterday of injuries suffered when the car in which he was riding crashed into a guard rail near Racine.

Des Plaines Resident Killed.

Benton Harbor, Mich., May 19.—[Special.]—Clifford J. Drake, 57 years old, of Des Plaines, Ill., was killed today when his automobile overturned in Route 12, near Bridgeman. His son, John D. Drake, who was with him, was slightly hurt. Mr. Drake was for 30 years an engineer for the Chicago and North Western railway.

Photodiagram shows how automobile driven by William A. "Billy" Fuller, known for years as a merry leader of society entertainments, crashed into another car early yesterday in Lincoln park and then crashed into Grant's monument, killing Fuller and injuring Miss Betty Ryder, who was his companion. Fuller hit the small car, which was in the spot indicated by the cross, hurling it to the right, and carried on into the monument.

COURTNEY AUTO THEFT CAMPAIGN SHOWS RESULTS

Daily Average in May Drops to 31.

AUTOMOBILE THEFTS.
Automobiles stolen, 33; recovered, 35; stripped, 2. [From police records for the 24 hours ending at midnight, Friday.]

First Assistant State's Attorney Wilbert F. Crowley made a report yesterday to State's Attorney Courtney showing by figures the progress made in the campaign to reduce automobile thefts through concentrated police work, the establishment of the automobile court, and coöperation with the insurance companies.

For the first fifteen days of May the thefts of automobiles averaged 31 daily and the "stripping" of cars averaged 2.3 daily. This compares with a daily average in 1932 of 95 cars stolen and 27 stripped daily.

Decline in Daily Averages.

In 1932 there were 34,789 cars stolen. Mr. Courtney became state's attorney in December, 1932. In 1933 car thefts were reduced to 27,891, or a daily average of 76. For this year the figures given by Mr. Crowley of cars stolen and daily averages, are as follows: January, 1,685, or daily average of 54; February, 1,095, or daily average of 39; March, 1,390, or daily average of 45; April, 1,172, or daily average of 39; first fifteen days of May, 464, or daily average of 31.

| | No. stripped. | Daily averg. |
|---|---|---|
| Last six months of 1932 | 4,803 | 27 |
| Full year of 1933 | 4,169 | 11 |
| January, 1934 | 226 | 7 |
| February, 1934 | 116 | 4 |
| March, 1934 | 135 | 4.3 |
| April, 1934 | 113 | 3.8 |
| Half of May, 1934 | 35 | 2.3 |

157 Arrests in May.

The police assigned to automobile theft cases made 157 arrests during May, Mr. Crowley reported. All prisoners were taken before Judge Joseph A. Graber in the Automobile court. Several rings of car thieves were broken up and prosecution begun of several fences who bought stolen cars from thieves, the report said.

The state's attorney said the campaign has brought reductions in insurance rates, and further reductions are in sight. The drive is to continue, the prosecutor declared.

Washington, May 19.—(AP)—The war department made it possible today for West Point officers and cadets to learn the fine points of bridge from a man straight from "Hoyle."

First Lieut. Alfred M. Gruenther, bridge authority and referee, was ordered today to report for duty at the United States Military academy July 1, at Fort Hoyle, Md.

Jos. A. Struett, former U. S. Attorney, to Open Office

Joseph A. Struett, for more than five years an assistant United States attorney, yesterday announced the opening of offices in the Board of Trade building for the private practice of law.

JOS. A. STRUETT.

Mr. Struett became an assistant federal district attorney under George E. Q. Johnson on Dec. 1, 1928. Among his prosecutions was that of the officials of the H. O. Stone company, regarded as one of the most important mail fraud cases in the history of the prosecutor's office, which resulted in a victory for the government.

"Better THAN YOU CLAIMED"

"Your claims for it were very modest," writes Harold R. Boles of Davenport, Iowa, about his 1934 Pontiac Eight Sedan. "I find that the car more than fulfills all of them—motor smoothness, ease of operation, speed, riding comfort and economy (I am getting 16 miles to the gallon). . . . Considering all of its fine qualities—and price, too—I believe that the 1934 Pontiac is the greatest motor car value of the year." . . . Mr. Boles' letter is but one of hundreds. Read what others say:

". . . I had to take into consideration my family, which is six in number, and find a car which was roomy and comfortable for all . . . We picked Pontiac, and must say that my family and self are very much satisfied."

THE CITY OF SEATTLE
DEPARTMENT OF POLICE
". . . It is the safest car I have ever owned. It handles easier than any other car I know of. The economy of operation of the Pontiac is amazing. I believe it to be the most economical car in its class and I have had much experience with many makes of automobiles . . . the outstanding car in its field in my estimation."
Chief of Police

J. B. OSGOOD COFFEE CO.
WHOLESALE COFFEE AND TEA
KANSAS CITY, MO.
". . . It is the smoothest handling automobile I have ever driven, runs just like a watch and has never given me a minute's trouble. It is almost unbelievable, but I am getting about 18 miles on a gallon of gasoline. If all of your customers are as well pleased with their cars as I am, in a short time traffic will be congested with Pontiacs."

". . . I have had no trouble starting my 1934 Pontiac under any weather conditions, and have never driven a car as easily handled . . . I get more mileage per gallon from this eight-cylinder car than from any six I have ever driven."
Geo. E. DeLong
Circuit Court Clerk.

". . . This is the third Pontiac I have driven and each year it seems to be more satisfying. The new Pontiac is all I can ask for in appearance, ease in steering, pick-up and speed . . . 1934 should be a banner year for Pontiac."

50 Quality Suites-Just in-20 Brand New Styles

Savings up to 60%!!

One of the new suites of the best current models in Walnut. The panels are inlaid with marquetry and the posts finished in ivory. The suite consists of 7 pieces—Dresser, Chest, Bed, Vanity, Toilet Table, Stand, Chair and Bench.

7 Pieces Regularly $500

$250

A very fine interpretation of the Queen Anne period, with highly figured walnut fronts and plain walnut sides. Even at its regular price of $120 for 3 pieces the finish and workmanship make it an unusual value.

3 Pieces

3 pieces: Toilet table, bed and chest above, regularly $120. Chest on chest at left (regularly $68) $33.50. Twin beds and small pieces also available.

These are only two of 50 suites recently purchased by us at almost unbelievable discounts—permitting us to price them even below their actual cost of manufacture. Regularly $175 to $500, we have priced them at $75 to $250.

In keeping with all the other pieces and suites shown on our bedroom floor—and, in fact, throughout the store—the quality is fully up to the Tobey Standards, which have been maintained for 78 years, regardless of our low prices.

ON PREJUDICE AND PERSECUTION.

Prejudice is relatively harmless. Every one, almost, is prejudiced against somebody or some group and few men in the world are not the objects of some one's prejudice. Prejudice is a state of mind. As such, education helps to modify it, but the process is slow. Time and acquaintance also help, but here, too, the process is slow.

Persecution is prejudice in action and is, therefore, a much more serious matter to its victims. It is one thing not to be liked but a very different and much more unpleasant thing to be deprived of life, liberty or property because you are not liked. The victims of prejudice frequently prosper and generally die in bed; the victims of persecution seldom prosper and not infrequently are slaughtered. They have no rights which any one is forced to respect.

Prejudice is the mental habit of an individual which he may or may not share with others. Persecution where it exists is always a policy of government or at least of the ruling class in the government. Every persecution is either the direct act of government (like the slaughter of the Christian martyrs) or has the tacit approval of government (like the pogroms of eastern Europe). It follows that if persecutions are to be avoided governments must be prevented from persecuting.

This seems to have been well understood in the formative period of this country. The fathers erected a democratic government in the belief that democracies are likely to be less oppressive than absolutisms, but did not stop there. The ratification of the constitution itself was made possible only by the addition of the first ten amendments guaranteeing the traditional civil liberties which had been won only after centuries of struggle in England and America. The fifth amendment, guaranteeing the life, liberty and property of every citizen against any vagaries of the new federal government was particularly important in this connection. While the oppression of the Negro continued, with constitutional sanction, until after the civil war, slavery was then forbidden in the thirteenth amendment and state acts discriminating against any citizen or class of citizens were forbidden in the fourteenth.

As all the power of government in this country is exercised by authority of the state or the national government and as the citizen is protected from persecution by either of them, everything that can be done through the fundamental law to prevent the persecution of a citizen or a class of citizens has been done. By and large the constitutional proscriptions have stood until our day as an effective bulwark against racial or religious persecution.

Of late there has been a tendency to reinterpret the constitutional guarantees in the light of what is called the emergency, and the attempts have been sanctioned in part, at least, by the Supreme court. At the same time there has been a concentration of powers in the President such as never before has been permitted in this country in time of peace. Thus at two points the work of the constitution makers is being undermined. The power which might be used to oppress is concentrated in one man's hands where it can be readily wielded and the protections against oppression are being worn away by interpretation.

The first object of attack has been the traditional rights of property. Privacy has been invaded as in the publication of personal incomes and in the seizure of essentially private records. The right to buy and sell freely has been denied. In this connection it is particularly ominous that the control over private contract has been given to the President, who has intrusted it to NRA, which in turn has passed it along to private citizens organized in trade associations. The code authorities take no oath to observe the constitution and are in no sense responsible as government officials for their acts. The code authorities are already accused of oppressing the class of small merchants and manufacturers, and not without reason, but if there is any effective recourse against this form of persecution it has not yet been disclosed.

The new powers are being exerted also to oppress racial groups. The Negroes have been especially victimized. Under NRA many of them find themselves obliged to become trade union members if they are to obtain employment, but many of the trade unions exclude Negroes and there seem to be no means of compelling a trade union to accept classes of members it does not care to admit. Discrimination by the trade unions and employers against Negroes is nothing new, but the marshaling of the full power of the United States government to enforce such discriminations is new. The operations of the AAA in the cotton belt have produced a strikingly similar result. AAA has created, in violation of the spirit and letter of the constitution, a favored class of farm owners. The crop reduction schemes all are calculated to operate to the benefit of the owner and in many instances to the disadvantage of the renter and laborer. In vast sections of the south the renters and laborers are Negroes. Under AAA and the beneficent Bankhead bill the government of the United States will drive thousands of these unfortunates off the land. The discrimination against these Negroes is as plain and as remorseless, though unstated, as is the frank discrimination of the bolsheviks against the kulaks.

As these few illustrations suggest, the new tendencies in government are particularly ominous because they show how discriminations can be imposed by the government without their being explicitly stated in any law or regulation. When it is remembered that there are no sharp distinctions to be drawn between the enjoyment of life, the enjoyment of liberty, and the enjoyment of property, the menace of the new theory becomes even plainer. These enjoyments merge into one another, as the dispossessed Negro tenants can readily testify.

There is no reason to think that the men now in power in Washington have deliberately sought to persecute men because of their racial origins or that there is any purpose to lay the groundwork for persecutions in the future. Nevertheless, the citizen would be shortsighted, indeed, who overlooked the fact that in spite of their presumed tolerance the men now in Washington have unwittingly engaged in racial persecution. Moreover, the men now in office will have successors who, if they are so minded, may use the new powers with the deliberate purpose of venting their religious and racial prejudices. The consequences may not be pleasant to contemplate.

Prejudice, as has been said before, is endemic. There can be no certainty that a man in office will be free of all prejudice; the probability, indeed, is in the other direction. If prejudice is not to be converted into persecution the separation of the powers of government must be preserved and the power of government to interfere in the lives of men must be inflexibly restricted.

It is said, falsely and upon wholly inadequate evidence, as we believe, that there can be no recovery from the economic depression without an extraordinary concentration of extraordinary powers in Washington. Even if this were true, the American people is asked to pay a price which is out of all proportion to the value of the thing to be obtained. What price recovery if it invites a reversion to medieval persecutions of individuals, social classes, and religious fellowships!

CAST ON A DISMAL ILAND.

Sometimes THE TRIBUNE views certain aspects of its new deal in spelling with doubt if not dismay, just as that other distinguished New Dealer, Gen. Johnson, the Big Blue Eagle, looks at his centipede, the NRA, and wonders if it ever will be possible to get all its legs going in one direction at once and where it would get if it tried to go one place at a time.

Nothing in THE TRIBUNE'S new spelling deal looks more like something the cat might have brought in than "iland." You may have your own pet aversion in the revised list. "Iland" is THE TRIBUNE'S. Why, then, you say, keep on doing it? That's the worst of a new deal. You start out with catalog and go on to staf and then you are at iland, lost on an uninhabited iland.

Words often contain pictures. They mean pictures. They are not merely so many letters logically arranged and phonetically true, but they are pictures of things. "Island" is the picture of a body of land surrounded by water. It should have some palm trees on it. It may have Robinson Crusoe on it. He'd never get off an iland. There is no such picture in iland. Iland is an animal, a strange one, but somehow related to an eland. The picture in iland is that of a head with horns and distended nostrils arising from the water. It is swimming desperately and may make land, but it is being chased by simplified spellers. They want its antlers, a distressing sight.

THE TRIBUNE'S only consolation is that its own new dealing with the alphabet will be easier to bear in the long run than the alphabetical new dealing in Washington.

STUDENT STRIKERS.

The student strike has more of a foreign than an American vogue, although public school pupils sometimes take it as a means of playing mass hookey. A distinction must be made between students who are supposed to be getting an education because they want it and intend to use it for their personal advancement and satisfaction and pupils who are supposed to be getting it in spite of themselves and their real instincts and because the state requires it of them and of their parents. Strikes by the youngsters are means of getting vacations, but strikes by college students could be accepted reasonably as retirement from the school, voluntary on the part of the students and satisfactory to the school authorities.

The majority of successful schools have a problem of limiting and not of stimulating matriculation. The student who would strike would walk out on privileges conceived as entirely for his own good. He would strike against himself. An oddity would be a university without any students. It might be highly successful, freeing the faculty from student irritations and the young people from professorial excitements, an escape profitable on both sides. To attempt to break a student strike would be about as unreasonable as to send the troops into the Tennessee valley to force the TVA's wards to accept federal doles, dams, and electric hair curlers.

THE RELIEF PICTURE.

[Grand Rapids Press.]

Predictions by Harry L. Hopkins, federal relief administrator, that "thousands will swell the relief rolls again next winter," is a sharp reminder that the depression is not yet over. It will not be over as long as this critical relief problem remains.

A startling phase of the relief situation was revealed the other day when it was noted that the number of persons on relief April 1 this year was greater than the number on relief at the same time last year, although business has improved vastly from the spring of 1933 to the present.

The reason for this is that families more and more are reaching the end of their resources. Many who were able to struggle along through two, three, and even four years of adversity have come to the end of their savings. An army of young men also has been entering the employment field annually, many of them unable to find jobs, while those who do find work often close the doors of reëmployment for veteran workers. These and many other factors account for the fact that federal relief rolls carried 200,000 more persons than a year ago.

Without question the biggest task before Uncle Sam is the care of this unfortunate army. Side by side with this the effort to revive employment facilities must be carried on. But in view of past experience there is a question as to how employment may best be stimulated. Direct action a-plenty has been tried, with some favorable results, but with not enough. Now, is it not time to see what business and industry can do by itself? Is it not time that the hand of federal restriction be lifted to an extent that will permit private initiative to reassert itself?

One thing seems certain. The burden of federal relief will never be lifted as long as enterprise is strangled by overzealous regulations which go far beyond the point of reform. It's time for a little "liberalism" in the other direction.

OUR CEREBRAL OLIGARCHY

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

(First Article.)

People who speak a common language are dominated by common ideas.

French, for example, not only is a medium of understanding between Frenchmen; it is also a specially developed vehicle for transmission of ideas peculiar to the people of France. This is one important reason why France is such a highly consolidated national unit. The French academy, authoritative congress which fixes the language, is a no less essential factor in national defense than a fortified frontier.

But with the growth of professions each national tongue, particularly English, came to be composed of many languages. Each profession has its own phraseology. Thus we have the languages of law, science, medicine, and religion. Language variations tend to make all things strange to him who strays from his own bailiwic. Language barriers must remain distinct or else a stately aile might become a paddock or an embolism a common blood clot.

But this situation is now undergoing rapid change. Revolutionary movements, beginning quietly about twenty years ago in social institutions of the country, are gradually breaking down not only professional integrities but also professional languages which demark them. These social institutions are made up of agencies of religion, education, public health, social welfare, arts and sciences, and large philanthropic foundations.

While language barriers are being razed or overridden a new jargon is evolving. As barriers are lowered older ideologies break down. Internationalisms emerge. Churches and clergy speak of high crisis, universities of mergers, politics of brain trusts, and industries of impending chaos.

This new jargon is the language of the social sciences. It is gradually filtering down from the researcher's cell to the curbstone.

"Our case worker said——" is a phrase frequently spoken by unemployed and destitute. Formerly these persons spoke the language of a religious group with the pastor quoted. But pastors are decreasingly quoted today, at least in acute human matters. Their professional phraseology, if not actually heard with reluctance, is at any rate largely shorn of meaning. Furthermore, the masses are mastering the vocabulary of modern scientific empiricism quite as readily as formerly they learned the language of their religion.

The technique of the new revolutionaries is not founded in plots, intrigue, and subversive acts. They are a patient folk, mild mannered and thoughtful, sacrificially and passionately devoted to human welfare. The beatitudes define them, perhaps, as the "meek," and the means to their inheritance is simple: Control the way in which people think and no modern Babel, no confusion of tongues, will be able to check the revolutionary processes which are bound to ensue. Establish a common pattern of thinking and in a given situation a person, a group, or a nation will react under predictable control.

Grant a thoroughgoing Calvinist his premises and his conclusion is sure and predictably controled whether he speaks French or Scottish; give a Jesuit his situation and his reaction will be the same whether his speech is Chinese or Italian. Thoroughly inculcated thought patterns are invincible in molding groups or nations.

Such control of thought pattern of a people is the steel in the fabric which alone can uphold a national dictatorship, whether by way of example Calvin's Geneva is cited or Mussolini's Italy.

This standardization of thought is today only at the point of emergence in America, yet it has already rendered obsolescent the older sanctions of religion and disciplines of politics. With older compulsions declining, changes of great import are bound to occur.

When cause of these changes is discerned then predictions as to the future form of American statehood may be made with reduced hazard.

Symptoms of rapid change are appearing in the tensions felt in various areas. These tensions are of a new type in social history and they are replacing older tensions, such as, for instance, those which marked politics in the democracy founded on Jeffersonian canons. Today, tension in government is between forces; on the one hand, those which affirm government should be a well managed servant; on the other, those which declare government to be master.

In religion new tensions are acute. "Revealed religion" is at death grips with the scientific method. Foreign missions are in mortal struggle with American philanthropic foundations for control of welfare work in foreign fields. The question is: Shall the motive behind the missions' enterprise be theological or humane? If the latter, then with their huge resources the foundations probably would be capable of the better job. More closely related to secular and religious missions than casual observers suspect are propaganda of internationalisms, socialisms and economic unities.

In the field of higher education—probably the key to the entire situation—the struggle is between the student and the science. Which shall be primary? Shall the student become a laboratory test tube, classed with other experimental material, or shall the system be designed, first of all, as the student's servant? Tension is notably marked in schools of medicine and education.

Each of these tensions, and many more which could be cited, can be traced to the influence of the tremendously developed and highly integrated social institutions of the country. Without doubt these institutions now exert the strongest force in public thought.

It is probable that no more significant money was spent in 1933 than the $69,500,000 expended by philanthropic foundations. Some of the meaning of 1934, and particularly 1935, expenditures will not be hard to suspect. Such expenditures bring both direct and indirect influences to bear on the way social institutions plan their vast spendings. These institutions expended, under conservative estimates, more than two and one-half billion dollars in 1933. Their capital assets are now in excess of sixteen billion dollars, free of all federal taxation, and partially so of state and other general taxes.

But what is less known than their vast material wealth and far flung activities is the fact, in the large view, that during the last few years American social institutions have become very much a single fabric, a whole piece of cloth. Ideas developed throughout the entire scope of their work have been well organized in their evolution until today there is a striking unanimity in a way of thinking among their leaders.

Thought patterns among these leaders are resolutely and predictably controled, not so much by coercive forces always at work in the world of affairs but by a really more invincible force—the force of a common evolution in thought arising from a common belief in the rational and scientific method.

The personnel of social institutions has almost completely discarded dependence upon journalistic and partisan methods of dissemination of information and current thought. The growing and placid disregard for party lines now observed among many former partisan leaders has produced among the public an increasing lack of confidence in existing channels of information.

Social institutions now possess well developed methods and materials for securing desired facts. By working with such facts under similar methods their leaders, though widely separated in activity from each other, arrive at almost identical conclusions.

The scientific method out of which the power of social institutions flows is, basically, extremely simple—experimentation. Ascertain the facts and act in accord with factual observation. Of course, mistakes are made. But even in mistakes there is undeniable power because a highly perfected technique of salvage has been introduced. This technique, together with an objective method of detecting errors, provides an almost self-rectifying course of action.

Social institutions are now realizing their power and are constantly finding more effective ways to influence public opinion, chiefly through gradual inculcation of a common way of thinking. However, any view of this new power which would ascribe it all or in major part to method would fail to appraise its full might. The sheer weight of material resources and far flung activities must also be taken into account when the power of these institutions is considered.

In the social institutional control over the public mind is to be seen the first glimpse of an emerging and planned order of society.

ASTHMA IN CHILDREN.

DR. R. A. COOK contributes an article on asthma in children in which are found a great many facts and opinions that are of interest and can be made of value to those who have this disagreeable, inconvenient, unpleasant but not dangerous disease. About one-fortieth of the total population is asthmatic. The subject is of interest to no small group of people, say about three million, not including parents and friends.

When both parents are asthmatic the chances are three to one the children will develop the same disorder. Or, to put it differently, if in a given family of four children both parents are asthmatic three of the four will become asthmatics of some type. Furthermore, two of the three will be asthmatic before they are ten years of age. If only one parent has a disorder of the asthma group only two of the children will have the tendency, and, on the average, less than one will develop the disorder before reaching ten years of age. The background of inheritance is strong in asthma, hay fever, and hives.

Of the young children with bronchial asthma nine out of ten will be over the trouble when they reach ten years of age. The tendency is toward spontaneous cure.

Sixty-five per cent of asthma in children is the result of sensitization to foods. In most cases the child is born thus sensitized. The tendency of children to get over their congenital sensitization to certain foods is plainly in evidence at three years of age. At five years of age a considerable number of the children of this group are over their food sensitization and the asthmas which come from it.

The asthmas which begin after this age are increasingly due to other causes than food sensitizations. In adults a case of food asthma is rare. Asthmatic children instinctively avoid the foods which cause asthmatic attacks. As a rule it is advisable to let such a child pick his own foods within limits and not to urge on him those that he tries to avoid.

Many asthmas are of the infective type. They are very apt to be associated with chronic bronchitis. Infective asthma in children is quite likely to follow attacks of measles, sore throat, pneumonia, and bronchial attacks. In such cases in children the tonsils and adenoids are apt to be involved, and when that is the case appropriate operations benefit the asthma and often cure it. As a rule, however, infective asthma does not begin until after thirty years of age, and it is generally associated with chronic bronchitis and goes by the name bronchial asthma.

When a person has been cured of an attack of asthma by overcoming sensitization to a given direct cause and by long avoidance of exposure a later exposure is not very liable to cause a relapse. However, asthmas due to exposure to sulphurous acid gas and to incense are exceptions to this rule. Among the prominent methods of exposure to sulphurous acid fumes is by breathing smoke from highly sulphured soft coals.

There are many air borne causes of asthma, especially in adults. This cause begins to be noted in children of about three years and increases as age goes on until beyond middle life. Of the causes in this group house dust leads all the rest and dandruff from animals vies with pollens for second place.

HARM IS CERTAIN.

A. M. J. writes: I know a woman who suffers from terrific headaches until she resorts to pain tablets for relief. These spells come on if she is crossed in anything, or from too much excitement. Her husband has never told me what she takes but declares that these tablets do not contain dope and are harmless, but he did admit that they were very powerful. Aren't all pain tablets used as this woman is using them in a sense dope? She is extremely fractious and suspicious and demands her own way in almost demonic fashion, exercising a subtle moral and intellectual power over others.

REPLY.

Whether such medicines are to be called dope depends on the sense in which the word is used. There is also some disagreement as to whether such remedies cause addictions when they contain no opiate or opiate derivatives. But here again the quarrel is principally over the meaning of the word. That such remedies do harm is certain, even though they contain no opium or derivative. Change for the worse in personality and behavior is one of the harmful effects.

LIMIT QUANTITY.

Mrs. A. B. writes: When I drink milk for about two weeks, my body breaks out with a rash. I drink a pint a day. Once before when I started to drink milk the same thing happened. I do not eat any meat but live on fruits and vegetables. I eat no starches and no whole wheat bread. I hope you can advise me why my body breaks out after drinking milk.

REPLY.

You appear to be sensitized to milk. You are not highly sensitized, since your trouble does not develop until you have eaten a pint of milk daily for two weeks. You should escape the trouble if you limit your allowance of milk to, say, half the quantity now used.

FROM ACROSS THE SEA

BY DONALD DAY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WARSAW, Poland. — Ambassador William C. Bullitt's negotiations with the soviet ministry of finance concerning a special exchange rate for the dollars of members of the American diplomatic staf in Russia are still proceeding. Even so, there is little hope of the Moscow government making this special concession to the Americans, according to a diplomat who has just arrived from Moscow.

He reports that Mr. Bullitt's colleagues are closely following his efforts to obtain more than the legal rate of exchange which is now one ruble thirteen kopeks to the dollar. Should the Americans obtain more rubles for their money this diplomat predicts that every foreign representation in Moscow will make a similar request. Nevertheless, the exchange rates of the soviet state bank remain pegged and the Kremlin still considers the ruble as a "gold currency."

Illegal trafic in foreign currency has increased considerably in Moscow during the last six months, he confirms. He mentioned that, although the government has conducted a drive against speculators and recently sentenced 83 men to various terms in the Solovetzski iland prison in the White sea, speculators still are offering high rates to foreigners for their cash.

The dollar today is unofficially quoted in Moscow at fifty rubles. The money obtained by speculators is resold to persons desiring to purchase food and clothing at special soviet stores. These shops have a large variety of goods in stock which are sold only for foreign valuta or gold.

An American who arrived in Warsaw from Russia and whose name is withheld because of possible diplomatic repercussions, reported that Mr. Bullitt has borrowed a quantity of rubles from the state bank and loaned them to his staf. The ambassador, the American said, told members of his staf that he would attempt to obtain a special exchange rate for them.

"Mr. Bullitt has made no secret of this action and he has also forbidden members of his staf to sell their dollars to speculators or to follow the example of other diplomats and import rubles from abroad," this man said. "Although the American diplomatic representatives in Moscow are paying dollars for their quarters, meals, theater tickets, and can satisfy most of their needs at the state valuta stores, still a large amount of rubles are required for miscellaneous expenses.

"Transportation in Moscow is a problem for the city is large and it is difficult to board a street car. A short ride in a cab costs from ten to thirty rubles. And if the Americans are obliged to repay the loan arranged by Mr. Bullitt at the normal rate of exchange some of them will be out more than a month's pay. However, it will be a simple matter to sell a few dollars on the black exchange and obtain sufficient rubles to get them out of debt. That is, if Mr. Bullitt permits them to do as other diplomats are doing."

The new building, which the soviet government has promised the Americans for their offices and quarters, is being put into shape slowly. It is doubted if the new embassy will be functioning smoothly on July 1 when the state department plans to discontinue the Russian activities of the American legation in Riga.

A number of specially trained attachés, clerks, and translators, some of whom have been preparing reports of conditions in Russia for twelve years, face discharge because of Mr. Bullitt's ruling that only native born Americans shall be members of his staf.

At the present time the staf is housed in one of the five hotels which the soviet government has available for foreign visitors. These temporary quarters, it is reported, cost the state department $4,000 a month. The original price demanded by the soviet foreign office was $8,000 a month. The amount of rent which the Russians are demanding for quarters in the new building now being completed has not been made public.

OWNER UNKNOWN.

Chicago, May 11.—[Friend of the People.]—At the corner of Blackstone avenue and 76th street there is the shell of a large apartment building, construction having been stopped just after walls, roof, and superstructure were completed. Can any legal means be employed to have the owner securely wall up the doorways and window casings so that we, together with other residents, will not have to worry about some one robbing or molesting us? A. W. A.

The building in question is one of many in the city that were left unfinished because of financial difficulties of the builders. The building is not structurally unsafe, but being open is a rendezvous for undesirables. We have been unable to find the owner or any one responsible, but will continue the search and also refer the matter to the police for their attention. JOHN E. ERICSSON, Commissioner of Buildings.

DIAGRAM NEEDED.

Chicago, May 9.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—We live next to a side alley in the northwest district. This alley is rarely used. Between the sidewalk and rocks [about three feet from the sidewalk on the side of the house and used to brighten up the alley] is a bare space where we would like to plant a pear and another tree. Is this permissible? Where may we obtain permission to plant the trees? They will not be in any one's way and will improve the appearance of the alley. M. V. J.

A diagram would help to make your facts more clear. If the space in question is within a private property owner's lot lines you should secure the consent of such owner.

BANK STOCKHOLDER.

Chicago, May 9.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—The following is from a recent issue of your column: "Inasmuch as I sold my bank stock more than three years prior to the closing of the bank, is it possible that I can be held liable in this case?" Your answer was "yes." The answer, according to my attorney, is: "No, unless it can be and is proved that in the three years previous, when you sold your stock, the bank was insolvent. Ordinarily, this would be an impossible task to prove [even if so] and, probably, bank examinations and reports will show that the bank was not insolvent. It would be unusual for a bank to be insolvent for three years prior to its closing." He also added: "A man cannot be held liable for debts he never owed directly or indirectly. And, if this bank was solvent when he disposed of his stock, more than three years previously, he is not liable." Who is right? A. R.

In Sanders vs. Merchants Bank, 349 Ill. 547, it was held that the successive owners of the same shares of stock may be held liable to the amount of the par value of these shares for debts accruing during the respective periods of ownership of such successive owners.

Section 6 of the Illinois banking act provides that every stockholder shall be liable "to an amount equal to his or her respective shares so held for all its liabilities accruing while he or she remains such stockholder." There is no mention of insolvency.

Either your attorney has not read the statutes and the case that we cited or you have misquoted him, or he is discussing some other jurisdiction than Illinois.

MORE REFLECTIONS ON SPEED.

Winnetka, Ill., May 11.—The "Reflections on Speed" by your contributor, Edward Murray, reflect perfectly the attitude of many people of a hundred years ago toward the building of railroads, the introduction of the reaper, the sewing machine, and similar inventions. They argued that the canal boats and stage coaches afforded transportation for men and materials at as high a rate of speed as any one should wish—that a train traveling at the frightful speed of 15 miles per hour was dangerous, destructive, and altogether silly.

But the railroads came and increased their speeds, and the dire predictions of the opponents of progress failed to come true. Instead of fewer hotels, as Mr. Murray predicts higher speeds will bring, higher traveling speeds actually brought more and larger hotels into existence. Instead of the more efficient equipment producing unemployment, it greatly increased employment.

Mr. Murray, like the technocrats, can see only the jobs that are eliminated by so-called labor saving equipment; he does not see the far greater number of jobs such equipment creates.

Two of the many facts which can be cited to prove that machinery is not a cause of unemployment are these: First, there were numerous depressions and widespread unemployment in this and other countries before machinery was in general use, and unemployment has been more common and persistent in countries using hand methods than in countries using a large amount of machinery.

Second, the United States, which for years has employed more labor saving equipment than all other countries combined, has not only kept its own population employed most of the time but has furnished jobs to millions of immigrants who have come here from countries which did not use such equipment and yet had no employment for them.

If the net result of machinery were to decrease employment we should have had people leaving this country to hunt jobs in countries where hand methods were employed. Yet this never occurred and millions did come here and found jobs.

Too many people are entirely uninformed regarding the amount of employment which the production of machinery creates. They appear to be under the impression that such equipment falls from the skies like manna. The fact is, however, that approximately half of our industrial workers are engaged, in normal times, in the production of so-called capital goods, mostly machinery. And by far the largest part of our unemployed at present are among these workers who should be producing newer and better equipment to replace the old now in use by our railroads, mines, factories, and farms.

Yet the jobs created in building, selling, servicing, and operating machinery are only part of the employment machines create.

For example, Mr. Murray might find it profitable to reflect on the fact that only when farmers use machines instead of hand methods can they produce sufficient crops above their own needs to ship from the farm in exchange for manufactured goods which must be shipped from the cities. When they do use equipment which speeds up their rate of work, grain elevators must be built and operated, railroads and rolling equipment must be constructed and manned, huge terminal elevators, flour mills, starch factories, bakeries, cereal plants, delivery routes, and many other establishments must be built, equipped, and manned, giving thousands of people jobs.

Probably Mr. Murray never reflected that the men who drive bakery trucks, the men who built them, the men who produce and sell gas for them, the men who built the bread boxes in front of every country store and restaurant, and thousands of other people far removed from farms actually have their jobs only because farmers do use machines.

ARNOLD P. YERKES.

THE FORGOTTEN WOMAN.

Chicago, May 14.—The reading of a communication, "The Idle Rich," recently in the Voice of the People started a train of thought. Some folks by dint of hard work and the exercise of brain power manage to accumulate enough so that they can lie on the sand at the seaside. However, when we see the Idle Poor, clad in beach pajamas and carrying well filled picnic baskets passing by every day to spend their leisure time at the beach we hard working housewives who slave every day in order to pay our taxes are considerably puzzled.

It seems to us that poverty is made altogether too comfortable in many cases. Unemployment, under present conditions, is made so attractive that inevitably the number who clamor for easy money and easy living without effort, is certain to increase.

The Idle Poor seem to be enjoying themselves in about the same way as do the Idle Rich. The latter, however, support themselves. The taxpayer struggles mightily in order to keep the former in comfort and idleness. The pity of it is so many of them are perfectly content—thoroughly satisfied to allow us who cannot afford beach pajamas or a day off at the beach to maintain them in such ease and plenty as we cannot afford for ourselves. A TAXPAYER.

REFLECTIONS OF A TAGGER.

Chicago, May 14.—As a tagger who spent several hours on the corner last tag day I would like to make a plea for the education of the public on the subject of worthwhile charities. The public should understand that every penny of tag day funds goes directly to the institution which each tagger represents, and this with no expense except the cost of boxes and tags. The people are so very wise and so very dumb. Having heard of the Mississippi flood scandal and other similar misappropriations, they are skeptical and will not take the trouble to know the facts. They step up with a dime and get a tag as a protection from the girl on the next corner, not to help a just cause.

As a member of the executive board of one of these institutions I know how difficult the last few years have been. A generous public on tag day means fewer bazars, public card parties, and food sales, and in the long run fewer gray hairs.

If the people who could easily afford to would be generous on tag days we wouldn't find it necessary to ask for additional donations. L. E. H.

ADMITS $35,000 GEM THEFT PLOT FOR INSURANCE

Salesman Confesses to Frameup; Names 3.

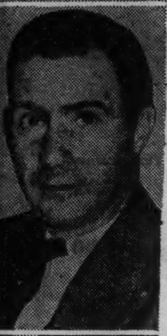
Ernest H. Porter, a jewelry salesman, who rushed to the police last Thursday with a report he had been robbed of $35,000 worth of diamonds, broke down under questioning at the detective bureau last night and confessed the alleged theft was a frameup designed to obtain insurance on the gems. He named two other men as conspirators in the plot and a third man who had tried to hire him to execute a similar fake theft in Milwaukee. The other men were seized by police, but they denied any connection with Porter in the affair.



ERNEST H. PORTER.

Admits to Frameup.

Under questioning by Sergt. Thomas Alcock and Assistant State's Attorney Charles Dougherty, Porter admitted his previous story of the jewels having been taken by a thief who switched brief cases with him in a café at 23 East Adams street was pure fiction. He asserted he had been paid $5,500 to put the deal over successfully.

Porter confessed, according to the police, he had been employed in the fake theft by Louis Silver, 40 years old, 5305 Woodlawn avenue, and Philip Goldberg, 46 years old, 7843 Colfax avenue, co-owners of a jewelry store at 31 North State street. Porter had been a salesman for the jewelry concern.

Jewelers Are Named.

He named Joseph Goldman, 35 years old, a New York jewelry salesman, as the man who took the diamonds by substituting a brief case containing three copies of a New York newspaper for the one containing the gems. The diamonds, which he said were heavily insured, belonged to Silver and Goldberg, the police were told.

Goldman and the jewels are still being sought, but Silver and Goldberg were arrested. Also seized was Harry Kaplan, 45 years old, 444 Melrose street, who has a jewelry office in the quarters occupied by Silver and Goldberg. Kaplan emphatically denied the accusation he had suggested that Porter try the fake theft in Milwaukee.

VOLIVA IS BEATEN AGAIN IN ZION SCHOOL ELECTION

Wilbur Glenn Voliva, self-styled two-gun boss of Zion City, yesterday lost two elections in the community's school fight. Voliva opposed the increasing of the school tax levy, but the voters yesterday hiked it from 82 cents to $2 per $100 of assessed valuation. Voliva also fought the election of a new high school board, but the members, all five of them, were named by a sizable vote.

Voliva commiserated himself last night by declaring that the citizenry voted against his wishes because they were misinformed.

The elections were called after Voliva closed his parochial school when he lost control of the public school board in an election April 14. The increased taxes are to finance the added burden of caring for former Voliva students and the new high school board is to take steps to provide a high school to replace the one Voliva closed. The new board consists of John D. Thomas, L. Eric Carey, Homer Ingram, and Mrs. Marguerite Purcell, representing Zion township, and Bernadine Knight of Winthrop Harbor, representing Benton township.

Voliva last night declared that the board election is illegal and that he will institute quo warranto proceedings to have it declared so.

Duke Heiress Is 21; No Longer Has a Guardian

Somerville, N. J., May 19.—(AP)—Doris Duke, one of America's wealthiest women, no longer has a legal guardian. Her mother, Mrs. Nanaline Duke, was discharged from that rôle yesterday in Orphans' court. Miss Duke reached her 21st birthday on Nov. 22, 1933.

BOY, 3, DIES OF BURNS.

Robert O'Hare, 3 years old, died at the county hospital yesterday of an infection which resulted from burns he received two weeks ago in a bonfire near his home at 1145 South Austin boulevard.

CONVICTS YIELD CONTRABAND AS SEARCH BEGINS

Contraband articles showered down the ventilator ducts of the Stateville penitentiary yesterday as guards began a systematic search of all cells. The investigation followed the discovery of two hacksaw blades, buried, wrapped in paper, and greased with butter, in the prison yard by Eugene Kennedy, night captain.

When the prisoners became aware of the search, authorities said, they tossed all prohibited articles into the ventilator shafts, which are in every cell. Guards waited in the basement of the building and seized a number of knives, small stoves, and other banned articles as they came clattering down the shafts.

The stoves are fashioned from copper cans which the prisoners fill with gasoline and in which they place a wick. Over these they can cook in their cells, a forbidden practice.

KEEP TWO WOMEN INCOMMUNICADO IN GETTLE KIDNAPING

Los Angeles, Cal., May 19.—(AP)—To keep them from receiving possible communications from the underworld, Mona Gallighen and Loretta Woody, companions of the convicted kidnapers of William F. Gettle, were ordered into separate cells today and held incommunicado.

The two women were indicted in connection with sending the $60,000 ransom notes in the case, on which the confessed abductors, James F. Kirk, Ray Williams, and Loren W. Feltus, were indicted last Wednesday, before they were taken to San Quentin prison to begin life terms for the actual kidnaping.

RUSH CONTINUES TO GET TRIBUNE FREE BICYCLES

Staf Stays Late to File Many Orders.

BY KATHERINE KELLEY.

A staf of workers remained on duty in THE TRIBUNE's circulation department late yesterday to file subscription coupons and hasten the delivery of free bicycles to boys and girls and men and women who obtained subscriptions for THE TRIBUNE.

Although the constant stream, mostly of youngsters to claim their bicycles, gave the impression that the 5,000 bicycles wouldn't last long, executives of the department explained that it is not too late to earn a bicycle. In fact, it was said, if the present supply runs out there will be others provided for all who get subscriptions for THE TRIBUNE.

His First Bicycle.

Yesterday among the boys who left Tribune Tower with their new bikes was Herbert Kazmer, 15 years old, a sophomore of the Foreman High school, who had never owned one before. With Robert Smith, 10 years old, a fifth grade pupil in Our Lady of Help of Christians schools, Herbert was ushered to the mailing room, where a shiny red bicycle, metal trimmed, awaited an owner. He gave one look at it and breathed: "Oh, boy!"

Then words failed him. He stroked the metal trimmings fondly, then looked up at the circulation employé with a grin. "It's okay!" he said. Then he set to trying out the height of the handle bars and the seat, standing by in a businesslike manner while adjustments were made.

"It took me only three days to earn it, and it wasn't at all hard to get my twelve subscriptions," he volunteered. "I worked after school, mostly in my neighborhood. Now I'm going to ride it home—that's at 2906 North Keating avenue—4800 west, but it'll be one keen ride."

Does Job in Two Days.

Meanwhile Robert was making ready to depart with his bicycle, which he expected to ride to his home at 811 North Leclaire avenue, a good 53 blocks west. "I got my subscriptions in two days," he said. "A couple were in River Forest, but the rest were right around home. I hardly had time to go home for supper, but it was worth it, and really lots of fun."

"Good luck, boys," from the circulation employé, as the two boys wheeled their bikes into the freight elevator. "Thanks," they chorused, smiling broadly, as the elevator shot down.

Twelve acceptable subscriptions are all that are needed. The bicycles are the latest model, with coaster brake, Torrington pedals, chromium handle bars, claxon, and headlight. The boys' wheels are red trimmed and the girls' blue.

UNVEIL BRONZE BUSTS OF FOUR AMERICAN ARTISTS IN NEW YORK

New York, May 19.—(AP)—Four American artists were honored by New York university today with the unveiling of their busts in the hall of American artists.

The bronze busts, made from life by Albin Polasek of Chicago, were of Francis Davis Millet, mural painter; Charles Grafly, sculptor; Elihu Vedder and Charles Webster Hawthorne, painters.

GIRL, 4, MISSING 4 DAYS MOTHER BLAMES 'REVENGE'

MOOSEHORN, Man., May 19.—(AP)—Revenge was given by Mrs. Carl Wolfrum today as the probable motive for the supposed kidnaping Tuesday of her 4 year old daughter, Betty. Several score searchers continued their hunt for the child.

Three days of intensive search of bush and swamp surrounding this settlement, 120 miles north of Winnipeg, failed to reveal a trace of the little girl.

Mrs. Wolfrum told of a long standing feud between her family and unnamed persons. Her daughters have been threatened and her husband shot at, she claims. She said she felt certain the child had been kidnaped.

France Sentences Italian Spy to 2 Years in Prison

TOULON, France, May 19.—(AP)—Angelo Facincani, an Italian, was convicted here today on an espionage charge and sentenced to two years in prison. He was arrested on May 7 and was said by police to have admitted being a spy but to have denied that he was ever able to find any secrets to sell.

Louisville High School Paper Wins First Place

Atlanta, Ga., May 19.—(AP)—Brook 'n' Breck, published by students at Male High school, Louisville, Ky., won first place among schools with more than 1,500 students in the annual contest to determine the best high school newspapers published in the southeastern states.

STATE CAN'T GET DEATH JURY, SO AGREES TO LIFE

Denton, Tex., May 19.—(AP)—Raymond Hamilton, bank robber and former pal of Clyde Barrow, Texas desperado, defeated again today the state's effort to send him to the electric chair for robbery with firearms.

Prosecutors struggled in vain to obtain a jury willing to sentence him to death for his admitted robbery of the First National bank of Lewisville. After 109 veniremen had been questioned and only one juror accepted the state agreed to withdraw its demand for the death penalty if Hamilton would plead guilty and accept a life term in prison.

Hamilton, to whom another life sentence means virtually nothing, was more than willing. The agreement was explained to veniremen and the jury was quickly completed. He already is under penitentiary sentences totaling 263 years for robberies and a murder and has a prison escape on his record.

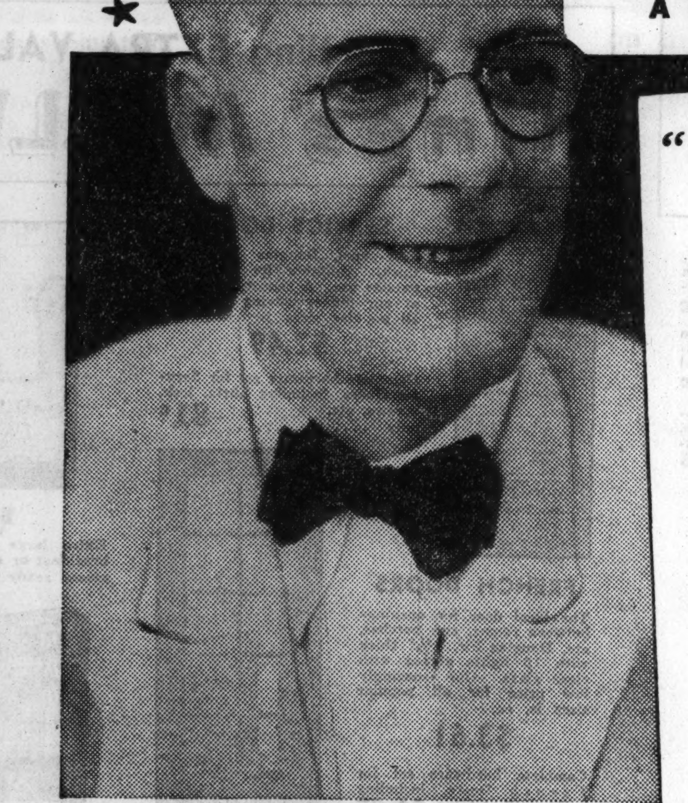
★ A CERTIFIED INTERVIEW WITH CONSTRUCTION ENGINEER FRANK VIOLETTE, PANAMA CANAL ZONE ★ ★



1 "Ten years in Panama taught me to take precautions many people overlook. It's a wild country, all right. You have to be prepared for all sorts of emergencies. That's why I wanted an extra tough car."

"We punish cars down here. But let me tell you how my Plymouth takes it in this tough spot"

FRANK VIOLETTE is a modest man. He talks very little about his supervising millions of dollars' worth of Panama's construction. But ask him about cars . . .

"Up in the States, you test cars in man-made sand pits," he told us. "In the Canal Zone, our everyday driving soon proves how well a car takes punishment. I've found that of all the low-priced cars, Plymouth stands up best."

And Mr. Violette isn't surprised that Plymouth proved to be the strongest. As an engineer, he knows that steel reinforced with steel is the safest form of construction you can have.

"I've given my Plymouth some terrific beatings," he says. "But its Safety-Steel Body is still just as quiet and tight as the day it left the factory."

Some people who read this story will stop right here. They are the people who think that a Safety-Steel Body isn't at all necessary for ordinary driving.

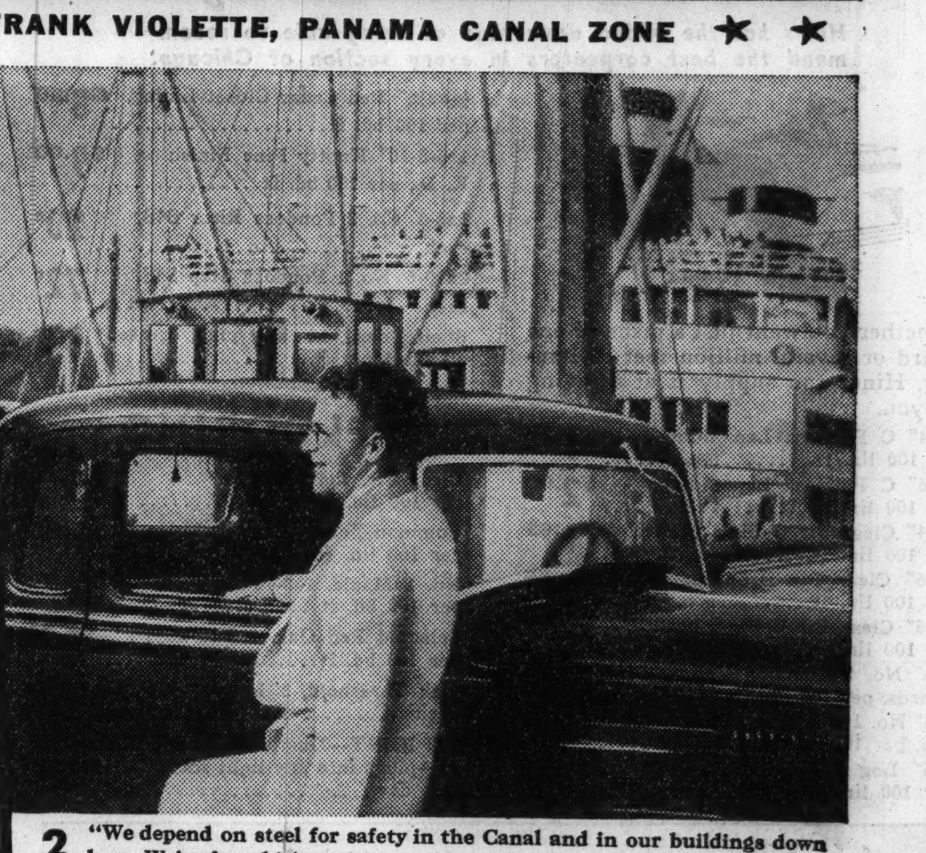
It isn't . . . all of the time. But nobody can forever trust the "other fellow's" driving. That's why Plymouth engineers built extra safety into Plymouth . . . why they also equipped it with the safest kind of brakes . . . the Hydraulic Brakes you'll find on trucks and taxis.

It takes Plymouth to give you complete protection in every driving emergency. And it takes Plymouth, too, to give you complete comfort under all possible driving conditions.

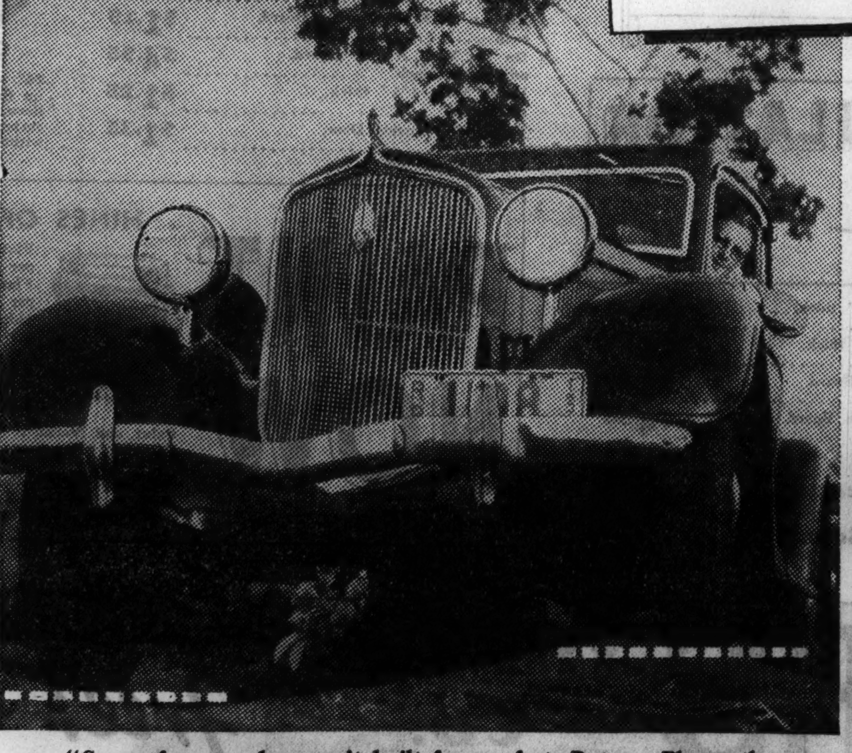
Even at the highest speeds, its patented Floating Power engine mountings deaden motor vibration. Even on the ruttiest roads, its Individual Wheel Springing carries you forward smoothly.

• • •

OF "ALL THREE" low-priced cars, Plymouth alone has all of these plus features. Try the others. Then ride in Plymouth. Any Dodge, De Soto or Chrysler dealer will gladly arrange it for you—any time.



2 "We depend on steel for safety in the Canal and in our buildings down here. We've found it's positive proof against everything from earthquakes to termites. So I knew that, in a car, a Safety-Steel Body would be the very strongest. That was one of Plymouth's features that sold me the hardest."



3 "Some of our roads weren't built for comfort. But my Plymouth was. Its Individual Wheel Springing certainly levels off the bumps. And its Hydraulic Brakes have kept me out of many unexpected mud holes. In fact, there are no anxious moments for me—even when I drive off the roads, 'cross country."

"Performance Detectives"

Of course, right in the Goodyear factories there are chemists, engineers, inspectors—all hard at work every day to protect the quality of Goodyear tires.

But, one of the ways in which Goodyear keeps alert to the problems and ideas of the tire dealers and users is through a great staff of "performance detectives"—actually, the far-spread regiment of Goodyear salesmen.

Right now, as you read this advertisement, Goodyear salesmen are moving about the country, seeing to it that Goodyear products are in the hands of reputable merchants, available to you in small towns and great cities; seeing to it that Goodyear tires are "performing." This advertisement tells you how these men serve you and every other motor car owner. It will pay you to read this lengthy, but informative, advertisement.

President P. W. Litchfield and factory executives decide to call it simply "G-3"

WARNING!

Watch the rest of the industry try to copy this amazing tire. Watch them try to duplicate Goodyear's claims. But, remember, you have to have "non-skid" before you can have "non-skid mileage." And to have "non-skid," you have to have GRIP where you see it here—GRIP in the center of the tread—the place where it counts, because it's the spot where the tire contacts the road. Look at the grip on this Goodyear Tire and ask yourself why buy any tire that lacks this safety? And keep in mind that you cannot successfully build this type of non-skid tire without the extra-durability of Supertwist cords.

IT WAS puzzling, all right. Here were reports from "performance detectives" telling Goodyear Headquarters that tire treads were wearing out too fast.

Not just the other fellow's tires—even our own.

It didn't seem reasonable. Not as far as Goodyear tires were concerned, anyway. The inspection system and factory control were improved at great expense.

What was happening? To other makes of tires as well as ours?

And, then, as the reports multiplied, from east and west, north and south, something definite showed up. States as far apart as Arizona, California, Carolina—states with fine roads and scenic beauty which invite motorists to use their cars—seemed to stand out a little from the rest.

The "performance detectives" called for "trouble shooters" and the pursuit began. Chemists, development engineers, hurried to the three regions.

Searching the earth

They went out along the roads, gathered samples of soil and dust, analyzed these, together with weather and humidity reports.

They brought back to Akron sacks of granite grit from Carolina mountains, volcanic ash from Arizona deserts, glass-like sand from California—by some strange freak of nature the sharpest soils to be found anywhere.

They made sandpaper from these, and used it on high-speed "grindstones" to test the wear-resistance of rubber compounds and tread designs.

They proved, beyond any question, that Goodyear tires were not at fault. They were as good as ever.

By elimination, the real "culprit" was found! It was the new, flashy-stepping, fast-stopping, modern automobile! Cars had been improved—faster starting, faster braking, swifter driving—all took toll of tires. Now, tires had to be improved.

The severe wear in centers where there is more than average driving had simply served to reveal the "symptoms" to the keen-minded "performance detectives."

So, began one of the most interesting battles of science in all history of the rubber industry. The Goodyear executive staff demanded action—and got it!

"Give 'G-3' the works"

The development engineers found that one tread design they had numbered "G-3" gave outstanding resistance to cruelest laboratory and road tests.

Came orders from the chief: "Give 'G-3' the hardest tests you can devise." On to the Goodyear test fleet went the word: "Run day and night in shifts of drivers. Speed up to 50—jam on brakes—up to 50—jam on brakes. Give 'G-3' the works!"

"G-3" All-Weathers stood up but the cars wore out. At first, the boys tried 600 miles a day, stopping every 2 miles. Brakes gave out, so a full stop every 5 miles was ordered.

Under that brutal mauling "G-3" held on but the cars gave some trouble. Brakes had to be adjusted every 8 hours, relined completely every 72.

It was tough on cars, tough on drivers, but the Goodyear men began to grin as the days and nights went on.

For that "G-3" All-Weather with its new-design, flat-arc tread showed it could take it! "G-3" outran any previous Goodyear All-Weather and kept its grip TWICE AS LONG AS ANY OTHER WELL-KNOWN MAKE OF TIRE TESTED!

Goodyear Headquarters kept in close touch with the tests. It was decided to make double-sure that "G-3" was "the real thing."

We made "G-3" in a few sizes. (We didn't even take time to think up a new name for this new tire—just "G-3," an engineers' symbol, identifies it.) There was no announcement.

The trouble is licked

Months ago these sizes went to the public. The "performance detectives" were not tipped-off, but new reports came in. Like this: "Our treads in certain sizes are wearing better than ever. Better than any other makes."

It proved our "performance detectives" know what they're talking about. It proved that our tests and hard work had not been in vain.

Now it can be told! For "G-3," the marvel tire born out of a mystery, is available to you, in your size.

Near you is a Goodyear Dealer who will show "G-3" to you.

Most important of all, from the standpoint of safety, it still has those famous, fast-gripping All-Weather blocks in the center of the tread where you must have them for quick stops at high speeds on today's smooth highways.

But those stout blocks are nested closer—actually 16% more blocks on the tread.

AND, the tread is 5½% broader, it is flatter, AND riding-ribs are 11½% wider, the grooves are narrower, there's more rubber in the tread.

Supertwist makes it possible

Frankly, these improvements could not have been made had we had an ordinary carcass to build on.

But this marvelous "G-3" All-Weather tread—broader, flatter, tougher, safer—called for increased sidewall strain, and Goodyear was ready for that.

For Goodyear is the only tire-maker privileged to use the extra-durable, extra-elastic Supertwist cord tire body that takes the added tread strain as easy as anything! For the first time Supertwist is used to full advantage.

See what it means

Look—YOU, too, get benefits. You get, in the "G-3" All-Weather a tire that averages 43% longer non-skid mileage.

You get a tire with 16% more non-skid blocks on the tread for better traction and greater safety.

You get a tire that reduces by 50% the "cupping" and "heel-and-toe" wear on the non-skid blocks.

AT NO EXTRA PRICE!

LEAGUE ASKS 31 NATIONS TO JOIN ARMS EMBARGO

Launches Move to Force End of Chaco War.

GENEVA, May 19.—(AP)—Spurred by President Roosevelt's initiative in asking the American senate to ratify the Geneva arms convention, the league of nations today dispatched cables to 31 governments, asking if they are ready to clamp on an arms embargo on warring Paraguay and Bolivia.

The cables were sent by the council's Chaco committee immediately after the council unanimously had adopted a resolution to take steps designed to put an embargo into effect at the earliest possible moment.

Nations Are Listed.

The cables suggest that the countries to which they are addressed withhold materials of war of every kind from the two South American nations and thereby force them to stop their jungle conflict.

Cables were sent to all the countries that were members of the 1933 council, which first discussed the embargo. These are Great Britain, France, Italy, Germany, Poland, Czechoslovakia, Norway, Spain, China, Mexico, Panama, Guatemala, and Ireland.

In addition, queries went forth to nations elected to the council of 1934 and countries mentioned by other states as nations whose coöperation is necessary for an effective embargo. These are Denmark, Australia, Belgium, Canada, the United States, Finland, Lithuania, Luxemburg, Holland, Portugal, Sweden, Switzerland, Jugoslavia and Uruguay.

Latin Nations Also Asked.

A third group to which cables were sent takes in countries bordering on the warring nations. It consists of Argentina, Brazil, Chile and Peru. Their help is considered necessary to prevent the transit of arms.

An official communique issued tonight said the cablegrams asked the countries concerned if they were prepared to prevent exportation or reexportation from their territories of arms, airplanes or airplane motors or parts, ammunition or any other war instruments and materials.

The exportation ban would apply only to shipments intended for Paraguay or Bolivia. It would affect both government and private shipments and would include enterprises by either nationals or foreigners.

League circles heard tonight that the movement of Russia to join the league is advancing even more rapidly than anticipated. Some officials forecast that a special assembly will be called this month, possibly to elect Russia to the league, on the ground that soviet membership is essential to the organization of world peace.

Bolivia Charges Partiality.

Washington, D. C., May 19.—(AP)—Charges of partiality in the proposed restriction on the sale of munitions to Bolivia and Paraguay were made today by Dr. Enrique Finot, Bolivian minister, who said it was to be "regretted that the nations producing war materials should have waited two years to adopt this saving measure."

Dr. Finot said an embargo would impose an injustice upon Bolivia because Paraguay has a munitions factory, while Bolivia has none. He contended that an embargo would "be equal to decreeing an easy victory for Paraguay over her defenseless adversary."

At about the same time as Finot was making his statement, President Roosevelt was seeking to surround belligerent Bolivia and Paraguay with a diplomatic cordon through which no strife prolonging munitions could pass.

To this end, the state department pursued conversations with Peru, Chile, Brazil, and Argentina, without whose coöperation, administration advisors said, the President's plans for ending the bloody battles on the plains of the Gran Chaco would be nullified.

Peru, Colombia End Strife.

RIO DE JANEIRO, May 19.—(AP)—Representatives of Peru and Colombia today reached a peaceful settlement of the differences between their nations over the jungle border village of Leticia and thus dissipated a war cloud which has hung over South America for twenty months.

The formula for the settlement, drafted by Afranio de Mello Franco, foreign minister of Brazil, pledges both notions to observe all existing treaties; provides for arbitration and appeal tribunals, and lays the groundwork for accords on all disputed questions.

Quick ratification of the agreement by his government was predicted by Luis Cano, Colombian representative in the negotiations, and former Premier Jorge Prado Ugarteche of Peru said his nation already has given its approval through the creation of the consultative commission which met with Colombian representatives.

Area to Be Demilitarized.

One of the first steps in carrying out the formula will be the establishment of a mixed commission to demilitarize Leticia and handle any differences that arise.

The strife over Leticia began late in 1932 when a Peruvian expedition seized the village, charging that Colombia, to whom it passed by treaty in 1922, had not taken enough interest in it to care properly for the inhabitants.

ministry, a cabinet of seven members was named.

With the premier, who will also temporarily hold the portfolio of foreign affairs, the following members will serve:

Peter Midileff, interior and temporary justice.

Peter Todoroff, finance.

Gen. Petko Zlateff, war.

Prof. Yanki Moloff, education.

Kosta Noyadjieff, former national bank president, commerce and temporarily agriculture.

Nicholas Zacharieff, public works and temporarily railways.

The new premier is a member of the political club "Zveno," which he founded in 1927 and which has become the center of Bulgarian Fascism, advocating the establishment of a corporative state and authoritarian government. Gueroguieff was a partisan of Prof. A. Tsankoff in his successful revolution against the peasant dictator, Stambuliski, in 1923. He was minister of railways in the Liaptcheff cabinet in 1926.

Serbia Mobilizes Army.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BELGRADE, Jugo-Slavia, May 19.—It is reported that troops of the Vardar and Morava divisions are mobilizing as a result of the coup d'état in Bulgaria. The Bulgarian coup is interpreted here as likely to be followed by the expulsion of radicals, who may attempt to enter Jugo-Slavia.

Such mobilization would be in a nature friendly to Bulgaria, but there is no disguising of the Jugo-Slavia suspicion of Italian influence in Bulgaria. Queen Joanna is a daughter of the Italian king and queen and Premier Mussolini of Italy is patron of Bulgaria's external affairs. Jugô-Slavia is pro-French.

Bulgaria was left out, or stayed out, of the recent Balkan pact, largely, it is believed, in deference to Italy. The pact includes a ring of countries around Bulgaria. However, today's coup is regarded as settling the internal strife of Bulgaria and not likely to cause complications with neighbors.

SERIES OF BOMB BLASTS EXCITES FEAR IN AUSTRIA

Rail Service Is Disrupted by Explosions.

VIENNA, May 19.—(AP)—Aroused by a series of bombings directed principally at railways, the Austrian government today offered a reward of 10,000 schillings [about $1,900] for apprehension of the persons responsible.

At the same time a reassuring statement was given out, minimizing the damage resulting from the explosions, which were understood to have interfered with rail trafic in practically every sections of the country.

The bombings, most of which occurred between midnigh tand dawn, emphasized the extreme tensity in Austria. They came on the second anniversary of Engelbert Dollfuss' chancellorship.

Full Security Promised.

The government communique was emphatic in stating there will be "full security against further sabotage attempts."

A railroad bridge was destroyed by one blast and others tore up sections of track in various parts of the country. In Salzburg last night a huge bomb partially wrecked the famous festical house and noise bombs were fired throughout the city. Some residents of Salzburg were so alarmed they left the city.

The bombings were capped by a demand from Austrian Nazis that the provincial government of Upper Austria release prisoners from concentration camps, threatening a widespread strike if the demands were not met.

Meanwhile Chancellor Dollfuss was engaged publicly in a tiff with leaders of the Pan-German party [Nazis] over allegations of bribery which appeared in pro-German papers.

Challenges Party Leader.

Through the official Austrian news agency he made public an open letter to Hermann Foppa, party leader, quoting the German press as saying:

"Austria intended to bribe the Pan-German party to appear at the final session of parliament April 30, and offered substantial sums to the leader and others. Naturally this offer was flatly rejected by the party."

Signing his open letter "Federal Chancellor Engelbert Dollfuss," the Austrian dictator said:

"In the face of such an unheard-of accusation, my dear professor, in your position as chairman of the Pan-German party, I ask you whether to your knowledge or belief such an offer ever was made and if so from whom and to whom?"

MUSSOLINI AND HITLER LAUNCH EFFORT TO SAVE ARMS TALKS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, May 19.—Premier Mussolini and Chancellor Hitler engaged today in a last minute effort to keep alive the European disarmament negotiations, which threaten to go on the rocks because of the inability of France and Germany to reconcile their views.

Il Duce this afternoon had a long conversation with Gen. Joachim von Ribbentrop, sent here by Hitler charged with a special mission on the disarmament subject. Following their conversation an official communique said that "Mussolini and Von Ribbentrop examined the present phase of the disarmament question and agreed on the urgent necessity of reaching an accord."

Whether Hitler is proposing another plan to Mussolini was not revealed. In some circles it is said that Italy is seeking to persuade Germany to resume participation at the Geneva conference.

60,000 MEN LOCK IN GREAT BATTLE ON CHACO FRONT

[Copyright: 1934: By the New York Times.]

BUENOS AIRES, May 19.—The biggest, bitterest, and most important battle of the Chaco war has been raging since Monday for the possession of Fort Ballivian, Bolivia's headquarters on the Pilcomayo river, with heavy casualties on both sides, according to dispatches from Asuncion today. It is estimated that between 60,000 and 80,000 troops are engaged on a twenty-mile front.

Paraguay is attacking viciously with more than a hundred 75 and 105 millimeter guns. Artillery fire is being directed by the air forces. Paraguay's finest regiments are charging with bayonets across hay fields against strongly entrenched Bolivian machine gunners, who mow them down as they advance.

For the first time both sides have their entire armies face to face on a short front for an engagement both believe will decide the war. More than three times as many men are engaged as at the battle of Fort Saavedra at the end of 1932. Last May each side had between 40,000 and 50,000 men in the field, but they were spread along a front 250 miles long.

Bomb Explodes in Palace of Uruguay's President

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay, May 19.—(AP)—A powerful bomb exploded in the presidential palace early today, destroying a marble balcony and doing other damage to the building. There were no casualties. President Gabriel Terra, in whom dictatorial powers are centered under the new constitution proclaimed yesterday, does not live in the palace. He still resides in a private residence.

FRENCH POLICE HUNT BROKER IN STOCK SWINDLE

PARIS, May 19.—(AP)—France, still quivering from the effects of the late Serbe Stavisky's large scale swindles, today discovered that police were searching for Georges Lefevre, head of the Union Boursiere. The Union Boursiere, police revealed, had more brass than capital.

The brass was used in the large signs hung on Lefevre's offices in the heart of the financial district. There he sold stock, and the police declared today the stock was bogus.

They charged him, as they began their search, with the embezzlement of 1,000,000 francs—about $65,000. Previously, they said, he had been sentenced to prison for forgery.

DUCE SEES DECLINE AND FALL OF U. S. IN DIMINISHING BIRTHS

MILAN, Italy, May 19.—(AP)—The decline and fall of the United States as a consequence of a diminishing birth rate were predicted by Premier Mussolini's privately owned newspaper, the Popolo D'Italia, today.

Three major results are already in evidence, the paper says. First, a "paralysis of energy"; second, a decrease in production, and, third, decadence of agriculture.

25,000 CHINESE PEASANTS REBEL AGAINST JAP RULE

SHANGHAI, May 20.—[Sunday]—(AP)—Chinese reports today said 25,000 peasants in eastern Kirin province, in the new state of Manchukuo, have revolted against Japanese overlords and driven them from the area following alleged confiscation of the peasants' lands by the Japanese army.

The advices said the revolt occurred in the vicinity of Hulin, on the Ussuri river, the peasants ousted the Japanese from the city.

The dispatches added that Chinese volunteer military opposition to Japanese rule was in progress throughout the northeastern province, but the Japanese were suppressing news of the movement.

BUILT like giant buildings—surrounding and protecting you with 206 feet of solid steel—the AIRFLOW De Soto is the safest car you've ever seen!
Come in for a close-up of this new kind of car. Step up to the wide doors. Notice how spacious De Soto is. How modern its furnishings are. Climb in.
Sit three in the front seat—with comfort and ease. Front or rear, there's room for everybody to stretch out and relax.
Then off you go—for your first "Floating Ride!" The AIRFLOW De Soto literally "floats" over ruts and bumps. In the back seat you can read... or nap... at 80 miles an hour!
By all means treat yourself to this new riding thrill. Go modern this year! Be modern the next! Here's a car that will stay in style!
THREE'S NO CROWD—in this back seat! It's as wide and pillowy as a club-divan. And passengers ride in comfort and ease between the wheels instead of bumping up and down above them. Hence De Soto's "Floating Ride."
A MIGHTY BACKBONE of steel makes this modern skyscraper stronger and safer than any other type of structure in the world. Similar in construction, the AIRFLOW De Soto's frame and body form one substantial all-steel unit. This type of structure—illustrated below—differs from that of conventional cars, which are built in two separate parts. In this new kind of car you ride surrounded by beams of steel. This makes De Soto rigid, therefore, safe.

NAZIS ALARMED BY 'WAR' AGAINST GERMANS ABROAD

Reich Is Urged to Assist Overseas "Victims."

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MAYENCE, Germany, May 19.——"In the countries overseas we are struggling against a pernicious assimilation," said Dr. Steinacher, leader of all the associations of Germans living in foreign countries, in an address before the organization's convention at Mayence today.

"We note with anxiety the beginning of a fight against German elements, which, in the long run cannot be profitable to other countries," he continued. "The aim of our struggle is to achieve a strong Germanic race and revive national self-confidence. Through an appeal to the soul and not through external forms Nazi Germany will give a strong impetus to Germans living abroad."

Warning to German Abroad.

In the same breath Dr. Steinacher added:

"We are grateful that Chancellor Hitler's deputy leader, Rudolf Hess, has repeatedly declared that it is undesirable and harmful for Germans abroad to adopt the external Nazi forms, such as the wearing of uniforms and the adoption of the Nazi salute. We want to be the conscience which sees to it that Germany will always be more than the German state and the German people will be greater than the sum of the citizens of the reich."

The speaker asserted that there are five German states in Europe, but failed to name the states other than Austria and Switzerland.

"In 15 European countries the German people are bearing hardships as so-called minorities," Dr. Steinacher said. "In an additional 16 countries overseas Germans have sought a living as immigrants because there is no space at home. Where our people are fighting for their existence there can be no question of indifference or neutrality, but only the uniform duty to help and make sacrifices for them."

Ban Bishop's Radio Sermon.

[Copyright: 1934: By the New York Times.]

BERLIN, May 19.—Permission for the Roman Catholic bishop of Berlin, Nicholas Bares, to broadcast his Pentecost sermon scheduled for Whit-Monday, has been refused on the ground that it would be "inconsistent with the principles governing the use of the reich radio."

The radio management suggested the nomination of a substitute for the bishop "from among the priests who have heretofore talked over the radio." The bishop's office declined, however, to make any substitution.

Back of this is a prolonged friction between the Catholic church and Nazi powers, especially against Bishop Bares personally. This friction caused the dropping of the usual broadcast last week and is likely to come to a head in the near future.

STUDENT IS SLAIN AFTER ROW OVER GIRL AT PARTY

Philadelphia, Pa., May 20 [Sunday.]—(AP)—Daniel Quinn, 19 year old college student, was mysteriously killed early today following a purported quarrel during a house party, and police arrested Clifford Keane, 23, his classmate, who lives in Valley Falls, R. I.

Police said the quarrel began after Keane, McKernan and three girls "crashed" the party in a North Philadelphia residence. They remained but a short time, and when they started to leave, Quinn, who lives in Philadelphia, accompanied them outside. Police said they learned from other members of the party that an argument over a girl ensued.

Quinn failed to return to the party and a search was made for him. He was found lying on the curb, blood streaming from a wound in his head. A physician said a fractured skull caused Quinn's death.

Capt. Charles E. Coleman and Detective Robert Poulton arrested Keane and McKernan within an hour after the finding of the body.

Body of Missing Postal Employe Found in Canal

The body of Timothy J. Butler, 50 years old, 4449 Oakenwald avenue, a postoffice employé, was recovered from the drainage canal at Lockport yesterday. Butler disappeared on May 3. Later that day his coat and badge were found in front of 202 West 22d street. An investigation is being made into his death.

Cook Who Built Fortune of $1,000,000 Dies at 78

HONOLULU, May 19.—(AP)—L. Ah Leong, 78, who arrived in Hawaii as a cook when 21 years old and became one of the wealthiest men in the ilands, died today. His fortune, estimated at $1,000,000, was built on merchandising and real estate.

AMERICAN ENVOYS TO SEE REVIEW OF CUBAN ARMY TODAY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAVANA, May 19.—Five thousand soldiers of Cuba's new ejercito [constitutional army], which replaced the national army abolished by Chief of Staf Fulgencio Batista shortly after the coup d'etat last September, will parade before President Carlos Mendieta and Col. Batista, the diplomatic corps and high officials tomorrow. It will be in commemoration of the 32nd anniversary of the establishment of the republic.

American Ambassador Jefferson Caffery, the American consul general, and Admiral C. S. Freeman of the United States navy will be President Mendieta's guests.

Mrs. Dominica Collizo Fernandez, widow of the late Senator Wifredo Fernandez, and her niece, Josefina Diaz Ramos, were cut and bruised by a bomb which exploded in their home this morning. The bombers left a note which read: "Your home was bombed because you and ex-Senator Fausto Menocal aided ex-Congressman Fidel Cainas to escape to the United States after he was released from Cabanas fortress under bond. The O. S. S. X. watches and does not forgive." The residence of Fausto Menocal, a brother of ex-President Mario G. Menocal, was bombed yesterday.

ALFONSO WINS INHERITANCE IN FIGHT WITH SPAIN

Ex-King Gets $3,400 Bonds in Rome.

ROME, May 19.—(AP)—A legal precedent which is expected to establish the right of former King Alfonso of Spain to recover some of the royal heritage confiscated by the Spanish republic was laid down here today by the Rome Court of Appeals.

The court decided that a block of bonds valued at about 40,000 lire [$3,400] and held by the Credito Italiano bank in the name of the late Queen Mother Maria Cristina should be rightfully handed over to her heir, the former monarch.

Hope to Retrieve Other Holdings.

Alfonso plans to visit Rome soon. His lawyers hope through today's decision to retrieve holdings tied up in Milan, Paris and London as well as here.

Litigation in the case extended over almost a year. Alfonso first brought the matter to public notice last June, when he asked the Rome tribunal to prevent the bonds from being taken over by the Banco De Viscaya of Spain, which acted as agent for the queen mother in acquiring them.

The Spanish bank appealed the case, after an ordinary court ruling in Alfonso's favor, on the grounds that a law passed by the Spanish republican assembly in November, 1931, had confiscated all the king's holdings.

Obtains Crrued Interest.

Alfonso's defending attorneys insisted that the Spanish law of confiscation could be considered only as a political gesture.

The Court of Appeals ordered the bonds turned over to the former monarch with accrued interest. Alfonso's lawyers said the case would be used as a basis for immediate suits in Milan, Paris, and London.

Policeman Shoots Youth Who Refuses to Halt

Clarence Cernowsky, 17 years old, who refuses to give his address, was shot in the right thigh last night by Policeman John Danforth of the New City station when Cernowsky and three companions approached a concealed pile of clothing and silverware under some bushes in a lot at 2520 West 55th street. The companions were caught. They were Frank Bloc, 17, 4520 South Hermitage avenue; Steve Dejiwak, 18, 1838 West 46th street, and John Szuligulski, 19, 4425 South Honore street. Police said Cernowsky tried to run away when commanded to halt. They suspect the concealed clothing and silverware may have been stolen, they said.

Explosion Razes St. Louis Apartment; 4 Injured

St. Louis, Mo., May 20 [Sunday.]—(AP)—A terrific explosion early today demolished a four family apartment building and a cottage in southwest St. Louis, critically injuring at least four persons and shattering windows for a radius of three blocks. Police and firemen immediately began a search of the ruins for bodies. Several persons were unaccounted for. Police said first examination did not disclose the cause of the explosion.

Trans-Atlantic Flyers Plan to Take Off for Rome Today

LAHINCH, Irish Free State, May 19.—(AP)—Capt. George Pond and Lieut. Cesare Sabelli hoped tonight to take off in their trans-Atlantic airplane at 1 p. m. tomorrow for a nonstop flight to Rome. Army mechanics worked far into the night to complete repairs on the plane, which was damaged in landing near here after a flight from New York.

U.S. COAST GUARD FLEET PAUSES AT CANADIAN PORT

Nine Ships Are En Route to Great Lakes.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MONTREAL, Que., May 19.—The largest fleet of American gun bearing vessels ever to visit Montreal arrived in McGill street basin today en route to various stations in the great lakes. The nine coast guard patrol boats are in charge of Lieut. H. C. Moore.

Rush, the flagship, 250 tons, assigned to Chicago; Diligence, 250 tons, en route to Cleveland; Perry, 210 tons, en route to Green Bay, Wis.; Corwin, 210 tons, en route to Toledo, O.; Wolcott, 210 tons, en route to Milwaukee, Wis.; Dallas, 210 tons, en route to Sault Ste. Marie, Mich.; Nancemond, 210 tons, en route to Marquette, Mich.; Dexter, 210 tons, en route to Buffalo, N. Y.; Forward, 210 tons, en route to Oswego, N. Y.

The vessels will remain here two days. The presence of so much armament, even though the guns and ships are small in comparison with those on warships, caused considerable excitement because the arrival of the patrol boats constitutes a contravention of the Rush-Bagot treaty.

But it is interesting to note that so friendly are the relations between the United States and Canada that the Canadian government has given permission for the fleet to pass through the Canadian canals.

The Rush-Bagot treaty forbids the presence on the great lakes of an armed vessel belonging either to Canada or United States exceeding 100 tons' displacement. The smallest of these nine ships is more than twice as large as the treaty maximum.

The ships assembled at New London, Conn., on May 16.

The decommissioning of the coast guard along the Atlantic seaboard and the coast of the Gulf of Mexico resulted in the order to send the vessels to fresh water ports. What use the American government is going to make of the nine ships in inland ports has not yet been stated. It is known, however, that the ships are commissioned to render assistance to any vessels in distress in the great lakes.

Yodels Himself Into, Out of, Then Back Into Jail

Tulsa, Okla., May 19.—(AP)—Lane Montgomery yodeled himself in and out of jail and in again. It got him into a fight to start with and he drew a 15 day sentence. His fellow inmates couldn't bear his yodeling, so he was made a trusty and walked off the job. A residential district was disturbed by strange noises — Montgomery still yodeling — and police were notified. Montgomery again found himself in jail.

DRIVER FREED IN DEATH CASE.

Samuel Kline, 54 years old, 1862 South Ridgeway avenue, was freed by Judge Joseph McGarry in trafic court yesterday when witnesses failed to identify him as the driver of the car which killed Philip Asarnov, 75 years old, 1521 South Hamlin avenue, on April 10.

GUARD LUTHER, GERMAN ENVOY, ON BOSTON TRIP

Boston, Mass., May 19.—(AP)—Police accompanied Dr. Hans Luther, German ambassador, everywhere he went today on his official visit to the German training cruiser Karlsruhe, but no anti-Nazi demonstration occurred.

In view of disorders near the Boston navy yard on May 17, during which 21 persons were arrested, the police took no chances and threw a heavy guard about the German envoy from the time he stepped from an airplane at the airport. Motorcycles cleared paths in the trafic from airport to hotel and behind were police patrol cars bristling with policemen and detectives.

The same procedure was followed during the ambassador's visit to the navy yard where the Karlsruhe, first German vessel of war to visit Boston in 26 years, was docked.

Rumors or planned demonstrations by anti-Nazi groups could not be confirmed and one raucous shout from an onlooker near the navy yard proved the only disturbing element in an otherwise peaceful day.

BENCH COALITION WINS; $150,000 SAVED FOR CITY

Mannion Withdraws from Municipal Court Race.

Mayor Kelly's efforts to save $150,000 in the cost of the June 4 judicial election by the consolidation of voting precincts were successful yesterday when two of the nominees for vacancies in the Municipal court withdrew, thus aiding Republicans and Democrats to achieve complete coalition on the judicial slate.

The coalition became a fact when William J. Mannion, Republican nominee for the two year vacancy, and Stephen Adamowski, Democratic nominee for the six months' vacancy, signed withdrawal papers in the mayor's office. Their action left George B. Holmes, Republican, the only candidate for the short term, and Edwin J. Hasten, Democrat, unopposed for the longer term.

Up to City Council Now.

To complete the economy plan, the city council must repeal its ordinance directing the election officials to hold a referendum at the June election on the proposed four year term for aldermen. As members of the council have signified their willingness to postpone the referendum until the Nov. 6 election, the mayor yesterday called a special meeting of the council for tomorrow morning to repeal the ordinance.

Announcement of the withdrawals was made after the mayor had conferred with Eden T. Brekke and Robert C. Rohn, Republican committeemen respectively of the 36th and 19th wards, who represented the Republican county central committee. Mannion attended the conference. The mayor talked to Adamowski over the telephone.

"I want to express my appreciation to the Chicago Bar association, the newspapers, and the Republican organization for the support they have given me," said Mannion after he had signed the withdrawal agreement.

Hasten Refuses to Give In.

Coalition on the Superior and Circuit court judgeships was agreed on a month ago, but efforts toward placing only one Municipal court slate in the field had been futile until yesterday. The Republicans wanted a committee of citizens to determine whether Mannion or Hasten should withdraw.

Hasten refused to enter into such a plan, and all hope for an agreement had been given up, the election board ordering the printing of the ballots to proceed. Mannion then declared that he did not intend to force the taxpayers to pay $150,000 just to elect a Municipal court judge for two years. He agreed to withdraw his candidacy if Adamowski would do the same for the short term place.

Two weeks ago the county board voted to cut election costs $16,700 outside the city by reducing the number of precinct polling places from 386 to 34 for the judicial election.

MOST OF TAXI OWNERS AGREE TO NEW RATES

Acceptance of the new city taxicab ordinance by owners of a majority of the 4,108 cabs in Chicago was announced yesterday in a letter which they sent to Mayor Kelly. The mayor has yet to sign the ordinance, but announced that he would do so as soon as its legality has been attested by the corporation counsel's office.

The new ordinance provides rates of 15 cents for the first one-third mile, ten cents for each additional two-thirds mile, and five cents for each extra passenger. After the mayor signs the ordinance the rates will go into effect as soon as the companies change their meters.

"The public should pay only what the meters show during this transition period," said Mayor Kelly. "We will not permit cab drivers to estimate what the new rates would amount to on each trip while they are getting their meters changed."

INSULL TO QUIT HOSPITAL TODAY FOR APARTMENT

Samuel Insull will leave his free room at St. Luke's hospital, where he has been since May 11, and take an apartment in the Seneca hotel today, according to his son, Samuel Insull Jr.

Insull went to the hospital for a rest and medical observation after his release in bonds totaling $250,000 on federal and state fraud charges. He has a heart affliction and incipient diabetes, but is getting along fine, his son says.

On Tuesday the former utility magnate's attack on the jurisdiction of the federal court will be argued before Judge Philip L. Sullivan. He is contending that he was not extradited but shanghaied from Turkey. United States Attorney Dwight H. Green said it would not be necessary for Insull to appear.

DRISCOLL HEADS LINCOLN PARK'S BEACH GUARDS

John Leo [Paddy] Driscoll, former Cub outfielder and Northwestern university athlete, has been named chief life guard at the Lincoln park beaches this summer, according to an announcement yesterday by J. Frank Lyman, park superintendent.

Driscoll and Harry O'Hare, director of recreation for the Lincoln park system, began the selection of their staf of 90 to 100 guards in tests held during the day in the swimming pool of Loyola university.

The Lincoln park beaches will open formally on June 23. Public Works administration and Illinois relief commission employés have completed screening the sand of the Oak street beach for the opening. Beach equipment has been repaired, but because of limited funds no new equipment will be added, Mr. Lyman said.

Members of the reigning family of the Ashanti tribe of Africa donned their native regalia yesterday in rehersal for the all nations art festival to be given at the Medinah club Tuesday night. More than 1,000 natives from 14 countries are scheduled to take part in the program. The affair is being staged for the benefit of the Red, White and Blue club, which cares for underprivileged children on the west side. Among the prominent society women who will represent the club are Mrs. Edward Beck, Mrs. Thomas Gowenlock, and Mrs. Charles K. Corsant.

OREGON NAMES CANDIDATES FOR GOVERNOR RACE

Portland, Ore., May 19.—[Special.]—The standard bearers in Oregon's gubernatorial contest in November were designated in yesterday's statewide primary as Charles H. Martin, a Democratic congressman, and Joe E. Dunne, Republican state senator.

Martin won over Willis E. Mahoney, mayor of Klamath Falls, while Dunne defeated State Senator Sam H. Brown and State Treasurer Rufus C. Holman. Their leads were being increased today by the complete returns from 663 of the 1,659 precincts in the state.

A proposed 1½ per cent state sales tax for the relief of the public school system was defeated by more than a 2 to 1 majority.

A very close contest was waged in the First Congressional district on the west side of the state for the Democratic nomination. R. R. Turner of Dallas was holding a slight edge over W. A. Delzell of Sale in the incomplete returns.

In the Second district in eastern Oregon, Congressman Walter M. Pierce was unopposed for the Democratic nomination.

Walter B. Gleason had apparently won the Democratic nomination in the Third [Multonomah county-Portland] Congressional district, while Circuit Judge W. A. Ekwall held a substantial lead for the Republican nomination. They seek the place vacated by Con-

BRITON PAYS U. S. HALF A CENT ON 4 BILLION DEBT

Washington, D. C., May 19.—(AP)—Half a cent was paid today on Great Britain's four billion dollar war debt and at the same time a piece of advice given the United States about "this war debt business."

Martin Finn, a Britisher, sent it to the standing committee of congressional correspondents in a letter. He said:

"Congress says Great Britain must pay, so as a humble Briton I am sending my bit—a farthing (half a cent)—that's all I can spare, although I am in a job.

"But it was not so long ago that I was 'on the rocks,' broke to the wide, and for a long time job has been touch and go. . . ."

The farthing was promptly delivered to the treasury, but Finn remarked that Britain's depression had begun in 1920 and that American income taxes are "nothing like ours."

"We have knocked off thousands of millions of pounds owing to us from other nations simply because it was a mill stone around their neck," he said, "and it was no use bullying them or trying any other way to get it.

"The sooner you realize this the better; e. g., wipe the slate. It only hinders recovery, this war debt business, and high taxation."

Served Chicago Times; Famed as Author.

Brookline, Mass., May 19.—[Special.]—Willis John Abbot, nationally known as a newspaper and magazine editor and author for four decades, died at his home here today. He was 71. He was contributing editor and a member of the editorial board of the Christian Science Monitor.

Mr. Abbot was editor of the Monitor from 1922 to 1927 when an editorial board was substituted for the individual editorship. He wrote a column in the paper entitled "Watching the World Go By," which was widely read.

Graduated from Michigan.

New Haven, Conn., was Mr. Abbot's birthplace. After his graduation from the University of Michigan he entered newspaper work and in 1892 became managing editor of the Chicago Times. He became well known as a writer on political topics. He was a great friend and admirer of the late William Jennings Bryan and accompanied the Nebraskan on a number of his tours when he was campaigning for the presidency.

From Chicago Mr. Abbot transferred his activities to New York City and was chief editorial writer on the New York American from 1905 to 1907 and from 1912 to 1916. He was on the New York Sun for a year, then came to the Chicago American and next became political writer for Collier's Weekly. He was manager of the press bureau for the Democratic party in the campaigns of 1900 and 1908. He was decorated by Greece and Rumania for services he performed for those countries.

Author of Many Books.

He wrote a number of books dealing with the United States army and navy, including a series about the "bluejackets" in various wars in which this country engaged. His books included "Notable Women in History," "Aircraft and Submarines," "The United States and the World War," and "The Story of Our Merchant Marine." He also contributed to magazines.

Mr. Abbot was the son of Waldo and Julia (Holmes) Abbot, and the grandson of the Rev. John S. C. Abbott, who was noted for his "Biography of Napoleon Bonaparte." He was a nephew of the late Rev. Lyman Abbott.

WILLIAM COE'S DAUGHTER WEDS ROME DIPLOMAT

Oyster Bay, N. Y., May 19.—(AP)—In the chapel of a Long Island mansion Natalie Coe, daughter of William R. Coe, millionaire sportsman, today became the bride of Commendatore Leonardo Vitetti, counsellor of the Italian embassy in London.

The ceremony took place at noon at Planting Fields, the Coe estate. Members of the Italian diplomatic service were in the bridal party.

The most Rev. Amleto Giovanni Cicognani, apostolic delegate, officiated at an altar covered with white orchids. He was assisted by Father Ladonni of the Catholic university, Washington, and Father C. J. Canavan of Oyster Bay.

A reception and breakfast followed on the terraces and in the famed Coe gardens.

The bride's attendants were Mrs. Alexander C. Forbes, the former Irene Helen Robbins, daughter of Warren D. Robbins, United States minister to Canada, and Mrs. Robbins; Mrs. Thomas G. Terbel, Mrs. William W. Kennedy, Marguerite Brokaw, and Lucille Thieriot. Sig. Augusto Rosso, Italian ambassador to the United States, was best man.

The couple will live in London.

PLANE PLUNGES INTO BAY; ONE DEAD, 2 MISSING

Bay Ridge, Md., May 11.—[Special.]—At least one man was killed and two others are believed to have drowned when an airplane dived into Chesapeake bay about a mile off shore here late this afternoon.

The body of the victim was not identified, but was believed to be that of William C. Powers, Washington, D. C., who was on a flight today with two other Washington men believed to be Ralph Bangs and Malcolm Zako.

Bangs and two passengers left the Hybla valley airport at 4:30 today to join members of the Washington Board of Trade at a shad bake at Bay Ridge.

Those attending the bake saw the plane dive into the water. A number put out in small boats, but were able to recover only one body.

Symphony Concert Master Buys $35,000 Stradivarius

Mischa Mischakoff, soloist and concert master in the Chicago Symphony orchestra, yesterday became the owner of the "Adam," violin made by Antonius Stradivarius at Cremona, Italy, in 1714. The reported price was $35,000. The sale of the violin was negotiated by Ernest Doring, violin authority for Rudolph Wurlitzer & Co., music dealers. Several less expensive violins were taken in on the deal, Doring said.

PLAN FIRST WASH FOR WASHINGTON MONUMENT FACE

PWA to Let Jobs for Novel Work.

Washington, D. C., May 19.—[Special.]—After a century of neglect the Washington monument is to have its face "lifted."

Funds have been allotted by the Public Works administration, it was announced today, sufficient to have the 555 foot granite and marble shaft tuck-pointed and cleaned.

Such work is without precedent, but contractors have been invited to submit bids, which will be opened on May 29. To carry out the program, which will restore the monument to fresh appearance as well as stop leakage that has gone on for many years, it will be necessary to erect metal scaffolding from its base to the apex.

The walls of the monument are ten feet thick at the base; the only openings in its sides are a small door through which visitors enter the needle-like structure, and quite small observation windows at the top.

This construction not only makes the job of cleaning and repairing more difficult, but is said to have contributed, through the lack of ventilation, to dampness in the monument, which causes unpleasantness to visitors as well as threatening the structure.

"The work falls into three groups," the PWA announced. "The initial task and probably the most difficult is the erection of a scaffolding from the base to the top from which the workmen can go on with the actual work on the structure.

Job of Half a Year.

"No wood will be used in the construction of the scaffold except in minor parts, in order to guard against the very serious danger of fire."

It is estimated that it will take sixteen men 140 days to complete the tuck-pointing. Then the cleaners will start at the top and give the sides of the monument a thorough bath, using only pure soap, water and brushes of vegetable fiber.

JAMES W. BLAKE, WHOLESALER IN FURNITURE, DIES

James W. Blake, 69 years old, 1025 North Lombard avenue, long identified with the wholesale furniture business in Chicago, died yesterday in the Hinsdale sanitarium after a long illness.

Mr. Blake came to Chicago in 1886 and has been connected with the wholesale furniture industry since that time. He resided in Oak Park.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Bernice L. Blake, a daughter, Mrs. Virginia Janes, and a son, William L. Blake, and five grandchildren. Funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock Monday at the chapel at 124 Madison street, Oak Park.

Body of Middle Aged Man Taken from Drainage Canal

The body of a middle aged, unidentified man was removed from the sanitary district canal at Lockport yesterday. The victim was described as wearing dark trousers, a blue tie, white shirt, and oxfords, and being 5 feet 6 inches in height and weighing about 145 pounds. Two Chicago street car transfers, dated May 3, were found in the pockets. The body was taken to the Goodale undertakers in Lockport.

Woman Drives Auto Into Crowd; 20 Hurt, 1 Dying

Flint, Mich., May 19.—[UP]—Twenty persons were injured tonight, two seriously, when Mrs. Rose Thompson, Flint, drove her car into a crowd of a hundred which had gathered at the scene of a minor traffic accident. Four of those struck by Mrs. Thompson's car were taken to a hospital. Frank Belahlovek, 49, Flint, was believed dying. Mrs. Thompson, who was held by police, said she did not see the crowd.

Served U. S. as Adviser During World War.

Dr. William Hoskins, noted chemist, died Friday at his home, 49 Sixth avenue, La Grange, following a year's illness. He was 72 years old.

Private funeral services will be conducted at the home at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon with interment in La Grange cemetery. Dr. Hoskins is survived by one son, William, Jr., and three daughters, Miss Minna Hoskins and Mrs. Florence Melcher of La Grange, and Mrs. Edna Scheele of Glendale, Cal.

Began Career in 1880.

Dr. Hoskins was born at Covington, Ky., July 15, 1862. In 1880 he became an assistant to G. A. Mariner, consulting chemical engineer here. He was president of the Chicago section of the Amecian Chemical society in 1897 and first president of the Chicago Chemists club in 1919.

During the world war he served on the naval consulting board as an expert on chemical warfare and was an advisor to the bureau of mines when that bureau had charge of chemical warfare.

Work Aided Science.

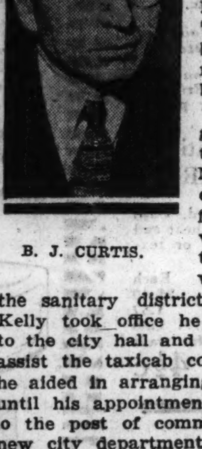
His professional activities were primarily along industrial lines. He made many important contributions to the development of resistance wire now generally used in heating devices, chemical safety paper, luminous paints, chlorine recovery of gold, and others.

He was president of the Hoskins Process Development company and head of the firm, Mariner & Hoskins, consulting chemical engineers. He was also a member of a number of chemical and other scientific societies and associations.

BENJAMIN CURTIS, CITY OFFICIAL, DIES OF HEART ILL



B. J. CURTIS.

Benjamin J. Curtis, 43 years old, city commissioner of streets and electricity, died yesterday at his home, 1749 West 96th street, after an illness that had kept him from his duties for several months. Death was due to a heart ailment. The body will be taken to Fairmont, Minn., for burial.

Mr. Curtis was graduated from the University of Minnesota in civil engineering, and from 1914 to 1932, with the exception of five years, was employed by the sanitary district. When Mayor Kelly took office he brought Curtis to the city hall and assigned him to assist the taxicab commission. Then he aided in arranging CWA projects until his appointment Dec. 27, 1933, to the post of commissioner of the new city department of streets and electricity.

Within a month after his appointment he became ill and had been confined to his home since. The mayor went to the Curtis home to offer his condolences.

SLEEPING ILLNESS VICTIM IS SLAIN IN N. Y. MYSTERY

New York, May 19.—[Special.]—Elmore Alvin Richheimer, 34, an invalid from sleeping sickness for the last ten years, was shot to death under mysterious circumstances this afternoon in his fifth floor apartment in the Bronx.

The police at first thought Mr. Richheimer had committed suicide because of his prolonged illness, but the absence of any weapon and discovery of a number of puzzling facts clearly indicated that he had been murdered.

Mr. Richheimer was asleep when his wife, Anna; his mother, Mrs. Lillian Richheimer, and his daughter, Joan, 9, left for an automobile ride to City Island. When they returned they found him sprawled across the threshold of his bedroom, dead. He was dressed only in his underwear. There were two contact wounds on his abdomen.

ATTACK LEGALITY OF 1933 DENTAL PRACTICE ACT

61 Page Brief Seeks Decree Reversal.

An attack upon the constitutionality of the so called dental practice act of 1933, which is linked with the question of the corporate practice of medicine, is contained in a 61 page brief filed with the clerk of the Illinois Supreme court yesterday by Attorney Stephen Love.

The arguments are in behalf of Dr. Fred N. Winberry, a dentist since 1910, the New System Dentists, Inc., and "all other practicing dentists similarly situated."

The appeal specifically seeks a reversal of the decree entered by the late Judge Robert E. Gentzel in the Superior court, who sustained the demurrers of state officials against the original bill of complaint.

This bill asked that the state department of registration and education, in whose hands rests enforcement of the act, and other officials, be restrained from attempting to revoke the dental licenses of the plaintiffs.

The original dental practice act of 1909 authorized corporations to practice dentistry, but the 1933 amendments attempt to prevent corporations from owning dental offices.

G. A. R. VETERANS PLAN PARADE ON MEMORIAL DAY

Plans for the 50th anniversary of the G. A. R. Memorial association and 66th anniversary of Memorial day went forward last night when the body met in the Chicago Public library to discuss details of the coming Memorial day parade.

Not more than 55 civil war veterans will march this year, according to Paul G. Armstrong, senior vice commander of the association, but the line will be filled out by hundreds of veterans of the world war, Spanish-American war, army men, and the National Guard. Leading the line as grand marshal will be James H. Campbell, 88 years old, former department commander of the G. A. R. and commander of the Memorial association.

In the reviewing stand, said Mr. Armstrong, will be officers of the army and National Guard and Rufus S. Dawes, president of the World's Fair. The association will decorate 25,000 graves of Cook county cemeteries with flowers and flags and 375 speakers will address school children the day before the holiday.

Hammel Suffers Attack of Epilepsy in Jail

Allen R. Hammel, former Brinks' express guard who walked off with $39,000 of the company's money last December, suffered an epileptic fit yesterday in the county jail. Hammel, who asserts he is Bert Armstrong, a New York real estate broker, is being held in jail pending his trial May 31 before Judge Benjamin P. Epstein of the Criminal court on charges of larceny and embezzlement. Hammel's condition was revealed when his attorney, Emmet F. Byrne, sought to confer with him in the jail. Hammel insists he is the victim of mistaken identity despite his positive identification by fellow employés, his wife and children. He has refused to allow alienists to examine him.

Patrolman T. J. Madigan, 27 Years on Force, Dies

Patrolman Thomas J. Madigan, 51 years old, a veteran of the Fillmore street police station, died yesterday at St. Anne's hospital of a cerebral hemorrhage. He had been a member of the police force for the past 27 years, and was assigned to the Fillmore street district in 1909, the year in which the station was built. He is survived by his widow and three children, who live at 4831 West Christie street. Burial will be Tuesday at All Saints cemetery.

FIGHT TO CLEAR THE NAME OF MODERN MOSES

Converted Indians from Cannibalism.

Washington, D. C., May 19.—(AP)—A plea to clear the name of a wilderness Moses who led a tribe of Indians from cannibalism to productive civilization was made today to the senate Indian affairs committee.

The Indians live on the little iland Metlakahtla, in southern Alaska. Their town boasts of three miles of sidewalks, comfortable homes, a prosperous fishing industry and represents the lifelong guidance of William Duncan, an English missionary.

Duncan died some years ago, a broken old man. Dr. Mark I. Matthews, minister of the First Presbyterian church of Seattle, told the committee he died after agents of the federal bureau of education had destroyed his cannery, demolished his school and conducted themselves like a ruthless invading army.

Pictures Show Destruction.

Matthews brought pitcures to show the destruction allegedly perpetrated by government agents in 1915 when they established a school in competition with Duncan's. He said he sought chiefly to have Duncan's name cleared of charges made against him and on which he was never given a hearing, although property damages were also involved.

Duncan went from London in the '80s to convert a tribe of Indians in northwest Canada who were so savage, Matthews said, the nearby trading post of the Hudson Bay company had to fortify against them. To get them away from the white man's vices, he led 1,000 of them to establish the squatter colony of Metlakahtla.

The iland was ceded to Duncan and his people by congress in 1891, Matthews said. Duncan was made justice of the peace, and the colony began great progress as a virtually autonomous settlement.

Burocrats Sought Control.

Then, in 1915, Matthews said, the grasping hand of minor burocrats sought control of the iland, and the alleged vandalism followed. That it acctually occurred, he testified of his own knowledge. So did James H. Witt.n, a Washington lawyer whom Duncan had named a trustee to administer his estate, all left to the colonists. So did Sir Harry Wellcome, a British missionary.

The colony is now administered virtually by a government agent, Matthews said, through veto power of locally enacted ordinances.

Matthews said jealousy of fishing and other interests played a part in the story.

GEORGE BEAVEN, PIONEER BROKER, DIES SUDDENLY

George W. Beaven, 65 years old, a member of the Chicago Board of Trade for 34 years, died suddenly of a heart attack in his home at 747 Buena avenue yesterday.

Mr. Beaven came to Chicago from New York, where he was a member of the New York Produce exchange, and opened his commission offices at 322 South La Salle street. He appeared in good health Friday and engaged in his usual trading operations on the board during the day.

The broker is survived by his widow and a son, Robert, who is in Edgewater hospital, suffering from critical injuries in an elevated train accident at Loyola station last Sunday, and has not been informed of his father's death.

Funeral services have not yet been arranged.

June McAvoy of Movies Dies After Auto Crash

Hollywood, Cal., May 19.—(AP)—Victim of an automobile collision, Elsie M. Dugan, a movie actress known professionally as Joan McAvoy, died today, and Frederick C. Bryan, 33, a lawyer who was driving her home from a medical clinic, was suffering from a possible skull fracture and a broken arm. Police said the other automobile was driven by Miss Iris Ashton, who suffered a sprained back and bruises.

SOCIAL SERVICE WORKERS TO ASK 3 BILLION FUND

3,500 in Kansas City for Annual Conference.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Kansas City, Mo., May 19.—[Special.]—How a 16 billion dollar "industry" is to administer its affairs during the next year will be the main business of the sixty-first annual meeting of the national conference on social work, beginning Sunday and continuing during the week.

Led by William Hodson, the conference president and Mayor F. H. La Guardia's recent appointee to the post of commissioner of public welfare in New York City, welfare experts representing every phase of governmental and privately supported social services in every state in the Union began crowding into Kansas City hotels today.

Revamp Government Agencies.

Earlier estimates that 3,500 social service workers will converge here for the conference was conservative by a possible thousand. Just what reorganization of private welfare agencies and revamping of government agencies will be demanded of directorates and congress as results of the conference is a matter of pure conjecture. But what is asked, particularly of congress, will be reinforced by spendings of nearly 3 billion dollars for the benefit of individual citizens during the next year.

Agenda for the multitude of scheduled conferences—and there are to be 350 main speeches, 125 of which are to be delivered by women—cover ample opportunity for an evaluation of past services of New Deal welfare agencies which were set up in haste to meet an emergency. On every hand opinion is expressed that many of these temporary services of government must be made permanent and expanded.

The theme of the entire conference is "social work in the New Deal." While Rexford Tugwell, assistant secretary of agriculture and brain truster, is to be on hand to keep a grip on proceedings, yet the Rooseveltian New Deal will not come through unscathed by criticism. For instance, Mary Van Kleek of the Russell Sage Foundation, New York, expert on labor conditions in Russia, is on the program. Miss Van Kleek was a member of the original NRA commission, but resigned after disagreement concerning methods. And others will contend that the Rooseveltian New Deal must be supplanted by another of a less mixed hue.

Will Examine Relief Work.

At the opening meeting tomorrow the federal relief administration will be critically examined by its former assistant, Admiral C. M. Bookman of Cincinnati. Mr. Bookman is executive secretary of the Cincinnati community chest.

Headline speeches for the general sessions not only include the Tugwell address Monday night, but also speeches by Prof. H. D. Simpson of Northwestern university on "Taxation and Social Work"; Relief Administrator Harry Hopkins on "Government and Social Work"; Warren S. Thompson of the Scripps Foundation on "Population Trends"; Msgr. Robert F. Keegan, executive director of Catholic charities, New York, on "Social Work Marches On."

FEDERAL AGENTS TO PROBE JAIL LIFE TO FACTOR

United States Attorney Dwight H. Green yesterday ordered department of justice agents to investigate reports that John Factor has been permitted to go on nocturnal excursions while supposedly confined in the De Kalb county jail at Sycamore. The object of the investigation, Mr. Green said, is contempt action, provided there have been offenses.

Various citizens of Aurora have said they saw Factor and Sherif Isaac George, keeper of the jail, at a party in the Leland hotel rathskeller in Aurora. Two women were said to have been with them. Factor and the sherif deny they left the jail. Factor is awaiting extradition to England on fraud charges.

District Attorney Green was at first doubtful whether contempt action would lie against Factor and the sherif, since the prisoner was committed to jail on United States Commissioner Walker's mittimus and a commissioner has no power to punish for contempt. However, Mr. Green decided that the commissioner exercises powers delegated by the court, including the issuance of processes of the court, and that the court can act.

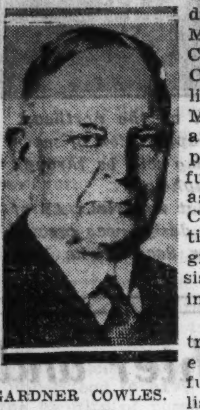
IOWA PUBLISHER, WIFE ESTABLISH $500,000 TRUST

Des Moines, Ia., May 19.—[Special.]—A $500,000 benevolent trust was established here today by Mr. and Mrs. Gardner Cowles. Mr. Cowles is publisher of the Des Moines Register and Tribune. The purpose of the fund, to be known as the Gardner Cowles foundation, will be to give financial assistance to worthy institutions.



GARDNER COWLES.

The half million trust is the largest benevolent fund ever established in Iowa. It is in the form of cash or dividend paying securities, the value of which is estimated on the present market.

The fund, principal as well as income, is to be distributed during the next twenty years, according to present plans.

Three of their children who live in Des Moines have been named directors of the foundation by Mr. and Mrs. Cowles. They are Mrs. D. S. Kruidenier, John Cowles, associate publisher of the Register and Tribune, and Gardner Cowles Jr., executive editor of the two papers.

LOESCH OFFERS AID TO WOMAN IN DEBT FIGHT

Frank J. Loesch, president of the Chicago Crime commission, was seeking means yesterday of aiding Mrs. Kristine A. Rasmussen, 6155 North Maplewood avenue, who faces a stay in a debtors' cell because she gained the indictment of Niels Jorgenson, 4039 Moody avenue, five years ago on an embezzlement charge.

Jorgenson, who with his wife has been on the relief rolls, won a default judgment against Mrs. Rasmussen on a suit for false arrest after he was acquitted. He says he is willing to pay 50 cents a day to put her in jail because she has not paid the judgment. She has not yet been arrested.

Mr. Loesch said the jailing of Mrs. Rasmussen would set a bad precedent which might cause others to hesitate in the prosecution of criminal cases. Mrs. Rasmussen charged Jorgenson with embezzling the proceeds of the sale of some of her bonds. His defense was that the bonds were converted into stock certificates. These certificates proved worthless.

"The fact that an indictment was voted should have been Mrs. Rasmussen's protection," said Judge Joseph Burke, who presided at the trial of Jorgenson. "It would be a bad situation if every person found not guilty in the criminal courts could obtain a judgment against the complaining witness through a suit for false arrest and malicious prosecution."

It was explained that a mistake regarding dates resulted in Mrs. Rasmussen losing the judgment suit default.

CROWN ROCKFORD COLLEGE QUEEN AT ANNUAL FETE

Grand Rapids Girl Picked by Classmates.

Rockford, Ill., May 19.—[Special.]—In a ceremony held in the natural ampitheater on Rockford college's historic campus here this afternoon Virginia Shellman of Grand Rapids was crowned queen of May. This was the first time in almost a decade that the highest honor a Rockford college girl can attain has not been conferred on an Illinois student.

A procession of heralds, the old queen, and tiny flower girls strewing petals in her path preceded Miss Shellman to the throne, winding through the towering oaks to the music of an old French air, "Amaryllis," played to herald the coming of the queen for 40 years.

The audience of a thousand alumnae, friends and parents had no knowledge of the identity of the new queen until she came into view. Recognizing her they welcomed her with applause or the waving of handkerchiefs. The name of the queen, according to tradition, is kept secret until the moment she joins the procession.

Miss Shellman wore the robe of heavy white satin and purple, which is worn by each succeeding queen. Two small boy pages carried the long satin train faced with purple. At the flower banked throne beneath its lilac canopy Miss Shellman knelt while Katherine Rawson of Rockford, last year's queen, placed the crown of violets on her head. The queen mounted the satin draped throne and in turn crowned Miss Rawson with a crown of forget-me-nots. Then followed the modern dance interpretation of the opera, "Merry Mount," on the green.

Another Tradition Broken.

For the first time in May queen history the queen was permitted to take part in the dance pageant customarily given in her honor.

Miss Shellman is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest A. Shellman of Grand Rapids. She was awarded the honor of Rockford's most representative student through her prominence in almost every branch of college activity.

SEWAGE PLANS TO GO TO HIGH COURT TUESDAY

Legal representatives of the sanitary district will go to Washington Tuesday to petition the United States Supreme court to approve government revised plans for construction of the $21,000,000 west-southwest treatment works.

The representatives are Lawrence Fenlon, member of the district's legal staf, and Joseph B. Fleming, special counsel for the district. In Washington they will be joined by Senator James Hamilton Lewis and will appear before the court on Wednesday.

The report on the government's changes in the construction program will be filed in an informal proceeding and the court will be asked to treat the matter as an emergency and to return an early decision, Mr. Fenlon explained. The project is part of a program ordered by the Supreme court to reduce the sanitary district's diversion of Lake Michigan water.

3 CHICAGO BOYS FLEE ST. CHARLES HOME; 25 IN WEEK

Three Chicago boys, inmates of the St. Charles State Training school, escaped from the institution yesterday afternoon. All three are 16 years old and were committed for auto thefts.

The boys, Frank Tomanica, Walter Jedynak, and Casimir Grendzinski, leaped on the running board of an automobile as it moved through the school grounds and before officers could halt the machine it had sped out of the grounds and east over the Lincoln highway towards Chicago.

Robert F. Havlik, managing officer of the school, said he believed the machine, a stolen car, was driven by Stanley Waldo, 17, who escaped from the school Wednesday.

Twenty-five boys have escaped from the school this week-end and 14 of this number have been recaptured.

HURLEY DENIES PATRONAGE PLOT BY REPUBLICANS

Demands Dalrymple, Aid to Cummings, Be Fired.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 19.—[Special.]—At a session notable for numerous angry interchanges, former Secretary of War Patrick J. Hurley appeared today before the senate civil service committee and demanded a thorough investigation of charges that he was party to a Republican patronage plot hatched at his home in Virginia.

The former Hoover war secretary asserted that it should be determined whether the department of justice is out to smear all members of the preceding administration or whether A. V. Dalrymple, the special assistant attorney general who made the charges, is "just an irresponsible falsifier in charge of the wooden pistol section of the department of justice.

Those Patronage Pastures.

Mr. Hurley bitterly criticized the department for permitting one of its officials, Webster Spates, to read to the committee an anonymous, hitherto confidential report entitled "the New Deal with the same old dealers." The report declared "the same old gang of standpat Republicans are gatekeepers to the patronage pastures."

Mr. Dalrymple read to the committee letters from C. W. Broom and Lee Shannon, who told the justice department assistant that persons whom they declined to name had informed them of the meeting at Hurley's home, where prominent Republicans were alleged to have planned how they could hold on to patronage jobs despite the change in administration. Dalrymple denied that he had made the charges himself.

Interrupted by frequent arguments with Dalrymple and Senator Kenneth McKellar [Dem., Tenn.], Mr. Hurley demanded that he be given a public trial on the conspiracy charge, and that Broom, Shannon, and all other persons responsible for making the charges be called for questioning. Senator Ernest W. Gibson [Rep., Vt.] joined in the demand, asking that former Senators George Moses of New Hampshire and James Watson of Indiana, named as Hurley's co-conspirators, be given a hearing. Senator McKellar accused Mr. Hurley of making a political speech.

Demands Witnesses Be Called.

"Why should the assistant to the attorney general be permitted to make a false, slanderous, malicious, and cowardly charge upon my character, introduce it into the record of the United States senate, spread it on the front pages of the press of the nation, before he has used the great investigating agencies of his department to ascertain whether the charge is true or false?" Mr. Hurley demanded.

"What is the department of justice trying to do to me? Is it trying to get a false statement of fact before the public without assuming responsibility for it? Is the department of justice afraid to give the public the name of the author of the confidential report?

"Is the department of justice afraid to produce the witnesses or give the committee the names of the witnesses upon whom the department, through its assistant to the attorney general, Dalrymple, based its false and cowardly charges against me? Is the department of justice bluffing?"

If the justice department heads were "square dealers," the former secretary said, Dalrymple would be removed from office.

The committee will decide next week whether to proceed with the investigation.

W. C. T. U. REPORTS INTOXICATION IS GROWING IN U. S.

The Union Signal, official publication of the W. C. T. U., yesterday declared in the first of a series of surveys on the effects of dry repeal that "court records in most parts of the country show a growing increase in drunkenness."

"All the organizations which led the repeal battle professed to be actuated by an overwhelming desire to 'true temperance' but beer and repeal have not fostered that sweet virtue," the article said.

Tabulation of figures from various cities, it continued, show "startling increases" in intoxication for the first months of repeal as compared with 1933. Among the increases listed are: New York City, 55.5 per cent; St. Louis, 23.5; Los Angeles, 95.5; Minneapolis, 16.2; Boston, 21.4; Denver, 116.6; Portland, 116.8; and Duluth, 69.4.

Citing Philadelphia as the scene of "a most incredible increase in drunkenness," the article declared that beginning with the Christmas holidays when arrests mounted more than 1,000 per cent over the same period of the preceding year, the increase in intoxication is breaking even pre-prohibition records.

FRANK LEONARD ELECTED HEAD OF ILLINOIS ELKS

Champaign, Ill., May 19.—(AP)—Closing their three day convention, Illinois Elks elected Frank Bonner Leonard, Champaign, as exalted ruler of the B. P. O. E. in the state. Leonard, formerly judge of the sixth circuit, defeated Roy Cummins, Oak Park, after a spirited election contest.

The lodge voted to hold its 1935 state convention in Quincy.

Mary Pickford Spends Quiet Day in Chicago

Mary Pickford, motion picture actress, spent a quiet day in Chicago yesterday. She arrived from Toronto, Ont., at 9 o'clock in the morning, and then went to the Blackstone hotel. She was accompanied by her manager. Miss Pickford declined to discuss the possibilities of a reconciliation with her husband, Douglas Fairbanks. She left for Los Angeles by plane at 6 o'clock last evening. Before leaving she said she was in a hurry to return to the west coast to "sign a contract for a new picture."

ILLINOIS FARMERS' HOMES IN NEED OF REPAIR, EQUIPMENT

Urbana, Ill., May 19.—[Special.]—Illinois farm families will be in the market for many types of household repairs and improvements when higher agricultural prices permit such expenditures, it was revealed in the CWA farm housing survey recently completed under the supervision of the extension service of the college of agriculture, University of Illinois, according to an announcement here today.

Of the 21,000 farm homes inspected in the survey, thousands showed need of painting, reroofing and extensive repairs, while many of the farm homemakers have plans to improve their homes by wall papering, refinishing floors, installation of water systems, rebuilding foundations, and the purchase of bathroom equipment, it was learned.

Ninety-five per cent of the farm homes covered by the survey in Illinois were painted frame buildings, 2 per cent were brick, 1 per cent stucco covered, and 1 per cent contained original log construction. Two-thirds of the houses ranged from 25 to 50 years old, while only 1,540 out of the 21,000 had been built within the last 10 years.

On 79 per cent of the farms it was necessary to carry water an average of 82 feet to the house, and 8 per cent of the families obtained their drinking water from springs and streams. Seventy-five per cent of the farms had unimproved sanitary facilities, with only 5 per cent having septic tanks and 10 per cent having cesspools.

SAYS MILLION BUILDING TRADES IDLE SEEK RELIEF

Hopkins Rallies to Aid of Housing Program.

Washington, D. C., May 19.—(AP)—More than a million of those on federal relief rolls are one-time workers in the building trades.

Harry L. Hopkins, the federal relief administrator, so told the senate banking committee today in rallying with Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins and Charles Edison, son of the inventor, to the support of the housing program recommended by President Roosevelt.

The secretary of labor called the proposal "one of the most essential features of the recovery program."

Responding to questions by Senator Hamilton F. Kean [Rep., N. J.] and other committee members, she digressed from the bill long enough to sum up the unemployment situation briefly. She said a sore spot that had shown little improvement was in the building trades group.

Hopkins, one of those who helped draft the measure, said it would "be well worth while" if it provided 500,000 additional jobs.

The relief administrator said the housing situation in this country "is nothing less than a scandal."

"Of the more than 4,000,000 families on federal relief," he said, "1,000,000 to 1,500,000 are represented by workers in the building trades."

Edison, national emergency council director for New Jersey, said the bill was aimed at the "most important problem we have to face today."

He said in his opinion there would be no real recovery until the problem of the lagging heavy goods industries was solved and testified that a study of the bill had convinced him that it was "the answer to all the prayers I've been hearing all the time."

"This bill," Secretary Perkins said, "will give work to exactly the type of people who have been lacking work for a long time."

Asked about unemployment by Senator Kean, she said a rough guess had fixed the peak number out of work at 13,000,000.

HORNER ISSUES MEMORIAL DAY PROCLAMATION

Springfield, Ill., May 19.—[Special.]—Urging the people of Illinois to unite in expressing the true spirit of the occasion, Gov. Henry Horner issued today a Memorial day proclamation.

"We pay tribute to the unselfish devotion of those who so bravely devoted themselves to our country's safety and welfare," Gov. Horner declared. "As proof that the memory of their service still inspires us, let us pause, and, stimulated by the recollections of their heroism, reaffirm our pledges of loyalty and allegiance to the cause of the nation."

Public participation in exercises honoring the soldier dead of all wars was urged in the proclamation, which also made special reference to the debt the nation owes to living veterans, "including the thousands of war maimed and crippled, and the widows and orphans of those who have died."

25 MILLION BABY PIKE DISTRIBUTED THROUGH ILLINOIS

Distribution of 25 million baby walleyel pike to Illinois lakes and streams was started yesterday under the supervision of Floyd Young, director of the Lincoln park zoo and hatchery. Workmen must move the fish rapidly, said Mr. Young, since they are cannibalistic and will devour each other if they are not soon placed where live food is available.

The pike are shipped in cans to officials of sports and out of door clubs and to owners of lake and river properties for planting. The annual distribution, conducted for eleven years, is made without cost to the state or Lincoln park board, Mr. Young said.

Reduced weekly and Sunday pass rates were in effect today on the elevated lines and will be continued until Nov. 18. A $1.25 city-wide unlimited ride weekly pass and a 25 cent Sunday pass may be purchased. The reductions were authorized by the Illinois commerce commission.

Chicago to Have World's First Windowless Department Store

NEW SEARS UNIT TO BE ENTIRELY AIR CONDITIONED

Lighting Throughout Will Be Artificial.

BY AL CHASE.
[Real Estate Editor.]

Chicago is to have the world's first great windowless department store. Radical changes in the original design of the big $1,500,000 Sears, Roebuck & Company's Englewood store, now being erected at the northeast corner of 63rd and Halsted streets, will eliminate the conventional windows on the four selling floors, thereby shutting out dirt, dust, soot, and noise. Regulation windows will be installed on the fifth floor which is to be used for offices and storage.

L. S. JANES.

The entire store will be artificially lighted and completely air conditioned. This is the first direct result on a large scale of the example set the world by A Century of Progress, where windows are conspicuous by their absence. It also is claimed that this will be the first application of modern functional design to department store architecture.

Daylight for Inspections.

The nearest approach to wall openings for natural light in the floors used for selling will be four towering columns of glass rising vertically above the four entrances to the roof. These were included in the design because divisional merchandise executives insisted that daylight be provided at certain areas for customers who wanted to inspect fabrics.

The store will be a pioneer in complete air conditioning, it is claimed. According to the architects, Nimmons, Carr & Wright, this will be the world's first department store to be entirely air conditioned from sub-basement to roof.

A third innovation will be the almost complete substitution of moving stairways for elevators. There will be only one elevator unit in the entire structure. All other vertical transportation will be by means of modern escalators, capable of carrying two persons side by side, and with an estimated capacity of 4,000 passengers an hour. Of course there will be stationary stairways.

In addition to being the first windowless department store building it probably will be the first ever equipped mechanically at the time of its erection in such a way as to insulate its interior from its physical environment. Its air conditioning plant will control temperature, humidity, and air purification and movement.

Quieter and Cleaner.

According to L. S. Janes, national director of display and store arrangement for Sears, the fact that air conditioning will be able to operate at greatly increased efficiency is only one of many advantages that will result from the elimination of windows.

"One very practical factor will be the tremendous reduction in depreciation of merchandise through dirt, dust, and grime, nine-tenths of which enter a store through the windows," he said.

"The elimination of windows will add about 15 per cent to the floor space on the sales floors, as allowance will not have to be made for windows in the arrangement of counters, showcases, and other fixtures.

"Of course the store will be much quieter, being sealed from the outside noise and hubbub of street trafic.

"In every way it will be a more healthful place in which to work—and, of course, to shop. There will be very little variation in the store's temperature in summer and winter. The air will be much purer than in the ordinary window lighted and window ventilated store, for it will be changed from four to ten times an hour."

Windows of Little Use.

George Carr of Nimmons, Carr & Wright, architects of the store, declared that windows are of little actual use in the modern department store.

"Such a negligible percentage of the total floor area is affected by daylight in the average building of this type that they are not worth considering as a source of light," he said. "Their only possible use in this regard is for the examination of textiles and style merchandise, and only a small percentage of customers, I'm told, insists on this method.

"Otherwise, windows actually operate in conflict with a store's lighting system, mixing daylight with artificial light in a confused and unpleasant way. They also interfere with the heating, ventilating, and air conditioning systems, setting up counter currents and counter influences that militate against the efficiency of these systems.

Stirs Up Argument.

"To put the lighting issue more specifically—if the walls of a department store were entirely glass and if there were no obstructions to the passage of light, such as shelves, counters, and showcases, natural illumination would be effective only thirty feet from the wall.

"When one considers the barriers to the passage of light in the average store and also the small proportion of wall surface that actually is occupied by windows, one must conclude that daylight is an inconsequential factor in the average store."

Already the idea of a windowless department store is stirring up an argument among local architects. Some declare that the new Sears Englewood establishment will point the way to a revolution in store design and will have an effect on all public buildings.

Others contend that the new store is too essentially a compromise between the functional and the traditional to be of great importance. All recognize, however, that it will be an interesting experiment.

DIRT, DUST AND DIN KEPT OUT BY SOLID WALLS

SEARS
ROEBUCK AND CO.

As a result of sweeping changes in the design of the Sears, Roebuck & Co.'s Englewood unit, now under construction at the northeast corner of 63d and Halsted, the above building will be the world's first great windowless department store. It also will be the first application of modern functional design to department store architecture, it is claimed. The only natural illumination in the floors devoted to selling will be through four towering shafts of glass over the entrances. The fifth floor, used for offices and storage, will have regulation windows throughout.

The building, of steel and concrete, will be faced with Indiana limestone, with black granite trim, includng a skyline of that material. All of the five stories, the basement and subbasement, and a roof unit to be used as a bakery, will be completely air conditioned. The new design was created by Nimmons, Carr & Wright, architects, from suggestions by L. S. Janes, national director of display and store arrangement for Sears. The B-W Construction company has the general contract. Completion is set for Nov. 1. S. Chester Danforth made the above perspective.

"THE STREETS OF NEW YORK—THE BOWERY"

"The Streets of New York—the Bowery," a concession at A Century of Progress owned by the same Chicagoans who control the Lincoln group, is being erected on the space occupied last year by reproductions of the Wigwam, Lincoln's birthplace, and his Indiana home, all of which have been moved closer to the Rutledge tavern. The architects are George B. Eich and Elmer J. Fox. The above picture, by Charles Morgan, shows Pell and Mott streets in lower New York, with Steve Brodie's and Chuck Conners' saloons, the Bowery night court, and Tin Pan alley. Old time vaudeville, with shows reminiscent of Tony Pastor's famous Bowery theater, will be given. Jack Hardy, manager of the Lincoln group, will manage this concession. The Continental Concession company is the owner. Borg & Johanson have the general contract.

MEAT FIRM RENTS SPACE IN SOUTH WATER MARKET

The New City Packing and Provision company, now at 942-94 Fulton street, has leased the three story and basement reinforced concrete units at 147-49 South Water Market for a term of twenty years at a reported aggregate rental of $150,000. The lessee has been in the meat and poultry business for three decades, supplying hotels, restaurants, clubs, and institutions.

According to Fred S. Wolffs, president, approximately $75,000 will be spent equipping all floors with refrigeration. Possession will be taken about Aug. 1. A modern market for retail trade will be installed. Hart and Whetston were brokers for all parties.

Contracts Awarded

Contracts awarded in Chicago the week of May 11 to 17, according to figures supplied by the F. W. Dodge corporation, totaled 41, with a combined cost of $687,811. For the corresponding week last year there were 44 contracts, totaling $163,200. From Jan. 1 to May 17, 1934, the total was $10,348,010, or $1,965,426 ahead of the corresponding period last year, which totaled $8,382,584.

Analysis of Construction Costs

Construction costs in the Chicago area are remaining fairly stationary, according to E. H. Boeckh & Associates, Inc., consulting valuation engineers. In their weekly cost analysis bulletin they state that in other parts of the country the rise in building costs continues, although there were some slight decreases in the index numbers due to the unsettled conditions in the building material field.

"There was a general reaction to the rise of steel prices in Pittsburgh," they state. "Lumber and clay products prices are still in a state of adjustment and there were a few minor changes in the other lines.

"Labor changes were numerous, with an increase in the average rate for skilled mechanics and with indications that negotiations are under way in several areas for upward revisions."

The following index numbers are predicated on Chicago conditions, using as a base an average of prices throughout the country for the years 1926-'29 equaling 100. As prices vary in labor and building materials they affect construction according to the quantities used, hence the various classifications in the index:

RE-ENTERS REAL ESTATE MARKET; ABSENT 8 YEARS

Now Is Time to Buy, Says F. H. Bartlett.

Frederick H. Bartlett, head of the Frederick H. Bartlett Realty company, one of the city's oldest and largest real estate organizations, who has not bought any property in eight years, yesterday entered the market on a large scale. He purchased forty-eight parcels of improved property from the estate of Maurice Rosenfeld. These include residences, apartments and stores.

FREDERICK H. BARTLETT.

Mr. Bartlett's casual comments on the realty market are as significant as his concrete cash commitments. For the first time in eight years he is bullish on real estate to the extent of definitly quitting the bear side.

Administration Favors Realty.

"We're in the beginning of a real estate market," he said, "and the public should remember that real estate is about the only thing the New Dealers have left them to speculate in. The administration has practically killed speculation in stocks and grains. Roosevelt, on the other hand, seems to be doing everything he can to help the real estate market with his Home Loan bank, his HOLC and still more recently initialed agencies to help the home owner build and borrow.

"In other words, the administration seems committed to real estate and to hell with everything else.

"The peak of the big real estate boom was in the middle of 1926, three years before the great stock market crash began. It's now been eight years on the downgrade. History shows that heretofore there has always been a change at the end of seven years. So our recovery is a year overdue.

Now On the Way.

"But it is now on the way. Improved property at last is coming back. Brokers who haven't called me up in years are now submitting properties. One old timer said he had sold everything he had advertised. We get continuous reports of houses being sold; most of them at fair prices but for cash.

"Even a stock broker yesterday said he thought real estate was the only thing to buy. Real estate, by the way, shrunk less in the depression than any other investment. It stood up remarkably well as compared with stocks and bonds.

"Just remember, we've got eight years of decreasing realty prices behind us. The bottom has been touched and we're on the upgrade. Now is the time to buy real estate."

Daughter and Father Form Realty Firm

Father and daughter are partners in the newest suburban real estate organization, known as North Shore Realty, which will open for business today at 523 Winnetka avenue, Winnetka, just across Center street from the Indian Hill station. The firm has only two members, Clarence E. Drayer and his 21 year old daughter, Ruth L. Drayer. Mr. and Mrs. Drayer and Ruth live at 1034 Elmwood avenue, Wilmette.

MISS RUTH L. DRAYER.

CLARENCE E. DRAYER.
[Carlos Photo.]

Miss Drayer was graduated a year ago from the school of commerce of the University of Illinois. She is also a graduate of New Trier High school. Mr. Drayer for a number of years has been in charge of the north shore offices of Bills Realty, Inc.

"North Shore Realty is the fourth real estate firm to locate on or near Center street, Winnetka, within a year," said Mr. Drayer, "thus measuring the improvement in real estate as well as the growing importance of Center street as a real estate market. Our firm will specialize in residential properties in the villages of Kenilworth, Winnetka, and Wilmette, and also in the Indian Hill section."

REALTOR HAS PRAISE FOR MAP OF CHICAGOLAND

"Announcement of the publication of a new Chicagoland road map by THE TRIBUNE is always news to the real estate world," said a realtor yesterday. "It's the only map on the market covering this territory which is so consistently accurate, comprehensive, and well printed.

"For years I've found it invaluable in locating properties and getting clients to certain places in the quickest time. A far sighted realty man keeps a few extra ones on hand for distribution to prospective clients."

This year's map has two distinct advantages—the forty mile radius from the loop is on a larger scale, which makes for greater visibility and convenience while driving, and the reverse side covers a much larger area. It now reaches 125 miles from Chicago, touching Grand Rapids in Michigan, Madison in Wisconsin, Peoria and Bloomington in Illinois, and La Fayette in Indiana.

News of the Architects

Childs & Smith, architects, have moved from 720 North Michigan avenue, to No. 430, directly opposite Tribune Tower.

S. Karpen & Bros. Lease Merchandise Mart Space

One of the largest furniture leases of the year was closed yesterday when S. Karpen & Brothers, furniture manufacturers since 1880, rented 18,000 square feet of space on the eighteenth floor of the Merchandise Mart. The lessees will move at once from the Karpen building at Wabash and 8th, which they have under long term lease.

Adolph Karpen, secretary, treasurer and general manager of the company, said a thorough survey of all American furniture markets was made before signing the lease. The firm has factories in Chicago, Los Angeles, and New York. It started in 1880 with a small wood working shop and has grown to be one of the largest producers of fine upholstered furniture in the world, according to Mr. Karpen.

T. J. Reed, general manager of the Merchandise Mart, stated that this was the sixth furniture lease closed in the last two weeks.

DILLINGER AND 9 ARE INDICTED BY WISCONSIN JURY

Charges Based on Battle in Which Two Died.

Madison, Wis., May 19.—[U. P.]—Federal authorities seeking an airtight case against John Dillinger in the event of his capture obtained indictments today against him and nine associates for conspiracy to shelter each other from the law.

Prior to issuance of the indictments, the only federal charge against the most hunted man in America was a violation of the law against interstate transportation of a stolen motor car.

The indictments, reported to Federal Judge Patrick Stone by a special grand jury, were a result of the bloody ambush of the gang in a Spider lake, Wis., resort hotel by 50 federal agents and deputy sherifs. Two men were killed and four wounded while all but three women members of the gang escaped through the forest.

Hamilton Also Indicted.

Those indicted with Dillinger are John Hamilton, George [Baby Face] Nelson, whose correct name is reported to be Gillis; Tom Carroll, Homer Van Meter, Pat Reilly, Marie Conforti, alias Rose Ancker; Jean Crompton, alias Ann Sothern; Mrs. George Nelson, alias Marian Marr, and Patricia Young.

All of the women except Patricia Young were captured in the resort raid. Miss Young had left the lodge the day before the ambush with Pat Reilly, presumably for St. Paul. The three under arrest are held here under $50,000 bond. They pleaded not guilty to the same charges at a previous arraignment before a United States commissioner.

Specific charges against Dillinger and Carroll were for harboring each other from the law. The other defendants are accused of harboring the two leaders.

Charged with Slaying.

Nelson is charged additionally with slaying W. Carter Baum, federal agent, in the Spider lake battle. He also is accused of carrying a deadly weapon, with forcing Mr. and Mrs. P. W. Lange of Manitowish lake to drive him to a neighboring resort where he encountered Baum. Another count charged him with pointing a gun at members of the posse pursuing him.

Tells of Dillinger Threats.

St. Paul, Minn., May 19.—(AP)—A word picture of a wounded, cursing John Dillinger, who, he said, threatened him with death and even suggested kidnaping, was given today by Dr. Clayton May, testifying in his own defense at his federal court trial on charges of conspiracy to harbor the fugitive.

Dr. May took the stand after Judge Gunnar Nordbye denied a motion for dismissal upon completion of the government's case. Thomas McMeekin, St. Paul, counsel for May and Mrs. Augusta Salt, a nurse, argued that the government had failed to prove conspiracy and that the defendants had no notice or knowledge there was a federal warrant for the outlaw's arrest last March.

Questioned by his attorney, Dr. May's version of how he treated the desperado after Dillinger had shot his way out of a St. Paul apartment last March 31 included how Eugene Green telephoned him the morning of March 31 at his Minneapolis office and later called and drove the physician in Green's automobile to a friend hurt in "a still explosion."

Green Killed by Police.

Green, referred to by the physician as "Eddie," was killed April 3 by federal agents.

"I asked Eddie," said Dr. May, "if his friend was wanted by the authorities and he said no. We went to an apartment on 33d and Fremont and stopped. Eddie and I went to a black sedan parked across the street. There was a man in the back seat, with his leg propped up. He was very pale.

"Eddie told him I wanted to take him to a hospital, but he said: 'To — with that! You take me to a private place.'

"He uncovered a machine gun as he talked. 'I'll blow your brains out if you don't do what I tell you,' the man said."

Dr. May then told of taking the patient to Mrs. Salt's apartment.

Rumania Ends Financial Supervision by League

BUCHAREST, Rumania, May 19.—(AP)—An agreement between Rumania and the league of nations under which this country's financial affairs are supervised by league experts was terminated today by the government.

Dillinger Hideout in Wisconsin

This abandoned mine near Cuba City, Wis., has been identified by federal agents as the hideout used by John Dillinger following his escape from a federal trap at Spider Lake, Wis. From an upper window of the shaft it is possible to see almost 20 miles distant on clear days.

ROBLES KIDNAP CASE SOLUTION BELIEVED NEAR

Two Unnamed Persons Linked to Abduction.

Tucson, Ariz., May 19.—(AP)—Solution of the mystery underlying the kidnaping and rescue of June Robles was said by authorities here today to be imminent.

The statement was made after it became known articles found in the desert prison pit in which the 6 year old girl was found last Monday, 19 days after her disappearance, had directed suspicion toward two unnamed persons.

Several articles found in the pit were understood to have been traced, and the identity of persons in whose possession they were believed to have been at the time of the kidnaping tentatively established.

"Break in Case Comes."

The "break" in the case came after several days of questioning of possible suspects, and fruitless attempts to find the person June would recognize as the man who took her away from in front of Roskruge school last April 25, or as one of two other men she said she saw while she was in the prison hole 9½ miles from Tucson.

She has led authorities to believe she would know one of her abductors, although she said they generally made her turn her back to them.

U. S. Ready to Act.

Clifton Mathews, United States attorney for Arizona, in Phoenix, where the mysterious "Chicago letter" that led searchers to June's hiding place was received, said earlier in the day the federal government would take action as soon as department of justice agents uncover sufficient facts.

The kidnaping case, he said, may be presented to a federal grand jury here next Wednesday.

10,000 PARADE AGAINST WAR IN NEW YORK CITY

New York, May 19.—[Special.]—Ten thousand men, women, and children marched up Fifth avenue today in a "no more war" parade to its climax at a massmeeting near the Eternal light in Madison square, where the Rev. Dr. John Haynes Holmes stirred applause by declaring that in the prison cell of a conscientious objector "there is more honor than on the field of battle."

Numerous organizations participated in the demonstration. They approved when Dr. Holmes said:

"There must be a high resolve on the part of every man and woman that he or she will have nothing to do with war. If the government declares war, then we will not recognize it. If we are summoned to the colors, we will not obey."

The marchers carried many banners. Some of them read: "Make War Illegal"; "Abolish the Army and Navy"; "Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt Says, 'War Is Suicide'"; "Schools, Not Battleships"; and "War Is Hell—Christians Ought Not Go There."

TAVERN OWNER ROBBED.

Theodore Scuella, owner of a tavern at 158 East 127th street, was robbed of $301 by five bandits, two armed with sawed off shotguns, early yesterday.

TOLL BRIDGE KEEPER IS SLAIN BY GUNMAN, WHO MAKES ESCAPE

Texarkana, Ark., May 19.—(AP)—Glenn L. Williams, 35 year old keeper of the toll bridge over the Red river at Fulton, 19 miles northeast of here, and father of four children, was shot to death early today by a gunman, who police theorized Williams had attempted to capture after recognizing him as a desperado.

Discarding robbery as a motive for the shooting, county officers from Hempstead and Miller counties were working on the theory that the man who shot Williams in the mouth with a pistol did so as the keeper reached for his shotgun, which was found on the floor of the toll house instead of in its usual place.

FINGERPRINTS IN HOLDUP AUTO NOT DILLINGER'S

Flint, Mich., May 19.—(AP)—Police believed tonight they had one of the automobiles in which robbers fled after taking $33,000 from a branch bank here—and none of the fingerprints found in it correspond with those of John Dillinger.

That disclosure added to the growing belief that the nation's No. 1 public enemy of the moment did not take part in the holdup of the Glenwood avenue branch of the Citizens' Commercial and Savings bank Friday morning.

While not disregarding the possibility that the raid was carried out by members of the Dillinger gang, to replenish a depleted escape fund, police expressed the opinion that Detroit or Toledo gangsters perpetrated the robbery.

In the car, in addition to fingerprints of several men, was the print of a woman's gloved hand. Witnesses to the robbery said a woman, armed with a machine gun, sat in one of the bandit cars while the robbery was in progress.

Boardwalk Beer Drinking Regulations Are Eased

Atlantic City, N. J., May 19.—[Special.]—The city commission has released its rigid ban on boardwalk drinking. Beer now may be served on either side of the boardwalk, but on the ocean side only in places which held licenses last year. Hard liquor still is taboo, and patrons may be served only when sitting at tables.

SALESMAN FOUND DEAD.

18,389 WOMEN PLANNED THIS STORE

"Do you mind telling me?"

HERE'S THE TRUE STORY . . . . .

How a great organization, selling groceries in 6000 communities all over the United States, gave to a large number of Chicago women the privilege of having the "last word"—and then acted on the helpful suggestions they made.

IN 1932 we entered the retail grocery business in the Chicago area by acquiring the Chicago and Suburban Loblaw Groceterias. Good stores they were, too, but to our way of thinking not good enough for the women of Chicago and its suburbs.

For many months after taking over these stores we studied them, made changes, tried out new ideas, cleared out old stocks. But we weren't satisfied, for nothing but the very best could measure up to our ideals.

So we went to the highest authorities in the land—the women of Chicago—to ask them what more we could do. Day after day, for many months, several of our young women have called on Chicago women in their homes. (We have actual records of 18,389 calls.) They asked them, in effect, "What changes would you make, Mrs. Chicago—if you had your way? What is your idea of a perfect food store?"

What a chance that was for them to picture their ideal food store! And how kindly and helpfully they responded! Thank you, good friends, for your many ideas and suggestions. They have been carried out.

Read the story below and find out what these 18,389 women wanted in a grocery store—and how well their ideas have worked out. The re-designed Jewel Food Stores are now ready for your inspection—the cleanest, most attractive grocery stores in Chicagoland.

Here's What You Wanted

OF course, attractiveness and cleanliness came first. And you said you preferred white stores. So white they are. Many an honest paint brush was worn to a frazzle and had to quit before the job was done. But always a new one jumped to the rescue. You must see the results to appreciate how eagerly these paint brushes entered into the spirit of your request for a snowy white interior. The exteriors are white, too. You also said you liked a touch of color. So we added a bit of warm orange and brown outside.

Self-Service

You said you were strong for self-service . . . and wanted everything in our stores to be as handy as the things in your own pantry. We took you at your word. We have re-arranged many things around the stores for your greater convenience. Self-service and the handy-pantry idea are here to stay.

You can do all your buying in half a jiffy in a Jewel Food Store—or shop leisurely through the store, if you like. Either way, just make yourself at home. No one will bother you or urge you to buy anything. But if you want assistance—just notice how quickly and politely one of our attendants will come forward to help you.

Convenience

"Vegetables up front, please," you requested, "where they will be convenient and well lighted." That's just where you'll find them from now on. We work sort of a mean trick on the lettuce and cabbages and such by sprinkling them every now and then with a fine spray of water. They think they are still back in the old home ground, enjoying a sweet summer shower. That's why they keep so fresh.

Quality

Quality is king, in Jewel Food Stores. We almost worship it. Whether it be a lowly "spud" or a haughty jar of caviar, it must measure up to our strict ideas—and yours—of good, pure, wholesome quality. Our policy is to handle the very best foods obtainable. Our pledge to you is this—we will never knowingly disappoint you. If you ever purchase anything in a Jewel Food Store which isn't as good as you think it should be, please let us know right away so we can refund your money.

Specialties

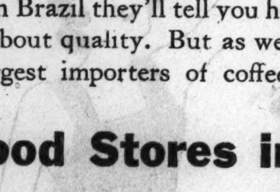
You asked for a wide variety of foods and special delicacies not obtainable in most stores. Behold our artist's conception of one of the great ocean liners which plies the seven seas, bringing "sugar and spice and all things nice" from far-off lands to your table, via Jewel Food Stores.



Coffee has been a Jewel specialty for 35 years. More than a million people, all over the United States use Jewel brands—roasted in our big, modern plant in Barrington at the rate of 5000 pounds every 20 minutes.

In 1933 we sold more than sixteen million pounds of our own coffees. Laid bean to bean, that would have reached to Arcturus—or some such place! Figured another way, it's about 734,000,000 cups of good cheer!

Down in Brazil they'll tell you how fussy Jewel is about quality. But as we are one of the largest importers of coffee in the world we are in a position to insist on the best. So we do.

Variety

There are many things—for every member of your family—in Jewel Food Stores. Husbands like to shop here. They like the clean atmosphere, the efficient and business-like way things are handled. And do our low prices appeal to their hard-worn pocketbooks! Little Tommy and Mary Lou will find things we keep in stock just for them. So, too, will the baby. Not to mention Sandy, the dog, and Tabitha, the cat.

Correct Bills

When your shopping is done our checker gives you an adding machine list of the amounts of your purchases. Adding machines can't go wrong. This list is your check against any possible mistakes. And a smile goes with every purchase.

We Invite You—

WE of the Jewel Food Stores, on this occasion of the completion of our great program of improvements, extend to you a most cordial invitation to visit us. You will find it a real pleasure to do your shopping in our cool, inviting, well lighted stores. You will find a tempting array of pure, wholesome, delicious foods—all the well-known brands—and the famous Jewel Coffees, Teas and grocery specialties which are sold nowhere else in the city. And you will find our store attendants friendly folks who are really interested in serving you well.

Come in—tomorrow—and get acquainted with the stores which 18,389 of you helped to plan.

EVERY ONE OF THE 87 JEWEL FOOD STORES has been re-arranged, re-painted, and re-stocked to meet the ideas of the women of the Chicago area. In these thoroughly modernized stores you serve yourself and save money on your purchases

Willis Ward, Michigan's versatile athlete, came a cropper yesterday during the finals of the Western conference's 34th annual track and field carnival at Dyche stadium, in which the Wolverines, defending title holders, trailed Illinois, the victor, and Indiana in the final standings.

Illinois, scoring 29 of its 45 points in three events, nosed out the Hoosiers, paced by Ivan Fuqua and Charles Hornbostel. Indiana finished with 40.6 points, while Michigan barely saved third with 28.6 points against Northwestern's 27.1.

One year ago Ward, then a sophomore, scored 18 points to win individual honors. He was victor in the 100 yard dash and in the high jump and second in the broad jump and high hurdles. On the basis of this masterful exhibition it was deemed probable that he would win four events yesterday, thus tying Carl Johnson's all-time record established in 1919. It was believed Ward would insure Michigan its 14th conference track title.

Pulls Leg Tendon.

A pulled tendon in his left leg was Ward's nemesis. Twenty yards from the finish line in the 100 yard dash, Ward was straining to catch Hunter Russell of Illinois. He broke his smooth stride, stumbled and nearly fell, then regained his balance and staggered to the finish, in fifth place. Only Burris of Minnesota failed to pass him.

Despite his injury Ward reported for the finals of the 120 yard high hurdles. But he missed his stride at the first barrier, knocked it over, and then quit, leaning dejectedly on the second hurdle in his lane as Kenneth Sandbach of Purdue flashed to victory and his first Big Ten title.

Ward, however, salvaged a championship in the broad jump and one point in the high jump when he tied for fourth place with two others at 6 feet. His broad jump title was a holdover from his mark in Friday's qualifying trials when he cleared 23 feet 2¼ inches to lead the field.

No Effect on Illini.

Strangely enough Ward's collapse, which was reported last night as only of a temporary nature, probably would not have affected the result of the meet. If Ward had won the 100 yard dash Illinois would have lost three points and still would have outscored Indiana, while Michigan, granting Ward 20 points instead of seven, would still have lacked 2-5 of a point of reaching the Illini total.

Indiana, although beaten for the championship, dominated the record breaking. Three all-time marks were bettered yesterday with the assistance of one of the most perfect days for the games Chicago has had in a dozen years. Ivan Fuqua broke his own one year old mark for the quarter mile dash around two turns, covering the distance in 47 8-10 seconds as compared to 48 6-10 seconds last year.

Hoosiers Win Relay.

Then Fuqua, anchor man on the Indiana mile relay team, took the baton from Charley Hornbostel, and outlegged all opposition to set a mark of 3 minutes 15 9-10 seconds for the mile. The third record yesterday went to Chin Kamm of Illinois, who defended his shot put title with a throw of 49 feet 11 inches. Clarence Munn of Minnesota established the former record of 49 feet 8½ inches two years ago.

Hornbostel contributed his share to the record breaking on Friday when he ran a half mile in 1:52.9. Fuqua and Hornbostel also were individual

The bouts are Wednesday night at the Stadium. Prices are $3.30 and $2.20. All seats are reserved. The Polish champions are fit and ready for the battle of their lives with the champions of Chicagoland. You'll want to be there!

Don't delay. Step into the Public Service office any time today or before midnight tonight.

PAIR OF HOOSIERS SHOW THE WAY TO THE FINISH LINE

Kenneth Sandbach of Purdue (third from the right) and his rivals in the 120 yard high hurdles approach the first obstacle in the Western conference meet at Dyche stadium yesterday. Sandbach was the winner as Willis Ward of Michigan (third from the left) pulled a muscle in a previous race and after stumbling over the first hurdle withdrew from the race. Left to right are: Cook, Ohio State, who was fifth; Clark, Wisconsin, third; Ward; Sandbach; Stuewe, Wisconsin, fourth, and Moulton, Iowa, second. The meet was won by Illinois, which scored 45 points.

POLISH, CHICAGO RING CHAMPIONS REACH PEAK OF PUNCHING POWER

16 Ready for Battle at Stadium Wednesday Night.

BY ARCH WARD.

A favorite old Chicago notion of innate superiority will go on trial again at Chicago Stadium Wednesday night when the eight national boxing champions of Poland move into action against the Golden Gloves winners of the central states.

The bouts, sponsored by THE TRIBUNE, will start at 8:30 o'clock. While there still are a few thousand unsold seats in the more expensive section, it is likely that every chair in the world's largest indoor arena will be occupied when the show begins.

The Poles are the pick of a field of more than 2,000 who took part in the national championships. The Chicagoans are the survivors of an original entry of 8,177 drawn from thirty cities and colleges in Illinois, Michigan, Ohio, Indiana, Iowa, Wisconsin, Nebraska, and Tennessee.

Poles Strong, Confident.

The Poles are strong, confident, fine athletes and dissenters from the ancient tradition that almost any average American can lick many times his weight in continental Europeans. The fact that an overwhelming number of amateur and professional champions up to now has been produced in the American ring has no bearing on the situation, as far as the young men from Warsaw are concerned.

The two teams began training in Chicago at the same time. The Chicagoans, under the direction of Coach Johnny Behr, have been working at the Illinois Athletic club, and the Poles, with their expert trainer, Feliks Stamm, in charge, have been going through their maneuvers at the Medinah club. Every member of both squads is in peak form. Observers estimate the Poles as the strongest team Europe has sent to Chicago. It will take the strongest to make a creditable showing, for Chicago has one of the greatest, if not the greatest, teams ever recruited in this country. Six of the eight Chicagoans are national champions.

Competition for places on the Chicago team has been so keen there is a strong probability that one of the national champions will not be able to earn a position.

14 Bouts on Program.

The program Wednesday night will consist of eight international bouts, one in each weight, and six preliminary contests. The championship matches will be three rounds of three minutes each. The preliminaries will be three two minute rounds. Each victory in the international bouts will count one point. The team gaining five points will win the match. The

Southwest Side to Honor Polish Fighters Today

BY HOWARD BARRY.

The amateur boxing champions of Poland will make new friends tonight when they visit Chicago's southwest side for another gigantic festival in their honor. The reception will take place in Douglas park, near the boat house, north of Ogden avenue.

The southwest side is an ideal setting for the reception, inasmuch as its population is composed largely of Jews and Poles. The large number of Poles who will turn out to greet the team as a unit will be reinforced by many thousands of Jews who will come to cheer with particular enthusiasm for Szapsa Rotholz, the flyweight member of the team, who is a Jewish lad.

Cheers for All.

But the Jewish people, being excellent sportsmen, will not confine their welcome to Rotholz. They will have plenty of encouragement to offer the other members of the team—Stanislaw Pilat, Janislaw Sipinski, Oktawjan Misiurewicz, Witold Majchrzycki, Czeslaw Kajnar, Walerjan Karpinski, and Tadeusz Rogalski.

When these eight boys left their country and started on a 5,500 mile trip to a strange land, they little realized how thoroughly they would be made to feel at home amid unaccustomed surroundings. After a little more than a week in this country they have learned to take for granted skyscrapers and high speed elevators, but most surprising of all they have learned that they have hundreds of thousands of friends in a city where they scarcely expected to meet any one who could speak their language.

Real Chicago Greeting.

First there came that uproarious greeting at the railroad depot, when they experienced Chicago's hospitality for the first time. Then came that parade through cheering crowds to the city hall, where they were greeted by Mayor Kelly. On last Tuesday night the people of Chicago's northwest side had the boys all to themselves and they showed their friendship by turning out 100,000 strong to greet their visitors. In their tours of the city during the last few days the boxers have encountered the same friendly spirit everywhere they went.

Tonight it will be the turn of the southwest side to extend a welcome to the boxers and to wish them good luck in their forthcoming bouts with Chicagoland's Golden Gloves team.

Once again, as on last Tuesday, the boys will have an opportunity to hear their own language spoken by the residents of a strange city, and again they will be able to address a crowd in their own tongue. They may be depended upon to take advantage of the opportunity of making short speeches, for they show little inclina-

Big Ten Votes Down Football Training Table

Western conference football teams may begin practice on Sept. 10 in 1935, but the faculty committee which granted this permission yesterday during an all day session at the North Shore hotel, Evanston, voted down request of the football coaches that a training table for the evening meal be permitted during the season. Practice this fall will start on Sept. 15.

In addition the faculty members, who control intercollegiate sports in the Big Ten, dealt a series of three blows at the coaching profession. They ruled that [1] commercial endorsements are prohibited, [2] coaches may not write for newspaper publication on their specialties during the season in which these sports are played, and [3] conference coaches may not participate in directing outside groups.

Shy at Favoring One Sport.

While the faculty group did not deny the fairness of the request for a training table in the evening for football men, many of whom miss the dinner hour at their fraternities and

PHILS HAVE LAST LAUGH ON CUBS; WIN IN 11TH, 6-5

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Philadelphia, Pa., May 19.—The usually mild mannered Phillies went daffy in two ways this afternoon. First they went in for clowning, which permitted the Cubs to stage a three run rally good for a one run lead in the ninth. Then the Phils went to the other extreme. They tied the score against Rescuer Pat Malone in their half of the ninth and finally won out in the eleventh, 6 to 5.

Until the home actors swooned under their brain storm in the ninth the Cubs had experienced some tough traveling against their old tormentor, Fidgety Phil Collins. The only runs they were able to frisk from him in eight innings resulted from Augie Galan's first big league homer. A teammate was on base at the time. These two runs were just enough to balance a pair plucked from the pitching of Bud Tinning. But Tinning weakened in the eighth and two runs that registered at the time would have flattened the Cubs if the Phils hadn't followed with their inartistic exhibition.

Darrow Bad News for Cubs.

In a spree of master minding during the dizzy ninth George Darrow, the chinless southpaw marvel, got himself into the struggle as the fourth Phil pitcher. It proved an unhappy selection as far as the Cubs were concerned. For one thing, he kept the Chicago boys well harnessed in two innings of swinging. For another, he was responsible for putting a stop to the game. Darrow came up in the eleventh and surprised everybody by doubling off Malone. Todd followed with a single, but Darrow was content to stop at third. Then Hurst was purposely passed. The first pitch to Bartell was turned into a single, Darrow scoring.

For the first time during the three game series Chuck Klein was able to furnish little amusement for his former admirers. He singled in his first appearance and after that did not drive a ball beyond the infield. And on top of this Mr. Klein made his day additionally disappointing by dropping a fly ball. This blunder was the cause of one of the two first runs off Tinning.

Tinning in Trouble Early.

The Phillies began operating on Tinning in the second inning and he did well to get out of the jam with only one run across. Hendrick led off with a scratch single to Camilli and pulled up at third on Allen's double to left. The runners held on while Hack was throwing out Haslin. Chiozza beat out what appeared to be a hit, scoring Hendrick, but the umpires later discovered the ball had hit the batter before he left the box. He was called back and looked at a third strike. Hendrick then actually scored

BONURA'S TWO HOMERS HELP BEAT A'S, 14-10

Hitting Voids Poor Hurling, Errors.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Poor pitching and loose shortstopping on their side used to throw the White Sox into disastrous shakes and swoons. Yesterday though a riotous offensive courageously offset some very bad pitching and three doses of inept shortstopping to the extent that the Comiskeys swept the series with the Philadelphia Athletics and lifted their winning streak to a plump four. The score was Chicago, 14; Philadelphia, 10.

Foremost among the offense stars was your young New Orleans friend, Signor Zeke Bonura. Zeke tied the score at 4-all with his No. 7 homer in the third inning; in the fifth he singled and scored to give his team a 5 to 4 lead and in the seventh he launched a six-run carnival with his No. 8 homer.

Simmons Is Runner-Up.

Runner-up to Bonura was Aloysius Simmons. Al tripled to drive in Bonura with that lead run in the fifth and he singled and scored in the seventh and eighth innings.

Then there was Bob Boken, our sprightly young second baseman. Bob singled in the sixth and later scored from second on a wild pitch to break a 5 to 5 tie; he singled in the seventh for a vital part in the big six-run rally and he doubled in the eighth.

Luke Appling, though pretty much of a bust in his shortstopping, snapped out of a long, long hitting slump late in the game, contributing a single in the seventh and a double in the eighth, both of which figured in the scoring. Both were hard smashes of the 1933 Appling variety.

Jimmy Cleans House.

Here's the detail of the Sox first inning in which Dykes performed the aforesaid feat of clearing loaded bases with a single. Marcum walked Uhalt and Haas, then Bonura fouled to Higgins. Uhalt stole third, but Simmons was grossly deceived by Marcum on three strikes. Appling walked, filling the bases. Dykes ran the count to three balls and two strikes and, with two out, all the runners, of course, started running with the windup. While all this dashing about was going on Jimmy lined a single to left center, Uhalt and Haas trotting across the plate while Appling made it with a slight sprint. Boken fouled to Higgins.

A fine onehanded catch by Boken, which started a double play, halted a riot in the A's second inning. Foxx opened with a triple to the center field wall and scored while Appling was throwing out Finney. McNair singled and scored when Higgins doubled to the left field wall. Berry then slammed one towards right, but Boken reached out his long left arm, caught the ball six inches off the ground, and tossed to Appling to double Higgins off second.

Bonura Ties Score.

The A's grabbed the lead in the first of the third. Marcum led off with a line double to left, after which Warstler sent a hot grounder to Appling. Luke came up with the ball, but with a lot of time to get Marcum going to third, his throw hit the A's pitcher and bounded to the vicinity of the Sox dugout, Marcum scoring the tying run and Warstler reaching second. Cramer flied to Uhalt, Warstler taking third, when he scored while Boken was throwing out Johnson. Foxx fanned.

The count became 4 all after Bonura led off the home third with that No. 7 homer. A nice play by Bonura on the tail end of a double play staved off possible embarrassment in the A's fourth. McNair singled to left with one out and stole second. Higgins walked, but Berry grounded to Appling, who tossed to Boken to force Higgins. Boken was hit by Higgins just as he loosed his throw toward first, causing the ball to become a

NO ICE WATER IS LATEST ORDER TO POLISH BOXERS

Trainer Gives Team Rest to See Sox Play.

BY DONALD DAY.

The Polish Golden Glove boxers yesterday for the first time since their arrival in America, saw their breakfast table set without big tumblers of ice water. Trainer Stamm had made it a point to reach the dining room first and ordered all the water removed. No more ice water with meals until it gets cooler, he ordered. The more you drink, the more you perspire and this, he said, was enervating in hot weather.

The heat wave Chicago has been experiencing the last few days has proved another surprise for the boxers.

"Chicago has been showing us her big buildings, her beautiful boulevards and now she is showing us how hot she can make it," said Tadeusz Rogalski, the bantam, "we understand now why each bathtub has a shower bath."

Rogalski carefully sliced through a roll, and plastering both sides heavily with butter, he took a big bite. Rogalski is getting a big kick out of eating large quantities of bread and butter at each meal. He explained he can not forget that within a few weeks he will be back in Poznan and that, to him, means back in the army. The Polish army does not furnish soldiers with white bread. The army menu includes either black bread, which is really a heavy dark brown bread made of whole rye flour, or gray bread, made from a mixture of wheat and rye flour. Butter is not served at every meal. Rogalski is enjoying himself while he can.

A Soldier Stocks Up.

"Don't spread the butter so thick," Trainer Stamm ordered. "Remember the more butter you eat the harder you will have to work to get rid of the fat." Rogalski received this warning with a shrug. He won't mind training twice as long provided he can eat as much as he wants.

After breakfast Stanislaw Pilat, the heavyweight from the Carpathian mountains, accompanied by his teammates, carried to the Tribune tower a stone which the team had brought as a present to THE TRIBUNE from the Wawel castle in Krakow, the former residence of the Polish kings. This castle is one of the most noteworthy medieval edifices in Poland and many of Poland's most famous rulers are buried there. It has been completely restored and thousands of Americans who visit it each year marvel at the efficient hot air heating system which the old Roman conquerors brought with them into Europe and which was used to make the huge rooms livable in castles until a little more than a century ago.

Consul Eentertains.

The Wawel is a limestone hill on the River Vistula in the southern part of the city. The Poles say it is their Acropolis and Pantheon. King Sigismund III., is buried there and his tomb is one of the finest examples of Renaissance work north of the Alps. Heroes and poets also have been honored by burial there. Poland's romantic Queen Jadwiga, who married the grand duke of Lithuania and so once united these two countries, also lived in the Wawel. At that time the castle was built of wood, but Poland's queen decided to build it in stone and installed, what is those days was called, modern conveniences.

Col. Robert R. McCormick, publisher of THE TRIBUNE, interrupted a conference to receive the Polish team. The Polish general consul, Dr. Tytus Zbyszewski, presented the stone to THE TRIBUNE and also a folio of some of Poland's ancient diplomatic communications to the colonel.

Later Consul General Zbyszewski entertained the president of the Polish Boxing association, Franciszek Baranowski; Mrs. Bertha Bauer, Mrs. Mary W. Dickenson, Miss Gertrude McCarthy, Consul Dr. Julius Szygowski, Vice Consul Dr. Edward Kulikowski, Arch Ward, sports editor of THE TRIBUNE; Donald Day, TRIBUNE correspondent in Poland, and Mrs. Day, at luncheon.

They Prefer Showers.

In the meantime the Polish fighters were trying to decide whether they wished to visit the Art institute or the the Aquarium and finally, by unanimous vote, they adjourned to their bedrooms for a cool shower and another session of postcard writing.

Now that Szapsia Rotholz has found some relatives in Chicago he is one of the happiest members of the team Szapsia has interrupted his correspondence for the moment for three Rotholz boys, his cousins, are with him constantly and are serving as his interpreters on his shopping tours.

The boys boxed three fast rounds each in the afternoon and from the way they pummeled their sparring partners, it didn't seem as though the hot weather disagreed with them. At present all of the fighters are either at or under their fighting weight so Trainer Stamm has decided to give the boys a day off today. They will do their usual road work before breakfast, but after attending mass at St. John's church they will have lunch and attend the White Sox-Boston game at Comiskey park. After supper they will be presented to the Polish citizens of the southwest side.

OPEN AUTO RACE SEASON TODAY AT EVANSTON TRACK

The opening auto race meet of the season will be held at the Evanston Motor speedway this afternoon. Three races, with the fastest of 26 cars competing, are carded.

Time trials this morning will eliminate the slow cars and determine the lineup for the races. The three fastest will engage in a five lap match, twelve will go in the ten lap event, and the fastest sixteen that are left on four wheels after the first two events will hook up in the final, thirty times around the track.

officiating will be handled by the most competent referees and judges on the staf of the Illinois athletic commission and the Central Amateur Athletic union.

The ruffles and flourishes leading up to the international part of the show will begin about 9:30 o'clock. At that time the Polish team, attired in bright red bathrobes with a white eagle on the arm, will file out of their dressing room and advance to the ring under the bright glare of spotlights. The Stadium organ will peal off a Polish air while the boys come down the aile. Entering the ring, the fighters will form in Indian file facing north, with the flyweight, Rotholz, in front and the heavyweight, Pilat, in the rear. They will wait there at attention while the spotlight shifts to the other side of the arena and lights the Golden Gloves team to the ring in a similar parade, with the organ playing "The Stars and Stripes Forever."

First Glimpse of Foes.

When the two squads are in the ring it will be the first glimpse the Chicagoans will have had, and vice versa, of the young men who were good enough to come 5,000 miles to punch them around or to be punched around in the attempt.

The next ceremony will be the raising of the colors of the Republic of Poland while the organ plays the national anthem, "Poland Is Not Lost Yet." Then comes the raising of the American flag to the accompaniment of "The Star Spangled Banner." The lights then will be swung back to the ring while the fighters will file out, all but the two flyweights, who are the first to square off. At the clang of the bell they will commence the fourth annual international Golden Gloves encounters.

Poland has a chance to become the first foreign team to whip the Americans. France failed by 5 bouts to 3, and Ireland by 6 to 2. Germany came closest to returning with victory when its fistic ambassadors fought a 4 to 4 tie at Soldiers' field in 1932.

Poles Stick to Training.

Since their reception at the station and in the loop last Monday and at Humboldt park Tuesday night, receptions that woke the echoes and left the simple Polish boys a bit stunned, they have been training amid luxury undreamed of by any of them. But they have not permitted Chicago's hospitality to interfere with their work. They have been on the road every morning and in the gymnasium every afternoon.

The Chicago team has not been selected, but from their showings in workouts it appears that the following Golden Glovers will fight against the Poles:

Johnny Brown, C. Y. O., 112 pounds; Troy Bellini, Cleveland, 118 pounds; Al Nettlow, Detroit, 126 pounds; Phil Kenneally, C. Y. O., 135 pounds; Danny Farrar, Cleveland, 147 pounds; Fred Caserio, Trafton's gym, 160 pounds; Joe Louis, Detroit, 175 pounds; Otis Thomas, Chicago, heavyweight. There may be last minute changes.

Among the regular Golden Gloves fans who will be at the ringside on Wednesday night are:

GOLDEN GLOVES BOUTS.

POLAND'S eight amateur champion boxers will meet eight representatives of Chicagoland in the fourth International Golden Gloves bouts at the Stadium Wednesday night. Preliminaries will precede the title jousts.

These invaders and guests will have traveled something like 11,000 miles by the time they return home. This journey is for nine minutes of ring activity. They have been proved in national and international competition. They are accounted worthy representatives of their 500,000 fellow countrymen, by birth or descent, residing in Chicago.

Against the Polish amateurs Chicagoland sends what probably is its strongest team of seven years' competition. Six of the number are National A. A. U. champions. It is formidable opposition for the Poles, who may be handicapped somewhat by their long trip and change of environment.

In previous international bouts Chicagoland defeated France, 5 to 3; tied Germany, 4 to 4, and defeated Ireland, 6 to 2. On all occasions visitors made an impressive showing.

From The Wake's viewpoint the outstanding feature of these bouts has been the sportsmanship displayed. No unpleasant aftermath developed. Consider, if you will, that boxing is a bodily contact sport and this sportsmanship is the more remarkable.

We do not see that it makes much real difference which team wins. Naturally one wishes success for the home boys, but none would begrudge victory to the Poles if they earn it. The principal thing is that eight young men from Poland visit this country, obtain fair treatment in their efforts, receive a generous welcome from Chicagoland sympathizers with ovations from their own followers, return home to relate those impressions of the United States. This is an aid to international amity, as helpful (probably more helpful) as efforts of diplomats.

The Wake does not attempt to forecast the result, leaving that to those watching the training camps. We simply welcome eight sturdy Polish boys, representatives of a great nation to which the United States is bound sentimentally in historical memory. From the spectators at the Stadium Wednesday night we bespeak cordial and generous consideration of our guests who also are our opponents.

More About Love.

You said that you'd be constant
As golden stars above;
And then you brought me roses
To symbolize your love.

I know the way of roses—
They speak the way of men,
And when their petals wander off
They don't come back again.

A rose could never, never,
Supply my spirit's need—
Were I to choose love's emblem
'Twould be the plantain weed!

The Wake has received a copy of the Science Leaflet. It contains a whimsical article entitled "An Elemental Romance," by M. Elizabeth Farson. Enclosed was a card in distinct, characteristic handwriting reading, "Best Wishes. M. Elizabeth Farson."

Miss Farson was principal of the old Brown school at Wood street and Warren avenue, from which we were graduated in 1890. When Miss Farson retired from public school work after having been an assistant superintendent of schools, she lived in Evanston for a number of years, then moved to California. Thousands of her former pupils, no doubt, will be glad to share with us the knowledge that she is in good health and enjoying life at 1403 North Pacific avenue, Glendale, Cal.

Giant Harvard Crew Takes 3 Boat Race

Cambridge, Mass., May 19.—(AP)—A giant Harvard crew defeated the eight-oared shells of Columbia and Massachusetts Institute of Technology on the calm waters of the Charles here today to win its first major sprint race in three years. The Crimson also scored impressive victories in the freshman and junior varsity encounters.

The Harvard varsity drove home two and a half lengths ahead of Tech, which in turn wrested a hard-won second place from Columbia by three-quarters of a length. The Crimson swept over the mile and three-quarters course in the good time of 9 minutes 3 seconds, with Tech clocked in 9:13 3-5 and Columbia 9:17 1-5.

Almost equally important from the point of view of Harvard rowing for the next three years was the freshman race in which the Crimson yearlings, with Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr. pulling at No. 6, justified precompetition opinion that they were one of the best boatloads of first year oarsmen in years by an impressive four-and-one-half length triumph over Columbia.

PENN SWEEPS SERIES.

Philadelphia, Pa., May 19.—(AP)—Three boatloads of University of Pennsylvania oarsmen, rowing into a head-on wind, today made a clean sweep of a three-event, four-cornered regatta on the Schuylkill.

Pulling over the Henley mile and five-sixteenths course, crews from Marietta college of Ohio, Manhattan, and Rutgers divided second places behind the Red and Blue eights.

YALE TAKES CUP.

Derby, Conn., May 19.—(AP)—The Yale varsity eight won the Carnegie cup as the champion sprint crew of the east on the Housatonic river this evening, defeating at two miles the Princeton and Cornell varsity boats.

Yale's winning margin was three-quarters of a length and the time was 10 minutes 51 1-5 seconds. Princeton's time was 10 minutes 54 2-5 seconds and Cornell's time 11 minutes 5 seconds.

40 Motorcycle Hill Climbers Try Luck Today

The Windy City Motorcycle club of Chicago will hold its championship hill climb at Cary, Ill., this afternoon starting at 1:30 o'clock. It is to be the first of a series in which the climbers will compete for the national title.

No one has ever conquered this nearly perpendicular hill, but this year, with more powerful motorcycles, the boys intend to go over the top. If they do, their time will be measured by an electric timer, and if they don't, the distances traveled will determine the winners. Forty riders are expected to compete in four classes.

The hill is 150 feet in length with an angle of about 60 degrees, and the riders must stay within the 20 foot course.

Andy Koslow, Chicago professional, will be on hand with several machines of his own design. Other Chicago professionals to compete are Bill Altman, Syl Polacek, Bill Castleman, Frank Lilgequist and Bob Miner.

NORTH CENTRAL WINS ELMHURST COLLEGE MEET

North Central college won Elmhurst college's annual invitational track and field meet yesterday, scoring 79½ points. De Kalb Teachers had 53½, Loyola scored 47½, Armour made 16, Elmhurst counted 14½, and Wheaton had 14.

Seven meet records were broken. They were:

220 yard low hurdles—New record of :24.8.
Two mile run—New record of 10:51.1.
Discus throw—New record of 136 feet 10 inches.
220 yard dash—New record of :21.7.
High jump—New record of 5 feet 10 inches.
440 yard run—New record of :51.7.
Pole vault—New record of 12 feet 6 inches.

Glen T. Holmes, director of athletics at Oak Park High school, was referee and starter of the meet. Dr. T. Lehmann, president of Elmhurst college, was honorary referee. Collett, Loyola sprinter, was high scorer with 10½ points.

Thoma Bowls Perfect Game in State Tourney

Aurora, Ill., May 19.—[Special.]—Fred Thoma of Peoria, for years a member of the Mineralite five of Chicago, shot a perfect game in the Illinois state bowling tournament here tonight. His team, the Pabst Blue Ribbons, shot 2,999 for fifth place in the standing. Thoma's total for the three games was 714.

Will See Sox Game.

The Polish organizations will take charge of the boys early in the afternoon and will escort them to Comiskey park for a baseball game between the White Sox and the Boston Red Sox.

At 6:30 p. m. a parade will begin at Kedzie avenue and Cermak road. A column of nearly 3,000 persons, consisting of Polish organizations, school children, Boy Scouts, and Legionnaires, will march east in Cermak road to Marshall boulevard and then north into Douglas park. They will come to a halt at the speakers' stand, which will be erected near the boat house.

Present Fighters to Crowd.

Then the boxers will arrive and the program of music and speeches will proceed, after which the fighters will be presented to the throng. Then there will be free public dancing in a nearby pavilion.

John A. Kornak, president of the Southwest Polish Business Men's association, will be chairman of the evening. An invocation will be pronounced by Msgr. Anthony Halgas, pastor of St. Casimir's church.

Invitations have been extended to Mayor Edward J. Kelly and State's Attorney Thomas J. Courtney.

Addresses will be made by Tytus Zbyszewski, Polish Consul General; Anthony Czarnecki, U. S. collector of customs; Attorney General Otto Kerner, Henry Sonnenschein, alderman of the 22nd ward; John Toman, alderman of the 23rd ward; Judge John Prystalski, Frank Zintak, clerk of the Superior court; Emily Napieralski, president of the Polish Women's National Alliance, and F. Franciszek Baronowski, president of the Polish Boxing Union.

Everybody is invited, whether or not he is Polish, for this reception is planned as a demonstration for all the people of the southwest side.

Polish Fighters Broadcast Today Over Station WLS

The eight amateur boxing champions of Poland, who meet Chicagoland's best in the fourth annual International Golden Gloves bouts at the Stadium Wednesday night will address radio listeners of the middlewest in their native tongue through station WLS at 12:15 p. m. today.

The National Polish hour, which has been a weekly feature at the station for the last five years, will have the boys as guests.

Reception Facts

boarding houses because of late afternoon practice, it was pointed out that to permit such a practice would be favoritism to one branch of sport.

The change in the date of starting of practice, effective in 1935, was granted to equalize to some extent the amount of preparation at universities which operate on the semester plan and those which now have opportunity for double daily drills until the opening of the fall quarter which generally is Oct. 1. The change also was made, the faculty members said, because of the growing tendency to schedule important games early in the season.

Coaches no longer may endorse athletic equipment, but they are not prohibited from inventing or improving on equipment to which their names may be attached. The prohibition on writing was aimed apparently at newspaper articles, which generally are seasonable and timely. Coaches may write about their sports out of season and this generally will be in sport magazines, it was pointed out.

Hits Post-Season Trips.

The prohibition against coaching outside groups will prevent post-season excursions such as Dick Hanley of Northwestern has been making to the Pacific coast for the annual east-west charity game in San Francisco. The regulation, of course, was not aimed at Hanley, for other Big Ten coaches have taken all-star teams to other sections of the country, but his is the most prominent case. Coaches still may be drafted to direct Olympic teams, etc. The faculty committee took no action on the basketball coaches' plan for a new rotating schedule.

MAROONS WIN 3 TITLES IN BIG 10 TENNIS TOURNEY

Capture Team, Singles, Doubles Honors.

An all Chicago finish wound up the Big Ten tennis tournament at the University of Chicago courts yesterday. Max Davidson, Maroon captain, won the singles title, and then paired with his teammate, Trevor Weiss, to win the doubles championship. Chicago also won the team title on points.

At the conclusion of three days of strenuous play, the Maroons had amassed 14 points, the same number which enabled them to earn a tie with Minnesota for last year's title. Michigan finished second with 11½ points. Other team points were as follows: Ohio State, 6½; Minnesota, 6; Illinois, 5; Wisconsin and Purdue, 4 each; and Iowa and Northwestern, 2 each.

Davidson Beats Siegel.

Max Davidson, a senior, realized an ambition of many year's standing when he defeated Seymour Siegel, Michigan, in the final of the singles play yesterday. Though he led all the way, and finished ahead, 6-3, 6-3, Davidson had a battle on his hands in every game. Siegel played steady tennis, drawing the applause of a crowd of 2,000 for his numerous gets. Davidson, however, had an edge in power, and his strong service and driving placements turned the tide of battle. Davidson also won his four earlier rounds in straight sets, defeating Nye, Iowa; Ertel, Purdue; Kean, Michigan, and Chambers, Ohio State.

Gophers Stage Rally.

The Chicago doubles team of Davidson and Weiss, defending champions, moved to a fast 6 to 3 victory in the first set of their final match with Paul Scherer and Roy Huber, Minnesota. The Maroons were leading 5 games to 3 in the second set, and had match point three times in the ninth game, when the Gophers staged a courageous rally to win, 8 to 6. The Chicagoans, however, won the deciding set, 6 to 3, with Weiss providing most of the action.

In the morning semi-finals of the doubles Davidson and Weiss defeated Chambers and Holles, Ohio State, 5-7, 6-0, 6-1, and Scherer and Huber defeated Moll and Braun, Illinois, 6-2, 8-6.

LEADS SKEET SHOOT.

Utica, N. Y., May 19.—[U. P.]—The North Shore Gun club of Huntington, L. I., scored 228 today to lead the field at the completion of the first day's shooting in the state-wide skeet shoot.

THEY'LL BE OUT TO ADD $10,000 TO THEIR OWNERS' BANK ROLLS

THOMASVILLE.

BOY VALET.

These gallopers were nominated for the Kentucky Derby, but what with one thing and another they didn't get a chance to race at Churchill Downs. But that $10,000 Illinois Derby at Aurora Wednesday afternoon may be just the spot for one of them to come romping home to victory.

BOY VALET WINS WITH EASE FOR HIS NEW OWNER

Can It Be That Col. Bradley Sold Wrong Horse?

BY FRENCH LANE.

Col. Edward R. Bradley possibly has made one more mistake and has sold a good race horse down the river.

Boy Valet, a Bradley castoff, won the Governor's handicap so impressively at Aurora yesterday that it appears the master of Idle Hour farm has erred.

This was Boy Valet's qualifying effort for the Illinois Derby Wednesday, and the first time he ever paraded to the post sporting anything but the popular Bradley green and white jacket.

He carried the blue, white and purple silks of W. C. Stroube, wealthy oil and cattle man of Corsicana, Tex. Stroube purchased the son of Black Servant-Beach Talk from Col. Bradley in Maryland a few weeks ago.

Comes Up from Last.

Boy Valet won the six furlong dash like a real route runner. He came from last places to the front by the time the field had reached midstretch. Then he went on to win going away by two lengths from Dogmata, which was second. A length and a half farther back came Gaillardia.

Boy Valet galloped the six furlongs in 1:12, not particularly fast time, yet he went about the business of winning in such a businesslike way that he appeared to outclass his field completely. He was ridden by Jocky Eddie Arcaro, who didn't have to do anything but sit in the saddle and let the former Bradley colt do as he pleased.

Because he had not made many public appearances in workouts since coming to Aurora from Maryland, Boy Valet was neglected in the betting. The folks who had confidence in him, as they do in anything that comes from the Bradley farm, collected $16.10 to win, $7.72 to place and $3.22 to show. Dogmata's place price was $5.88 and to show he was at $3. Gaillardia, after being outrun all the way, paid $2.36 to show.

12,000 Sit and Swelter.

A crowd of 12,000 which sweltered throughout the afternoon, watched Boy Valet score his triumph. The splendid showing the son of Black Servant made more than likely will send him into the Illinois Derby as the second choice in the betting. Mata Hari, who is to arrive tomorrow, is sure to rule as the favorite, unless she gets off the car on her bad behavior. She's a devil when she decides that conditions are not just right.

The Governor's handicap attracted a field of six, with Gaillardia, Dogmata, and Minton getting most of the play. There was a plunge on Minton, owned by the Nash brothers—Dick and Pat—near post time, which drove the price against him from 10 to 1 down to 3 to 1.

At the start Loggia, the weak hearted daughter of Cudgel-Lotto, which races for Joe Cattarinich, the proprietor of the Aurora track, jumped into a lead and when she whizzed around the lower bend still holding it she loomed as a possible winner.

Dogmata Goes to Work.

She had nothing left for the run home. Dogmata soon passed her, as did Gaillardia and Boy Valet. The latter was going in a long smooth stride and was crowding Dogmata and Gaillardia. Half way down the stretch he raced past them. It was all over. Dogmata kept going long enough to beat Gaillardia out of second money.

This was Boy Valet's second start since he ran third behind the Brookmeade stable's Time Clock and Agrarian in the Florida Derby. His last start in Bradley's silks was in the Chesapeake stakes in Maryland, in which Calvacade, Agrarian, and Jabot beat him.

Bradley sells numerous horses every year and now and then a good one is included in these sales. Boon Companion was one of the high class steeds he let slip away from him, and Best Pal was another. Bradley's Choice went on to win many races after Bradley sold him.

BONTHRON SETS 2 RECORDS, BUT PRINCETON LOSES

Princeton, N. J., May 19.—(AP)—For the third time in as many weeks, the individual brilliance of Big Bill Bonthron failed to save Princeton's track and field forces from defeat today.

Bill Bill set up meet records in both the 800 and 1500 meter runs but the Tigers won only three other first places and lost to Cornell's well balanced team, 75 to 60.

Bonthron was clocked in 3:53.7 for the 1,500 meters, clipping nearly two seconds off his own meet record of 3:55.5, and defeated his nearest rival, Paul Vipond of Cornell, by 100 yards. In the 800 meters, the Princeton star raced to another impressive victory in 1:56.1.

Four other meet records fell. Jack Smithies of Princeton was credited with one of them, a :24.5 performance in the 200 meter hurdles. Walter Merwin of Cornell was clocked in 15.2 seconds for the 110 meter high hurdles; Bob Kane of Cornell was caught in 48.5 seconds for the 400 meter run, and Bruce Kerr of Cornell ran the 3,000 meters in 8:51.4 in the other record performances.

INDEFINITE BAR HANDED LEVINSKY BY CALIFORNIA

Sacramento, Cal., May 19.—(AP)—King Levinsky, heavyweight boxer who vanished from Los Angeles where he was matched to fight Art Laskey and was found this week in a Chicago hospital, was indefinitely suspended today by the state athletic commission.

"Failure to honor a contract," was the official reason given. Levinsky's sister, Lena, who holds a manager's license, also was suspended.

Iowa State Polo Team Defeats Illinois, 10 to 6

Ames, Ia., May 19.—(AP)—Four goals by Dilworth in the final period gave the Iowa State polo team its first victory of the season today, defeating the [illegible] of Illinois, 10 to 6.

Illinois Derby Wednesday Is Aurora Finale

The young fixture to be revived is the Illinois Derby, carrying $10,000 in added money, to be run at the Aurora track Wednesday afternoon. It will be the second running of this stake.

Three days later, on Saturday, will come the annual revival of the 60 year old Withers stakes at Belmont Park in New York. The prize for the Withers is $5,000 in added money. The Withers is at a mile and the Illinois Derby at a mile and an eighth.

New Ones in Withers.

With the Wood Memorial, Kentucky Derby, and Preakness out of their systems, the 3 year olds are now ready to settle down and fight it out for the championship in earnest. One or two of the topnotchers in the division haven't entered into the struggle as yet. Chief among these are George D. Widener's Chicstraw and Mrs. J. H. Whitney's First Minstrel.

Both these colts may be ready for the Withers and the mile of the New York race will suit them better, perhaps, than the mile and a furlong of the Illinois Derby.

It will be possible, but hardly likely, that some of our leading 3 year olds will fill both engagements. Thus the Withers will no doubt be strictly an eastern affair, while the Illinois Derby will draw all the leading westerners, along with a number of easterners who fancy the $10,000 of the Illinois race more than they do the prestige of winning such an ancient fixture as the Withers. There are about 50 eligibles to each race.

First Run in 1874.

The Withers was first run in 1874 and has been renewed each season except in 1911 and 1912. Its first winner was the colt Dublin. The following year Aristides, the first Kentucky Derby winner, traveled east to capture the Withers.

Many of the great horses of American racing have won the Withers. Hanover was the 1887 winner, Domino won it in 1894, the Huguenot in 1898. Colin in 1908, The Finn in 1915, and Hourless in 1917.

Some of the more recent winners were Sir Barton in 1919 and Man o' War in 1920 when he rattled off the mile in 1:35 4-5 carrying 118 pounds. Zev won it in 1923 and American Flag in 1925. Blue Larkspur was the 1929 winner and Jamestown captured it in 1931.

The Withers is fashioned as a warmup for the Belmont stakes and the conditions are much the same except that the Belmont is at a mile and a half. Only entire colts and fillies are eligible to both races.

Derby Run in Mud.

The Illinois Derby was first run last year over a very treacherous muddy track. The winner was Sweeprush, which did not amount to much after scoring the victory.

The winner this year should be a good horse, for the 3 year old division as a whole is stronger than at any time since 1928. Not nearly all the leaders in the division are eligible for the Withers, so that will help to swell the Illinois Derby field, the entries for which did not close until last Monday.

Easterners coming for the Illinois Derby will for the most part remain on the Chicago scene for two weeks. Ten days after the Illinois Derby is run the American Derby, carrying $25,000 in added money, will be revived at the Washington Park track in Chicago. The American Derby is to be decided Saturday, June 2.

Aurora track officials believe the Illinois Derby field will number 15 or more. The starters will come from the following list of eligibles:

| Horse. | Weight. | Owner. |
|---|---|---|
| New Deal | 119 | J. W. Parrish |
| Mata Hari | 117 | Dixiana |
| Our Sailor | 113 | Dixiana |

FOUNTAIN was rushed to the lead early, attained a commanding advantage during the first half mile, but weakened badly in the stretch and just lasted. GOLDEN STORM, in close pursuit throughout, closed fastest and probably would have won in another stride. NIGGER BECK finished strong.

THIRD RACE—Five and one-half furlongs. Purse $500. Net value to winner, $375; second, $75; third, $35; fourth, $15.

Daily double paid: $112.64 [2d and 3d races]. Winner trained by J. Burks. Went to post at 3:10. At post 4½ minutes. Start good from gate. Won easily; second and third driving.

MAXIMUM, reserved off the early pace, responded gamely under strong pressure, drew into the lead when urged and won in hand. VALLEY, under mild pressure disposing of POLYHOTE, continued gamely to the final eighth where she gave way to the winner and was under strong riding to outfinish RADIATION. Latter began slowly, gained fast in the drive and closed gamely.

Phillips. Went to post at 3:39. At post 3 minutes. Start good for all but Transbird from gate. Won driving; second and third same.

GULFELANO, taken in hand for the early racing, moved to the front when DROIT bolted, stood a long drive gamely to dispose of SISTER MARY and then had enough left to outlast TRANSBIRD. Latter, probably much the best, dwelt at the start, was far out of contention early, then closed an immense gap to finish fastest. SISTER MARY apparently in need of racing, gave a good performance for five-eighths, then weakened.

BOY VALET, outrun for three-eighths, came through on the inside, was lucky to find racing room, responded gamely to strong riding and won going away. DOGMATA raced LOGGIA into defeat after a half, but was no match for the winner. GAILLARDIA failed to keep pace under severe pressure.

ANNAN, racing as if much the best, followed the pace to the stretch, moved up when urged, continued gamely under strong riding, disposed of ELLEN D, then drew out to win in hand. LAMP BLACK, never far back, closed gamely under punishment. ELLEN D, apparently in need of racing, displayed high speed setting the pace for half a mile, then tired, but held on with good courage while giving way.

ALWIN, outrun to the stretch, was lucky to get through on the inside, gave improved speed under punishment and was up to win in the final stride. AUNT MARIE, badly ridden, was excessively used while holding a commanding lead, weakened and gave way right at the end. MISS BANE weakened in the drive.

Start Racing at Washington Park Thursday

Stakes

June 2—The American Derby, 1¼ miles, $25,000 added.

May 24—Washington Park handicap, ¾ mile, $2,500 added.

May 26—Debutante stakes, 5½ furlongs, $2,500 added.

May 30—Sweitzer handicap, 1⅛ miles, $2,500 added.

June 9—Curran Memorial, 5½ furlongs, $2,500 added.

June 16—Peabody Memorial handicap, 1¼ miles, $2,500 added.

Trains carrying hundreds of fleet thoroughbreds and their grooms are rolling toward Chicago today from Kentucky and New York and Maryland. For on Thursday afternoon the Illinois racing scene shifts to Washington Park, and an attractive 27 day schedule of stakes and purses, headed by the $25,000 added American Derby, insures entries from every major stable in the country.

The shortage of horses which was threatened when so many new race tracks opened this season has passed over Washington Park. About 600 horses have already arrived; four special trains are expected from Louisville within the next two days, now that the spring meeting at Churchill Downs has closed; prominent New York and Maryland owners have reserved stables at either Washington Park or Lincoln Fields that will be filled before the week is out. Indications are that the meeting will have 1,000 horses to draw from to fill its daily cards of eight races.

Stakes Help Decide Titles.

The contribution of Washington Park this season to the determining of the championships in the three age divisions—2 year old, 3 year old, and handicap—is likely to be greater than for some years. There are the Debutante stakes for fillies, and the Curran Memorial for colts and geldings to sift out the 2 year olds of class from those that do not live up to the expectations of their owners. There is the $25,000 added American Derby on June 2, one of the really important 3 year old specials of 1934.

For the handicap stars that prefer sprints, there is the six furlong Washington Park handicap on opening day; for those that prefer to do their running over a distance of ground, there is the Robert M. Sweitzer handicap at a mile and a furlong, and the Francis S. Peabody Memorial handicap at a mile and a quarter. The 3 year old fillies will have their own race in the Illinois Oaks at a mile and a furlong on closing day.

Winooka in Opener.

The Washington Park handicap which serves as the opening day stake fixture promises to be of higher interest in its 1934 running than ever before. For one thing 44 of the best sprinters in training were named before its closing on May 1. For another the Australian sprint star, Michael Polson's Winooka, has been nominated and is looked upon as a certain starter. Last season, although probably not thoroughly acclimated, the speedy Winooka demonstrated conclusively at the fall meetings in the east that it takes a good sprinter to beat him. Wintered with the Audley farm horses, Winooka has been showing great promise in his trials this year, and few shrewd horsemen would be surprised were he to prove the sprint champion of 1934.

TILDEN, COCHET WIN EASILY IN EASTERN TENNIS

New York, May 19.—(AP)—Henri Cochet of France and William T. Tilden II. of Philadelphia had no trouble winning first round matches in the eastern professional tennis tournament today.

Both will play in the second round tomorrow when Ellsworth Vines of Pasadena, third member of the Big Three, makes his debut against Perrine Rockafellow, former amateur.

Cochet was given a harder battle by Cole Bradley of New Rochelle than was Tilden, who easily vanquished Alan Behr of Bayside, 6-0, 6-2. Bradley lost to Cochet, 6-1, 6-4.

Martin Plaa of France defeated Basil McGuire of Greenwich, Conn., 6-2, 6-1; Charles Wood, Bernardsville, N. J., won from Abraham Bassford, New York, 6-2, 6-2; John Cardegna, Ardsley, N. Y., defeated Rudy Noble, Forest Hills, 7-5, 6-4, and Arthur Rudolph, New York, defeated Mel Kann, New York, 6-2, 6-1.

Crippled Far Star Second to Fiji in Kentucky Oaks

Louisville, Ky., May 19.—(AP)—The crowd which attended Churchill Downs' last regular racing program of the season today looked into the heart of a 3 year old thoroughbred filly and saw what makes a thoroughbred that way—courage.

Fiji won the 60th running of the Kentucky Oaks, but it was a little lady that trailed over the finish line in second place that was the real heroine. It was Far Star, C. T. Fisher's favorite, that beat Penncote for the place position on sheer courage.

The Dixiana farm filly took an early and commanding lead in the mile and an eighth race. She was breezing along down the backstretch, and then, turning into the straightaway, she faltered. She faltered, but she kept running, and nobody thought much of it until they saw Fiji, which was coupled with Penncote as the Young Brothers' entry, beat out the Dixiana filly. Then it was discovered that Far Star had become crippled way back yonder at the head of the stretch. She finished the race with a tendon hopelessly bowed.

Fiji won by four lengths in 1:51 3-5, and the Young entry paid $8.80 to $2. The gross purse was $3,160, of which $2,285 went to the winner.

Fishers Plan for Opening in Wisconsin

BY BOB BECKER.

There is a big red X on the fisherman's calendar this week. In fact, for many bait casters there are three X marks, because next Friday is the opening of the Wisconsin wall-eyed pike, muskalunge, northern pike [pickerel to thousands of fishermen], crappies, and rock bass fishing season.

With the season getting under way on a Friday, many anglers can get in Friday, Saturday, and Sunday in the north country. Black bass fishermen will have to be satisfied with northern pike, wall-eyes, and muskies until June 20, the opening day for both small and large mouth black bass.

Scores of Fishing Lakes.

Wisconsin has scores of lakes which offer excellent pike and pickerel fishing and, considering their nearness to Chicago and large number of anglers, pretty fair chances for muskies. The state has been stocking both of these species over a period of years.

Resort owners throughout the north country, rod and gun clubs, and others interested in improving the fishing also have taken a hand in promoting better fishing.

Among the Wisconsin lakes which invariably produce good strings of wall-eyes may be mentioned the Twin lakes, near Phelps. One of these lakes is rather large, while the other is small so that one can fish it in most any weather.

Big Fellows Caught.

Every year large pike are taken from a group of lakes near the headwaters of the Manitowish river. Here you find Wild Cat, Wolf, Fishtrap, and High lakes. Several Chicagoans, including John Schommer, Big Ten official, have taken prize winning wall-eyes from this territory, the fish weighing 12 and 13 pounds.

Southwest of this section in the Lac du Flambeau area are a number of lakes which offer good pike fishing and also a chance at muskies. Crawling Stone, Fence, Gunlock, Shishebogema, and others in this region continue to yield big strings of pike perch every year. These lakes are noted for their sand and gravel bottoms, which are ideal for wall-eyes. Last year, during the first days of the open season, an inexperienced Chicago fisherman tried his luck in Crawling Stone and crossed up the experts by hooking a 12 pound wall-eye in short order.

Flowages Provide Sport.

There are two flowages in Wisconsin which are well worth visiting for a string of wall-eyes or muskies. One Manitowish stretch of backwater is near the towns of Mercer and Manitowish. The other is not far from Hayward and known as the Chippewa flowage. Both are deep water areas, filled with old stumps and débris which offer fine cover for game fish.

Southeast of Winegar, Wis., which is close to the Wisconsin-Michigan boundary line, fishermen will find Crab lake a beautiful body of water stocked with wall-eyes.

Fishing regulations for Wisconsin have not been changed as regards bag limit and size. You may take 10 pike a day, each with a minimum length of 13 inches.

EQUIPOISE LOSES ON FOUL; FALL KILLS CHASE ME

First Place Awarded to Mr. Khayyam.

New York, May 19.—(AP)—For the second time in five years of racing, C. V. Whitney's Equipoise, mightiest of America's thoroughbreds, lost a race by disqualification today when he was charged with driving Mrs. James M. Austin's Mr. Khayyam into the rail in the 41st running of the Metropolitan mile at Belmont Park.

Equipoise, seeking his third straight triumph in the fixture, stepped home three lengths in front of Mr. Khayyam but his courageous effort went for naught as the decision of the judges went to Mrs. Austin's colt after the latter's jocky, Bobby Jones, had lodged a claim of a foul.

Chase Me Is Destroyed.

With the downfall of Equipoise went the last race for Mrs. Elizabeth Bosley's Chase Me, unbeaten in seven straight races since making his debut as a 4 year old last fall and heralded as Equipoise's most formidable rival. It was the first time the pair had matched strides.

Ridden by a steeplechase jocky, Frankie Slate, Chase Me broke his left front leg while running in full stride at the stretch turn. After being helped on the track he was destroyed, ending the career of one of the turf's most sensational runners. Less than a year ago he was winning blue ribbons in the show ring and was trained under the personal direction of his owner. Slate was uninjured.

The disqualification of Equipoise shoved Willis Sharpe Kilmer's Sun Archer into second place and moved W. R. Coe's Ladysman, champion juvenile of 1932, up from fourth to third.

Equipoise lost his other race by disqualification as a two year old when he finished five lengths in front of Vanderpool, then unbeaten.

Mr. Khayyam Loses Stride.

Workman had brought Equipoise from far back rounding the turn leading into the stretch. He reached Mr. Khayyam, stuck his nose in front, and then bore over. The impact threw Mr. Khayyam, winner of the American Derby, off his stride, and Equipoise went on to score by three lengths.

Jones immediately lodged a claim of foul and for nearly 15 minutes the stewards deliberated. Finally they ordered the numbers down and the crowd, the majority of whom had wagered on Equipoise at 7 to 10, acted as if stunned. Workman was suspended for the remainder of the meeting.

Equipoise Goes to Front.

Mr. Khayyam coupled with Good Advice at 12 to 1 in the betting, was up with the leaders from the start. Equipoise, together with Chase Me, trailed near the rear with Good Advice setting the pace, Jones held Mr. Khayyam in third and then second place until they reached the final bend. Then Equipoise made his move and like a whirlwind began to leave the others behind one by one.

GIANTS DEFEAT REDS, 6-5; HAFEY HITS TWO HOMERS

Moore's Home Run Protested; Fan Deflects Ball.

New York, May 19.—(AP)—The New York Giants closed their series against the Cincinnati Reds today with a 6 to 5 victory, giving the world champions two games to one.

The contest was featured by five home runs, two by Chick Hafey of the Reds, and a protest that followed a homer off the bat of Joe Moore, Giant outfielder, in the sixth inning. The ball was deflected by a spectator as it was about to fall into the right field stands. Umpire Rigler ruled the hit was good for four bases, but the Reds claimed it was only good for two under ground rules.

Although the Reds outhit the Giants, two damaging errors by Tony Piet, Red's second baseman, helped the champions win. Score:

DODGERS, 8; PITTSBURGH, 3.

Brooklyn, N. Y., May 19.—(AP)—Three Brooklyn pitchers combined today to give the Dodgers the decisive game in their series with the Pittsburgh Pirates.

The Dodgers nullified a four run Pirate rally in the eighth with one of their own to capture the game, 8 to 5, and finish on top in the series, two victories to one.

Ray Benge started on the mound for Brooklyn and for seven innings pitched steady ball, yielding only four hits for one run. The Pirates pounded him in the eighth, however, scoring a run for every hit. Emil Leonard relieved him in that inning and before the game was over he gave way to Art Herring. Score:

CARDS, 2; BRAVES, 1.

Boston, Mass., May 19.—(AP)—Tex Carleton of the Cards had the better of a pitching duel with Ed Brandt of the Braves today and St. Louis won, 2 to 1.

The Braves made three hits, two of them doubles with two out in the fourth inning.

A single by Collins through short in the eighth inning after Rothrock's single, a sacrifice by Frisch, and an intentional pass to Medwick, drove across what proved to be the winning run for St. Louis. Score:

Cubs Encounter Dodgers Today; Warneke Picked

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Philadelphia, Pa., May 19.—The Cubs went out of here in a hurry this evening bound for New York. They open a three game series with the Brooklyn boys tomorrow and that program will be followed by three with the Giants. Lon Warneke, who has won five decisions, will work in the opener at Brooklyn. Owen Carroll may be Brooklyn's starter.

The Cubs are steamed up over Bill Terry, who manages the Giants. They read in the papers where Terry said the team he would have to beat for the pennant would be the Cardinals. The Cubs now hope they can make the inflated Mr. Terry eat his own words.

Woody English's kid brother has won a job with the Fort Wayne, Ind., team at the princely salary of $75 per month. The youngster wrote his big brother about his good luck and at the same time requested a slight loan to tide him over until pay day.

The trimming gave Manager Grimm such a shock that he suddenly remembered he had received a wire at noon from Chicago telling him that Second Baseman Billy Herman would rejoin the team tomorrow. Grimm hopes Herman will be in condition to go to work immediately. The young man has been out for a week with a sprained ankle.

WHOOPING IT UP FOR THE NEW DEAL ON SOUTH SIDE

Phils Tie Cubs in Ninth, Beat 'Em in 11th, 6-5

on an infield single by Todd, after which Collins flied to Stainback.

The Cubs did a little hitting in the first two innings, but it was of no consequence as far as runs were concerned. They did better, however, in the third. Hack opened with a double to right center. Galan followed with his four base drive, and it was no fluke. The ball sailed over the fence almost in dead center. Klein was thrown out on an easy tap to the pitcher. Cuyler singled, but there was no further excitement for the time being.

Gift Run for Phils.

The run with which the Phils tied the score at 2-2 in the fourth, was in the nature of a gift. Allen opened with a single and Haslin flied high to left, but Klein dropped the ball. There was much booing over this. Allen took third and Haslin second on the error. Chiozza grounded to Galan who lost his head and tossed the ball to Jurges, but the latter promptly threw to the plate to nail Allen. Todd also rolled to Galan and an easy double play was in sight, but Jurges, after forcing Chiozza, threw wild to first base. The error let Haslin score.

The unpleasant happening for Tinning in the eighth began with a walk to Bartell. Moore sacrificed. Fullis also walked. Then Hendrick did his stuff. He lined over third and the ball came down fair by inches. Klein went in pursuit of it, but before he returned the ball to the infield, Bartell and Fullis had scored and Hendrick was on second. Allen bunted but was thrown out, and Haslin was caught on a hard grounder to Jurges. Then the Cubs went to work on the crazy ninth inning that put them in the lead for a few minutes.

Fullis First in Clowning.

The carnival of nose diving and fancy tumbling started with a single by Hartnett, who retired to let Warneke run. Babe Herman batted for Tinning and survived when Fullis dropped an easy fly ball. Hack bunted and then Chiozza cut in on the clowning by fumbling the ball. That filled the bases. Warneke got home with the first of the three runs when Galan forced Hack.

This was where a lot of master minding started. Collins was yanked so that Snipe Hansen, a southpaw, could pitch to Klein. Klein tapped to Bartell and Babe Herman was nipped at the plate. That was all for Hansen. Davis, a righthander, was brought in. Manager Grimm wasn't going to be left out in the cold on the matter of master minding, so he yanked Cuyler, a .360 hitter, to give Babe Phelps a chance. The idea behind this was that Phelps might hit one over or against the right field barrier.

Ah, a Good Idea!

Phelps didn't hit to right, but to left, and it proved a happy thought. Fullis went charging after the fly and was just about to take it in hand when he did a handsome dive along the ground. The ball rolled away for a double and Galan and Klein scored. Tate ran for Phelps, but the fun subsided when Stainback lofted to Moore.

Manager Wilson was responsible for launching the attack that put the Phils back in a tie in their half of the ninth. Wilson batted for Chiozza and sent one of Malone's offerings into short center for a single. Todd fouled out, Hurst batted for Davis and singled and Bartell forced Hurst. Then Moore singled and Wilson registered the tieing run.

Bonura's Two Homers Help Beat A's, 14-10

grounder. Zeke, however, reached out and grabbed the bouncer in time to complete the double play.

Uhalt Was Just Watching.

The Sox leaped to the fore again in the fifth. With one out Bonura singled to left and scored on Simmons' triple to left center. This caused Marcum to be wheeled off, Matuzak replacing him. Appling tapped to Foxx, Simmons holding third, where he died when McNair threw out Dykes.

Johnson led off the sixth with a homer into the areaway at the left of the center field bleacher, tying the score at 5 runs each.

Boken showed he can run some to give the Sox another lead in the latter half of the sixth. Bob led off with a single to center and moved up on Ruel's sacrifice. Gaston fouled to Berry. The fourth wide pitch to Uhalt went to the screen, enabling Boken to race home from second. Uhalt stood at the plate trying to figure what was going on when he might easily have reached second on the walk and wild pitch. Eventually he went to first and then was thrown out trying to steal second.

Boom! That Zeke Again.

The Sox' seventh was pleasant in more ways than one. With one out Zeke popped that No. 8 homer against the balustrade of the second deck of the left field stands. Simmons singled to center and reached second on a passed ball. Appling made his first hit of the series and his fourth in 39 trips to the plate, scoring Simmons, and took second when Cramer juggled the ball. Benton relieved Matuzak.

Dykes walked, then Boken singled to right, scoring Appling and putting Dykes on third. Ruel singled to center, Dykes scoring and Boken stopping at second. Gaston singled to center, Boken scoring and Ruel taking third. Ruel scored while Benton was throwing out Uhalt. Haas, who supplied the first out, also supplied the third.

The half dozen runs the Sox made in the seventh were not wasted insurance, For Gaston found himself shorn of all skill in the eighth and was permitted to linger until he was horribly bruised and lacerated.

The A's Fight It Out.

Johnson walked to start the A's eighth and stopped on Foxx' single to left. The runners moved up while Finney was grounding out to Bonura. Dykes made a sensational stop and throw to retire McNair, Johnson scoring. Higgins doubled off Dykes' bare hand, Foxx scoring. Then Moss batted for Berry and singled to left, Higgins scoring. Moss went to second on a wild pitch and scored on Pinch Batter Coleman's single to right. Manager Dykes at this point decided he'd gone far enough with poor Milt and called in the inevitable Wyatt. Warstler singled to right, but Wyatt threw out Cramer.

The Sox added a pair of runs in their half of the eighth on Simmons' third hit, a single to center, Appling's double, Dykes' long fly and Boken's third successive hit, a double to left center. Ruel flied out.

The A's made one run in the ninth on two passes, a single and an error by Appling and had the bases loaded when the game ended.

State Normal Captures Triangular Track Meet

Bloomington, Ill., May 19.—[Special.]—State Normal won a triangular track meet from Illinois Wesleyan and Bradley today, scoring 73 points to Wesley's 53 2-3 and Bradley's 35 1-3.

Earnshaw Picked to Face Red Sox in Opener Today

The Boston Red Sox, not quite so cocky as they were a few weeks back, but still plenty able, this afternoon will open a three game series against the White Sox. George Earnshaw will be good enough if he is half as good as he was against the Red Sox in Boston last Monday, when he held them to four hits for an 8 to 2 victory.

Milt Bocek, the pride of Cicero, who was sent to Sacramento by the White Sox just before they set out on their recent eastern trip, has been shipped to Dallas of the Texas league. He remains Sox property.

Catcher Eddie Madjeski, recently given his unconditional release by the A's, worked out with the Sox and will be offered a contract if he reveals, over a span of several days, that he can throw.

The Yankees will follow the Red Sox at Comiskey park. Joe McCarthy and his lads will be here Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday.

Evar Swanson yesterday reported headway in his battle against lumbago. He is urgently needed in right field in as much as his substitute, Berny Uhalt, is not hitting his weight.

IOWA DEFEATED BY NOTRE DAME SLUGGERS, 17-2

Notre Dame, Ind., May 19.—[Special.]—Notre Dame pounded out a 17 to 2 victory over Iowa today.

Paul Kane, Vic Mettler and Frankie Gaul hit homers. Gaul smashed the first ball pitched to him for perhaps the longest hit ever made in the local park. Kane, with a triple as well as his homer, drove in five runs.

Jim Leonard, football star, yielded two runs on two hits in the first inning, but gave up only three more singles thereafter. The score:

Iowa ....................200 000 000— 2 5 4
Notre Dame .......004 830 20*—17 14 3

MAROONS CHECK N. U. RALLY FOR 13 TO 11 VICTORY

Cutting short a ninth inning Northwestern rally which had netted four runs the University of Chicago baseball team defeated the Wildcats, 13 to 11, at Greenwood field yesterday. The game evened the score between Chicago and Northwestern, the Purple having won, 3 to 0, at Evanston Friday. Score:

Northwestern .....200 120 114—11 17 5
Chicago ..............022 300 60*—13 11 3

GROVE HITS HOME RUN WITH 2 ON; RED SOX WIN, 4-1

Boston Southpaw Holds Browns to 6 Hits.

St. Louis, Mo., May 19.—(AP)—Although his fast ball seemed to lack some of its old time zip, Robert Moses Grove, the $100,000 southpaw, held the Browns to six hits today and batted out a home run with two mates on base as the Red Sox won the series final, 4 to 1. It was Grove's first victory of the season.

Dick Coffman and Jack Knott, who divided the pitching for the Browns, allowed only six hits between them, but one disastrous inning, the seventh, in which the Red Sox scored all their runs, proved the downfall of the home team.

Cooke reached first on Melillo's low throw and Lary and Hinkle followed with singles, Hinkle's driving Cooke home. Grove then hit his homer, Lary and Hinkle scoring ahead of him.

YANKEES, 8; TIGERS, 3.

Detroit, Mich., May 19.—(AP)—Vernon [Lefty] Gomez registered his sixth consecutive victory of the season today by pitching the New York Yankees to an 8 to 3 victory over the Detroit Tigers in the final game of the series. It was the Yanks' only triumph in the set of three games.

Gomez held the Tigers to nine hits and was in trouble in four innings, but managed to pitch his way out without suffering any serious damage.

HEMSLEY RETAINS LONG LEAD IN BIG SIX BATTING

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Although Rollie Hemsley, St. Louis Browns backstop, hit safely only once out of three times at bat yesterday, his .422 batting average kept him far in front in baseball's Big Six.

The only changes in the standing affected fifth and sixth places, which saw Jimmy Wilson of the Phillies and Kiki Cuyler of the cubs supplant Hal Lee of the Braves and Paul Waner of the pirates in that order. The standing:

Florals to Meet Spencers Today in Two Games

GAMES TODAY.

Spencer Coals vs. Duffy Florals at Shewbridge field, 74th and Aberdeen streets; 1:30 p. m. [2 games].
Original House of David vs. Logan Square at Logan Square park, Kedzie and Elston avenues; 1:30 p. m. [2 games].
Kalamazoo, Mich., vs. Mills at Mills stadium, Kilpatrick and Lake street; 1:30 p. m. [2 games].
Chicago Firemen at Elkhart, Ind.
Chicago Giants at Benton Harbor, Mich.

The Duffy Florals will play the Spencer Coals in one of the double headers scheduled today in the Wisconsin-Illinois Baseball league. South side fans will see several new players in the Duffy lineup due to the new working agreement with the Davenport club of the Western league, a tieup which will send Chicago players to Davenport, and vice versa.

The Spencer Coals is a team made up entirely of youngsters. In former years the Spencers have sent a large number of young players into organized baseball. In today's games Carlson and Shaughnessy will hurl for the Spencers while Kohlenberg and Simms will pitch for the Florals.

At Logan Square the House of David will be the opposition in the Squares' first double header of the season. The long haired boys are enjoying one of their most successful seasons. Jim Vaughn and Bill Holabird will be the Logan pitchers.

At Mills park the home nine will take on Kalamazoo, Mich., in a pair of games. This is the first visit of the Kazoo outfit to Chicago. Lefty Sullivan and Malcolm Moss, two star southpaws, will pitch for the Mills.

Art Gilman, the first string Kalamazoo catcher, hasn't encountered a pitcher this season who could prevent him from making a home run. Gilman turned down an offer from Milwaukee, due to business reasons, and is considered one of the finest performers outside organized baseball.

Five of the visitors played at Western State Teachers college at Kalamazoo. Bill Snyder, first baseman; Fred Spurgeon, shortstop, and Rudel Miller, third baseman, played in the big leagues with Washington, Cleveland, and the Athletics, respectively.

The George Forth Boosters, who won the class B or amateur title in the Midwest league last season, have entered class A, the semi-pro division, this season. They will play at Aurora today. Other league games follow:

CLASS A [SEMI-PRO].

Peerless Dairy at Chicago Heights.
International Harvester vs. Sheridans at Willow Springs.
Elmwood Park vs. Cragin Merchants at Long and Fullerton avenues.
Miller High Life at Boltwood park, Evanston.
Birk's Goldecks at Niles Center.
Kaski Boosters vs. Maywood at First avenue and Washington boulevard.
Cracker Jacks vs. Forest Park at Harlem avenue and Harrison street.

CLASS B [AMATEUR].

J. Frank Lymans vs. Flack Boosters at Waveland avenue and the lake.
St. Gertrudes vs. Ten Bruins at Franklin Park.
Orioles vs. Union Printers at Harlem and Foster avenues.
Becvar Undertakers vs. Raab Tailors at 76th street and Ingleside avenue.
St. James Sportsmen vs. Derby Laurels at Grand and Central avenues.
Nemec vs. Mayfair Merchants at Foster and Kilbourn avenues.
Chicago Heights Merchants vs. Michaels Chi-Boys at Logan square and Elston avenue.

ILLINOIS WHIPS MICHIGAN, 7-6, ON HOME RUN IN 9TH

Champaign, Ill., May 19.—[Special.]—Red Duffner's home run over the left field fence in the ninth inning gave Illinois' baseball team a victory over Michigan today, 7 to 6, and maintained the lead of the Illini in the Big Ten race. There were two out when the sophomore first baseman from Jacksonville hit his homer.

Michigan scored three runs in the first inning by mixing hits with walks. Al Masek replaced Carlson and was effective.

Michigan ..............311 000 001—6 9 0
Illinois ................110 210 101—7 10 2

Batteries — Wisert and Chapman; Carlson, Masek, and Toncoff.

Deerfield-Shields, Highland Park, Ottawa, ½ each.

Charleston, Champaign, Johnston City, Litchfield, Metropolis, 3-5 each.

Champaign, Ill., May 19.—[Special.]—New Trier High school, Winnetka, was crowned state champion today at the 40th annual state interscholastic track and field meet held in the University of Illinois stadium under the auspices of the Illinois High School Athletic association.

New Trier wrested victory from a field of 500 athletes representing 188 schools with a total of 19 points. Rockford, defending champion, and Sterling Township, a dark horse in pre-meet predictions, were runnersup with 15 points each. Englewood, Chicago city champion, was fourth, scoring 10½ points.

New Mark in Shot Put.

Four new records were established. In the preliminaries yesterday afternoon Jack Freeston, 230 pound weight star from Atlanta, put the shot 52 feet 6⅜ inches to surpass the old mark of 51 feet 11⅛ inches made by Stephens of Joliet in 1932.

Today three more new marks were created, including one in the discus, in which a throw of 139 feet 5 inches, made by Byrd of Milford, had proved impervious to attack since 1910, until Bill Faymonville, New Trier's sturdy weight man, threw the discus 139 feet 8 inches.

Spurgeon Cracks Record.

Lowell Spurgeon, Centralia's all around star, who has scored in state competition for four years, broad jumped 23 feet 7¾ inches to improve upon the old record of 23 feet 3½ inches made by Stanzell, also of Centralia, in 1931.

Bob Gebhardt, Sterling, won the half mile in 1:59.2, which bettered the mark of 1:59.4 made by Wayne Rideout of Tuscola last year.

New Trier's victory resulted from the performances of three young athletes who contributed 18 points between them. Bill Faymonville led the trio with a first place in the discus, in which he defeated two favorites, Freeston and Ed Hahnfeldt, Palatine, and a third place in the shot put. Jim Kingsley, co-champion in the pole vault last year, won the event alone this year. The Winnetka relay team added an extra point by placing fifth.

Packard Wins Dashes.

Bob Packard, Rockford, was the individual star, with two decisive victories in the dashes, and a race as anchor man on his relay team that won first place.

Spurgeon was another individual star with his broad jump victory and a tie for first place in the high jump with Chisum, Englewood. Freeston placed second in the discus, in addition to his victorious toss in the shot put.

Sterling's bid for honors was made possible by the feats of Charles Hussong, mile champion; Bob Gebhart, half mile victor, and Sherman Baldwin, who placed third in the low hurdles and fourth in the high hurdles.

120 YARD HIGH HURDLES—Won by Maxwell, New Trier, Winnetka; Brandt, Oak Park, second; Fink, Rock Island, third; Baldwin, Sterling, fourth; Layman, Duquoin, fifth. Time, :15.7.

[New interscholastic record, former record 23 feet 7 inches by Spurgeon, Centralia, in preliminaries, 1934.]

AMONG THE FOLKS IN HISTORY

Reg. U. S. Pat. Off., Copyright, 1934, by The Chicago Tribune.

Start Play Tomorrow in Big 10 Golf

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Johnny Fischer, the angular Cincinnati blond, who is probably the greatest golfer the Big Ten ever has produced, may be over in Scotland with the American Walker cup team, and all that, but his absence will not detain the 1934 Western Intercollegiate conference tournament, which will be held at the Kildeer Country club, near Prairie View, Ill., tomorrow and Tuesday.

Of course, if Johnny were about the premises tomorrow, there might be no need for writing this story, since he ran off with the last two championships with incredible ease, taking the 1933 tournament, which also was decided at Kildeer, by 14 strokes. In 1932, as a sophomore registering from the University of Michigan, he had not only won the Big Ten title, but the National Intercollegiate and the qualifying medals in the United States amateur to boot. There was no doubt but that the boy was good, so good, in fact, that there was little debate about adding his name to this year's Walker cup cast.

Kocsis Cheers Michigan.

Johnny not being here, however, it might be well to glance over those who will seek to step into his place come dusk Tuesday. It might appear that with Fischer missing, Michigan, which had been enabled to win two consecutive team championships on the strength of Johnny's play, would be hard put to defend its title. The Wolverines, on the contrary, have been quite cheerful about the 1934 outlook, the principal reason being young Charley Kocsis of Detroit. If you have never heard of Charley, you are not up on your national golf archives, for he was making a name for himself as far back as 1930, when he knocked Francis Ouimet out of the National Amateur at Merion. In the following year he won the Michigan state open crown after a playoff with Tommy Armour, of all people, and Charley was just eighteen at the time.

Michigan may be depending on Kocsis and Ed Dayton, who finished in a tie for second last year, but Minnesota is willing to argue the point with Pat Sawyer. The latter, a bespectacled young man, is the Minnesota state amateur titleholder, and last year in the National Amateur at Cincinnati, was runner-up to Fischer for the qualifying medal, his own score being only one more than Johnny's, which broke a 37 year record for the amateur. Pat has been playing golf since he was eleven, and has never taken a lesson.

Brown, Flynn Lead N. U.

Capt. Bob Brown and Bill Flynn of Northwestern, who finished fifth and sixth, respectively, in the 1933 conference meet, are the hopes of Ted Payseur, the only real professional coaching a Big Ten team. Ed Mauermann, a consistent victor in district golf for some years, will lead Chicago, while Coach Frank Renwick of Illinois will depend on Lyle Hoffman, Roger O'Neal, Bob Baker and Elton Hill. Indiana will have Keith Campbell, and Wisconsin will count heavily on Bob Stegeman and C. R. Studholme. Ohio's best appear to be Tim Armstrong and Frank Hahn.

All ten schools will be represented this year, since both Purdue and Iowa, last year's absentees, are sending teams.

Fischer won last year's meet with a total of 301 for the 72 holes of medal play. That was sixteen strokes over par, but the 1933 tourney was played in the presence of often fickle winds, which sent a majority of the scores sky high, so high that Johnny was the only one in the field to play all four of his rounds in the seventies. His 301 was still more than enough to come home ahead of Dayton and Earl Larson of Minnesota.

Tourney on Water Course.

Michigan won the team trophy with a four man aggregate of 1,291 strokes, followed by Minnesota, 1,306; Northwestern, 1,328; Ohio State, 1,373; Wisconsin, 1,379; Illinois, 1,384; Indiana, 1,401, and Chicago, 1,431.

The water course at Kildeer, over which the tournament will be played, is reported to be in excellent condition for the two day onslaught of the conference's best. Kenneth L. [Tug] Wilson, athletic director at Northwestern, is president of the club.

Wonderbolts and Leaders Play for Triner Cup Today

BY OFFSIDE.

The championship of the National Soccer league, as well as posession of the Joseph Triner cup, will be at stake today when the Sparta Leaders and the Wieboldt Wonderbolts clash at Sparta stadium, 21st street and Kostner avenue, at 3 o'clock. The Ravenswood Scots and the Hungarians will play a preliminary match.

Long bitter rivals, the Leaders and Wonderbolts are within a point of each other in the standings. Should the latter team win or tie this afternoon's match it will win the title. The Wonderbolts have not lost in Chicago since last October and have won seven of eight league games. Sparta also has played eight matches, winning six, losing one, and being held to a tie in the other contest.

Joseph Triner, chairman of the Illinois athletic commission and also president of the National Soccer league, will start proceedings by kicking off the first ball. Following the game Mr. Triner will present the cup to the victorious aggregation.

Teams of the Workers' Soccer league will participate in the open competition for the Tom Mooney cup. Today's games include those involving the Northside A. A. and Necaxa, Latin-American kickers, at Winnemac park at 3 p. m.; Linnea, league champions, and Workers' Sport team at 59th and South Paulina streets at 3 p. m., and Fichet and Englewood at the same grounds. The matches will be in the first round for the cup.

A squad of south side soccer players will meet a group recruited from north side teams in a league benefit game today at Maccabee field.

The only major league team remaining in the running for the Peel cup is the Maccabee A. C. Armour, Calumet and Harvey were eliminated last Sunday. The Maccabees defeated the Sloboda S. C. to uphold league prestige in the chase for the historic Peel trophy.

Semi-final games for the Peel cup will be held next Sunday, with the final match being scheduled for June 3.

The British Legion is sponsoring a benefit bunko party for Meikle, Sloboda star, whose leg was broken in a game two weeks ago. The party will be held at Odd Fellows' hall, 63d street and Yale avenue., according to Robert Scott.

WOMEN NOW MAY WEAR 'SHORTS' IN THE SOUTH PARKS

Women who desire to play tennis in "shorts" need no longer worry about watchful police in the south park system. The park police yesterday received a ruling from V. K. Brown, playground superintendent, that such abbreviated costumes are no longer barred.

In the Lincoln park system there is a standing police order permitting "shorts." The west parks had a similar order last year, but William Schultz, west parks director of recreation, said he had not decided the problem this year. "The courts aren't open yet," he pointed out.

Butler Wins Indiana Collegiate Track Title

Richmond, Ind., May 19.—[U.P.]—Ray Sears led Butler to the Indiana intercollegiate track championship today, breaking two records. Butler scored 57 points. De Pauw was second with 51½. Other team scores included Ball State Teachers, 13½; Hanover, 9; Taylor university, 7; Indiana State, 6; Indiana Central, 2; Central Normal, 2. Sears set a new record of 4:24 in the mile and ran the 880 yard dash in the record time of 1:57.8.

Tom Sheehan Wins Illinois High School Golf Title

Champaign, Ill., May 19.—[Special.]—Tom Sheehan of Chicago Heights won the state interscholastic golf championship at the University of Illinois today, with a score of 152. Jerome Barber of Jacksonville was runnerup with 154. Vincent Oakley, Rockford; Frank Penning, Carl Schulz, Chicago, and S. R. Hill, Peoria Central, finished in the order named after they had played off a tie at 156.

Kansas Wins Big Six Track Championship

Lincoln, Neb., May 19.—(AP)—Glenn Cunningham, the nation's premier miler, won easy victories in three events today as Kansas athletes eclipsed two conference records, took eight first places and tied for another, in winning the annual Big Six track and field championship.

The Jayhawks rolled up a 68½ point total with Nebraska, winner the last two years, finishing in second place with 54 1-3. The others finished as follows: Oklahoma, 44½; Kansas State, 26 1-3; Missouri, 22 5-6; and Iowa State, 21½.

Harrington Breaks Javelin Mark.

Paul Harrington of Kansas brought the meet to a close by hanging up a new Big Six javelin record after most of the spectators and officials had gone home. Fred Chambers of Nebraska had been recorded as winner of the javelin and athletes were dressing when it was discovered the number of throws had been miscounted. The men were recalled and took additional throws.

On his last toss Harrington whipped the javelin out 208 feet 11 inches to shatter the 197 feet 9¼ inch Big Six record Ben Marks of Oklahoma made in 1932. Chambers tried again but could not do better.

The record was marked up alongside the new shot put record of Elwyn Dees of Kansas, 50 feet 1¾ inches, made on his first throw in the preliminaries yesterday.

Lambertus Wins Low Hurdles.

Heye Lambertus, fleet Nebraskan, raced 10 yards ahead of the field in a brilliant low hurdling exhibition to break the tape in 23.4 seconds, believed the fastest time ever made in the 200 yard event around a full curve. The mark lacked 1-10 of a second, however, of equalling the Big Six record established by J. Welch of Missouri in the 1930 meet.

DISCUS THROW—Won by Gilles, Oklahoma, 148 feet 4½ inches; Skewes, Nebraska, 142 feet 10 inches, second; Sauer, Nebraska, 137 feet 10 inches, third; Rist, Nebraska, 137 feet 8 inches, fourth; Lochiner, Missouri, 135 feet 1½ inches, fifth.

HALF MILE RELAY—Won by Iowa State [Nelson, Scott, Wessling, Shaltz]; Missouri, second; Oklahoma, third; Nebraska, fourth; Kansas State, fifth. Time, 1:28.6.

POLE VAULT—Won by Gray, Kansas; Coffman, Kansas; White, Kansas, and Lyon, Iowa State, in four way tie at 13 feet 3⅞ inches; Dean, Nebraska, and Nichols, Nebraska, tied for fifth at 12 feet 3 inches.

BROAD JUMP—Won by Hall, Kansas, 23 feet 11½ inches; Pitts, Kansas, 23 feet 9½ inches, second; Ward, Oklahoma, 23 feet 5⅝ inches, third; Coffman, Kansas, 23 feet 3⅞ inches, fourth; Cockburn, Nebraska, 22 feet 10⅞ inches, fifth.

TWO MILE RUN—Won by Cunningham, Kansas; Lochner, Oklahoma, second; Landon, Kansas State, third; Story, Nebraska, fourth; Beasley, Missouri, fifth. Time, 10:02.1.

220 YARD DASH—Won by Hall, Kansas; Jacobsen, Nebraska, second; Hatfield, Missouri, third; Cox, Oklahoma, fourth; Nelson, Iowa State, fifth. Time, 21.4.

SHOT PUT—Won by Dees, Kansas, 50 feet 1¾ inches; Gilles, Oklahoma, 48 feet 9 inches, second; Rist, Nebraska, 47 feet 5½ inches, third; Berger, Iowa State, 42 feet 2½ inches, fourth; Meikle, Oklahoma, 41 feet 6 inches, fifth.

880 YARD RUN—Won by Cunningham, Kansas; Guse, Iowa State, second; Hardy, Missouri, third; Miller, Kansas State, fourth; Hostetler, Kansas State, fifth. Time, 1:58.

HIGH JUMP—Won by Short, Missouri and Barham, Oklahoma, tied at 6 feet 3 inches; McGuire, Kansas, 6 feet 2 inches, third; Schmutz, Kansas State, 6 feet, fourth; Toman, Nebraska; Teter, Missouri and Roehrman, Kansas State, ties for fifth at 5 feet, 11 inches.

MILE RELAY—Won by Kansas [Schroeder, McNown, Graves, Hall]; Oklahoma, second; Nebraska, third; Kansas State, fourth. Time, 3:23.9.

120 YARD HIGH HURDLES—Won by Knappenberger, Kansas State; Dohrmann, Nebraska, second; Schmutz, Kansas State, third; Harris, Kansas, fourth. Time, :14.9.

100 YARD DASH—Won by Hall, Kansas; Jacobsen, Nebraska, second; Lambertus, Nebraska, third; Hatfield, Missouri, fourth; Cox, Oklahoma, fifth. Time, :09.7.

MILE RUN—Won by Cunningham, Kansas; Lochner, Oklahoma, second; Landon, Kansas State, third; Funk, Nebraska, fourth, Borel, Kansas, fifth. Time, 4:23.3.

440 YARD DASH—Won by Ward, Oklahoma; J. Cooper, Missouri, second; Scott, Iowa State, third; Coker, Oklahoma, fourth; England, Nebraska, fifth. Time, :19.9.

220 YARD LOW HURDLES—Won by Lambertus, Nebraska; Knappenberger, Kansas State, second; Dohrmann, Nebraska, third; Simms, Oklahoma, fourth. Time, :23.4.

JAVELIN THROW—Won by Harrington, Kansas, 220 feet 11 inches [new record]; Chambers, Nebraska, 197 feet 6 inches, second; Ripper, Iowa State, 190 feet ½ inch, third; Dean, Nebraska, 189 feet 2 inches, fourth; Reese, Nebraska, 178 feet 11 inches, fifth.

McInerney Breaks Course Record at Oak Hills

Tom McInerney shot a 35—33—68 yesterday at Oak Hills County club to break the course record for amateurs. The former record holder was Jimmy McGongill of Dallas, Tex., who had a 69, three strokes under par.

point winners with two championships each. Hornbostel won the one mile and half mile, while Fuqua was victor in the 220 yard dash as well as in the quarter mile. In all, Indiana athletes captured six of the fourteen individual championships.

Iowa Has Hard Luck.

Wes Busbee won the discus throw and Steve Divich was first in the pole vault when he cleared 13 feet 2 inches on his third trial. The members of Indiana's record smashing relay team and the order in which they ran were Don Harpold, Wes Bicking, Hornbostel, and Fuqua. This quartet won the same relay in the Pennsylvania and Kansas carnivals this spring.

Ward didn't have all the bad luck in the meet. Iowa figured to push Indiana in the relay and was ranked nearly equal to Ohio State, but Thomas, the Hawkeyes' first runner, pulled a muscle and Iowa withdrew at the start of the second lap.

In addition to Ward and Seeley, Duane Purvis of Purdue, who created a new Big Ten record last year in the javelin throw, joined the list of deposed champions. Purvis threw the spear 200 feet 5 inches, but an Iowa sophomore, Mark Panther, who led the trials yesterday, came through with a toss of 208 feet 2 inches, just 3¼ inches short of Purvis' all-time performance.

Five men were largely responsible for Illinois' championship. Three of them were sprinters, Hunter Russell, Vernon Eckert, and Huddie Hellmich, who scored 11 points in the short dash and 9 points in the 220 yard dash. The others, Chin Kamm and Dave Cook, scored 9 points in the shot put.

Russell Wins Dash.

Russell won the 100 yard dash in 10 seconds with Hellmich second and Eckert fourth. In the longer sprint Eckert, Russell, and Hellmich trailed Fuqua in that order.

Adams was second in the broad jump; Seeley held the same position in the pole vault; Van Meter was third in the javelin; Du Fresne finished fourth in the two mile run, which was won by Charles Popejoy of Purdue; Portman finished fifth in the low hurdles; Kamm picked up a point in the discus, and Illinois relay team finished fifth.

Northwestern's only championship was scored by Oliver Duggins in the low hurdles. He easily outdistanced the field and led all the way.

OKLAHOMA A. & M. WINS.

Des Moines, Ia., May 19.—(AP)—Scoring in nearly every event, Oklahoma A. & M. won the Missouri Valley track and field championship today with 61½ points.

Drake, defending champion, was second with 52, Grinnell third with 40, and Washington university and Creighton followed, with 16½ and 6 points, respectively.

Rigney, Oklahoma javelin thrower, broke the only meet record, tossing the spear 197.97 feet to beat his own mark of 192.71, made in 1933.

SHOSTROM WINS ILLINOIS PREP TENNIS CROWN

Champaign, Ill., May 19.—John Shostrom of Parker High, Chicago, defending state high school tennis champion, retained his title today when he won the singles in the state interscholastic tournament at the University of Illinois. Shostrom defeated Joe Ross of Oak Park in straight sets, 7-5, 6-2.

In the semi-finals Shostrom defeated Sivley of Peoria Central, 6-0, 6-3, and Ross won from McCoy of Tilden, Chicago, 6-1, 7-5.

Chuck and Bill Murphy, the tennis playing twins from Tilden High, Chicago, won the doubles championship when they defeated Bunt and Zajozkowski of Lane, Chicago, 6-0, 4-6, 6-0.

The Murphys previously had eliminated Shirk and Jones of Bloomington, 6-0, 6-0. Bunt and Zajozkowski won from Brannon and Lincoln.

A field of 214 braved yesterday's heat to compete in the annual spring get-together of the Ravisloe Country club, but the temperature was such that a number called it a day after the first eighteen holes. Allan Loeb, however, went the 36 hole route, winning the first gross prize for members with 74—80—154. Herb Fried came home second with a card of 78—79—157.

A. L. Auger headed the guests with 79—81—160, followed by A. W. Fremer with 89—88—177. Walter Rubovitz won the morning member prize with 41—41—82, and Carl S. Lederer, chairman of the sports and pastimes committee, was next with 42—42—84. Lederer had four 42 nine hole cards for the day. R. A. Aistchon won the morning guest honors with 40—42—82, and I. D. Cole was second with 50—45—95. Afternoon member prizes went to Jack Kamsler with 38—39—77 and George Newman with 40—39—79, while the guest prizes were carried away by Earl Tilley of Olympic Fields, 41—42—83, and M. Levenkind, 41—43—84.

WOODSON IS VICTOR.

Flossmoor's annual Get-Together day yesterday drew a field of 163 old and new members.

Old timers were led by Almer Coe and George R. Mitchell, two of the few original charter members left, having joined in 1899. B. E. Sunny, utilities magnate, and J. H. Wood, director of Carson Pirie Scott & Co., both with 30 years' membership, also were among the players. The youngest member, who joined yesterday, was Prof. J. W. Linn of the University of Chicago.

W. T. Woodson won the low net award for old members with 78—6—71 and K. J. Ward, the new members' prize with 99—26—73.

Russell Martin had low gross with 37—39—76. Other low scores were: W. T. Woodson, 78; D. W. Lamoreaux and M. J. Bransfield, 80, and J. L. Cotey and Frank Brawley, 82.

H. J. McElroy shot the best golf among the beginners with 44—38—82. R. B. Kramer had 86 and A. J. Blieser, 88. Scores:

BOROTRA ARRIVES AT LAST; FRANCE BEATS AUSTRIA

PARIS, May 19.—(AP)—Jean Borotra, who annually emerges from retirement to help out in Davis cup warfare, today almost cost the French a cup victory because he arrived late for the doubles matches with Austria.

Jean failed to show up at the scheduled time and Austria claimed default. When Borotra finally appeared it withdrew its claim and the match proceeded, Borotra and his veteran partner, Jacques Brugnon, smashing out a 4-6, 6-3, 6-3, 6-4 victory over G. Von Metaxa and H. Artens.

The doubles triumph was the third straight victory in the series and clinched it for France. Christian Boussus and Andre Merlin won both singles matches yesterday.

SWISS BEAT INDIA.

LUCERNE, Switzerland, May 19.—(AP)—Switzerland eliminated India in the European zone preliminaries of the Davis cup tennis competition today.

CHICAGO'S YACHT CLUBS SEE MOST ACTIVE SUMMER

Harbors Crowded; Open Season May 30.

The fleets of Chicago's 12 yacht clubs, as well as the 17 other clubs around Lake Michigan, all look forward to their most active summer. This is evinced by the harbors that from Wilmette to Jackson park are becoming more and more crowded with canvased and motored craft of all sizes—far in advance of the official opening of the yachting season on May 30—Memorial Day.

The outstanding feature of the sport this summer is the fact that Chicago now has the largest fleet of class R sloops in the world. Proud of this victory over Long Island and Marblehead yachtsmen, local skippers have scheduled an extensive series of regattas for this class.

Calypso to Race.

Dr. Hollis Potter is working on his famous Calypso at the yacht yard, so it is probable he will have her in the running this season. Commodore Samuel Dauchy's Varya, now in the able hands of Dr. A. R. Metz, will be in perfect condition for racing. Eight other R's, making up the fastest sloops of this class in the country, are being dropped down the ways preparatory to tuning up.

The first major event of Chicago yachting comes off June 23 when the Columbia Yacht club stages the 41st annual Michigan City race. A large fleet of both windjammers and motor cruisers will be entered, and two coast guard subchasers will act as race committee convoys. The Columbia club will hold 30 closed club races, the largest number in its history.

Series Opens June 29.

The Chicago Yacht club's Virginia trophy series for Q sloops is slated for June 29, 30, and July 1. The Sir Thomas Lipton and Nutting cups will be raced for off Belmont harbor, Aug. 9 to 11, inclusive, to decide the R and Eagle championship. The historic and always dramatic Mackinac race, sponsored by the C. Y. C., starts from Belmont harbor Saturday, July 21.

Beginning with the annual race to Saugatuck July 14 the Jackson Park Yacht club will conduct its share of the season's racing. The south side sailors are also preparing for the Q class Lutz trophy races, Sept. 7-9, inclusive.

Concurring with the city's Racine's Centennial celebration early in July, the Racine Yacht club plans an invitational regatta for all sailing classes, and stock runabouts and cruisers. Walter Stockton, director of the Sheridan Shore Yacht club, announced recently that the S. S. Race week, July 7-14, at Wilmette, is already attracting bids from Star class skippers in many out of town fleets, notably Lake Erie, Detroit, and Peoria.

BANKING LAW HALTS PAYMENT OF DEPOSITORS

Liability Clause Is Cause of Difficulty.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Could they have foreseen events more than half a century later the framers of the Illinois constitution of 1870 would probably have taken greater pains to avoid the ambiguity which crept into the clause dealing with the liability of stockholders in state banks.

The constitution provided that "every stockholder in banking corporation or institution shall be individually responsible and liable to its creditors, over and above the amount by him or her held, to an amount equal to his or her respective shares so held, for all its liabilities accruing while he or she remains such a stockholder."

The wording and the purpose of the clause is not unlike similar provisions in the statutes of other states. Because of the interpretations of the Illinois Supreme court, however, an unusual situation has arisen which is providing employment for hundreds of attorneys and auditors and which instead of helping depositors to get their money is actually holding up such payments.

Liability Never Runs Out.

The court has ruled—and reaffirmed its interpretation—the liability of stockholders never runs out. An individual may have forgotten that he owned stock in a bank 20 years ago, but if the bank closes today he is still liable for the amount of his holdings.

As a practical matter it is extremely difficult to determine the liability of former stockholders. The liability is limited to the amount of debt accruing during his period of ownership. If the deposits have all turned over since a stockholder disposed of his holdings he is free of liability.

Records of individual accounts must be checked back for years to determine what debts accrued during each stockholder's period of ownership.

This complicated procedure tends to tie up stockholders' assessment suits and throws the whole problem of collection into a legal jam. Voluntary payments are few. The courts are tied up with suits and the depositor waits for his money. There are 520 state banks in Illinois in receivership of which 151 are in Cook county. Thousands of former stockholders are affected.

Expect Better Interpretation.

Attorneys believe that it is only a matter of time until some forthright jurist gives a workable interpretation to the constitutional provision. Such attempts, however, have failed in the past. Attorneys defending suits of former stockholders have tried to persuade the courts that "accruing" as used in the clause should be interpreted in the sense of maturing. This would have meant that the deposit liabilities "accruing" or "maturing" at the date the bank closed. The court denied this contention.

The law is encouraging the trend toward nationalization of banks. In 1930 there were 1,283 state banks in Illinois. Since then 666 have disappeared, most of them failing, but a large number paying off depositors or getting a national charter. National bank shareholders' liability runs back only 60 days prior to closing.

In numerous cases action has been brought against persons who no longer are residents and who disposed of their shares years ago. A few other states have similar constitutional provisions which make such suits possible, but Illinois is the only place where the practice is common.

COLUMBIA FILM TO PAY CASH AND COMMON STOCK

The Columbia Pictures corporation resumed cash disbursements on the common stock yesterday with the declaration of a dividend of 25 cents a share, payable July 2 to holders of record June 15. Directors also voted a semi-annual dividend of 2½ per cent in common stock, payable Aug. 2 to holders of June 15. The corporation paid its last cash dividend, amounting to 18¾ cents, in October, 1931.

A dividend of 25 cents was announced on common stock of the American Sumatra Tobacco corporation, the first payment since January, 1930, when a quarterly dividend of 75 cents was paid.

Western Railway Club Fetes Golden Anniversary

Five hundred railroad officials and supply men will gather in the Hotel Sherman tomorrow night to observe the fiftieth anniversary of the Western Railway club. S. M. Vauclain, chairman of the Baldwin Locomotive works, will be the principal speaker. Officers for the new year will be inducted into office with A. N. Williams, president of the Chicago and Western Indiana railroad, replacing John E. Bjorkholm as president.

Stock Market Views Silver Plan Coldly

BY HOWARD WOOD.

Disclosure of the administration's silver plan is expected to be the event of chief interest in the coming week from a financial standpoint.

Scraps of information and many rumors have filtered out of Washington concerning the proposed silver legislation agreed upon during the last few days by the President and the silverites but none of it has been very definite.

The downhill trend of stock prices during the latter part of the week was generally accepted as indication that the new silver plan will be another dud. Instead of soaring on the talk of silver inflation, stocks staged a mild one day spurt and then fell off again.

* *

Usually the action of the stock market may be relied upon as a good barometer in a situation of this kind. Even though information is withheld from the public, somebody always gets hold of it and stocks suddenly go up or down, depending upon the character of the information.

What the stock averages have said this week is that the silver plan amounts to little or nothing. There was a little spirited buying on Thursday and stock prices as measured by THE TRIBUNE averages rose from 80.88 to 83.56. On Friday the average dropped to 83.03 and yesterday there was a further decline to 82.97 on a turnover of less than 250,000 shares—the dullest trade in nearly two years.

* *

Along La Salle street toward the end of the week the belief was growing that the silver plan would prove to be largely a talking point for silver state congressmen seeking reëlection this fall and that it would contain qualifications which would render it innocuous.

Silver legislation could affect the stock market in one of two ways or both. If sufficiently inflationary it could cause the whole list to soar. Second: without being more than slightly inflationary it could cause a big boom in shares of silver mining and smelting companies. The production of silver is an extremely minor industry in the United States and could be subsidized by congress sufficiently to boom "silver" shares without appreciably affecting other stocks, unless the silver relief plan should happen to hinge on a radical change in monetary policy.

* *

Even if the silver program turns out to be a false alarm it will not mean that the administration has turned its back upon inflation. There has been under way in Washington for some months a program of credit inflation which, if it ever gets out of hand, would render silver inflation insignificant by comparison.

The belief in financial circles is that the administration is so intent upon its own plan of "credit inflation" that it does not want to permit any other type of inflation to complicate the process.

DIVIDEND CHANCE OF MONTGOMERY WARD ENHANCED

Prospects that the remaining back dividends on Montgomery Ward & Co. "A" stock will be cleared up soon were enhanced by the good showing made by the company in the first quarter. First quarter operations yielded a profit of $2,261,000 against a loss of $2,196,000 in the comparable period last year.

Directors of the company are expected to meet in the next week or ten days. The last dividend paid on the "A" stock was $1.75 distributed April 2. In February $5.25 a share was paid on accumulations. Arrearages now amount to $7 a share. With only 201.554 shares outstanding, however, the accumulation does not represent an imposing barrier to resumption of regular dividends. The last payment on the common stock was made in the third quarter of 1930.

DOLLAR STEADY AGAINST FRANC; POUND HIGHER

New York, May 19.—The value of the dollar held steady today against the French gold franc in extremely light trading, due in large measure to the Whitsuntide holiday abroad. The dollar closed at 59.27 cents, and the franc at 6.61 cents.

The British pound was slightly higher at a final quotation of $5.11, but the Canadian dollar eased a shade to $1.001875. Other principal currencies were steady.

The Federal Reserve Bank of New York reported no gold movements locally, but announced that it had received word of the arrival in San Francisco of $666,000 gold from China.

Industrial Rayon Votes Stock Increase, Exchange

The Industrial Rayon corporation stockholders have approved an increase in authorized stock to 1,200,000 shares from 200,000 shares and an exchange on the basis of three new shares for each old share. The shareholders also approved a proposal that an option on 100,000 shares of new stocg at $30 a share be granted to six officers of the company.

Child Labor Rules Apply to Small Towns

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 19.—Employers in towns of 2,500 persons or less were ordered today by the President to comply with NRA child labor and fair practices provisions. His executive order modified a previous one by which these employers were exempted from compliance with the President's reëmployment agreement or with codes. They are still exempted from wage and hour, minimum price and assessment provisions.

"This exemption," the executive order read, "is intended to relieve small enterprises in small towns from fixed obligations which might impose exceptional hardship, but all such enterprises are expected to conform to the fullest extent possible with the requirements which otherwise would be obligatory upon them."

Exemption Limitations.

The exemptions applied only to towns not in industrial areas and to only those employers with not more than three establishments.

Blue Eagles will be granted to employers who comply with these limited provisions, and Gen. Johnson announced today that distribution to all complying employers would be taken over at once by code authority.

The new plan is expected to break the "bottle neck" which, because of a rush of hundreds of thousands of applications to state directors' offices and NRA national headquarters, has retarded distribution. It will also be a further step in the "decentralization" in detailed administration which is going on in the NRA.

Once isued, the Blue Eagles will be withdrawn only by the administrator on a recommendation of the national compliance board, and this is expected to keep the regulation of Blue Eagles in Gen. Johnson's hands.

Rule on Assessments.

In addition to withdrawal for any violation of labor or fair trade practices the Blue Eagle will henceforth be withdrawn also for nonpayment of code assessments where the code authorities' budget and assessment plan has been approved by the administrator.

Only ten industries or trades have thus far had their budgets and assessment rates officially approved. These include the authorities for the retail trade, retail food and grocery, wholesale food and grocery, retail bituminous coal, electric industrial truck, retail drug, retail jewelry, chain industry, hand chain host and imported date packing.

TRAFIC CLUB TO RIDE ZEPHYR, NEW FAST TRAIN

Six round trips between Chicago and Aurora will be made May 28 by the Burlington's Zephyr, streamlined, stainless steel train, carrying members of the Chicago Trafic club. On the same day Ralph Budd, president of the road, will explain the revolutionary type of train to a trafic club luncheon in the Palmer house.

Passengers will be allowed to ride only one way on the Zephyr, making the return on a companion steam train, so that more persons can be accommodated. Full speed will not be used, for the steam train will make the run in 48 minutes, or two less than the Zephyr.

Five Large Firms to Act on Dividends This Week

New York, May 19.—Important dividend meetings scheduled for the coming week include General Electric company, Standard Brands, General Railway Signal, North American company and Gillette Safety Razor. There were thirteen favorable dividend changes this week compared with fifteen the week before, Standard Statistics company reported. Unfavorable changes numbered seven against three last week.

ILLINOIS CENTRAL LINE WILL RUN 512 TRAINS DAILY DURING FAIR

Inauguration of its World's Fair service next Saturday calls for the operation of 512 trains daily on the Illinois Central electric suburban service, the road announced yesterday. This is an increase of 94 trains over service available on the opening day of the Fair in 1933, 76 trains over peak service of the last Fair, and 100 trains over present schedules. The increased service will be supplemented with extra trains as needed.

The schedules have been planned to obviate interference with service provided for year round suburban patrons. Many added local trains will accommodate Fair visitors most of the day, eliminating the necessity of stopping regular express and special trains at Fair stations.

Transfer of south side passengers to and from Fair trains will be made at Sixty-seventh street, instead of Fifty-third street, last year's transfer point.

TRADE CHIEFS TO GIVE VIEWS ON "NEW DEAL"

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 19.—The problems and possibilities created by the New Deal will be discussed by banking executives of firms which are members of the American Management association at its annual general management conference to be held at the Hotel Pennsylvania on Thursday and Friday.

Important management questions to be discussed include the possibilities of strikes within the next year or two; the relation of recovery in the capital goods industries to that in the consumers' industries; possible developments in employé representation; the need for more uniform taxation and the part management should play in obtaining tax unification; the extent to which the securities act and the proposed securities exchange act effect long term financing; and the factors needed to break the "log jam" in regard to long term financing.

William J. Graham, vice president of the Equitable Life Assurance Society of America, is president of the association and will preside over the conferences.

CONTROL BILL CAUSES GREAT LOSS IN STOCKS

The deflationary effect of certain phases of the administration's reform program when translated into dollars makes staggering figures, a compilation by Frazier, Jelke & Co., shows.

The market value of 100 representative common stocks depreciated $4,136,777,574 between Feb. 5, the eve of President Roosevelt's request for stock exchange regulation, and May 14, just after the senate approved the Fletcher-Rayburn bill. The 100 issues represent 511,699,963 shares, or about 39 per cent of the total listed on the New York market. The deflation is approximately equal to that shown from the midsummer of 1931 to the end of 1933 during more than 2 years of the bear market, the firm points out.

The brokerage house estimated that the $4,136,777,574 is sufficient to buy all of last year's wheat crop at $7.80 a bushel, build a million homes at $4,000 each or reëmploy 10,000,000 idle persons ten weeks at $40 a week.

New York Curb Session Dullest Since Late 1932

New York, May 19.—(AP)—The curb market closed slightly irregular today in the dullest Saturday trading since Nov. 19, 1932. Transfers approximated only 66,000 shares or approximately 6,000 shares over the previous low record. Sales last Saturday amounted to 144,000. With a few exceptions final price changes were fractional. Oils were steady but some of the utilities and alcohols finished slightly lower.

"Brain Trust" Was Old Stuff Century Ago

BY MAGPIE.

From the early nineteenth century—"It is true we have introduced into our subordinate administration at Whitehall some persons who have obtained the reputation of distinguished economists, and we allow them to guide us. But though ingenious men, no doubt, they are chiefly bankrupt tradesmen, who, not having been able to manage their own affairs, have taken upon themselves to advise on the conduct of the country—pedants and prigs at best, and sometimes impostors."

From "Endymion," by Disraeli, page 269.

An eastern financial service has the following comments to make concerning the New Deal: "The NRA was too noble an experiment to succeed. . . . While it has made a chiseler out of the employer, it has banded the employés into a form of racketeers." With reference to the agricultural adjustment act, it says: "Reduced acreage may be turned from a boom into a boomerang with a food shortage in prospect."

Controler of the Currency J. F. T. O'Connor is an opportunist of the first water, if reports in the Chicago Banker, midwestern banking journal, are correct.

The publication says that following a recent speech in Minneapolis, Mr. O'Connor, while receiving the customary congratulations, was approached by a "rosebud of a young lady."

"My name is O'Connor," she is reported to have said. "I thought we might be related."

A prompt kiss and "Yes, we're first cousins," brought a round of genuine applause.

Imposition of heavier margins on speculative grain holdings, a "brain trust" measure designed to curb speculation and thus curtail wide swings in grain prices, may prove a boomerang, grain traders believe.

With wheat around 90 cents a bushel a margin of 9 cents is required or $450 on a round lot of 5,000 bushels. Grains are entering the period known as a "weather market" when changes in weather conditions often bring violent fluctuations in price. Swings of three to five cents a day are common. Thus, a sharp downturn will immediately result in calls for more margin and failure to secure this will bring a flood of forced selling the following day, which may be sufficient to impair margins further and cause more distressed liquidation.

In the past smaller margins have been the rule and those persons now in the market are said in many cases to have used a large portion of their available funds to meet the more stringent requirements.

HOME LOAN BANK LOWERS RATE ON SECURED LOANS

A. R. Gardner, president of the Federal Home Loan Bank of Chicago, annouces that the bank has reduced the interest rate from 5 to 4 per cent on its secured loans with amortization provisions. The new rate is effective on advances of this character made after May 10, and will be applicable to existing loans July 1.

The rate for one year secured loans with no amortization provisions has been cut from 5 to 4½ per cent. The rate of 5 per cent is maintained for short term noncollateralized loans.

The reduction, which has been authorized by the federal home loan bank board at Washington, has as its purpose to provide easier credit to the building and loan associations which are members of the bank, in order to further home building and repairs.

DROUTH RELIEF PLANS BOOST GRAIN PRICES

Crop Loss Views Fan Bullish Sentiment.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Announcement that a government drouth relief program might involve the expenditure of $50,000,000 in the northwest and a continued flow of damage reports from that area and the central west fanned bullish sentiment in the grain trade yesterday. All grains closed higher, wheat gaining 1⅜ to 1⅝ cents; corn, 1¼ to 1½ cents; oats, ¾ to ⅞ cent; rye, ⅝ to 1 cent, and barley ¾ to 1 cent.

The bulk of the buying, however, was attributed to the professional element, which was greatly impressed by the heat and drouth. The government weekly forecast held out no hope of relief, although it indicated a shower period might be experienced tomorrow in the great lakes area. A long range Canadian forecast predicted showers toward the end of the week.

Crop Disaster Looms.

Messages from numerous points received by the trade yesterday declared that unless heavy rains fell before the end of the current month there would probably be a crop disaster. In some sections of North Dakota, it was claimed, the farms had the appearance of a desert.

Only scattered showers were reported in North Dakota Friday night with 5 points receiving .10 inches or more rain, the heaviest being .40 inches at Devils Lake. No moisture was received at all in South Dakota and the situation there is regarded as extremely grave. The winter wheat belt also remained dry. Parts of northern Alberta were again favored with scattered rains, but the bulk of the dry area in the three provinces remained rainless.

Winnipeg wheat was 1 cent higher for the day. Liverpool was closed for the Whitsuntide holidays and will not reopen until Tuesday.

Chinch Bug Damage Grows.

Menace to the small grain crops and corn by chinch bugs is increasing with every day of continued dry weather, and there were further reports of oats and barley fields being plowed up in Illinois and Iowa. H. C. Donovan, the Thomson & McKinnon crop expert who covered parts of western Missouri Friday, wired chinch bugs were more numerous than ever before.

A belief the government relief program would result in liberal purchases of feeding grains for use in the northwest was a factor in inducing buying of corn and oats and there was no material pressure on the market.

COMMUNICATION CONTROL BY U. S. DRAWS PROTEST

A resolution opposing the Dill bill, providing for government regulation of communication systems, was dispatched to President Roosevelt and Illinois congressmen yesterday by the Illinois Manufacturers' association.

"The United States enjoys the best communications system in the world," the message said. "Its development has been continuous and any change in the existing situation would seriously impair service. As a result we are unanimously opposed to control contemplated in the bill now before congress."

Toronto Stock Trading Tops 9 U. S. Markets

[Copyright: 1934: By the United Press.]

New York, May 19.—[U. P.]—Share trading in the United States dropped to depression levels today, with sales on the Toronto exchange exceeding the combined trading total in seven leading American cities.

Trading on the Toronto Exchange today, considered by many as chief beneficiary for North American stock transactions if there is a flight from American centers, totaled 377,000 shares. This compared with 462,000 shares last Saturday.

Volume in U. S. Markets.

The totals on various trading exchanges showed:

| | Today. | Last Saturday. |
|---|---|---|
| New York Stock exchge.. | 249,300 | 1,110,000 |
| New York Curb exchge.. | 66,000 | 144,000 |
| New York Prod. exchge. | 10,000 | 21,000 |
| Cleveland Stock exchge.. | 193 | 541 |
| Pittsburgh Stock exchge. | 1,817 | 3,725 |
| Boston Stock exchge...... | 7,421 | 21,106 |
| Philadelphia Stock exchg | 2,833 | 10,673 |
| Chicago Stock exchge.... | 8,000 | 51,000 |
| St. Louis Stock exchge... | 140 | 265 |

This brought today's total on these exchanges to 345,704 shares and last week's total to 1,362,307 shares.

The government tax on stock trading varies, based on par value of the stocks. At a rough average, the government income today would be $10,371, against $40,867 last week, a decline of $30,498.

Trade Dull Through Week.

The reduced trading carried out a week of market dullness, saved only here and there by sporadic bursts of buying and selling which soon died out. During the week 5,739,244 shares were exchanged on the New York Stock exchange, the third smallest week of the year. Last week there were 9,482,840 shares exchanged.

The government tax, on the same basis as today's computation, this week for transactions on the New York Stock exchange would be $172,177, against $284,485 last week, a decline of $112,308.

Commodity trading also was extremely dull today, only 24 lots of rubber being exchanged, against 641 last week, and 54 lots of silver, against 180 last week.

ASSAILS STEEL CODE BASIS; ASKS ROOSEVELT'S AID

Washington, D. C., May 19.—(AP)—Asserting the basing point practice provided in the steel code was "thoroughly reprehensible" and "fatally discriminatory against Minnesota industries," Representative Chase [Rep., Minn.] appealed to President Roosevelt today to correct it.

Chase said the practice, known in the middle west as Chicago plus, was the old Pittsburgh plus "evil operating under another name." Under provisions of the code, he said, Minnesota industries using merchant bars and billets are compelled to pay the price at Chicago, plus the all rail freight charge from Chicago to the fabricating point.

If the fabricating plant is in Minneapolis the company must pay a freight charge from Chicago, although the metal could be shipped from Duluth, less than half as far, Chase said. The Duluth fabricator, he said, is compelled to pay the rate from Chicago of $6.60 a ton, although the raw material is produced in Duluth and never has been in Chicago.

Chase recalled the federal trade commission order of several years ago abolishing the Pittsburgh plus system and pointed out that the commission is at present opposed to Chicago plus "for the same reasons."

JAMES LANDIS MAY DIRECT STOCK CONTROL

James M. Landis, member of the federal trade commission and one of the authors of the Fletcher-Rayburn bill, is reported slated to direct administration of the exchange regulation law. He will speak in Chicago June 5 before the Economic club.

Landis is a close associate of Prof. Felix Frankfurter, many of whose bright young men have found places in the Roosevelt administration. Landis joined the commission several months ago at the President's request, succeeding Raymond S. Stevens.

He was graduated from Princeton and spent four years in postgraduate work at Harvard. He served as clerk to Supreme Court Justice Brandeis and later as professor of legislation in the Harvard law school.

Estimate Small Drop in Union Pacific April Profit

Wall street quarters expect the April statement of the Union Pacific railroad to show gross revenues of $9,200,000, against $9,554,033 in the previous month and $7,795,625 in April, 1933. Net operating income is estimated at approximately $1,400,000, against $1,514,372 in March and $797,169 last year.

STOCKS SEESAW; TRADE DULLEST IN MANY MONTHS

Price Moves Narrow; News Is Lacking.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 19.—Not since dreams of turning the corner went out of fashion in Wall street has the stock exchange fraternity witnessed such a dull, featureless and altogether uninteresting market as that turned out today. The turnover for the two hours amounted to only 249,300 shares, making it the smallest in nearly two years—since July 9, 1932, in fact. The closest rival it had for that distinction within the period was the session of Sept. 9, last, when about 280,000 shares changed hands.

Dealings were almost entirely of a professional nature and a good part of the brokerage fraternity was away. During most of the session dealings were at the rate of only about ten a minute.

News Influences Lacking.

Appropriately, there was no important news to influence the course of trading and prices bobbed gently up and down with nothing more in the way of stimulus than the give and take of the handful of the professionals on hand. The final tables were irregular with minus signs having a shade the better of it.

Many of the leaders such as American Can, United States Steel, and Johns-Manville finished unchanged from yesterday.

Silver stocks, which have been the feature of dealings for the better part of the week, ranged lower most of the time. U. S. Smelting closed nearly a point lower but American Smelting edged fractionally higher on the last sale or two.

Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit figured in one of the most noteworthy transactions of the session when it opened on a block of 2,100 shares up 2 points over yesterday. Profit taking later shaved this gain by a fraction.

Western Pacific Shares Active.

Railroad share trading was enlivened by a special performance by Western Pacific, which a few weeks ago had a spectacular run-up that caused an inquiry by the stock exchange. The preferred and common were buoyant again today.

One of the three insurance companies that hold large blocks of the road's bonds has deposited in favor of the debt readjustment plan by which the railroad hopes to avert trusteeship. This has brought the total to more than 50 per cent accepting the plan.

One of the wildest declines was in Armour of Illinois preferred. DuPont again attracted selling due to apprehensions of the effects of the President's munitions message on the company's business.

Motor stocks were again under some pressure. The mail order and merchandising issues held steady.

BRITISH FRIENDS OF SILVER DISLIKE AMERICAN BLOC

Price Boost by Treasury Raid Believed Harmful.

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 19.—London's apathy to President Roosevelt's compromise scheme for silver is interesting when one knows the background. The truth is—though it is not apprecated in Nevada and points west—that England contains more friends of silver than the United States and these English friends have the heartiest possible dislike for the American silver bloc. In fact the gulf between them is wider and deeper than the Atlantic.

The English silverites include some influential persons: Gen. Long, connected with British banks in China and India; Sir Robert Horne, Sir Henri Deterding of Royal Dutch Shell Petroleum, and the "go ahead" section of the Lancashire cotton industry. Nearly all of them are organized in a silver association.

Silver Bloc Disliked.

Their position is that international monetary use of silver will be a real gain for the white metal, but that international action is made more and more unlikely by the strenuous efforts of the American silver bloc to boost the price through raids on the American treasury.

This attitude certainly lends color to the bullion market, for when the silver bloc appears to get politically stronger in Washington, London—possibly to the mystification of American speculators—turns pessimistic and sells. One even hears it said that the London silver agreement is of no service if the American treasury boosts the price much higher.

This Whitsunday holiday should be a jovial one for the steel trade, for the government with praiseworthy thoughtfulness has presented in the house of commons its long-awaited order continuing indefinitly its 33 1-3 per cent tarif on iron and steel duties due to expire Oct. 25.

Steel House in Order.

This means that the imports advisory committee, hitherto a somewhat acid critic of the iron and steel industry, has decided that the recent scheme for reorganization of the industry does constitute "setting their house in order," though it is not a compulsory plan and a good 25 per cent of the ironmasters of Great Britain have voted against it at every stage.

However, the treasury's order will go through without a hitch and the steel industry can now reckon definitly on a fairly high tarif wall behind which to struggle with its costs. But British exporters of finished steel products now are barred from using cheaper continental steel.

COTTON HIGHER; TRADERS PLACE HOPES ON SILVER

With a disposition on the part of cotton traders to buy, in the belief that there may be bullish message on silver tomorrow, there was a steady absorption of offerings and a stronger market yesterday. The volume of business, however, was limited and prices held within a small range.

October advanced 13 points at one time. Futures in Chicago closed unchanged to 6 points net higher, while other markets were up 2 to 8 points. New York dragged, only gaining 2 to 3 points.

Spot cotton in New York advanced 5 points to 11.65 cents; New Orleans, 10 to 11.60. Houston and Galveston were unchanged at 11.60 cents.

Textile trade is anticipating a curtailment of working hours. Weather reports and news from Washington are expected to be the dominating factors from now on. Prices:

New York, May 19.—In the slowest trading since October, bond prices on the stock exchange showed few material changes during the brief trading period today. Domestic corporation bonds, notably the rails and leading foreign loans, were slightly lower on the average. United States government bonds were firm. Home Owners' Loan corporation 4s, due 1951, touched a new record high at 100 and thirty-thirty-seconds.

Only a Few Are Active.

Only a comparative handful of domestic corporation bonds showed any appreciable activity. Of these Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific 5s, due 1975, closed unchanged, and the road's adjustment 5s, due 2000, were off 1⅛. American Telephone and Telegraph 5s, due 1965, were unchanged; Chicago and North Western 4¾s, due 1949, off ⅛; New York Central convertible 6s, due 1944, up ¼, and Western Pacific first 5s, due 1946, up ¾.

Foreign Loans Dull.

Trading in foreign loans was extremely dull. Japanese government 6½s lost a point and the 5½s ¼ of a point. Other Japanese issues showed minor variations in prices. German loans were slightly lower on the average. Price changes in the Latin American list were inconsequential.

Bond prices were steady on the curb exchange in both the domestic and foreign groups.

Instalment Savings Contracts.

Recent years have witnessed increasing popularity of the instalment savings contract. Any prospective purchaser should before making any commitment give careful consideration to all the factors involved in the purchase of one.

* *

He should first of all satisfy himself as to the financial stability of the issuer. Mere growth is not the sole factor. He should find out what the assets of the issuer are.

One such company that we ran across admitted that they played the market with the funds invested with them. They claimed that they were especially gifted and, with the aid of a special system, could make a lot of money. Nevertheless, such an organization does not appear to us to be the proper medium for a long term investment. The system might go out of date.

Many such companies invest their funds in amortized mortgages. The prospective investor should know just how the company has fared with its mortgages during the last few years, how many are in default and how many have had to be foreclosed.

Still others make long term commitments in the bond market. The investor should demand a statement showing what the position of the company is—the market value of its securities as compared to its obligations. There would be little logic in boarding a sinking ship.

* *

There is still another phase of the situation to be considered. Practically all of the contracts that we have seen are essentially long term propositions. The investor who signs up and pays monthly instalments for 17 months and then drops it receives nothing. Most of such contracts provide that no cash value accrues to a contract until it has been in force for more than 18 months.

Even then the amount received is only a fraction of what was put in. It is not until about the sixth year that a contract holder can cash in his investment and draw out what was invested, disregarding interest. This form of saving lacks liquidity.

The man whose source of income is uncertain has no business signing such a contract. Such a contract is also inadvisable for one who is unable to chart out an investment plan and stick to it.

An instalment savings contract might be suitable for an individual whose income is steady, who has enough liquid resources set aside to provide for contingencies and who is willing to set aside a definite sum at specific intervals for investment purposes.

$5,000 IN PRIZES BEING OFFERED FOR BAR DESIGNS

Nation-Wide Competition Is Announced.

BY AL CHASE.

Five thousand dollars was offered yesterday to the architects, artists and interior decorators of America for something to replace the old mahogany and brass rail of free lunch days, when a saloon was merely a saloon and not a tavern. The Brunswick-Balke-Collender company posted this amount of money for a nation-wide competition to secure the best designs for a de luxe bar, a commercial bar and a service bar. It will be conducted under the rules and regulations of the American Institute of Architects.

ROBERT F. BENSINGER. [Moffett Photo.]

The jury will consist of Robert F. Bensinger, president of the Brunswick-Balke-Collender company; Ernest Byfield, president of the Hotel Sherman; Karl Eitel, president of the Bismarck hotel; Benjamin H. Marshall, architect; John A. Holabird, of Holabird & Root, and two New York architects, Harvey W. Corbett and Ralph Walker.

Competition Closes July 2.

"The competition is one of design, color and arrangement, entirely free from mechanical details," said Mr. Bensinger. "The professional adviser is Angelo R. Clas of Holabird & Root.

"Application for entry blanks in the competition must be made by June 1. The competition closes July 2. It is open to architects, draftsmen, artists and interior decorators holding university, college or institute degrees, or who have had at least two years' practical experience, as well as students of architecture, art or interior decorating who have had two or more years of work prescribed by a university, college or institute."

Prizes Total 117.

The $5,000 awards posted by the Brunswick-Balke-Collender company at its headquarters, 629 South Wabash avenue, include a total of 117 prizes ranging from $500 to $25. The first prize for both the de luxe and commercial bar designs is $500. Second prizes are $250 each. Third prizes are $100 each. There are forty mention prizes of $25 each for each type of design.

The first prize for the service bar design is $350; the second prize is $175; third prize, $75, and twenty-eight mention prizes of $25 each.

MIXED BUSINESS TREND REVEALED BY TRADE INDICES

New York, May 19.—Statistics appearing last week indicated a mixed business tendency, according to Moody's index for freight car loadings, electric power and steel ingot output.

These index figures are adjusted for seasonal variation—that is, if the change from the previous week should coincide with the normal seasonal change, the index figure would be unchanged.

| | Car-loadings. | Elec. | Steel. | Combined. |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Latest week | 59.7 | 108.4 | 64.1 | 77.4 |

BANKS SPEEDING PLANS TO GIVE UP AFFILIATES

Action of Private Firms Secret.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 19.—With June 16 as the deadline for the discontinuance of security affiliates by banks and for separation of deposit business from security underwriting by private bankers, plans for complying with the law are moving swiftly to completion by the institutions involved. Thus far, most of the actual news and rumors have concerned the security affiliates, with little heard of the plans of the private bankers.

In 1931, long before the Glass-Steagall banking act was even put in tentative form, the Bankers Trust company discontinued its affiliate, the Bankers Company of New York. Later in the same year the affairs of the International Manhattan company, Inc., affiliate of the bank of the Manhattan company, were wound up. When the National City bank absorbed the Bank of America, the latter's security affiliate, the Bancamerica-Blair corporation, was divorced.

Chase Completing Details.

The Chase National bank is winding up the affairs of its affiliate, the Chase Harris Forbes corporation, and is moving to cut the ties between the bank and the Chase corporation, a holding company. The First National bank of Boston early this month moved to divorce its affiliate, the First of Boston corporation, giving its stockholders the right to acquire a minority interest in the First Boston corporation, which is to succeed to the business, a like minority interest being acquired by stockholders of the Chase corporation.

The name of the City Company of New York, Inc., successor to the National City company formed in 1911 as one of the pioneers of security affiliates, is to disappear. One or more new concerns are expected to be formed by certain officers and employés of the City company, rumor linking some with Brown Brothers, Harriman & Co., either through direct affiliation or through capital to be supplied by individual partners of the Brown Brothers, Harriman firm.

Guaranty Name to Disappear.

Likewise, the name of the Guaranty company of New York is expected to disappear, with such of its officers and employés as are not taken into the bond department of the bank, to form an outside organization. The Harris Trust and Savings bank of Chicago has already announced its plans for discontinuing its affiliate, the N. W. Harris company, Inc., liquidating the latter's assets for the benefit of the bank's shareholders.

Private banking firms such as J. P. Morgan & Co., and Kuhn, Loeb & Co., which have for years done a profitable deposit business in addition to underwriting new issues of securities, are affected by section 21 of the banking act of 1933 which makes it unlawful for "any person, corporation, or other organization engaged in the issue, underwriting or selling of securities to receive deposits subject to check or to repayment upon presentation of a pass book or certificate." It is interpreted that individual partners of private banking firms may hold stock in security distributing organizations, but firms, as such, cannot so do.

CHECK VOLUME HIGHER FOR WEEK; 33 PCT. OVER 1933

While checks cashed last week in the seventh federal reserve district were only moderately in excess of the preceding week, they were more than 33 per cent larger than in the corresponding week of 1933. In only three of the 40 leading clearing house cities of the district were debits to individual deposit account lower than the year before.

One hundred and fifty-three banks reported for the week ended May 16 that their debits aggregated $887,330,000, or 6.8 per cent more than the total of $830,823,000 in the preceding week.

For 37 cities volume was $884,601,000, against $656,385,000 last year, an increase of 34.8 per cent. In Chicago debits to individual deposit account were $531,451,000, against $428,227,000 in 1933; Detroit, $151,791,000, against $73,467,000; Milwaukee, $46,131,000, against $36,426,000; Indianapolis, $35,316,000, against $27,065,000.

PACE OF PUBLIC FINANCING LAGS FOR LAST WEEK

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 19.—With all of the new public bond financing this week consisting of municipal issues, a total of $8,620,000 of new obligations were offered to investors. Last week . w issues in the aggregate of $54,422,000 were ocered, of which $32,500,000 represented an issue of federal intermediate credit banks debentures and the balance state and municipal loans.

This week eleven municipal issues were marketed, ranging in size from $2,000,000 to $35,000. The largest issues were those of $2,000,000 city of Los Angeles, Cal., water bonds, and $2,000,000 city of Boston, Mass., notes.

BUTTER HIGHER IN SHORT COVERING; EGGS WEAKEN

Butter futures held firm, closing ¼ cent higher on the Chicago Mercantile exchange yesterday. Eggs eased ⅛ to ¼ cents.

New buying and short covering carried butter slightly higher, but a cautious attitude was apparent on the buying side. While the four markets reported 230,000 pounds less moved into storage than last year and no rain of consequence has been reported from production states, there appears a belief that even moderate precipitation would revive pastures and thereby increase production.

Eggs were under pressure, but new buying held fairly well. The four markets stored 14,600 cases less than last year, and receipts continued under the year ago totals.

COMMODITY PRICES GENERALLY HIGHER; GRAIN RISE LARGEST

Dry weather over a large part of the grain belt sent prices up sharply last week, the exception being rye, which sagged fractionally due to fears of further importations of foreign grain.

Wheat gained 3⅛ cents for the week and corn 2¾ cents. Commodity prices as a whole were higher, although actual gains were not large. Closing prices for the last two weeks, compared with the low levels of the season follow:

TRADE GROWING BETTER ABROAD, REPORTS REVEAL

Conditions Favorable in Most Nations.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 19. — Reports to the commerce department from widely scattered countries this week had a generally favorable tone, the weekly survey of foreign business conditions revealed today. However, details were extremely spotty. Reports were received from Canada, New Foundland, Hungary, Lithuania, Japan, the Philippine Islands, and Australia.

Pronounced acceleration in the production of automobiles and the high rate of output in textiles continue the features of Canadian commercial activity. Raw materials for these two industries have been the principal contributors to a marked expansion in imports, which is the high light of the latest foreign trade returns. Foreign shipments of automobiles have contributed also to a compartively large increase in exports, as compaed with February and with March, 1933. Employment and wholesale prices have declined according to official figures, the former by an amount somewhat larger than usual for the period.

Other Reports Favorable.

The first quarter of 1934 witnessed a slight improvement in the general economic situation in Hungary. Agricultural prices strengthened, industrial production was up, with a corresponding decline in unemployment, railway freight trafic increased considerably, and foreign trade made gains, but on the other hand the position of the national bank remained weak.

In Japan, general business showed signs of recession in the early part of May with credit somewhat restricted. The stock market ruled weak, reflecting the drop in silk prices to around 500 yen per bale following reports of lower consumption in the United States during April.

Conditions in China Spotty.

Shanghai, China, continues its appearance of prosperity owing to its very extensive building operations. The major industries, however, cotton, flour and cigaret production, are still depressed. Imports are coming in in fair volume, particularly of building materials, also pharmaceutical and toilet preparations. The value of imports for the first quarter of the year, however, is about 13 per cent below the import value for the first quarter of last year.

Holding of the Far Eastern Olympic games in Manila from May 12 to 19, inclusive, is attracting crowds from the provinces, as well as from abroad, with a stimulating effect upon retail business.

CONTROVERSIES ARE SENT TO GOLD CODE COMMITTEE

Denver, Colo., May 19.—(AP)—Gold producers of the United States today sent controversial code questions back to a committee for further study and then agreed to appeal to the federal government for loans of as much as $100,000,000 to aid their industry.

Delegates to the Gold Mining Association of America convention have shown overwhelming opposition to the imposition of a gold code, but they were unanimous at today's closing session to refer the entire matter to the association's code committee.

Harry Sears, president of the Mining Association of California, estimated government loans totaling $100,000,000 would result in the purchase of $40,500,000 in new machinery and equipment, $3,900,000 in miscellaneous mining supplies, $5,500,000 in building and construction supplies, $4,300,000 in provisions, food and farm products, and expenditure of $45,800,000 in labor pay rolls.

Estimate Illinois Central Covers Charges in April

Fixed charges were just about covered in April by the Illinois Central railroad, according to estimates in financial circles. In April, 1933, net loss of $284,105 was incurred.

SILVER FUTURES

With the President's message regarding proposed silver legislation expected to be issued early this week, there was no disposition shown on the part of traders in silver to get far either way. Trade was light yesterday, with only 54 lots or 1,350,000 oz futures changing hands. Closing trades were .07c higher to .07c lower. May finished at 45.24c, July 45.30c, September 45.55@45.60c and December at 45.80@45.88c. Foreign bar silver was ¼c higher at 45c per oz.

GREECE IS RIPE FOR U. S. TRADE; NEEDS EXCHANGE

Reciprocity and Payment System Required.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ATHENS, Greece, May 19.—The first question born of trade investigation in the Balkans is an old one. It is: "What can you use for money?"

Not that there aren't multiple signs in Greece of wealth. Expensive cars are on the streets, most of them American. A vast project to reclaim the marshes of Salonica is in progress, directed by an American engineering concern. New construction is visible in Athens, fine modern buildings rising near refugee huts—a heritage of the war with Turkey.

Greece is getting on its feet. The drachma is stable; a phenomenal reserve of gold and foreign valuta is in the Bank of Greece; the trade balance is improving steadily, and the Agricultural bank, one of the most sensitive indicators of conditions, has just reported a handsome net profit on a year's operations.

Living Standard Still Low.

Not that Greece is out of the woods yet. The standard of living among the poorer classes is admittedly low. Still, heroic efforts have been made to ameliorate the situation. There is a market again in Greece, and one particularly fitted to the American productive system.

The American genius for contriving mechanical devices of whatever description—automobiles, radios, industrial machinery, typewriters, and a host of small gadgets like door locks or plumbing fixtures—provides a long inventory of commodities which Greece needs, eventually will have to buy, and prefers to purchase in the United States.

The farther you go from Athens the more sudden and more rare the evidences of American commercial enterprise become. The land is teeming with possibilities, and the American exporter should remember that Greece is filled with returned immigrants, or families of Greeks still in the United States, to whom an American trade mark is a guarantee.

Must Arrange Exchange Basis.

To reach them, however, it is necessary to surmount the barriers brought by depression. It is imperative first of all to find exchange. Some way must be discovered, in each case, to make the dollars earned in Greece by Americans come back to Greece in terms of drachmas. Or, since the dollars earned here are not permitted to leave the country, but are kept on deposit as drachmas to the credit of the American business house with trade in Greece, it is essential that this American collect his profits in the United States from the dollar deposits held by Greeks or by Greece in the United States.

This process would ordinarily take place, of course, in the common exchange of international trade. But such ordinary exchange is now completely disrupted, and it should be emphasized that if blame lies anywhere, the skirts of Greece are as clear as those of any other country. Greece, like many other nations, strives to keep her own money at home, and as much of the world's as possible.

ENGLAND TAKES UP OLDER COINS TO SAVE SILVER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 19.—According to tomorrow's Sunday Times, banks throughout Great Britain have been requested to withdraw from circulation all silver coins of 1920 and pre-1920 coinage.

The fact that the silver contents of such coinage is nearly double that of the silver coinage minted subsequent to 1920, declares the Times, suggests that the old silver coins will be melted down and the silver sold in the United States. It is pointed out that under the proposed legislation President Roosevelt is to be given discretionary powers to buy in the world market all the silver necessary for creating a metallic reserve.

Financial circles in London discredit the idea that silver will be accepted by America in payment of the war debt, as was the case of the last British token payment, pointing out that under the Thomas amendment the President was given power to do so only for a limited period, which has now expired.

PACKERS BUYING CATTLE ON EVE OF WORLD'S FAIR

Lighter Animals Advance; Hogs About Steady.

Buying of beef for the needs of the World's Fair, which opens next Saturday, May 26, was a major factor in the cattle market during the last week. In anticipation of a wide demand for light cuts for this trade, packers were eager buyers for light steers and hefers at sharply higher prices.

Light cattle closed 50 cents to 60 cents above the low spot of the week, while some of the bigger weights actually sold for less than a week earlier. Yearling hefers, which enjoyed such preëminence in last summer's buying, are in even better demand now. They reached the highest point since the latter part of 1932 on last week's bulge. Yearling hefers already are 50 cents above the highest spot of last summer. They topped at $7.25 during the week.

Beef Steers Average Lower.

The general average price of beef steers for the week at $6.85 indicated a 30 cents decline, but this reduction was attributed to the plainer quality of receipts. The liquidation of cattle from the dry areas has not been heavy to date, but the drouth situation in most of the cattle country is regarded as alarming. The buying of replacement stock has dropped off materially in all leading cattle feeding sections as a result of the serious feed and pasture shortage.

Reports from all sections indicate that unless there is relief a general liquidation from farms may take place from many of the driest areas, particularly from the southwest. The Federal buying of hogs has been a failure as a prop to the market, but packers report that this buying is clearing the commercial channels of a lot of plain and medium quality pork, which is being fed to the idle. This has enabled packing houses to furnish the largest share of better grade pork to the paying consumer, it was said.

U. S. Buys Pork Cheaply.

The chief purpose of the buying by the FSRC is obviously to obtain pork as cheaply as possible for the unemployed, but quality in relief pork is being sacrificed in doing so. Relief hogs being purchased anywhere from 15 to 50 cents under the top quotations are mostly unfinished lights forced in by the drouth and feed situation and the unfavorable ratio between corn and hog prices, created by the sealing of corn by the government. Sellers complain that the refusal of the "relief" buyers to pay up with the commercial buyers for the better grades of hogs is having a depressing effect on the whole price list.

Sellers have been unable to halt the decline, which started early in March immediately after the processing tax was increased to $2.25. Every week since has shown a reduction in the hog price ranging from 5 to 15 cents weekly. Last week's average was down 5 cents to the $3.55 line, and compares with $5.05 a year ago. This makes the eleventh consecutive week that the hog price has declined.

Week-end Prices Steady.

The meager supply of hogs offered on the week-end trade sold steady considering the poorer quality. Butchers averaging 290 pounds topped the list at $3.65, but the trade was carrying a nominal quotation of $3.75 for selected 220 to 250 pound averages. The average at $3.50 was off 5 cents owing to quality.

Starvation sheep receipts sent lamb prices sharply higher toward the end of last week. The run at Chicago at 30,400 was smallest since the railroad strike period of 1920, when only 10,000 arrived in one week. A year ago the run was 59,269 and two years ago 70,063 arrived. Quotations at the close were fully 50 cents above the opening of the week, but the general average at $8.65 was lower, due to the larger share arriving without fleece.

SUGAR.

NEW YORK, May 19.—(AP)—SUGAR—Raw sugar declined 5 points for spots to the basis of 2.75c on a sale of 24,300 bags of Philippines in port concluded late yesterday to a local refiner. There was further interest at this level and additional sales were reported of 23,850 bags of Philippines in port today, but for later arrivals nothing was available below 2.80c. There was a very small trade in futures, as operators were not disposed to make fresh commitments, pending developments from Washington on the quotas to be fixed for Cuba and insular possessions. Prices moved within a range of 1 point and closed with net losses of 1 to 2 points, reflecting the easier tone of the spot market. Sales were only 650 tons. Prices:

GOLD MOVES HINT U. S. MAY USE ITS STABILIZING FUND

Indicate Co-operation with Great Britain.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 19.—Unusual movements in government deposits and in the monetary gold stocks, disclosed in the weekly federal reserve reports in the last few weeks, appear to many to indicate that the treasury is preparing the stabilization fund for a period of active operation, involving international coöperation, particularly with Great Britain.

The first of these moves was the turning over to the fund some time ago of $200,000,000 indicated by a reduction of that amount in the treasury's $2,000,000,000 liability toward the fund set up in the daily treasury statement against the assets represented by increment from the revaluation of gold.

Creates Deposit Balance.

Of this $200,000,000 about half was provided by the deposit by the treasury with the federal reserve banks of gold certificates, thereby creating a deposit balance. In the federal reserve reports of two weeks ago this $100,000,000 was transferred from the account of the United States treasury to the classification of "other deposits," in order that the fund's use of the money might not be so readily traceable in the weekly reports.

The most interesting of the steps taken thus far, however, has been the apparent transfer to the stabilization fund of a sum of gold amounting, possibly, to more than $27,000,000 in the last three weeks. This has been disclosed in the net reduction of the monetary gold stocks by $2,000,000, in the period, although imports and earmarking transactions should have increased the gold stocks by $20,124,000.

$5,100,000 Newly Mined.

In addition, receipts of newly mined gold, estimated at about $1,700,000 a week, should have added another $5,100,000.

It has been suggested that the treasury, in setting aside $200,000,000 for the stabilization fund out of the two billion dollars to which the fund is entitled, must have decided to supply one-half in the form of deposit balances with the federal reserve banks here and to make up the remaining half gradually through gold transfers.

Such an arrangement would give the stabilization fund the means of operating on both sides of the foreign exchange market.

LARD FUTURES STEADY; SHIPMENTS SHOW GAIN

Little speculative interest was taken in the provision market yesterday, and price movements were narrow. Lard and bellies futures closed unchanged. Cash lard was unchanged at $6.12½ for regular, while loose dropped 5 cents to $5.70 and leaf was unchanged at $5.75.

Cash trade in bellies was good and the market firm at $8.37½. Pork loins were steady at 10½ to 13½, the same as for several days. Lard shipments from Chicago for the week were 8,734,000 pounds, compared with 7,988,000 pounds the previous week and 5,936,000 pounds last year. Prices:

FAIR TRAFIC PLAN STARTED; OPEN 'ROAD HOG' WAR

Motorists Get Chance to Learn System.

Some of the main features of the trafic plans for A Century of Progress were inaugurated yesterday and others will be initiated this week so that Chicago motorists will become familiar with the system before the boulevards are crowded with Fair visitors.

"The careful plans of the trafic engineers," said Charles M. Hayes, president of the Chicago Motor club, last night, "are designed to relieve congestion, to reduce hazards, and to make automobile operation in Chicago more pleasant and efficient. But more important than any regulations or policing in attaining these ends is a reform in the conduct of individual drivers.

Too Many Road Hogs.

"There are too many road hogs on the streets of Chicago. With the toll of accidents rising and with the seasonal increase in trafic volumes and with the arrival of large numbers of visiting motorists, it behooves all of us to review our driving habits to see that we are as courteous at the wheel of an automobile as we are in our homes or offices."

THE TRIBUNE roadster, in a three hour tour of the city's pavements, encountered a score of these "road hogs." The term is not in the dictionary, but it is a familiar and descriptive one originally applied to the fellow who did not give half of the driveway when two horse drawn buggies were passing. Today it is applied rather generally to those guilty of thoughtlessness, inconsiderateness, or selfishness in trafic.

West bound in Lawrence avenue during the evening rush hour, a long string of cars was waiting for a red light to change at Sheridan road. A light sedan, with the "I gotta drag" trick license number Ill 515-151, passed the line of cars by using the left side of the street and then with scowls from its passengers cut back through those who had been waiting and made a right turn into Sheridan road.

Records Show Arrests.

The office of Secretary of State Hughes reports that this number was issued to Cornelius Peter Van Schaak Jr., 7453 North Hoyne avenue. Newspaper clippings show this son of a wealthy wholesale druggist was frequently arrested for trafic violations in north shore suburbs in 1930 and 1931. His state license was twice revoked by the secretary of state because of his frequent speeding arrests.

Other cases noted cannot be compared with Mr. Van Schaak's record and are herein cited merely as examples of thoughtlessness. Southbound on the four lane one way pavement of the outer drive south of Foster avenue was an old car with license 728-092 [issued to Mrs. Hannah Krogsrud, 2318 Irving Park boulevard]. It was in the third lane from the right and moving but 22 miles an hour, where trafic was traveling 45 miles an hour.

In Washington boulevard in Oak Park, a sedan with license 840-875 [issued to John R. Sutherland Jr., 942 Washington boulevard, Oak Park] was checked at 17 miles an hour. On the same busy boulevard, but within the limits of Chicago, a bus with license 13-909B [issued to Harry C. Alley, 1402 South 16th avenue, Maywood] was blocking trafic by hugging the center of the pavement at speeds ranging from 16 to 22 miles an hour.

Cut Into Trafic.

In Michigan avenue two automobiles cut into a long line waiting to turn left into Monroe street to reach the outer drive. The license numbers were 452-175 [issued to Seymour A. Baker, 5244 Ingleside avenue, and 311-203 [issued to Henry C. Schwab, 3301 South Michigan avenue].

In Wabash avenue, in the loop, a truck with license 14-553B and bearing the name of the Morgan Linen Service, Inc., charged with horn sounding to cut ahead of a small touring car that was nearly crowded into one of the elevated line's pillars.

Another of the slow drivers noted in the tour carried license 629-547 [issued to Harold N. Williams, R. F. D. 1, La Grange]. There was a man and woman in the front seat and they were apparently unaware that their 27 miles an hour was not appropriate for the center of the south outer drive.

Other Road Hogs.

Other "road hogs'" license numbers noted were: 506-608, issued to Jessie Robertson, 210 North Crawford avenue; 915-662, issued to D. R. Garrick, 1325 West Randolph street, and 398-471, issued to Hybo Scheutens, 1139 South Taylor avenue, Oak Park.

"The excessively slow driver is a menace and a nuisance as well as the excessively fast driver," said Otto Jelinek, south park trafic engineer, who designed the Fair trafic plan.

One feature of this plan calls for a minimum speed of 35 miles an hour on the pavements paralleling the Fair grounds when this speed can be made without zigzagging from one lane to another.

MOTORS—TRAFIC—HIGHWAYS

SPEED AS A HAZARD

It isn't a question of exceeding the speed limit here; even twelve or fifteen miles an hour may constitute excessive speed when the driver is approaching an intersection when the pavement is wet and slippery.

NEWS AND VIEWS

Hudson Motor Car company announces a new Terraplane six series which will deliver at $70 less than the current Terraplane models. The new car is identical in size and power with the present Terraplane "special" series and is known as the Challenger. These new models are now on display at Butler Motors, Inc., Chicago Terraplane and Hudson distributors, and all associated dealers.

A novel demonstration of Hupmobile's "coördinated suspension," designed to provide the utmost in modern riding comfort with complete driving safety, has been devised by Gambill Motor company, distributors, Michigan avenue at 25th street. The demonstration proves conclusively claims of Hupmobile engineers, according to C. E. Gambill, president of the company and a director of the Hupp Motor Car corporation.

For demonstration purposes a front wheel of a 1934 Hupmobile, series 417 "W" sedan, is driven over an eight-inch Chicago street curb. The frame of the car and the body remain perfectly level despite the fact that one wheel is more than a half a foot off the ground line.

Retail deliveries of Graham cars by the Bird-Sykes company and associate dealers in the Chicago territory showed a 380 per cent increase in April over the same month last year, according to George H. Bird, president. He added that April also produced a substantial gain over March and took its place as the largest month since April, 1930.

Mr. Bird stated that retail sales thus far in May are running ahead of the same period last month and that the company's wholesale volume has also been excellent.

Word has just been received from L. F. Johnston, president of the Chrysler-Illinois company, announcing the appointment of Fred Hawkins, veteran Chrysler and Plymouth dealer on auto row, as head of the new downtown Chrysler and Plymouth agency.

"At last Fred Hawkins' dreams of a downtown automobile establishment are realized," said Mr. Johnston.

More than 2,500 Nash-LaFayette retail salesmen have just completed a sales course conducted by the Nash Motors company, according to an announcement made by C. H. Bliss, vice president and director of sales. The course was conducted through Nash-LaFayette dealer organizations throughout the country and began simultaneously in all sales districts with the opening of the Nash-LaFayette spring sales drive.

Voice of the Trafic

HORNER'S PLEDGE.

Chicago, May 16.—Is Gov. Horner sidetracking his promise to build a west side superhighway? If that is his object, I know of no better way for him to do it than to have his highway engineer to issue the statement that was published in THE TRIBUNE last week saying that it was the Chicago council's job to select the route and the design.

If the question of the route and the design is too hot for our timid governor to settle, how does he expect fifty aldermen to reach an agreement? Aldermen from the north side and from the south side can't be expected to favor anything for the west side. Horner knows where the superhighway should be built; he doesn't lack information; all he needs is courage. WEST SIDER.

THE POLITICIANS' CRY.

Chicago, May 16.—We hear a lot of politicians yelling for a reduction of automobile and gasoline taxes. Their arguments are generally about as informative as the old campaign gag favoring a full dinner bucket.

Why don't these same politicians do something to bring about an honest and efficient expenditure of the money collected from the motorists? As an automobile owner, I favor tax cuts solely because I suspect the paving money is being wasted. Heaven knows, any Chicago driver can point out a hundred streets that should be fixed.

I wouldn't mind paying my license fee and gas tax to the state if Gov. Horner would build a west side elevated highway. I wouldn't mind paying the city vehicle tax if Mayor Kelly would fill some of the holes in the streets. But I object to paying for improvements that I don't get. R. S. L.

NEW ROUTE TO WEST.

Iowa City, May 12.—The contract, as you probably know, has been let for a bridge to span Rock river near Joslin, Ill., and with route 82 extended west from a point where it now turns south into Geneseo to connect this bridge, and on west to route 3, running north and east on the west side of Rock river, will provide a very direct route between Moline and the Quad Cities into Chicago, via Mendota, Aurora and La Grange.

This new route will make it possible to avoid the rough paving, with numerous curves over old Ill. 7 [U. S. 6] between Moline and Geneseo, where trafic picked up route 82 north, thence east to join route 92 to a point where it joins old Ill. 18 [U. S. 32], east to Mendota and Aurora. The new route from west of this new bridge [82 and 92] to junction of present U. S. 32, later to be known as U. S. 34, has few curves, is practically new paving and a few small towns—thus fast time for trafic for at least 40 miles. ROBERT N. CARSON.

TAX DODGER.

Chicago, May 10.—Several weeks ago I reported that a neighbor had not as yet applied for the 1934 vehicle tax. It seems to me that my first letter was answered, by that I mean he removed the automobile from the street up to last week, but it is again parked in front of his home and no 1934 tax has been applied for.

If this fellow can get away with it there will be many more of my friends who will work the same policy next year. A fellow like this should be penalized to the full extent of the law, as violators like this fellow will cause other people to follow. LAW ABIDING.

COTTONSEED OIL.

NEW YORK, May 19.—(AP)—Bleachable cottonseed oil was steady today with trading light. In absence of aggressiveness either way there was little change in values with the market closing net unchanged to 1 point higher, reflecting the steadiness of other commodities. Sales were only 3 lots. Bleachable spot nominal; May closed 5.15c; July, 5.25c; September, 5.47c; October, 5.54c; December, 5.68c.

Petillo Hits 119 M.P.H. in Trial Run

Indianapolis, Ind., May 16.—(AP)—Apparently unhampered by new rules restricting gasoline consumption and the use of special gears, drivers attained dazzling speeds today in qualifying trials for the annual 500 mile race May 30 at the Indianapolis motor speedway.

Kelly Petillo, a petite Californian, tore off the 25 mile qualifying run at the average speed of 119.329 miles an hour. The time was a record for the 25 mile qualifying distance, which has been in effect the last two years. The spins previously were limited to ten miles.

Turns in Fastest Lap.

The former record was 118.381 miles an hour and was established a year ago by Wild Bill Cummings of Indianapolis.

Petillo also was given credit for turning the fastest lap ever made at the speedway in a rear drive car. He went around the two and one-half mile course on his third lap at an average of 122.166 miles an hour.

The qualifying runs were made under the rules which place a limit of three gallons on the amount of gasoline that may be consumed and also forbid the use of special gears and extra carburetors.

Shaw Wins Place.

Petillo's teammate, Wilbur Shaw, of Indianapolis, qualified later in the day with an average of 117.645. Their cars are owned by Joe Marks, a Gary, Ind., fruit dealer.

The time trials will be continued tomorrow and then will be recessed until next Thursday.

Frank Brisko was first to qualify. He was on the track shortly after 8 a. m. and drove around at an average of 116.894. Brisko was followed by Mauri Rose of Dayton, O., whose mark was 116.044.

INDIANA PARKS AT TURKEY RUN BECKON AUTOISTS

BY HAL FOUST.

Trees, centuries old, with massive trunks and with branches spread a hundred or a hundred and fifty feet into the air; cañons, cool crevices carved by glacial waters in limestone and sandstone that was the bed of a pre-glacial tropic sea; wild flowers and delicate ferns; the songs of a dozen varieties of birds, echoing in the gorge of a splashing stream—these are some of the attractions that draw thousands of Chicago motorists 150 miles south into Indiana each summer.

The place? There are two such places—Turkey Run state park and its privately owned neighbor, The Shades, both an easy four hours' drive from Chicago. The route is over U. S. 41 for almost the entire distance. Signs advise where to leave the main highway for a jog of a few miles to these preserves of more than ordinary beauty.

3,000 Acres of Woods.

THE TRIBUNE roadster made the trip last week. The joy of the holiday is found afoot at the destination, along the marked trails through the 3,000 acres of rugged woods, where the only traces of man are conveniences, paths, bridges, and directional signs. Without these conveniences the area would be virtually impenetrable.

Leaving Chicago—south bound in the outer drive, following the U. S. 41 markers to Whiting, Ind., and on south paralleling the Indiana-Illinois state line—you'll be impatient to set foot on the shaded trails, but you'll also enjoy the hours in the automobile. The bright and fresh colors of A Century of Progress buildings are passed; Lake Michigan is at the left albow to Jackson park; thence through South Chicago for a glimpse of tall stacks and giant stills of the steel and refining industries, and south through Hammond, Ind., to reach the open road.

Traverses Few Towns.

U. S. 41 is designed to satisfy the normal impatience of motorists to get somewhere with a minimum of delay. Its alignment resembles that of a railroad and it traverses few towns. It is comparatively free of the meandering and of the Main street blockades found on most roads of Illinois where the meddling of local politicians dominated the judgment of engineers.

Leaving the zone of Lake Michigan's weather influence, an advance of two or three weeks in the season is noted in the larger leaves on the trees and the heavier grass in the meadows. Mankind each spring watches the revival and growth of plant life as if awed by a development in which he takes so little part.

A farmer halted his plow in a dusty field. Maybe he was reckoning prospects from a distant cloud. Maybe he was cogitating Secretary of Agriculture Wallace's latest pronouncements. Maybe he was merely resting his horses, or his feet.

A motorist's mind wanders speculatively like this, there's so little to occupy either brain or muscle in driving a good car on a good road.

Unfair Competition.

The entrance to The Shades is gravel while the entrance to Turkey Run is state pavement. This discrimination in roads is one example cited by J. W. Frisz, 71 year old manager of The Shades, of competition from the state he labels as unfair to him as a taxpayer. The private resort has been there for 48 years, under present management for the last quarter of a century.

On the front porch of The Shades hotel, Mr. Frisz identified the tall trees in his yard as sycamores, white oaks, red oaks, shell bark, and black hickories and bass wood. A nearby dogwood, dwarfed by the towering giants of the forest, was in full bloom.

We strolled on a path through a small canyon of moss and fern covered rocks, jack-in-the-pulpits, violets and spring beauties at our feet, and drank from cold, crystal clear springs. It was sunset and the woods were alive with birds singing their good night melodies.

View Sugar Creek.

We drove to the point of a bluff with Sugar creek, a good sized stream, flowing 210 feet below, almost directly below. On the precipitous bank of the river were pines, yews, hemlocks and red cedars mingled with a wide variety of deciduous trees.

"We have over 2,000 miles of scenery like this," said the proprietor, whose vigor forbids the adjective aged. "We have thirty-five miles of these trails. The resort has been paying taxes for nearly half a century and we don't mind competition from the state as long as the state plays fair."

Turkey Run, nearby, has 1,300 similar acres and also has a hotel, built by the state and leased to an operator. The admission price to both parks is the same, 10 cents a person, and the price of accommodations are about the same.

MAJOR KELKER ON STAND, AIDS PLEA FOR BUSES

Resume Hearings in Case Tomorrow.

Two days of testimony last week before the Illinois commerce commission by Maj. R. F. Kelker, traction engineer for the city council committee on local transportation, marked the city's intervention in the Northwest highway feeder bus case, on the side of proponents of the service.

The city's intervening petition was filed with the commission April 12 by Assistant Corporate Counsel Frank J. Breen, acting on instructions contained in a city council resolution.

In his testimony Maj. Kelker cited both the 1907 and the 1930 traction ordinances, which specify transportation service by a city-wide traction system in the territory that would be served by buses on the highway.

Holds Bus Service Inadequate.

Maj. Kelker also pointed out that residents of outlying districts are entitled to adequate transportation service where there is a monopoly, such as that enjoyed by the Surface lines. A point made by the traction expert, which was felt to have telling effect for the improvement case, was that the Surface lines apparently recognized the need for adequate service on the Northwest highway when they agreed to provisions in the 1930 traction ordinance which specifically provided for a transportation extension on the highway.

Maj. Kelker, on extended cross-examination by counsel for the Surface lines, reiterated what he had said previously as to the necessity for feeder bus service on the highway. To a direct question as to whether the service being supplied by an independent motor coach company was adequate, Maj. Kelker gave a negative answer.

In substance, the highlight of his testimony was that the establishment of feeder bus service would not be an unnecessary duplication of the present route of an independent bus company, and that the bus company now operating on the highway was neither able nor willing to remedy the inadequacy of its service by providing the required additional facilities with reduced fares. The proposed feeder bus extension, Maj. Kelker declared, would be essentially different in type and character and superior to the service now being rendered.

Resume Hearing Tomorrow.

The hearing will be resumed at 2 o'clock tomorrow in the commission's offices at 1 North La Salle street, when counsel for the independent motor coach company will cross-examine Maj. Kelker. The company is opposing, along with the Surface lines, the petition of improvement groups for the service on the ground that it is providing adequate transportation and that installation of feeder buses would be an unnecessary duplication of its route, resulting in ruinous competition.

Residents of the territory are asking for feeder buses with transfer privileges. They now pay two fares, one of 10 cents on the independent buses and one of seven cents on the Surface lines.

Under authorization of a city council resolution introduced by Ald. Henry J. Wieland [38th]; Assistant Corporation Counsel Breen last week petitioned the Illinois commerce commission to order the Surface lines to rehabilitate its track in Irving Park boulevard from Austin to Neenah avenues, in connection with a street widening and repaving project under way on this stretch.

This was the second step in a three point program recently drafted by far northwest side improvement groups, after the Surface lines had refused to proceed with the necessary track rehabilitation.

Call for Court Action.

The program adopted at a mass-meeting sponsored by the Addison Heights Betterment and Protective association, the West Irving Business Men's association, and the Ridgemoor Improvement club, called for the introduction in the council of a resolution asking the Surface lines to rehabilitate its track, and authorizing the corporation counsel to petition the commerce commission for an order to that effect; petitioning the commission direct for such an order, and third, a hearing before Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson, in whose court the street car company is in receivership, for an allocation of funds for the project.

The Surface lines refused to go ahead with the work on the ground that it does not own but leases the track on the north side of the street. According to George J. Trinkaus, who called the meeting to draft a plan of action, the steps necessary to get the track rehabilitation work started and the work itself should not require more than two months, making it possible for the entire street improvement to be completed by the middle of the summer. When finished Irving Park boulevard from Austin to Neenah avenue will be a 53 foot roadway.

Ladies of Isabella Visit Hines Hospital Tomorrow

The Ladies of Isabella, Immaculata, Tonti, ad Madrigall councils, will pay a visit to the soldiers at Edward Hines Jr. hospital tomorrow. Cards will be played and refreshments will be served. Miss Irene Rabiega, 2154 North Kostner avenue, is Grand Lady of Immaculata council, and Miss Cora Diebold, 2748 North Rutherford avenue, is chairman in charge of arrangements.

Schurz High School Pageant Traces History of Poland

"Wings of an Eagle," a pageant of Polish history, will be presented by the Schurz Polish club of Schurz High school, at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon and at 7:30 this evening at the Logan Square Masonic temple, 2451 North Kedzie boulevard. There will be a cast of 200, and more than 300 costumes representative of various parts of Poland will be displayed. Some of the colorful costumes to be seen are shown in the picture. Standing, rear, left to right: Steven Lubawy, George Demsbki, Emilie Kaminski, Daniel Kaminski, and Rupert Derenzowski. Seated, left to right, Lydia Doman, Florence Gelerak, and Ella Rusiecka.

SPRING DANCE CHAIRMAN

Miss Norma Sarnatzky, 2737 North Sawyer avenue, is chairman of arrangements for the fourth annual spring dance of the Logan Charity league at 8:30 o'clock this evening at the Covenant club, 10 North Dearborn street. Miss Gladys Kraut is co-chairman. The other members of the committee are Miss Betty Levine, Miss Gladys Kaplan, Miss Dorothy Rosen, and Miss Jeannette Libin. Miss Faye Levant is president of the league.

OUR TOWN

Paragraphs About Some Folks You Know.

DR. H. A. ECKERS, 1756 North Artesian avenue, was pleasantly surprised the other day when his morning's mail brought him an autographed photograph of President Roosevelt and a friendly letter from Stephen A. Early, personal secretary of the President, acknowledging his review of the President's book "On Our Way." The review appeared in The Tacoma [Wash.] Western Viking.

Dr. Eckers, who is Chicago correspondent for nine Scandinavian papers printed in the United States, as well as representative for an organization of Norwegian newspaper publishers, has been told that his review, published the day after the book was released, was one of the first [and at the time of the report, the only review] published in the foreign language press in the United States.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry G. Merens of 530 Belmont avenue will be at home from 2 to 6 o'clock today, in observance of the confirmation of their daughter, Enid Rosalyn, at Temple Sholom.

Othrs of our townsmen who have announced "at homes" on the confirmation of their daughters today are Mr. and Mrs. Philip J. Toubus, 534 Stratford place, daughter, Shirley Ruth, confirmed at Temple Sholem; Dr. and Mrs. Emanuel Weinstock of 2206 North Kedzie boulevard, whose daughter Muriel Dulcy will be confirmed at the Beth El temple, and Mr. and Mrs. Harry G. Zeitlin, 3723 Pine Grove avenue, at 8 o'clock, on the confirmation of their daughter Gladys. Our Town congratulates these young people and their parents. Also, Winifred Appleton, Irving Berger, Norma Cristol, Harriet Gerber, Benny Gudalmun, Evelyn Herman, Geraldine Rosenfeld, and Natalie Simon—all of whom are being confirmed at the Logan Square temple this evening.

"YES, We Have No Bananas," is no longer the theme song in the greenhouse of our townsman Edward N. Miller, 1627 Catalpa avenue. Mr. Miller bought a banana tree five years ago, and for four years his purchase seemed fruitless. In fact, it was—quite. But this year the plant, which has four stems, is bearing both blossoms and fruit. Our townsman estimates that the fruit may be picked in several months—but when the fruit is picked, he says, the stem it is growing on must be cut down, and will not bear again for five years.

Placing slugs on the Western avenue car tracks was almost fatal to Eugene Olson, 13 years old, 2340 Granville avenue. He didn't notice an auto coming—and was taken to the Martha Washington hospital with cuts on his face and bruises on his body. The kids in Our Town could profit by Eugene's experience and stay off the car tracks—also. the back ends of the buses. The police have orders to arrest any one found sneaking rides on bumpers,

Mrs. Thomas H. Gould, who is now convalescing at her home, 2180 Wilson avenue, has had two operations for appendicitis. The first operation was performed in January, and Dr. J. P. Hoffstadt found that the appendix was ruptured and could not be removed. So on May 2, another operation was performed and the appendix removed. Mr. Gould and their four daughters—Mary, Patsy and Betsy [twins], and Corinne—are breathing easily again for the first time in several months. And when Mrs. Gould decides to say, "Speaking of operations——," the rest of us will have to take a back seat.

EVEN the birds at Ed Mueller's house, 3642 North Paulina street, go to church. Ed, who sings in the choir at St. Viator's Catholic church, has made a bird house in exact replica of the church—and the neighbors do say that it's a sight to see, with the bird choir lifting its voice in song. Roto editor please note.

PLANS CLUB DANCE

Miss Luella Sullivan, 6753 Oxford avenue, Edison Park, is chairman of arrangements for the Kappa Klub dance to be given Saturday evening at the Pickwick clubrooms in Park Ridge. Miss Mary Sullivan is in charge of the floor show. Assisting are Miss Lucille Coleman, Miss Edna Gisser, Miss Ramona Goebel, Miss Margaret Hechinger, Miss Leona Hibner, and Miss France McKeon.

CHARITIES TELL HAPPY STORY OF NEW FOUND JOBS

Burden of Churches Also Eased.

Out of the 19,500 north and northwest side families who were entirely dependent on charity in one form or other from state, city or community organizations during January, more than 1,500 are now self-supporting, according to reports from Joel D. Hunter, general superintendent of the United Charities; Mrs. Clara Paul Page, assistant field director of the Illinois Emergency Relief commission, and Arthur Freeman, field adviser of the Chicago Independent charities.

The Chicago Independent charities group is supported by churches and lodges that give frequent plays, dinners and parties to raise cash for the needy.

It is explained in the reports that not all the 1,500 families taken off the relief lists now have wage earners working full time. But the majority of the providers are employed at least four days a week.

Many Others Support Selves.

In addition to the 19,500 supported entirely by charities, several thousand more were being aided at irregular intervals. A large percentage of these also are self-supporting now.

"Several thousand men and women have found jobs since January," Mr. Freeman said, "but it must be remembered the majority of the families represented by these workers were not dependent on organized reliefs. It is said that about six out of every ten of these skimped along with what relatives could give them, and on their credit at the stores."

Among ultra cheerful parts of the reports are facts concerning scores of men who deserted their families when they were unable to provide for them. Many of them, the reports point out, have found employment and have returned to resume the responsibility of fathers and providers.

Deserters Sending Cash.

Still others are sending letters containing cash and requests for mothers and children to come where new jobs have been found by the deserters. The letters are coming from as far east as New York City and as far west as Kansas. A number of the husbands and fathers have been gone since 1931. Children who were a year old or less at that time will face the experience of getting acquainted with their fathers.

Among lines of sentiment gleaned from letters happily displayed by jubilant mothers who have heard from their missing husbands are: "Dearest, I was awfully hurt when I had to run off from you and the kids. I thought if I would bum my way and look for work you and the children would have more to eat from the charities and friends. Gosh, I can't wait until I see you and the kids again."

Church Burden Relieved.

The employment pickup is aiding ministers also. Many have contributed freely of their time and money to help the daily string of needy. Several of the parsonages and church basements have been converted into relief stations.

Pastors have donned chef uniforms and served hot soup to an almost endless line on cold days and nights, and then put the homeless ones to bed in comforters and blankets borrowed from their constituents. Oftentimes the ragged ones were sent on their way the following morning with warm clothing as well as full stomachs.

SODALITY GIVES MYSTERY-COMEDY AT ST. EDWARD'S

"Am I Intruding," a modern comedy with a bit of mystery in the plot, will be presented tonight and tomorrow and Tuesday evenings by the Young Ladies Sodality of St. Edward's parish, 1350 Sunnyside avenue. The play involves a wealthy business man who nearly loses his fortune; his daughter, and a young rustic who becomes the hero when he saves the day and wins the daughter.

Miss Inez McCullen plays the daughter and George Beaugureau her whirlwind suitor. Comic relief is provided by Miss Marydale Olson as "a studious niece," Miss Virginia Dever and Miss Catherine McBride as the younger sister and her girl friend. Miss Berenice Goik, Miss Charlotte Pelzer, Harold Graff, Erwin Hammer, Vincent Stunstad, and Arthur Conmy are the supporting cast.

Miss Elizabeth Schneider is president of the Sodality and Miss Lois Stubstad is in charge of the program. Miss Lillian Goik and Miss Lorraine Kostack are handling the ticket sales.

Christ Church Luther League to Give Play

"Jerry," a three-act play, will be presented by the Luther league of Christ church at 8 o'clock Thursday and Friday evenings in the gymnasium of the church, Wilson and Spaulding avenues. Herbert W. Koepke, president of the league, is managing the production, and Roy Lundahl is in charge of stage and properties. In the cast are Stanley Greenholt, Mrs. Grace C. Koepke, Miss Bernice Lehman, Miss Beatrice Benson, Kurt Ziehm Jr., Miss Evelyn Lunge, Edgar Johnson, Lawry Hermesdorf, John Holmgren, Miss Genevieve Anderson, Miss Mabel Hennington, and George P. Lottich Jr.

CIVIC EDUCATION PROGRAM TO OPEN IN NO. MAYFAIR

Lecture Series to Start at June Meeting.

A.-C. ROCHOW.

A "civic enlightenment" program, consisting of a series of lectures on such topics as taxation, better government, and citizenship, will be initiated at the June meeting of the North Mayfair Improvement association, according to announcement by E. L. Barr, publicity chairman.

The lectures, which will continue indefinitely, will embrace all phases of community life. Emphasis, however, will be placed on taxation in its relations to the small home owner, an exposition of constitutional government from a nonpartisan standpoint, and the general education of the voter for intelligent voting on questions of public welfare.

Sponsors Tree Planting.

Through efforts of A. C. Rochow, secretary of the association, a tree planting project, intended to beautify the newly paved stretch on Foster avenue, from Central Park avenue to Elston, has been completed.

A request by Mr. Rochow last January to the state highway department resulted in the tree planting program being started in April. Twenty-five men were used on the project. A double row of young elms on each side of the street were planted for a distance of one and three-eighths miles.

An effort now is to be made to have the forest preserve property north of Foster avenue, between Kostner avenue and the cutoff of the Chicago and North Western, beautified and improved. A request will be made to Supt. Charles G. Sauers of the forest preserve district that this tract be plowed and rolled, putting it in condition for use as a recreational center for residents of the territory.

Playground Being Built.

A section of the forest preserve west of the railroad tracks to Cicero avenue, and north from Foster avenue to the north branch of the Chicago river was plowed and weeds removed last summer. Work is now under way preparing this tract for recreational use. Four baseball diamonds are being constructed, and a hewn stone shelter house is nearing completion three blocks north of Foster avenue and two blocks east of Cicero avenue.

A complaint is to be lodged with Supt. Sauers, it was said, against the practice of motorists who cross the curbing of Foster avenue to enter the forest preserve at the end of Kolmar and Kilbourn avenues. A barrier is to be asked to prevent destruction of the curbing.

Inquiry is to be made by the association to determine whether PWA funds can be used in carrying out the proposed extension of Kilbourn avenue from Lawrence to Elston avenues. M. E. Lucas, chairman of the streets and alleys committee, has reported that a survey indicated opposition by property owners to the improvement because of the fear of high assessments.

EX-COAST GUARDS WHO SERVED IN WAR FORM CLUB

A new organization of men who served with the Coast Guard during the world war will meet Wednesday night at 3241 North Ashland avenue. The members will discuss plans for the club. It will be the fourth meeting since the founding several months ago.

The organization, which is not affiliated with the American Legion, expects to recruit its membership from an estimated 500 men residing in Chicago and vicinity who were members of the Coast Guard in 1917 and 1918. There has been a larger number present at each meeting.

Des Plaines Garden Club Show Will Open Friday

The annual flower show of the Des Plaines Garden club will be held Friday and Saturday. Mrs. Frank Mariette is general chairman of arrangements for the show.

PLANNING MAY FROLIC

A May frolic Saturday evening at the Edgewater Beach hotel will mark the end of the season for North Shore B'nai B'rith. The committee in charge is seen talking over final arrangements. Seated, left to right: Mrs. H. P. Scher, president of the woman's auxiliary; Mrs. Reuben Don, chairman of tickets. Standing: Mrs. Irving Becker, program chairman; Mrs. James J. Kagan, dance chairman, and Mrs. A. Edward Aberman, organizer and first president of the auxiliary.

OPEN SOFTBALL LEAGUE OF CLUB TEAMS TUESDAY

8 Improvement Groups Represented.

Eight teams in the newly organized softball league of the Northwest Federation of Improvement clubs will begin their round robin schedule of games at 7 o'clock Tuesday evening. This was announced yesterday by Arvid R. Nelson, chairman of the athletic committee of the federation, who organized the league.

The teams will play at 7 o'clock every Tuesday evening for 14 weeks, which will run the league schedule up to the latter part of August, Mr. Nelson said. Playoffs will be held at that time for the league championship. It had been expected that there would be 10 or 12 teams in the league, in which case two games would have been played every week, it was said.

List of Teams in League.

The eight teams in the league which will begin play Tuesday evening are those of the Jefferson Gardens Improvement and Social club, the North Jefferson Community club, Colonial Gardens Improvement and Social, Parkview association, Addison Heights Betterment and Protective association, the Gladstone Community club, the Triangle Improvement club, and the Greater Higgins Road Improvement association.

The managers and captains of the teams are: Jefferson Gardens, C. H. Wirth, manager, Herbert Blumenthal, captain; Gladstone Park, H. F. Troester, manager; Phil Bauer, captain; Triangle Improvement, Joe Wagner, manager, C. F. Radtke, captain; Colonial Gardens, H. E. Smith, manager and captain; Addison Heights, George J. Trinkaus, manager, Charles Bierer, captain; Greater Higgins Road, F. L. Scharf, manager, William D'Arcy, captain; Park View, T. R. Jacobsen, manager, Charles Bittke, captain; North Jefferson, Robert Blythe, manager and captain.

Ald. James C. Moreland [41st] will toss out the first ball at the game between the Jefferson Gardens and the Gladstone Community club teams at the diamond at Lynch and Elston avenues, Mr. Nelson announced.

An effort is being made to have Thomas J. Bowler, president of the sanitary district, officiate at the game between the North Jefferson and the Colonial Gardens teams, Mr. Nelson said. The two other games to be played Tuesday evening will be between the Park View and the Addison Heights teams at Shabbona park, and the Triangle Improvement club versus the Greater Higgins road team at Kilbourn park.

Only League Members Play.

Membership of the league teams is limited to actual members of the clubs the teams represent. The league was organized, Mr. Nelson explained, for the particular benefit of the members of the affiliated clubs. The federation sponsored a softball league for boys several years ago, but it was discontinued.

Plans are shaping up for the federation's bowling league, which is expected to start play about the first of September, Mr. Nelson said. The federation sponsored a league a few years ago, which is to be reorganized before fall. Many of the member clubs of the federation have continued to sponsor leagues or teams of their own, and thus have maintained an active interest in bowling, he declared.

BRIDE

[J. D. Toloff Photo.]

A radiogram from Rome carrying the Pope's blessing came as a dramatic denouement to the wedding ceremony at which Miss Laura Dorothy Rooms, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Theophile Rooms, 4733 North Sacramento avenue, became the bride of Henry Anthony Fox on May 1. The ceremony was performed by the Rt. Rev. William F. Cahill at Our Lady of Mercy church. The papal message was addressed to Monsignor Cahill, 4432 North Troy street, and read: "Holy Father cordially blesses Henry Fox, Laura Fox. Occasion, marriage." It was signed by Cardinal Pacelli, papal secretary of state.

Guild of St. Bartholomew Parish to Give Show

The Joan of Arc guild of St. Bartholomew's parish will present its third annual show Wednesday evening at the Foreman High school, 5100 Belmont avenue. The program will consist of two one-act plays. In the cast of the plays will be Mary Pacillio, Geraldine McDonough, Marie Kehl, Antoinette Argenti, Elaine Pound, Margaret Himmes, Angela Knudtzon, Dorothy Strunck, Mathilda Bychowski, and Irma Luke. Seated, Esther Refka, Ruth Welter, Noramarie Moriarity, Bernice Chyllo, Ruth Glancey, Irma Luke, Ruth Welter, Geraldine McDonough, Margaret Himmes, Antoinette Argenti, Bernice Chyllo, Marie Kehl, Elaine Pound, Angela Knudtzon, Mathilda Bychowski, Dorothy Strunck, Noramarie Moriarity, Esther Refka, and Ruth Glancey.

YATES SCHOOL FLOWER VENDERS

Athletics and Swimming Would Be Included.

A five week vocational course, embracing subjects ranging from auto mechanics and shop work to outdoor athletics and swimming, will be given at Maine Township High school this summer if questionnaires distributed among the student body indicate there is sufficient interest to make the plan financially feasible.

Plans for the summer course were announced by C. M. Himel, principal, and T. R. Foulkes, assistant principal. Before the project is attempted there must be assurance that the course will be self-sustaining, Mr. Foulkes pointed out. The fee for the five week session will be $5, and $2 additional for those registering in swimming.

Combine Work and Play.

According to tentative plans the summer course will open on July 9 and continue five days a week for five weeks, with classes from 9 to 12 each day. The first two hours would be devoted to the study or class project in which the student is enrolled, while the third hour would be given over to recreational activity, such as baseball, swimming, gymnastics, and instruction in golf.

The plan, Mr. Foulkes pointed out, is to make the course attractive from a practicable standpoint and yet keep it such that it will be something of a vacation as well.

The auto mechanics project will include auto construction problems and the tearing down and rebuilding of automobile engines and chassi under the direction of an instructor. Students enrolled in shop work may, if they wish, devote the five weeks' course to the creation of some article of furniture, or to some other construction project.

School "Farm" to Be Used.

The high school's "farm" will be at the disposal of those students enrolled in the agriculture course, which will be carried on as usual as part of the summer course. The regular agriculture students will not be required to pay any fee for this work, it being a part of the full time course. The summer agricultural students, however, will be required to pay for swimming if they enroll for it.

In the music department classes will be offered in band, orchestra, chorus, and individual instruction and coaching, it was announced.

The summer course will also include the regular tutoring service in academic work for making up credits in various subjects.

VENEZUELA HONORS PRESIDENT.

Venezuela honored President Juan Vincente Gomez, the man who has been president or unofficial ruler of the country for twenty-five years, with appropriate ceremonies in Caracas.

FESTIVAL ENTERTAINER

Marie Laura Konopa, 11 years old, daughter of Dr. Joseph Konopa, 1057 North Hoyne avenue, was one of the entertainers at the strawberry festival given last Wednesday afternoon by the Bohemian Charitable Ladies' Auxiliary Association for the Poor at Pilsen park, 26th street and Albany avenue. Marie sang, danced, and imitated stage and radio stars.

CHURCH TO OPEN 4TH BIRTHDAY PROGRAM FRIDAY

St. Robert Bellarmine church will celebrate its fourth anniversary with a three-day program of entertainment on Friday, Saturday, and Sunday, at 4639 Milwaukee avenue. A fish fry given by men of the parish will be held on the opening night. The women's societies of the parish will have charge of the entertainment Saturday evening, which will consist of cards, dancing, and numbers by radio personalities. On the closing night, Sunday, there will be cards, dancing, refreshments and the awarding of prizes. Charles J. Foster is chairman of the committee on arrangements.

Church Woman's Club to Give Cinderella Party

The Woman's club of the Irving Park Christian church, Kedvale and Cullom avenues, will give a Cinderella party in the community room of the church at 7:30 o'clock Friday evening.

LUTHERAN YOUNG FOLK TO PRESENT A 3 ACT COMEDY

A three-act comedy, "Where's Grandma?", will be given by the young peoples' society of the First Bethlehem Evangelical Lutheran church at 8 o'clock Wednesday and Thursday evenings in the church assembly hall, Paulina and McReynolds streets. In the cast are Edna Behnke, Anna Raipke, Adeline Eichhorst, Adeline McGeagh, Louise Hacker, LaVerne Loll, Edwin Pankratz, Alfred Kapchinski and Alfred Wagner. The play is being directed by W. F. Kolzow.

Ebenezer Danish Choir to Give Spring Concert

The choir of the Ebenezer Danish Evangelical Lutheran church, Wabansia avenue and Rockwell street, will give its annual spring concert at 8 o'clock this evening, under the direction of Edward Nelson Jr., with Miss Ethel Evensen as accompanist. The guest soloists will be Miss Lillian Arneson, pianist, and Arnold Hyldahl, tenor.

FOREIGN WAR VETS IN ELMWOOD PARK ORGANIZE

The officers of the newly organized John R. Beck post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, in Elmwood Park, are Lawrence Thompson, commander; Hugh Nash, senior vice commander; O. V. Hunter, junior vice commander; Michael Fannella, quarter master; Lester Skinner, officer of the day; John A. Cullerton, service officer, and Fred Foelder, chaplain. Trustees elected were John Grench, Dan U. Sullivan, and Mr. Cullerton.

The post was named after John Robert Beck of the 72d artillery, who was village president of Elmwood Park for five years until his death in 1929. The next meeting of the post will be at 8 o'clock Tuesday evening at 7315 Grand avenue.

The new officers will be inducted at a ceremony at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon, June 3, following which there will be a parade. Adj. E. H. Gabrielson is organizer and installing officer. Regular meetings of the post will be held the first and third Tuesdays.

Schurz Athena Society to Discuss "Pet Peeves"

"Pet Peeves," will be the topic of discussion by members of the Schurz Athena society at its meeting at 3 o'clock this afternoon in its clubrooms in the Kosciuszko park fieldhouse, Avers avenue and Diversey parkway. E. Donald Paul, program chairman, will be in charge. The society will hold its eleventh annual spring hike next Sunday to the Palos Park forest preserve.

NORTHWEST SIDE CLUB WOMEN OFF FOR SOUTH TODAY

Will Attend Hot Springs National Convention.

Unless spring forsakes the game of hide and seek she has been playing with Chicago, the club women of the northwest side who are left behind are going to be very envious when their delegates leave this afternoon for the national convention at Hot Springs, Ark.

Mrs. John T. Bunting Jr., 4112 North Keeler avenue, probably knows more about Hot Springs than any other woman in Chicago just now, because as transportation chairman for the state she has been making all the arrangements for the Illinois delegates.

Mrs. Roy Hutchinson, president of the Seventh district; Miss Betty Hitchinson, retiring president of Hermosa club; Mrs. L. M. Stewart and Mrs. A. J. Kaspari from the Edison Park club; Mrs. Leslie Swanda, president of the Albany Park club; Mrs. John Eipper from the Irving Park club, and Mrs. Charles Holton have made reservations for the trip, along with Mrs. Bunting.

Their special train leaves at 4 o'clock this afternoon from the Union station. At St. Louis the Illinois delegates will be joined by those from Missouri, and they will reach the Arkansas resort town early Monday morning.

Portage Park Club.

The annual spring luncheon at 1 o'clock Thursday afternoon at the Mohawk Country club will close the year for the Portage Park Woman's club. Mrs. Charles V. Besse, outgoing social chairman, and Mrs. Roscoe F. Huckin are in charge and are taking care of reservations.

Irving Park Evening Auxiliary.

ALBANY COUNCIL OF CLUBS FINDS WORK FOR BOYS

Starts Listing All Eligible Youths in District.

The newly created job finding agency of the Albany Park Council of Boys' Clubs will start functioning on Thursday, according to Bernard R. Ginsburg, president. The free employment bureau was formed by the council as a means of finding full or part time work, particularly during the summer, for members of the clubs affiliated with the council.

A list has been prepared of all the unemployed boys in the Albany Park district who are members of the council groups, with information concerning their qualifications and experience. Since the organization of the employment bureau Jack Greenberg, temporary chairman of the employment committee of the council, has been contacting leading employers of boys throughout the city, with highly favorable results, it was announced.

Office Space Provided.

Sol Faber, a member of the advisory committee of the council and manager of a store at 3208 Lawrence avenue, has donated telephone facilities and desk space for carrying on employment activities. The agency's office will be open to members of the council from 2 to 5 o'clock every day except Sunday, it was announced.

Greenberg will be in charge of the registration of applicants and in the distribution of jobs. Other members of the committee who will aid in the work are Leon Resnikoff, Ray Gutman, Meyer Nitsky, and Phil Sudakoff.

The members of the newly appointed advisory committee of the council are expected to coöperate in finding jobs for council members, Greenberg said.

The advisory committee consists of Judges Samuel Heller and Jay A. Schiller of the Municipal court, Ald. James J. Hurley [39th], Ald. Joseph C. Ross [40th], Christ A. Jensen, H. L. Brody, James T. Gaffney, Roy I. Levinson, W. L. Johnson, Peter A. Mortensen, William N. Zaret, Rabbi S. Felix Mendelssohn of Temple Beth Israel, Rabbi I. Seigel of Congregation Beth Itzchok, the Rev. John Hermann, Ainslie Street Baptist church, the Rev. W. O. Ruby, Albany Park Presbyterian church, Herbert Magida, physical director Von Steuben High school; Frank S. Shudnow, Miss Nellie C. Hudd, Miss Florence E. Scully, Dr. H. H. Leon, Dr. Hector G. La Reau, Harry A. Freeman, James A. Golde, and John Haunschild.

Plan Boys' Day at Fair.

Tentative plans were announced last week for a northwest side boys' day at A Century of Progress under the auspices of the council. The affair probably will be held in September, it was said, in order to obtain the coöperation of the schools. All boys' groups and organizations in the area bounded by Western avenue on the east, Belmont avenue on the south, the city limits on the west, and the city limits on the north, will be invited to participate in the program.

Coöperation in the plan has been pledged by James T. Gaffney, principal of Roosevelt High school; George R. Nohran, Scout leader and superintendent of the Jefferson Park postal station; Roy I. Levinson, Wenzel J. Wiese, Phil Mendelsohn, president of the United Democratic Service Men of the 41st ward; William H. Johnson principal Volta school, and W. N. Zaret, president Albany Park Fellowship club.

KIWANIS BALL LEAGUE PLAYS TWICE A WEEK

A soft ball league has been organized among the members of the Lake View Kiwanis club, and games are played at 10 o'clock each Sunday morning and 6 o'clock Wednesday evenings, weather permitting, at Sacramento and Albion avenues. Ping pong, horseshoes, and freshments are additional features at the ball games.

The Lake View club members will be the guests of the North Central Kiwanis club on Tuesday noon, May 29, at the Drake hotel, inasmuch as its regular meeting falls on Memorial day this year.

LEADING LADY

Miss Leona M. Wilszewski will have the leading role in "Ragamuffins," a comedy-drama to be presented at 7:30 this evening by the St. Stanislaus Bishop and Martyr alumni association at the parish auditorium, Lorel and Belden avenues. Others in the cast are Joseph W. Bobka, Jane Rogalski, and Mathew B. Golas. Dancing will follow the performance. The Rev. Francis Uzdrowski is directing the production.

DE PAUL U. WINS A CHAPTER OF FORENSIC ART

De Paul university will install a chapter of Pi Kappa Delta, national forsenic fraternity, jointly with Augustana college of Rock Island and North Central Teachers' college of De Kalb sometime this month. The Rev. Francis Corcoran, C. M., president of the university, has been invited to attend the dinner to be held in connection with the installation at De Kalb.

THE REV. F. V. CORCORAN.

Nineteen charter members have been voted eligible by the De Paul faculty for the interest and achievement they have shown in connection with public speaking. They are Mary Catherine Linder, Dorothy Schlax, Goldie Becker, Mary Johnson, Betty Farrell, Marie Bachmann, Ethel Slavic, Inez McCullom, Josephine Verhelle, Nunzio Giambalvo, Stephen Jurco, Saul Corush, Everett Wiles, Sulo Virta, James Butler, William Kelly, Ralph O'Connell, and Edward Jamieson. The director, the Rev. Mr. Thomas, Ph. D., will accept the degree of fraternity.

LEGION ORATORY SCHOOL SUCCESS; TO BE CONTINUED

Solves Need for Speakers to Explain Aims.

Because of the success of the American Legion School o Oratory during the past year, it will be resumed next fall. This statement was made by Legion leaders at the banquet held by students of the classes a week ago. More than sixty men from posts all over the county have completed one of the several ten week courses offered, they added.

"The school, Elmer Taylor, prominent Legionnaaire, said, "was instituted because of a need for speakers who could give information about the activities and policies of the organization. Briefly, the public has long believed that our only purpose was to obtain bonuses and compensation. As a matter of fact, only a tenth of our membership is composed of disabled war veterans.

"The real purpose of the Legion is to 'inculcate an individual sense of obligation to the community, state, and nation, and to safeguard and transmit to posterity the principles of justice, freedom, and democracy.' We must have men who can put that over, and the school is giving them to us."

◆

The Westmont American Legion Post is literally building its memorial building in Westmont brick by brick. In a novel plan the post has arranged to have legion men and friends buy each brick used in the building. When completed, according to "Bud" Waterfall, commander of the post and chairman of the building committee, it will have cost approximately $10,000.

The names of everyone who has donated to the cause through purchase of the bricks will be included in the cornerstone. Work of landscaping the grounds has already begun.

◆

Paul K. Ayres of the Advertising Men's post and lecturer on salesmanship at the school of commerce at Northwestern university, is conducting the classes. He is assisted by Harry Taylor of the Castle post.

Ten men who had completed ten weeks of instruction presented five minute papers at the banquet, which concluded the work for the year. They were George F. Sherzer, Frank M. Ravenscroft, Paul Jones, A. C. Schoppen, Thomas F. Burns, Edwin L. Arkins, Carl Klaesi, Jakie Baldassano, E. C. Maxeiner, and Art N. Kuhn. Mr. Arkins received a prize for the most dynamic talk of the evening. Mr. Maxeiner was second.

Members of the Seventh District Legion Post auxiliaries will discuss plans for Poppy day on Wednesday afternoon when they meet at the Rogers Park Baptist church. Mrs. Frank Wissman is president.

◆

A resolution indorsing the proposed establishment of a national guard armory on the northwest side was adopted recently by the Cook county council of the American Legion, and by the ninth district of the Legion. The resolution, which was sponsored by Pulaski post, No. 86, authorized the Cook county council to take steps to contact the proper authorities in promoting the project.

Copies of the resolution have been sent by the council to Gov. Horner and to Adjt. Gen. Carlos Black of the Illinois National Guard, according to Walter Drew, commander of Pulaski post. The council will also take steps to contact members of the general assembly in Springfield with a view to obtaining an appropriation for the armory.

The northwest side is generally favored as the location for a new armory because of the several conveniently located sites available, Mr. Drew said. The project is known to have the indorsement of Adjt. Gen. Black and the northwest side members of the legislature.

St. Juliana Church Guild to Give Party on Friday

The guild of the Tabernacle of St. Juliana's church will give a card and bunco party at 8 o'clock Friday evening at the parish hall, Touhy and Osceola avenues. Mrs. Vernard Venema, assisted by Mrs. W. C. Sullivan, Mrs. W. J. Foster, and Mrs. H. A. Oelrich, are in charge of the arrangements.

LEGION AUXILIARY HOSTESS

LUTHER LEAGUE WILL CELEBRATE 40TH BIRTHDAY

St. Simon's Group One of Oldest in State.

St. Simon's Senior Luther league of St. Simon's Evangelical Lutheran church, Spaulding and Pierce avenues, will celebrate its 40th anniversary this week with special activities and programs beginning this evening and continuing Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday evenings.

The league, which is one of the oldest in Illinois, has a record of continuous meetings for 40 years. St. Simon's church celebrated its 40th aniversary in 1929, and the Rev. C. W. Knudten, the pastor, observed the 40th year of his pastorate at St. Simon's in June, 1932.

Special Program Tonight.

At 7:30 o'clock this evening the Rev. William F. Buch, pastor of St. Peter's Evangelical church in Forest Park, and the Rev. E. L. Otterbein of the North Austin Lutheran church, will be the speakers at a special league program.

A pageant depicting many of the highlights in the history of the league will be presented at 8 o'clock Tuesday evening.

Many former members of the league are expected to return for a former member's night program Thursday evening. The speaker will be Henry G. Walters, and the program will start at 8 o'clock.

Banquet to Close Week.

The closing event of the week will be an anniversary banquet at 6:30 o'clock Saturday evening in the church community rooms. The banquet speaker will be Dr. E. H. Klotsche of Maywood.

PLAYER

SUMMER COTTAGES CAN BE MONEY-MAKERS

"UNTIL I LEARNED THESE FACTS ABOUT RENTING SUMMER COTTAGES I THOUGHT MY PLACE WAS JINXED."

"My summer cottages had not paid me a cent of profit in years. Yet they were far better equipped and located in a prettier spot than many cottages which had tenants all season. Were my cottages hoodooed? I thought so—until I made a discovery that has been paying big dividends ever since." . . . . . . . . .

IT'S an old story—nothing wrong with the cottages or the location, but not enough tenants to pay a profit, often not enough to pay expenses! And the answer in almost every case is practically the same—using the wrong method of securing tenants.

Your cottages can be money-makers this year. Times are better. More families have more money for vacations away from home. But they won't rent your cottages unless you tell them what you have to offer!

Don't let wrong tenant-finding methods spoil the best opportunity to make money you have had in years. The right method is advertising in the widely read resorts-for-rent want ad columns in the Chicago Tribune!

For a few dollars you can describe your summer cottages to thousands of families who are now thinking about a place in which to spend a vacation.

Your want ad in the Chicago Tribune Resorts-for-rent columns can reach 620,000 families in Chicago and suburbs — practically every family in metropolitan Chicago that would be interested in summer cottages.

A want ad in the Tribune can describe your cottages to practically all of your best prospects in the big metropolitan Chicago market. On week-days the Tribune reaches 620,000 families in Chicago and suburbs alone—59% more families than any other Chicago daily newspaper reaches. And on Sundays it reaches 243,000 additional families in cities adjacent to metropolitan Chicago.

Whether you have one cottage or a hundred to rent, it will pay you to use low-cost Tribune Want Ads. Send your ad today—or mail the coupon at once for complete details of the Chicago Tribune's low-cost summer cottage renting plan!

Free advertising service! Let the Tribune's expert want ad writers help you prepare a business-getting want ad. Their services are free!

The Avondale P.-T. A. is planning to descend en masse, with their friends, husbands and children, on the south side for the Metropolitan Community Center choir music festival next Sunday evening. Mrs. Naomi Be-Ment is president of the association that is inviting friends of the organization to meet in a group at the Logan Square "L" at 6:15, or to join them at 4100 South Parkway where reserved seats will be held until 7:15 o'clock.

Mrs. Charles Clauss, director of District 23, Illinois Congress of parent and teachers, has appointed the following assistants for the coming year: secretary to the director, Mrs. Edward Smidle; program, Mrs. Edwin Snow; publicity, Mrs. Robert Franson; parent education, Mrs. C. H. Hayward; juvenile protection, Mrs. Peter Tomchek; humane education, Mrs. Charles Lyon; extension, Mrs. L. Warshau; child welfare magazine, Mrs. O. Lotz; motion pictures, Mrs. B. B. Deeson; music and art, Mrs. H. C. Dumke.

The committee in charge of the all-day conference to be held June 6 at the Grand Avenue Congregational church, 1305 Hamlin avenue, includes Mrs. Edwin Snow, Mrs. Mabel Middleton, Mrs. H. L. Jones, Mrs. Mikuta, Mrs. J. McDonnough and Mrs. B. B. Deeson. Francis G. Blair, state superintendent of public instruction, will speak at the conference.

The final meeting of the year for the Kelvyn Park High School association will be held at 1:30 Thursday afternoon in the civics room of the school. Installation of the new officers will be held, with Mrs. John J. Oros, newly elected fourth vice president and former district director of the Illinois congress of parents and teachers, presiding. Mrs. Mida Anderson will sing.

"Dawn Boy," an Indian operetta, sponsored by the Joseph Lovett P.-T. A., will be presented at 8 o'clock Friday evening. Ninety students from the school will take part, with Charles Fribolin, Elnore Koelnig, Thomas Byrnes, Henry Hoffman, Francis Atkins, Crystal Pike and Katharine Scott in the leading rôles.

Mrs. Charles Clauss, director of District 23, will instal the new officers at the final meeting of the Wright branch, Foreman High school association, to be held at 1:30 Wednesday afternoon in the school assembly, 3400 North Austin avenue. Mrs. Charles Roehl will be inducted as president, Mrs. Harry Knop, first vice president; Miss Mary Miller, second vice president; Mrs. Mary Olson, secretary, and Mrs. Thera Commerford as treasurer.

Mrs. Roehl will make a report on the convention at Springfield, and cake and coffee will be served after the business meeting in the civics room of the school.

Parents' night will be celebrated at Farnsworth school Wednesday evening. The school will be open for inspection between 7 and 8 o'clock, after which the P.-T. A. will conduct their fathers' night meeting. Mrs. A. R. Crawford, parent education chairman for District 23, will be the principal speaker. Instalation of the new officers, a demonstration by the Boy Scouts and community singing will make up the rest of the program.

The Cross Class Glee club will give its annual concert on Thursday evening at the Edgewater Presbyterian church, 1020 Bryn Mawr avenue. The program will be made up mainly of secular numbers, including such favorites as "The Lost Chord," "Old Man River," "Sylvia," and "White Dove."

Stage Show at Admiral.

A stage feature, "In Old Mexico," will be presented at all performances today at the Admiral theater, as an added attraction. The native Mexican fiesta, which received the plaudits of World's Fair crowds last year at Old Mexico, will be reproduced on the stage. The screen offering is "Moulin Rouge."

IN CWES REVUE

Two of the young performers as they will appear in costume in the CWES revue to be given at 8 o'clock Friday evening in the auditorium of the Foreman High school, 5100 Belmont avenue, are Irene Bilansky (left) and Eugene Mashtal. Miss Lillian Tobin, principal of Foreman and district chairman of the Civil Works Educational Service, and P. A. Kinsey, teacher-counselor, are in charge of the program, which will include songs and dances by Ukrainian students in native costume.

MARRIAGE ANNOUNCED

MRS. E. H. HAY.

The marriage of Miss Jeanne Roeder, daughter of Henry G. Roeder of 1431 Norwood avenue, to E. H. Hay of Minneapolis took place recently at the home of the bride's brother, Lester, in Waterloo, Ia. Both bride and bridegroom are graduates of the University of Illinois, where Miss Roeder was voted one of the three most popular co-eds on the campus. She is a member of Alpha Chi Omega sorority, and Mr. Hay a member of Sigma Phi Epsilon fraternity.

Neighborhood Theaters

Rogers in "David Harum."

The saga of that wily old horse trader, David Harum, is unfolding on the Congress, Manor, and Belpark screens today in the picture of that name, with Will Rogers in the title rôle. Will makes a perfect David, looking and acting much as you might imagine David Harum himself did.

He executes some of the slickest horse trades ever perpetrated, being outmaneuvered only one or two times, and then by none other than the deacon of the church. David, as you'll recall, is the town's leading light horseman, banker, lawyer of sorts, counselor, and sage—and is conceded by friend and foe alike to be one of the shrewdest mortals in those parts.

"Wonder Bar" at Harding.

The screen version of Al Jolson's stage success, "Wonder Bar," with the "mammy" singer himself in the leading rôle, is at the Harding today. Elaborately and gorgeously staged is the screen adaptation, with Dick Powell, Ricardo Cortez, Dolores Del Rio, and Kay Francis in the chief supporting rôles. As Al Wonder, Al Jolson is the Wonder Bar, being owner, manager, master of ceremonies, and singin' fool all in one. Al and Dick, the band leader, love Inez, of the dance team of Inez and Harry, and Inez loves Harry, who gives her nary a tumble. And there you have the set-up for the plot complications that follow.

"It Happened One Night."

Clark Gable and Claudette Colbert are co-starred in "It Happened One Night," showing at the Crystal. It's the story of a runaway heiress, spoiled and self-centered, who takes unto herself a husband that her father refuses to countenance. Said heiress, Ellie Andrews, escapes from papa's yacht, where she's been a virtual prisoner, and starts out for New York on limited capital.

On the bus she meets an eccentric and fascinating young newspaper reporter, Peter Warren, who recognizes her as the runaway the country is looking for. He promises to help her, providing he can have the exclusive, day by day, hour by hour story of her flight for his newspaper.

So before New York has been reached many things have happened to both Ellie and Peter, which the picture must reveal. Walter Connolly and Roscoe Karns have supporting parts.

"Jimmie the Gent."

Irrepressible, hard-fisted James Cagney treats you to the lowdown on the rise of a Hollywood movie star in "Jimmie the Gent," showing at the Congress.

You first meet Jimmie as a sucker who gets "taken" in a crooked card game, gets wise, and forces the boys to let him in on their little racket. It isn't long then until the gang, with Jimmie's brains to guide them, have a prosperous gambling establishment of their own. There's trouble and Jimmie has to leave town. He lands in Hollywood, gets a chance as a movie "extra" and before you know it is a full fledged star.

Then some of his old pals show up with an idea for a new racket to fleece the movie stars. What happens will be left for the picture to show.

KIWANIANS SEEK IMPROVEMENT OF BLIGHTED AREAS

Launch 3 Point Drive for Northwest Side.

An ambitious three-point program, embracing as one of its objectives a comprehensive rehabilitation campaign for the near northwest side, has been launched by the Northwest Town Kiwanis club, under the direction of the public affairs committee of the club, of which Marion G. Kudlick is chairman.

Coöperation of near northwest side community and civic groups was pledged in carrying out the program at a meeting of representatives from these organizations on Tuesday afternoon, at the Division street Y. M. C. A., 1621 West Division street.

Program Outlined.

The tentative program was outlined at that time to the representatives from the various organizations.

The projected campaign for rehabilitation and reconstruction of blighted areas on the near northwest side, adjacent to Milwaukee avenue, was planned with the idea of bringing about an appreciation in property values and of retaining present residents, as well as attracting new and desirable ones, Mr. Kudlick said.

The second objective in the club's program has to do with a survey and a program designed to revive business on Milwaukee avenue from Chicago to North avenues, and on adjacent business streets. The survey, it is expected, will be devoted to enlisting the coöperation of business men and merchants in a number of coöperative sales and merchandising events.

Propose New "Square."

The nature of the program to stimulate business will depend largely on the results of the survey, Mr. Kudlick indicated.

The third point in the program will be an effort to induce Klee Brothers, or the city of Chicago, to raze the present antiquated and abandoned building located at Milwaukee, Ashland, and Division street, and to have the site acquired either by the city or the newly created Chicago Park district and transformed into a "Square." Such an improvement, it is pointed out, would greatly enhance the value of surrounding property.

Present at Meeting.

Those who attended the meeting were the Rev. Walter Bartylak, pastor, St. John Cantius Catholic church; Paul H. Beck, principal, Jenner-Schiller schools; Walter Benson; Frank A. Brandt, St. Stanislaus Kostka parish; Adolph Brauer, president, Northwest Town Kiwanis club; L. S. Bressler; Helen Fleming Czachorski, general counsel of the Polish Women's alliance; Norman B. Collins, president, National Security bank of Chicago; George C. De Mand; Clarence E. De Butts, principal, Tuley High school; Tomaz F. Deuther, Northwest Side Commercial association; Raymond A. Dittbrenner, Midwest Kiwanis club; O. H. Ford, John C. Gordon; Paul Hadamik, general secretary of the Polish Alma Mater; Andrew Johnson, Thomas J. Kane; August J. Kowalski, chief clerk of the Superior court, and Dr. John J. Liss.

Others present were R. A. Maske, secretary of the Division Street Y. M. C. A.; Dr. Andrew J. Marcin, Ernest F. Moll, Fred W. Mathison; Joseph Przydatek, editor of the Polish Daily News; P. M. Russell, Henry A. Revell; J. N. Semple, boys' work secretary of the Division Street Y. M. C. A.; Otto Schulze Jr., president, West Side Commercial league; W. H. Sajewski and Anton Lisowski of the Holy Trinity Catholic church; George Sherman; John Usher Smyth, West Town Chamber of Commerce, Charles H. Stevens, president, Milwaukee-Armitage-Western Business Men's association; Charles E. Ummach; Miss Harriet Vittum, head resident of Northwestern University settlement, and Roland O. Witcraft, principal, Anderson school.

St. Mary's of the Lake Church to Hold Bazar

A bazar will be held by the societies of St. Mary's of the Lake church on Wednesday, Thursday, Friday, and Saturday at the church, Sheridan road and Buena avenue. The bazar is the first to be held by the church in many years and replaces the annual May party which has been held for the last 15 years. Funds raised at the bazar will be used for finishing the decorations of the church. Ed Jeffers is general chairman of the event.

BROADCASTERS READY TO REPORT FAIR SATURDAY

Parade, Ceremony, Music to Be Aired.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

With the fair opening next Saturday Chicago broadcasters are arranging to put the festivities and formalities throughout the day and evening on the air. The parade to the Fair from Chicago avenue down Michigan avenue will be described at 1 o'clock by W-G-N and other stations. The formal opening at 2:30 at the Lagoon theater will be broadcast including the addresses of Gov. Horner, Mayor Kelly, and President Dawes of the Fair.

At 6:45 p. m. Quin Ryan will launch his daily World's Fair reporter series from a glass studio in the Thompson building. Every day Mr. Ryan will present a colorful 15 minute report of fair activities. Noted business men, scientists, and stars of the stage and screen will be presented on this program. John R. Thompson Jr. will speak on the opening program.

The gala lighting ceremony at 9:30 in the Hall of the Court of States will be reported. This will include the presentation of the sound portion of President and Mrs. Roosevelt's motion picture dedicated to the Fair inaugural. W-G-N will also broadcast the concerts of Palmer Clark from the Swift exhibit in the evening and the music of A. L. Thaviu and his concert band who will play in the Streets of Paris for a Charity Ball.

Talent for Fair Rally.

The talent lineup for the All Chicago and Century of Progress rally to be held at Chicago Stadium at 8:30 tomorrow evening includes stars of major stations and the networks. The rally, which will be open to the public free, is the culminating event of Chicago Fair invitation week. Portions of the show may be broadcast and amplifiers will send the program to the expected overflow audience outside. Gov. Horner, Mayor Kelly, and President Dawes of the Fair will speak. The talent lineup in part:

W-G-N—Tom, Dick and Harry; Doring Sisters, Bob Elson, Pierre Andre, Quin Ryan, Lawson Y. M. C. A. Glee club.

NBC—Amos and Andy, Phil Baker and his review, Hal Totten, Wendell Hall, Bill Hay, Irene Beasley, Alice Joy, John Fogarty, Maple City Four, Merry Macs, Morini Sisters, Pat Barnes, Bob Brown, and Charles Lyons

WBBM—Bob Nolan, Pat Flanagan.

Ensemble of guards and attachés of the Fair, dressed in their new uniforms and put through formations, accompanied by the A Century of Progress band and drum and bugle corps.

Talent from Mexican village, Hawaiian village, Irish village.

Frankie Masters and College inn review; Seymour Simons and Blackhawk floor show; Ted Weems and Palmer house review; Clyde Lucas and Terrace Garden floor show; Henry Busse and Chez Paree floor show; Palace theater show; Chicago theater stage show; Oriental stage show; State-Lake stage show; Paul Ash and his stage review; Anson Weeks and Aragon ballroom orchestra; Jan Garber and Trianon orchestra.

Oak Park High Radio Revue.

Oak Park High seniors hope to outfit their band with new uniforms through an all star radio review next Friday evening. Among the entertainers will be Dr. Russell Pratt [who lives in Oak Park], and Dr. Ransom Sherman, the Doring sisters, alumnae of the school, King's Jesters, Wendell Hall, the Northerners, Marion and Jim, Effie James, and others. . . . Seymour Simons and his boys are playing Wendell's famous "It Ain't Gonna Rain No More" in a new form at midnight over WENR. Their version is called "Tango Raynomore" and it's in the rhythm of the Argentine.

Roosevelt to Broadcast.

Two broadcasts by President Roosevelt are in the offing. On Memorial day he will speak from the Gettysburg battlefield. On the following day the President will review the fleet off Ambrose light. The President's remarks will be broadcast and NBC and CBS announcers who have journeyed to the Caribbean and returned aboard the warships will be on hand to describe the ceremony.

Jessel vs. Durante.

Columbia's new variety show, opening Sunday, June 3, at 7 p. m., will seek to draw listeners away from NBC's Durante-Rubinoff show. George Jessel is the wag who has been chosen to match wits with Jimmy Durante at this hour. . . . Phil Harris and Leah Ray, who were scheduled to sign off in July, have been renewed and will continue broadcasting throughout the summer. . . . Josef Pasternak is the new maestro on the Sunday evening "Family Theater" hour. . . . Mollie Berg, who writes "The Rise of the Goldbergs" as well as appearing as the principal in the sketch, is writing out a leading character each week, so that they may have their first real vacation in nearly five years. . . . Earl Burtnett's drummer bears the name of E. L. Sockwell.

Minnevitch's Giant Harmonica.

Borrah Minnevitch has perfected a giant harmonica on which six of his rascals can work at one time. . . . The Three Shades of Blue, a girls' trio from WLW, are soon to be heard via Chicago NBC, it's reported. . . . George Parrish, who does arranging for Josef Cherniavsky at the Chicago theater, is drawing some of those silken strings for Charles Previn on NBC. . . . Yes, Phil Baker, like Bing Crosby, is wearing a toupe. Phil's is just a small dab. . . . Ray Perkins, the Prince of Palmer House, substituted for Hal Stokes, regular pianist, the other evening. And why shouldn't he? He used to be a concert pianist. . . . David Freeman, who writes script for Eddie Cantor and Block and Scully, will debate with William K. Wells, who prepares scripts for Jack Pearl and Joe Penner, within the fortnight on "What Is Funny?" There's a report that Block and Sully will join Cantor next year on that toothpaste program.

Romo Vincent Coming Up.

As Jack Pearl was the comic hit last season and Joe Penner this season, Romo Vincent, the corpulent wagster with Clyde Lucas at the Terrace Garden, may conceivably be the comedian who clicks next year. He's being auditioned in a sketch exhibiting him as a floorwalker, with Dolores Gillen, well known radio actress. Arthur Wright and the Doring Sisters provide the music.

Actress Off to Claim Legacy.

Dorothy Burgmann, who takes the part of Princess Scherazada on WCFL's Arabian Nights, was missing from the cast recently due to a court summons from New York. She was called there to establish her title to a legacy left her by an aunt who lived in France. . . . Edwin Franko Goldman's band will return to the airways late in June. . . . On a recent broadcast Clara, Lu, 'n' Em were chatting speculatively over how people wore wooden shoes in Holland and they concluded by wishing they might see some one wearing them. That brought them an invitation to visit the tulip festival at Holland, Mich. They wanted to go, but daily broadcasting duties kept them in Chicago.

BACK FOR SUMMER OF BROADCASTING

GOLDEN GLOVES BOUTS ON W-G-N NEXT WEDNESDAY

Ryan and Harrington Will Report Matches.

The International Golden Gloves championship boxing matches between the champions of Poland and the champions of Chicagoland, which are to be staged by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE at the Chicago Stadium next Wednesday evening, will be broadcast by W-G-N, starting at 9:30 o'clock. Quin Ryan, master sports broadcaster, and John Harrington, W-G-N's sports editor, will handle the broadcasts.

Blow by blow reports of the contests will be given by Harrington as each battle is waged, while Mr. Ryan will present the brilliant picture of the Stadium crowded with boxing fans and other descriptive material about the big show and the hosts attending.

Harrington to Present Poles.

Tomorrow evening at 6:30 p. m. on his regular Sports Reporter program over W-G-N Harrington will present three men of the Polish party who came to Chicago for the boxing contests. Donald Day, CHICAGO TRIBUNE foreign correspondent; Feliks Stamm, trainer of the Polish boxers, and Stanislaw Pilat, the Polish champion heavyweight boxer, will be interviewed by Harrington.

Special Broadcast Tuesday.

On Tuesday evening at 7:30 a special broadcast, at which time all of the Polish boxers will be presented, will be aired over W-G-N from the Drake hotel studios. Harrington will present Arch Ward, sports editor of THE TRIBUNE, who in turn will present Donald Day, Capt. Franciszek Baranowski, president of the Polish Boxing union; Trainer Stamm, and the boxers from Poland. Only one of the Polish boys speaks English fluently and two others have some knowledge of English.

Harry Cooper, golf professional at the Glen Oak Country club, will be interviewed by Harrington at 6:30 Tuesday evening, May 22.

ON THEATER OF AIR

Lee Sims, pianist, and Ilomay Bailey, soprano, his wife, one of radio's most noted teams, will be featured on the Chicago Theater of the Air on W-G-N next Tuesday night. The Theater of the Air will be heard every Tuesday evening from 9:30 to 10 o'clock starting this week, instead of the former schedule on Monday evenings.

WORLD SYSTEM RECORDS HEARD ONLY ON W-G-N

Sign Exclusive Contract on Transcriptions.

W-G-N has negotiated an exclusive contract for Chicago with the World Broadcasting company for the use of the new special series of electrically transcribed radio programs, according to an announcement made yesterday by Quin Ryan, manager of W-G-N. This new program service will be combined with W-G-N's already outstanding and popular recorded programs which are heard every morning of the week to provide even better musical entertainment for W-G-N listeners in the early hours.

The recorded programs are heard from 7 to 9 a. m. weekdays and from 9:30 to 11 Sunday mornings. The Sunday morning concerts are specially selected by Fred Meinken, chief librarian in the musical division of the W-G-N program department. Mr. Meinken for many years was a member of the Chicago Grand Opera Company orchestra and later was with the Drake concert ensemble which was popularized over W-G-N.

Variety Program Today.

The program selected by Mr. Meinken for this morning's concert includes classical, semi-classical and modern tunes played and sung by some of the greatest orchestras and artists in the world.

The program follows:

| | |
|---|---|
| Coronation March | Berlin Philharmonic orchestra |
| Blue Danube Waltz | International Concert orchestra |
| Song of Songs | Sandlerand orchestra |
| Oh Miss Hannah | The Revelers' quartet |
| Slavonic Dance No. 1 | Dobrowen and Symphony orchestra |
| Excerpts from Katinka | Victor Salon group |
| Pastoral from Carmen | Philadelphia Symphony orchestra |
| Only a Rose | International Concert orchestra |
| Songs of the Past | Victor Mixed Chorus and orchestra |
| Song of India | St. Louis Symphony orchestra |
| Ballet Egyptian | Cleveland Symphony orchestra |
| Good Night, My Love | Donald Novis, tenor |
| Rosamunda Ballet | Berlin Philharmonic orchestra |
| Overture to The Bartered Bride | Berlin Philharmonic orchestra |
| Largo al Factotum | Lawrence Tibbett, baritone |
| Malaguena | Victor Concert group |
| The Red Mill | Victor Salon group |
| Rustle of Spring | Dobrowen and Symphony orchestra |
| Song of the Vagabonds | Dennis King and Victor Light Opera Co. |
| Black Eyes | Victor Salon group |
| Dance Macabre | Lamareaux orchestra |
| Serenade | Dajos Bela's orchestra |
| In the Little White Church on the Hill | James Melton |
| Persian Dance | London Symphony orchestra |

In the World Broadcasting system unit programs W-G-N has obtained a service which will present the greatest orchestral organizations in the country. The units are made on the special new recording process which was developed recently and which is what is known as "wide range" recording—a development which permits an even greater range of instrumental notes previously not obtainable under the old method of recordings. The programs are sent to W-G-N in built-up units and the programs which are presented are selected from a library of more than 700 of these recordings which have just been received.

Time at 5 Minute Intervals.

On the week day morning programs on W-G-N the first hour from 7 to 8 a. m. is occupied by regular commercial recordings. At 8 o'clock the World Broadcasting system recordings are put into service and carried until 9 a. m. Each five minutes the time is given by the studio announcer and frequent weather announcements are made which, according to letters received from many listeners, is very valuable to those workers about to leave their homes for their offices.

The World recordings were made at a cost of more than $250,000.

THRILLS AHEAD

Ben Potter returns to W-G-N at 6 o'clock tomorrow. Richard De Wolfe, who played the part in the series of W-G-N children sketches last year, is coming back to head the new series. More thrilling adventures are promised for Ben and his pals, who will be heard daily except Saturday and Sunday. Charles Flynn, Dolly Day, Maria Nelson, Charles Calvert are others in the cast. Blair Walliser is writing the script, Hugh Studebaker is announcer, and Jean O'Connor is sound technician.

MUSIC FROM TWO OPERAS ON W-G-N CONCERT HOUR

Music from two operas will be featured on the Sunday evening concert by the W-G-N orchestra from 7:15 to 8 tonight. The overture to Rossini's "William Tell" and the outstanding music from the grand opera "Mignon" by Thomas in a special fantasy are to be the two operatic offerings.

A special arrangement of "Valse Bluette" by Drigo featuring four violins also is on the program as one of the featured offerings. Director Ernest Pechin also has included, "Valse Celebre" by Moskowski, "Russkaya I Trepak" by Rubinstein, "Finlandia" by Sebelius and "Procession of the Sardar" from the Caucasian Sketches by Ippolitow-Iwanow on his evening's program.

THE MINISTRY OF BEAUTY TO BE MIDDAY TOPIC

"Religion's Ministry of Beauty" will be the general topic for discussion for the speakers on W-G-N's Mid-Day service this week. The speakers:

Tomorrow—Herbert L. Willett, minister of the Kenilworth Union church.

Tuesday—Horace J. Bridges, leader of the Chicago Ethical society.

Wednesday—Wilfred A. Rowell, minister Union church at Hinsdale.

Thursday—Morton D. Zabel, head of the department of English literature, Loyola university.

Friday—Orrin W. Auman, world service treasurer, Methodist Episcopal church.

Bob Becker's Show to Move to 9:30 Tomorrow

Beginning tomorrow night Bob Becker's dog program will move to 9:30 o'clock on W-G-N. Bob will be heard on Mondays and Wednesdays.

Becker will pay tribute to Great Danes Wednesday. William Schafer, for fifteen years owner of a large Great Dane and German shepherd kennel in Germany, will be Bob's guest on this program.

BASSO

MARK LOVE.

[Bloom Photo.]

Mark Love, W-G-N's basso soloist, will be presented with the W-G-N orchestra in a special program at 8:45 this evening. Mr. Lowe will offer "The Road to Vaux," the music for which was written by Isaac Van Grove and the words by "Madelon" in an original poem which was published in R. H. L.'s Line o' Type or Two. He will also sing "Romance" from the opera "Zaza," by Leoncavallo. The orchestra will offer "Polonaise," by Rimsky-Korsakov; "Cuban," by Herbert, and Barwinsky's "March."

Baggiore Will Repeat "O, Sole Mio" on Thursday

In response to hundreds of letters received during the last two months, Attilio Baggiore, W-G-N operatic tenor, will repeat "O Sole Mio," De Capua's great masterpiece, on his concert at 8 p. m. Thursday. Mr. Baggiore found "O Sole Mio" rivaled only by "Ave Maria" in popularity. Baggiore also will offer "Lina Romanza," by San-Fiorenzo; "Passing By," by Purcell, and McDermid's "If I Knew You and You Knew Me."

JANE FROMAN, ROSS, HAYTON ON NEW SERIES

A new 15 minute musical show will have its première on W-G-N at 8:45 tomorrow night when Jane Froman, one of the most popular blues singers on the air today, will unite with Don Ross, her husband, and Lennie Hayton's orchestra in presenting a varied program of popular music and sentimental ballads.

This show will replace the Sunday afternoon spot which was held by Charlie Agnew's orchestra and the Symphonic Girls and it will be heard weekly at the same time for the duration of the summer.

Ben Bernie to Broadcast from 'Frisco on Tuesday

Ben Bernie and all the lads, now playing a week of theatrical engagements following completion of Ben's new picture, "Shoot the Works," will go on the air with their regular program at 8 o'clock Tuesday, from the Orpheum theater in San Francisco. Two days later Ben will return to Hollywood for some necessary retakes in the movie.

Zelda Santley to Mimic Mae West on Air Today

Zelda Santley, well known to Chicago theater and café patrons for her impersonations of radio and theatrical stars, will make her first local radio appearance on the program over WBBM at 1:15 p. m. today. Miss Santley will mimic Mae West.

CROON-TRALTO

Helen Black, the pretty little croon-tralto, who joined the Jan Garber orchestra last week and is heard with the "Little Napoleon's" orchestra from the Trianon on W-G-N each night.

[Barta Studio.]

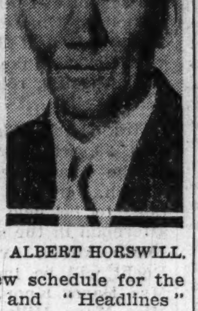
IREENE WICKER TO TELL STORY OF BOTTICELLI

Childhood stories of two famous artists will furnish program material for two of the Singing Lady's 5:30 p. m. broadcasts this week. On Thursday Irene Wicker, The Singing Lady, will tell a true story from the life of the famous Italian painter Botticelli. On Friday a story of the famous German composer Richard Wagner will be told. Allan Grant, pianist, has arranged special music for these two programs.

Albany Park Boy Scouts to Hold Exhibition Camp

Boy Scout troops of Albany Park will hold an exhibition camp on Lawrence avenue, between Bernard street and St. Louis avenue, Friday afternoon, and all day Saturday and Sunday. The camp will consist of eight large tents and pup tents for the experienced campers, a log cabin, signaling tower and a first aid tent. Boys picked from troops in district 4 will stay overnight. A program has been arranged, based on the activities at Camp Owassippi in Michigan.

NEW TIME FOR NEWS FLASHES AND 'HEADLINES'



ALBERT HORSWILL.

The terrifying story of one o the greatest disasters of the sea, the sinking of the Titanic, will be retold on the "Headlines of Other Days" on W-G-N at 9:05 tonight. This is a new time for the "Headlines" program, a shift in the W-G-N schedule having brought the reading of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE news flashes from the old scheduled time of 9:30 p. m. to 9 p. m. and the "Headlines" from 9:35 p. m. to 9:05 p. m. The new schedule for the news broadcasts and "Headlines" will be maintained throughout the summer.

On the "Headlines of Other Days" broadcast tonight, Quin Ryan again will present a surviver of the event which he is to review. The personal appearance guest for tonight is Albert E. Horswill of Gary, Ind., who was a quartermaster on the ill-fated Titanic and who manned one of the lifeboats that carried 43 survivors to safety.

YOUNG LADIES' SODALITY GIVES COMEDY TONIGHT

A three act comedy, "Three Pegs," will be presented by the St. Agnes Young Ladies' sodality of St. Aloysius church in the parish auditorium, Claremont avenue and Le Moyne street, at 3 this afternoon and 8:30 o'clock this evening. Miss Marie Hill is directing the production. In the cast are Miss Elizabeth Pestka, Miss Marie Woital, Miss Rose Besenhofer, Miss Claudia Hill, Miss Mildred Jacobson, Miss Mary Petek, Miss June Simmons, Miss Stephanie Fietko, and Miss Jeanne S. Orlowski. The Rev. Raymond P. Hillinger, spiritual director of the parish, heads the committee on arrangements.

Japanese Ambassador on NBC at 9:30 P.M. Tomorrow

Hirosi Saito, Japanese ambassador to the United States, will be heard over an NBC-WEAF network from 9:30 to 10 p. m. on Monday, speaking on "Japanese-American Relations." The ambassador, who was appointed to his present position only a few months ago, will address guests of the Army and Navy club and of the Japanese-American society banquet in Chicago. His broadcast will originate at the Army and Navy club.

Billie Burke to Tell Story of Career Tonight

Billie Burke, star of stage and screen and widow of the late Florenz Ziegfeld, will reveal human interest secrets and dramatic highlights of her life in an interview with Jimmie Fidler during the Hollywood On the Air program at 11:15 p. m. tonight over WMAQ and an NBC network. Bruce Cabot and Adrienne Ames, newlyweds, will present a hilarious sketch of Hollywood matrimony.

Boynton to Discuss Two Books Against New Deal

Prof. Percy H. Boynton will talk on two books opposing the New Deal on his "Book Talk" program over W-G-N at 7 o'clock tonight. Prof. Boynton will review "The Menace of Recovery," by William McDonald, and "The Future Comes," by C. A. Beard and G. E. H. Smith. Dean Charles W. Gilkey of the University of Chicago divinity school will be the speaker on the chapel service program at 11 a. m.

FRED ALLEN SAYS

Dear Larry:

Weather bureau reports hottest May in seventy years. Yeah? What about May West? . . . It was so hot on Iowa farms last week they had to put Palm Beach suits on the scarecrows. . . Mother's day stamp arouses protest. No fellow likes to see somebody's mother licked and stuck up on a corner for three cents. . . . The reason most radio cowboys call themselves "lonesome" is because they know no one is listening in intentionally. . . . Gulf stream shifts its course fifty miles. Probably trying to avoid Dillinger. . . . Trout streams are so crowded that the fish have to crawl up on the banks to let the fishermen pass. . . . Farmers are taking the cows out of the barns to make room for the actors this summer. . . . Why is it you never see a fortune teller wanted for not paying her income tax. . . .

Cordially,
FRED ALLEN.

● Where would you look first for an apartment?

73% OF THE TENANTS OF 17 LEADING RENTAL AGENTS REPORT TRIBUNE WANT ADS

● 1,423 of the 1,942 tenants, or 73% said they would consult Tribune Want Ads first.

SEVENTEEN OF CHICAGO'S leading rental agents recently decided to find out for themselves the up-to-date facts about apartment to rent want advertising. Each agent wrote a letter to the tenants in the buildings he manages, asking them to answer a few questions set out in a prepaid return postcard.

A total of 1,942 tenants filled in the cards and mailed them back to the agents, who tabulated the replies.

1,423 of the 1,942 tenants, or 73%, said that if they were looking for an apartment they would consult Tribune want ads first. This is a 2 to 1 lead for the Tribune over the second Chicago newspaper, an 8 to 1 lead over the third Chicago newspaper, 16 to 1 over the fourth:

You owe it to yourself or to the owner whose building you represent, to go over the complete findings in this rental agents' investigation. Ask for a Tribune representative to show it to you at your convenience. Call Superior 0100 today!

There Is No Substitute for Results!

This Rental Agents' survey of the preferences of their tenants emphasizes one important fact: you cannot measure the cost of want advertising by the rate per word or per line.

DUAL RATIO

–Finger-Touch Lever On Steering Column is the greatest improvement in automobiles. It enables you to adapt the performance of your Auburn to be 100% efficient at all times. For example, shift to Low (comparable to standard gear of other cars) for quick get-away in traffic.

On Level Roads Shift to Auburn's EXTRA HIGH Gear and you reduce the engine revolutions without reducing car speed. This saves wear and tear on all moving parts, saves fuel, minimizes vibration, and produces the smoothest of performances.

Shift to "Low" on Hills and your Auburn becomes the most efficient performer in taking grades. The operation of Dual-Ratio is simplicity itself. And its advantages, obtainable in no other way, will amaze you.

Road-Action

On curves the Auburn seems "geared to the road"; no side-sway or roll. Due to Auburn's long wheelbase, extra long springs and rigid frame, you enjoy amazing COMFORT at all speeds on all roads.

Averages 22.72 Miles Per Gallon

In remarkable test run made between Pittsburgh and Cleveland an Auburn 4-door Sedan, taken from stock, averaged 22.72 miles per gallon of fuel (no Free Wheeling). Entire 250 miles made in daylight under normal traffic conditions.

Big, Roomy, Comfortable!

Auburn has not increased prices! Talk about Value—Drive and compare the improvements, performance, economy and durability of the new—

THE GUMPS
TILDA— WHAT IS THIS STUFF THAT YOU'RE SERVING IN THIS CUP? I HOPE YOU DON'T CALL IT COFFEE—
IT IS COFFEE, SIR—
SIDNEY SMITH
I THOUGHT IT WAS FURNITURE POLISH— IT IS TERRIBLE— WHAT DID YOU EVER DO TO IT? WHAT'S THE MATTER WITH IT?
DON'T STAND THERE LOOKING DUMB— WHAT THREE WORDS ARE THE MOST USED IN THE ENGLISH LANGUAGE? SAY IT—
I DON'T KNOW!
YOU'RE RIGHT— AND WHAT YOU DON'T KNOW ABOUT MAKING COFFEE— LOOK AT IT— IT LOOKS LIKE MUD—
IT WAS GROUND THIS MORNING, SIR—
WHAT A MAID— WELL— I'LL GO OUT AND SEE WHAT I CAN SCRAPE UP FOR MYSELF IN THE PANTRY—
YOU SAY YOU PAID FIFTY CENTS A BOX FOR THESE CHERRIES? WHAT MAKES THEM SO EXTREMELY HIGH?
WHY ARE THEY SO HIGH? I'M SURE I COULDN'T SAY— UNLESS IT IS BECAUSE THEY COME FROM THE TOP OF THE TREE—
HOW ABOUT THE TROUT WE'RE HAVING FOR DINNER— ARE THOSE FISH FRESH?
THEY ARE VERY FRESH, SIR— IN FACT I MIGHT ADD— THEY ARE EXTREMELY FRESH—
WELL BE CAREFUL, SISTER— DON'T LET THEM PUT ANYTHING OVER ON YOU—
WHERE DOES ALL THE FOOD GO AROUND HERE— I'D LIKE TO KNOW— NOT A THING IN THE PANTRY—
THERE'S A TWO-LEGGED MOUSE THAT GETS IN THE PANTRY IF YOU WANT TO KNOW, AND THAT'S WHERE IT GOES—SAY— IF YOU EVER CATCH A MOUSE IN OUR PANTRY LOCK THE DOOR ON HIM— AND STARVE HIM TO DEATH—
!!!
BAM!
OH TILDA!
YES SIR—
HAVE YOU EVER SEEN A MOSQUITO WEEP?
NO— BUT I'VE SEEN A MOTH BAWL—
TILDA— YOU'RE A GREAT GIRL— AND IF YOU EVER NEED A LETTER OF RECOMMENDATION LET ME WRITE IT FOR YOU— YOU HAVE A GOOD APPETITE AND YOU SLEEP WELL—

Little Orphan Annie
WHAT A SWELL JURY WE GAVE YOU, EH? "TWELVE GOOD MEN AND TRUE-"
JUDGE COGG BETTER REMEMBER WHO MAKES JUDGES IN THIS TOWN--- ---AND WHO BREAKS 'EM-DON'T WORRY- HE'LL PLAY ALONG WITH THE ORGANIZATION- WHY WARBUCKS IS AS GOOD AS IN JAIL RIGHT NOW-HERE WE SEE JUDGE COGG-
AH- A FINE ACCOUNT OF THE PROCEEDINGS- HM-M-M-- MY NAME IS MENTIONED 27 TIMES, FOUR MORE TIMES THAN WARBUCKS'- GREAT PUBLICITY- HM-M-M-- WARBUCKS CAN'T BE GUILTY-
BUT I MUST NOT BE SWAYED BY PERSONAL OPINION- GO ALONG WITH BLUSTER AND WARD HEELY AND BILL McBRIBE AND IT WILL BE "SENATOR COGG"- OR EVEN "HELLO, GOVERNOR"-
HERE IS THE NEWLY SELECTED JURY OF STALWART CITIZENS WHO TOMORROW WILL BEGIN HEARING THE CASE AGAINST OLIVER WARBUCKS-
HE'S A CROOK-
RECKON YOU'RE RIGHT-
SURE-
WHY, EVEN WE PROFESSORS CAN EARN VERY LITTLE- YET HE MADE BILLIONS-YEAH- HE'S GUILTY- WHY TRY HIM?
TEN YEARS AGO A FELLER CAME TO MY DOOR AND SOLD ME SOME OIL STOCK- I BEEN WISE TO CAPITALISTS EVER SINCE-THINK HE'S GUILTY?
PROBABLY NOT- HE'S MERELY MADE AND LOST A LOT OF MONEY-
NO USE FOOLING MYSELF- UNLESS HARE AND THAT MONEY CAN BE FOUND, I'M LICKED- AND SO FAR ALL WE KNOW IS HE GOT INTO MEXICO, THEN VANISHED-
BUT WHY NOT GET ALL THE BEST LAWYERS IN THE COUNTRY?
THAT WOULD DO MORE HARM THAN GOOD- I'M AT THE MERCY OF A GANG OF BUSH-LEAGUE POLITICIANS- EVEN THE JUDGE OWES HIS JOB TO WARD HEELY-
BUT THE NEWSPAPERS- THEY ARE SAYING YOU'RE FRAMED-THAT WON'T SAVE ME- YOU SAW THE JURY THEY'VE PICKED- THEY'LL BE TOLD HARE STOLE THE MONEY FOR ME- AND I'LL BE CONVICTED, UNLESS WE FIND HARE-
IF ONLY I COULD HELP YOU, "DADDY"-
WHILE FAR AWAY IN MEXICO A TERRIBLE, AVENGING JUSTICE HAS OVERTAKEN THE FAITHLESS, CRINGING THIEF- FIRE! HIS STOLEN MILLIONS GONE, WHILE HE IS SPARED IN BODY, BUT NOT IN MIND-MILLIONS, I TELL YOU- SAVE THE MONEY!
WHAT IS THE MEANING OF ALL THIS UPROAR?
IT IS ZE CRAZY MAN- HE THINK HE IS ZE MILLIONAIRE AMERICAN- HE IS QUITE MAD-
HE IS ZAT TRAMP- ZE LITTLE HOUSE BURN AND NEARLY KEEL HIM- IT HAS QUITE DESTROYED HIS MIND, SENOR-
I'M A MILLIONAIRE! LET ME GO!
Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.; Copyright, 1934, by The Chicago Tribune.
MILLIONS! FIRE DOLLARS! RICH..
AH, YES- YOU LOOK LIKE A MILLIONAIRE- THIS MAN IS A RAVING MANIAC- THE STATE PROVIDES A QUIET PLACE FOR SUCH- TAKE HIM AWAY-
AND THUS Z. Z. HARE, THE ONE MAN WHO COULD SAVE WARBUCKS, VANISHES INTO OBLIVION-HAROLD GRAY

Maw Green

WELL, WELL- HERE COMES OLD "HONEST JOHN" O'ROGUE, THE BIGGEST GRAFTER THIS TOWN EVER MADE WEALTHY-HELLO, "HONEST JOHN", YUH OLD SWINDLER- HOW'S TH' GRAND LARCENY BUSINESS TO-DAY?
NOW, NOW, MAW GREEN- I RESENT THAT- I'M NOT CALLED "HONEST JOHN" FOR NOTHING-RIGHT YE ARE, FOR ONCE- YOU'RE NOT CALLED "HONEST JOHN" FOR NOTHING--- AS IVERY TAXPAYER IN THIS CITY HAS FOUND OUT TO HIS COST-

LOOK AT THAT, MOON! AND WITH MY OWN EARS I HEARD HER CALL HIM "DELIGHT OF MY LIFE"
JEST GIMME TH' WORD, UNCLE WILLIE- AND I'LL PUT DE LIGHT OUT.
WAIT A MINUTE! I WANTA TALK TO YOU- THEN YOU CAN GO AHEAD AND JUMP OUT THAT WINDOW!!
WHAT A DUMP! A GUY CAN'T EVEN WASH A WINDOW AROUND HERE WITHOUT SOME BUTTINSKY BUTTIN' IN SAY, WHO DO YOU THINK YOU ARE, ANYWAY?
GO GET ME ANOTHER BUCKET OF WATER AND MAYBE I'LL TELL YOU.
WELL WHAT'S YOUR NAME, WISE GUY?
I DON'T MIND TELLING YOU, BANJOEYES IT'S—
WHY YOU BIG BOOB—
I'M TRYIN' TO ANSWER YOUR QUESTION, BANJOEYES!
NOBODY CAN CALL ME BANJOEYES
!!?!!?!!
OH GOOD GRAVY!
YOU CAN'T TREAT MY BROTHER LIKE THAT, MOON MULLINS!
YOUR BROTHER?
MAY.
HECTOR, WHY DIDN'T YOU TELL MOON WHO YOU WAS?
WELL THE FIRST TIME I TRIED TO TELL HIM HE THREW A BUCKET AT ME AND THE SECOND TIME HE THREW ME DOWN THE STAIRS AND THEN— WELL, I THOUGHT I'D BETTER STOP OR THEY'D BE THROWIN' DIRT ON ME TOMORROW.
PLEASTA MEETCHA, HECTOR- I'M CERTAINY GLAD I DIDN'T GET MAD AND LOSE MY TEMPER.

SKEEZIX. MOVIN' INTO THE NEW HOUSE, AREN'T YOU? WHAT'S YOURS?
SCRAPPY. LET'S HAVE SOME FUN.
SURE. WHAT'LL WE DO.
WANT TO FIGHT?
NAW. I'M NOT MAD YET
ANY OTHER KIDS AROUND HERE?
SURE. THERE'S GOOTCH AN' SPUD AN' WHIMPY—
HERE'S SPUD NOW. THIS IS SCRAPPY, SPUD.
H'LO, SPUD. WANT TO FIGHT?
ME? WHAT WOULD I WANT TO FIGHT FOR?
WHAT'S MATTER WITH YOU KIDS—DON'T YOU WANT TO FIGHT OR ANYTHING?
GEE THAT WAS A SWELL SOCK! AN' FROM A GAL THAT PLAYS WITH PAPER DOLLS!
I DON'T PLAY WITH PAPER DOLLS!
THEN I BET YOU HAVE LITTLE DISHES AN' PLAY HOUSE.
I DON'T! BUT I DO STUNTS ON MY TRAPEZE AN' HORIZONTAL BAR YOU CAN'T DO.
LET'S GO. CAN YOU DO THE BIRD'S NEST AN' SKIN THE CAT?
EASY. BUT IF YOU GO WITH ME YOU'VE GOT TO DO CARTWHEELS.

Tiny Ted
THE KIDS ALL PICKED ON HIM
NOW I GOTCHA!
YOU LEAVE ME ALONE!
I JUST CAME OVER TO SEE HOW YOU'RE GETTING SETTLED, HAZEL! HOW DO YOU LIKE THE NEW NEIGHBORHOOD?
I LIKE THE NEW NEIGHBORHOOD ALL RIGHT, ELLA, EXCEPT ON ACCOUNT OF POOR LITTLE TED. HE'S SO FRAIL THE OTHER CHILDREN PICK ON HIM---- ESPECIALLY THAT TERRIBLE TOMMY BROWN.
TWO MINUTES LATER...
TOMMY BROWN... YOU STOP THAT THIS INSTANT! YOU OUGHT TO BE ASHAMED OF YOURSELF PICKING ON SOMEONE SMALLER THAN YOU!
GOOD HEAVENS!
AW...HE'S AS OLD AS I AM!
REALLY, I'M JUST AT MY WIT'S END HE'S SO THIN AND WEAK--AND HARDLY EATS A THING AT MEALS ALWAYS TURNS HIS NOSE UP AT CEREAL AND VEGETABLES AND SIMPLY WON'T DRINK MILK.
WHY DON'T YOU TRY GIVING HIM OVALTINE?
OVALTINE? YOU MEAN THAT SWISS FOOD-DRINK YOU HEAR SO MUCH ABOUT THESE DAYS?
YES, AND THEY'VE FOUND IT SIMPLY AMAZING FOR MAKING POOR EATERS EAT! ... BUILDS THEM UP AT THE RATE OF A POUND A WEEK. OR MORE! IT TELLS ABOUT IT IN THIS MAGAZINE AD RIGHT HERE!
SEE? YOU REALLY OUGHT TO TRY IT FOR TED!
I'LL CERTAINLY GET A CAN AND START RIGHT IN TODAY.
If Your Child Eats Poorly
Here's a Way to Make Him Actually HUNGRY, Even for Vegetables and Milk.
OVALTINE PLEASE!
GEE, MOM... I BET THIS IS THE BEST-TASTING DRINK IN THE WHOLE WORLD! WHAT DO YOU CALL IT?
IT'S OVALTINE, DEAR--- AND YOU CAN HAVE ALL YOU WANT WHENEVER YOU WANT--- BECAUSE IT BUILDS YOU UP AND MAKES YOU HEALTHY AND STRONG!
ICE
LATER..
ANOTHER HELPING? WHY OF COURSE!
SA-AY! WHO'S THIS CHAMPION SPINACH EATER WE'VE GOT HERE? IT CAN'T BE TED.. HE ALWAYS HATED SPINACH.
BUT I LIKE IT NOW, DAD.. IT TASTES DIFFERENT THAN IT USED TO. AN' BESIDES I'M SO HUNGRY LATELY I COULD EAT MOST ANYTHING AT ALL!
STILL LATER.
WELL, LOOK AT THIS! TEN POUNDS GAIN ALREADY!
THAT'S THE STUFF SON!
JUST WAIT TILL THAT TOMMY BROWN TRIES TO PICK ON ME AGAIN!
NEXT DAY...
LOOK AT THIS HAZEL... TOMMY BROWN HAS MET HIS MATCH AT LAST!
WHY... IT'S TED!
GEE, KIDS,- LOOKUT!
SAY WHEN YOU'VE HAD ENOUGH AND I'LL LET YOU UP!
NUFF!
GEE, TED, HOWD'JA GET SO STRONG ALL OF A SUDDEN? WE GOTTA BE PALS FROM NOW ON.
WELL, IT LOOKS AS THOUGH TED COULD TAKE CARE OF HIMSELF WITHOUT ANY HELP FROM NOW ON! HE'S AS HUSKY AS ANY YOUNGSTER ON THIS BLOCK!
IT CERTAINLY WAS A LUCKY DAY WHEN ELLA TOLD ME ABOUT OVALTINE!
GOSH, FEEL THIS MUSCLE!

Mothers! Here's How Ovaltine Adds a Pound a Week or More

—And Makes "Poor Eaters" Hungry, Even For Vegetables And Milk

OVALTINE is a scientific food concentrate—approved by more than 20,000 doctors and child specialists. And given religiously by hundreds of thousands of mothers as an important part of the health-building program so widely urged today.

So remarkable are its building powers that, by commencing now, you may almost literally make your child over within a few weeks' time. For it acts 3 ways to build up a child who is underweight or nervous—who shuns health-giving vegetables and milk.

First: It adds weight, often at the rate of 8 ounces to 1½ pounds a week.

Second: At the same time, the desire to eat is stimulated in a scientific way. Not by merely "tempting" the taste, but by actually creating the natural sensation of hunger. Thus, when a child drinks Ovaltine, he not only inclines to eat more of such healthful foods as vegetables, oatmeal and bread—but because of better digestion, he gets more nourishment out of every meal he eats.

Milk is also taken much more readily when it is mixed with Ovaltine. And Ovaltine has a delicious taste that the fussiest child is unable to resist.

Third: As appetite and weight increase, nervousness is simultaneously curbed to a marked degree. Thus breaking up the vicious circle that underweight and nervousness usually tend to create.

So remarkable are the results accredited to Ovaltine that, during the World War, medical authorities made it a standard ration for rebuilding shell-shocked, nerve-shattered soldiers. Physicians also recommend it highly for sleeplessness—and as a strengthening food for nursing mothers, convalescents, and the aged.

For the sake of your child, try Ovaltine. You simply mix it with milk—either hot or cold—and children love it for its delicious taste. You can obtain Ovaltine at any drug or grocery store. Get a can of it today. (Note the special free offer of a genuine Orphan Annie shake-up mug for shaking up ice-cold Ovaltine as a delicious, warm-weather drink. Clip the coupon now.)

AS THE SHERIFF CONVOYS THE INTENDED VICTIMS TOWARD RUSSLER'S AMBUSH-
DO YOU KNOW WHERE UTAH'S GONE?
SURE- HE'S OUT FIXIN' A FENCE-
DO YOU THINK OUR MINE IS GOOD? IS THERE GOLD IN THESE HILLS?
MAYBE- BUT BETTER THAN GOLD THERE'S HEALTH IN THESE HILLS-
WHY, UTAH'S AN OLD MAN, BUT STILL VIGOROUS- LOTS OF MEN WOULD TAKE HIS HEALTH RATHER THAN THAT MINE-
THAT'S O.K.- BUT THEY COULDN'T TAKE HIS MINE AND BE HEALTHY TOO-WIPE OUT THESE TWO AND WE'RE ALL SET- I'LL LET JACK DO THE DIRTY WORK-HANDS UP, SHERIFF!
WHAT?--OH! HA! HA! HELLO, JACK-
CAREFUL, SHERIFF! KEEP YOUR HANDS AWAY FROM THAT GUN- LEAVE THE INDIANS HERE AND START FOR TOWN- GET MOVING!
AW, WE HAVEN'T TIME TO FOOL, JACK- LET'S GET DOWN TO BUSINESS AND--- BAM!

AN ADVERTISEMENT OF GENERAL FOODS
THIS LOOKS LIKE AN ELEGANT TOWN, NOW TO FIND A RESTAURANT RUN BY SOME NICE KIND GENTLEMAN.
LUNC
PLEASE, MR. RESTAURANT MAN, WOULD YOU GIVE ME A DISH OF THOSE CRINKLY-GOLD GRAPE-NUTS FLAKES? I WILL PAY YOU AS SOON AS I SEARCH A JOB.
WE DON'T TRUST STRANGERS.
HAM AN' 5¢
MISTER, COULD YOU NOT TRUST ME FOR A DISH OF THOSE GRAND, NUT-SWEET FLAKES? I WILL BE OH SO GRATEFUL.
LISTEN, BUDDY, YOU GO OUT AND GET BEETLE-BROW BILLY, THE TWO-GUN BANDIT, AND WE'LL GIVE YOU ALL THE GRAPE-NUTS FLAKES YOU CAN EAT.
MY GOODNESS, I HOPE I CAN MEET UP WITH THIS FELLOW BEETLE-BROW. THEY SAID HE CAME THIS WAY.
OH, ARE YOU MISTER BEETLE-BROW? I AM VERY SORRY BUT I MUST CAPTURE YOU SO I CAN GET A DISH OF GRAPE-NUTS FLAKES OF WHICH I AM VERY FOND.
HO HO! YOU RUNT! I'LL FILL YOU SO FULL OF LEAD THEY'LL USE YOU FOR A MINE!
EXCUSE PLEASE, BUT IF YOU WON'T COME PEACEABLY ——
I MUST DO THIS-AND THIS.
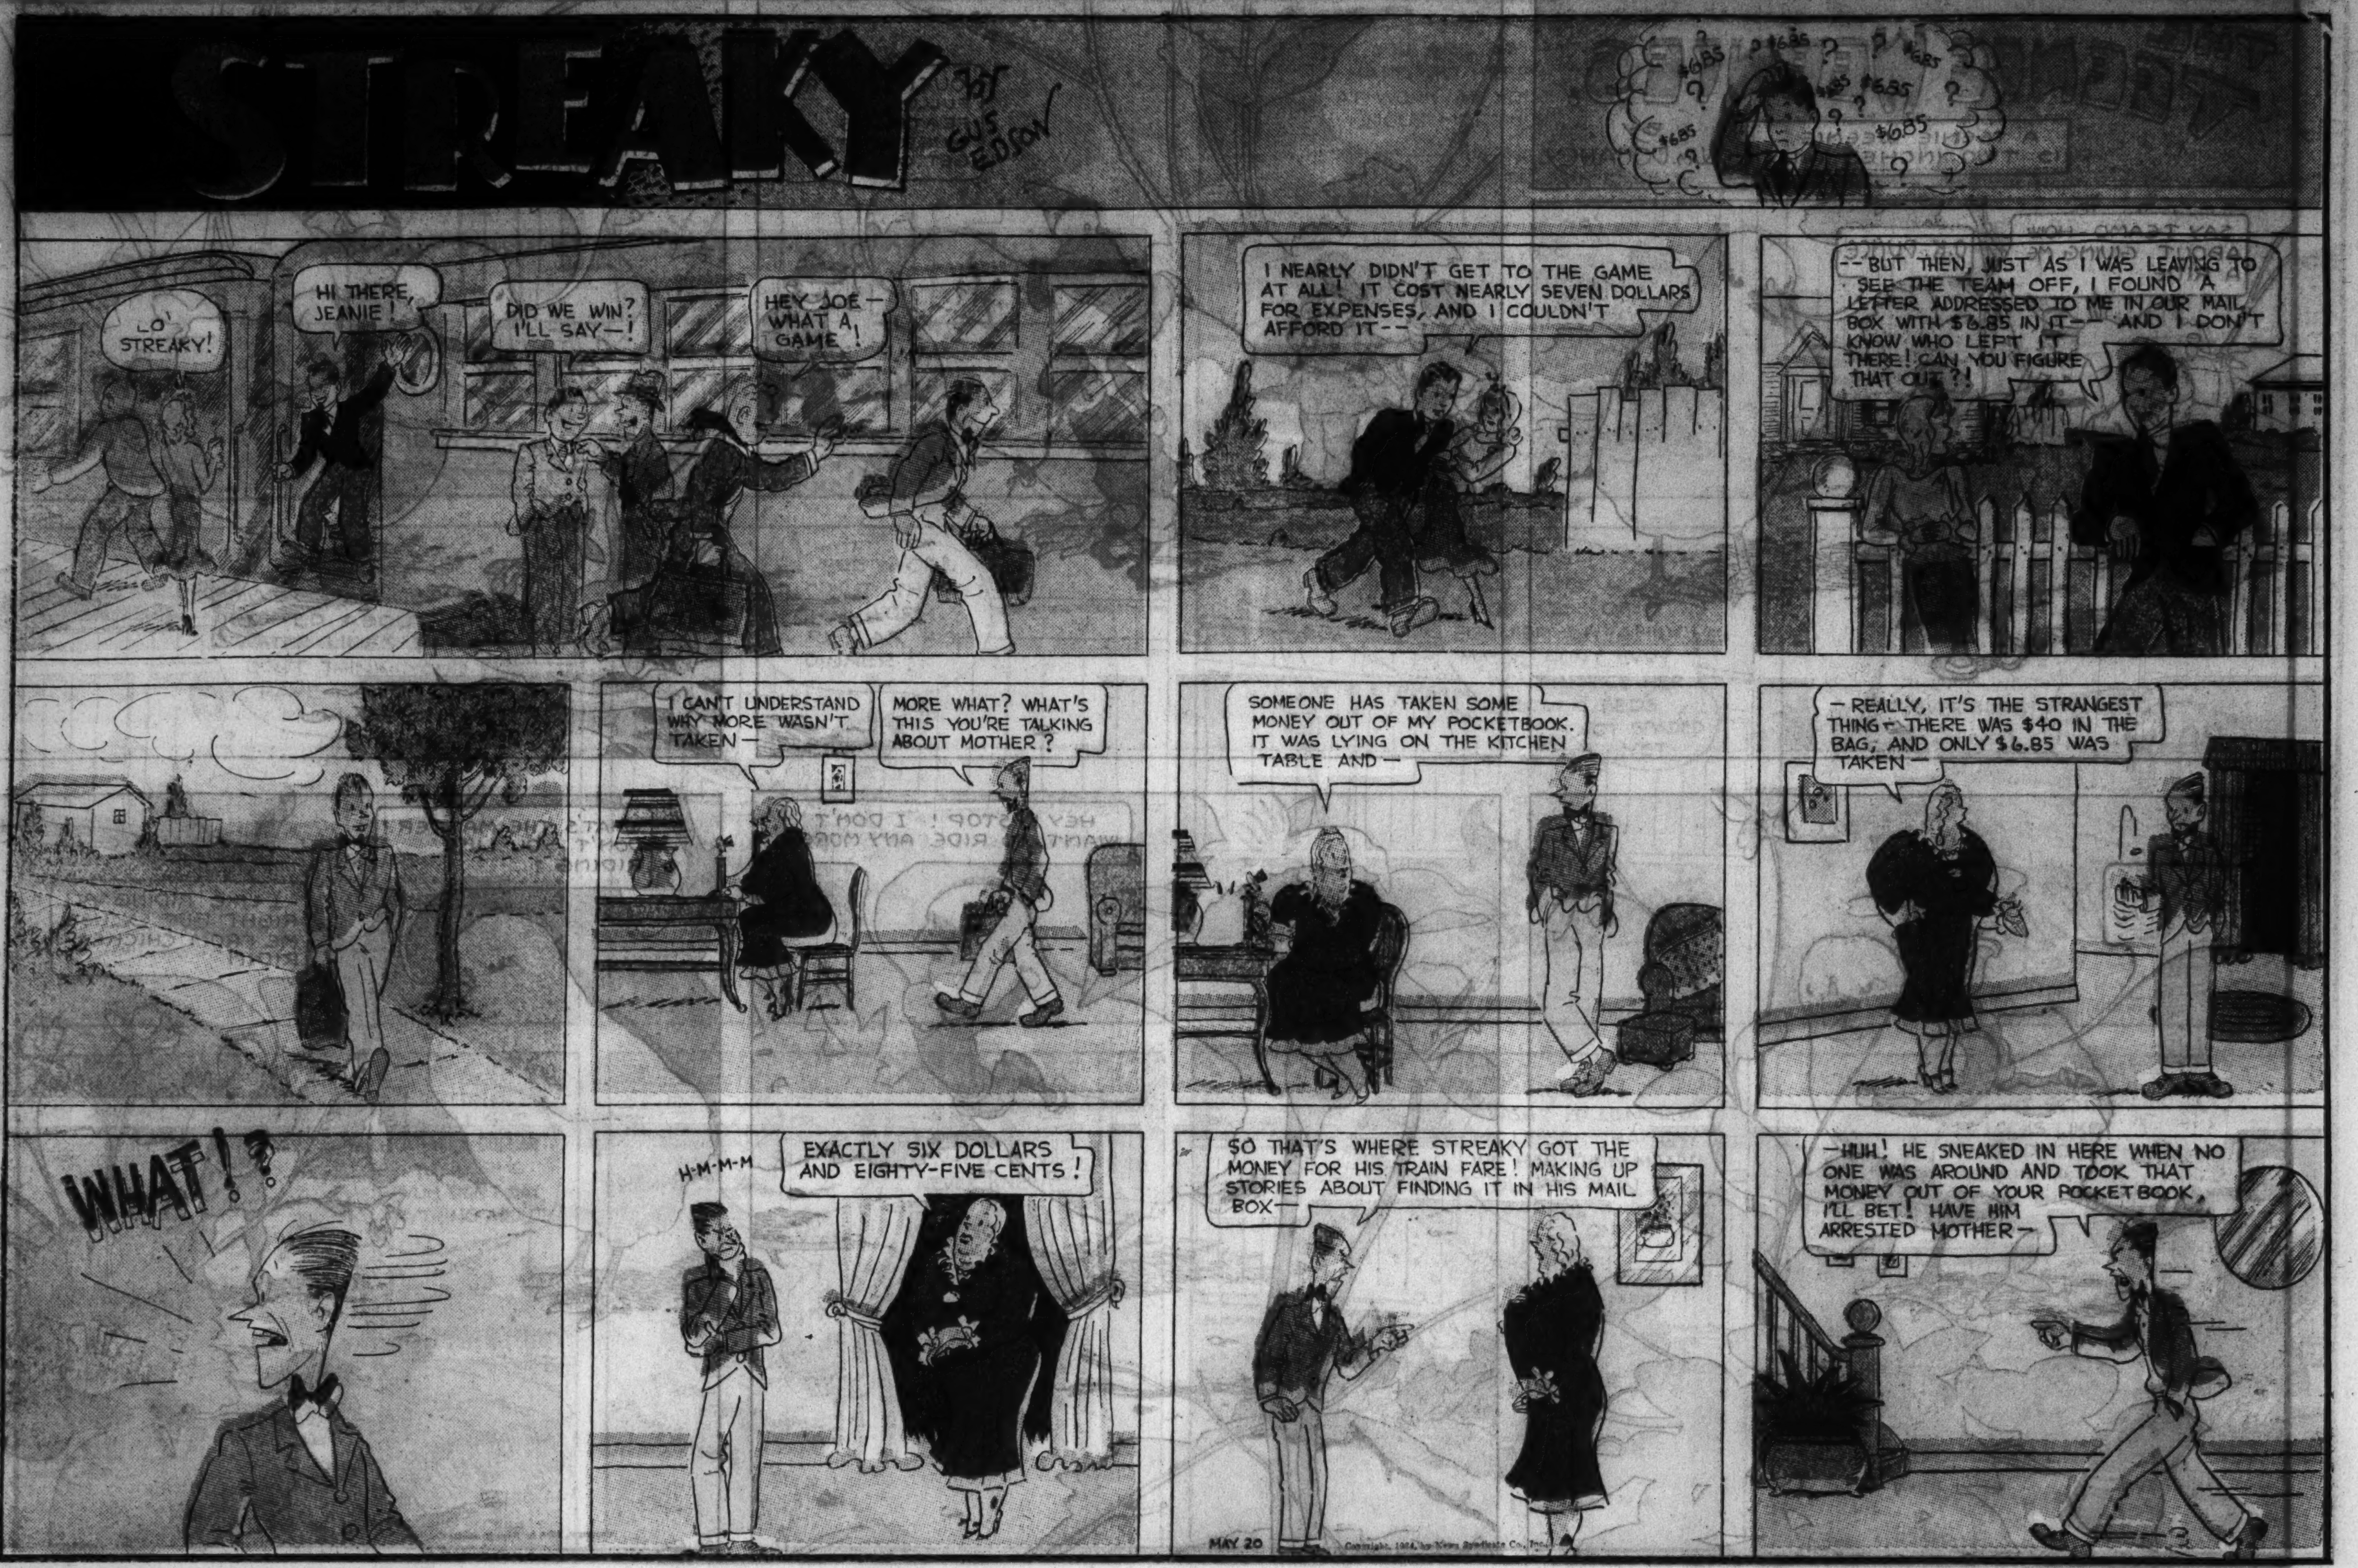
I HOPE YOU ARE NOT HURT, MISTER BEETLE-BROW.
IT'S THE RUNT!
HE'S GOT BEETLE-BROW BILLY!
EXCUSE ME, I WOULD HAVE ARRIVED SOONER HAD MISTER BEETLE-BROW BEEN ABLE TO WALK.
HEY JOE, MORE GRAPE-NUTS FLAKES.
OH MY, OH MY, WHAT AN ELEGANT DISH!
Galpert
Grape-Nuts Flakes
NO WONDER LITTLE ALBY IS ALWAYS WILLING TO RISK HIS NECK FOR A DISH OF GRAPE-NUTS FLAKES!
IT'S SO DELICIOUS! WHY, IT'S THE FAVORITE BREAKFAST CEREAL WITH MILLIONS.
AND IT'S NOURISHING, TOO! ONE DISH, WITH MILK OR CREAM, GIVES YOU MORE VARIED NOURISHMENT THAN MANY A HEARTY MEAL.
TRY IT. YOUR GROCER HAS IT.



STREAKY
BY GUS EDSON
$6.85 ? $6.85 ? $6.85 ? $6.85 ? $6.85 ?
'LO' STREAKY!
HI THERE, JEANIE!
DID WE WIN? I'LL SAY—!
HEY JOE— WHAT A GAME!
I NEARLY DIDN'T GET TO THE GAME AT ALL! IT COST NEARLY SEVEN DOLLARS FOR EXPENSES, AND I COULDN'T AFFORD IT—
—BUT THEN, JUST AS I WAS LEAVING TO SEE THE TEAM OFF, I FOUND A LETTER ADDRESSED TO ME IN OUR MAIL BOX WITH $6.85 IN IT— AND I DON'T KNOW WHO LEFT IT THERE! CAN YOU FIGURE THAT OUT?!
I CAN'T UNDERSTAND WHY MORE WASN'T TAKEN—
MORE WHAT? WHAT'S THIS YOU'RE TALKING ABOUT MOTHER?
SOMEONE HAS TAKEN SOME MONEY OUT OF MY POCKETBOOK. IT WAS LYING ON THE KITCHEN TABLE AND——REALLY, IT'S THE STRANGEST THING— THERE WAS $40 IN THE BAG, AND ONLY $6.85 WAS TAKEN—WHAT!?
H-M-M-M
EXACTLY SIX DOLLARS AND EIGHTY-FIVE CENTS!
SO THAT'S WHERE STREAKY GOT THE MONEY FOR HIS TRAIN FARE! MAKING UP STORIES ABOUT FINDING IT IN HIS MAIL BOX—
—HUH! HE SNEAKED IN HERE WHEN NO ONE WAS AROUND AND TOOK THAT MONEY OUT OF YOUR POCKETBOOK, I'LL BET! HAVE HIM ARRESTED MOTHER—

A STRAIN on the FAMILY TIE
BY GAAR WILLIAMS
NOW YOU GET TO WORK ON THAT SPADING AND DON'T BE ALL SPRING DOING IT. DID YOU HEAR ME?
AW HECK!
YOU ARE AS HARD TO KEEP AT WORK AS YOUR UNCLE MORT!
WELL, THINK HOW HARD IT IS FOR ME T' KEEP MYSELF WORKIN' AND DOIN' TH' WORK TOO.
GEE WHOP— I WISHT WE LIVED IN AN APARTMENT WHERE ALL YOU'D HAVE T' SPADE WOULD BE A COUPLE O' WINDOW BOXES
—OR—IF AUNT EVVY'D ONLY GET EXCITED ABOUT WATER LILIES I DON'T THINK YOU'D HAVE T' SPADE MUCH FER 'EM
GEE WHOP! LOOKUT TH' FISHIN' WORM. A REG'LAR FISH DINNER!
NOW IF I CAN CATCH A GOOD MESS OF FISH FOR TH' FAMILY MAYBE AUNT EVVY WON'T NOTICE HER FLOWER BEDS NOT SPADED YET
OH BOY! ARE THEY HUNGRY N' EVERYTHING!
LISTEN, SON, I'LL GIVE YOU A HALF DOLLAR FOR TH' WORMS IF YUH DON'T SAY ANYTHING ABOUT IT.
$
WHEW I NEVER KNEW GETTIN' RICH WAS SO EASY!
HECK! I WISHT I'D LEARNED MY LESSON THAT DAY WE HAD "HOW MANY QUARTS IS IN A BARREL" AND SO ON!!
GREAT SCOTT IT LOOKS LIKE SOMEBODY'D BEEN WORKIN' A STEAM SHOVEL!

SWEENEY & SON by JOSEPH
WELL SON HOW'S SCHOOL?
OH, ALL RIGHT
YOU DON'T SEEM VERY CHEERFUL ABOUT IT
SOME DAY YOU'LL REALIZE THAT YOUR SCHOOL DAYS ARE THE HAPPIEST DAYS OF YOUR LIFE
SCHOOL DAYS! AH—THE MEMORIES THEY BRING BACK!
BOY! DID WE HAVE FUN!
I REMEMBER HOW WE USED TO POUR MUCILAGE IN THE TEACHER'S INKWELL—AND PUT MOUSETRAPS IN THE KIDS' LUNCHBOXES
SAY—WE ONCE TIED THE BLACKBOARD ERASER TO A FLOWER-POT AND I'LL NEVER FORGET THE TEACHER'S FACE—
WHEN SHE JERKED THAT FLOWER-POT OFF THE WINDOW SILL AND THE WATER POURED ALL OVER A GIRL'S DRESS— HA-HA-HO-HO!
—THEN THERE WAS THE TIME WE RANG THE RECESS BELL AND THE WHOLE SCHOOL WALKED OUT AN HOUR EARLY!
HAW-HAW-HAW! THOSE WERE THE DAYS!
SAY—WE WERE PRETTY BAD—HEY, POP?

DICK TRACY
STATE PENITENTIARY
SINCE J. SCOTLAND BUMPSTED, OF THE EUROPEAN SECRET POLICE, ARRIVED IN TOWN, TRACY HAS BEEN MORE THAN BUSY SHOWING THE FOREIGN DETECTIVE AROUND AND EXPLAINING AMERICAN WAYS AND METHODS OF POLICE PROCEDURE . . .
HERE'S YOUR COAT, SON- NOW WHERE DID YOU SAY YOU TWO WERE GOING?
JUNIOR AND I ARE TAKING HIM TO VISIT THE STATE PENITENTIARY, MRS. BUMPSTED. HE WANTS TO SEE ONE OF OUR AMERICAN PENAL INSTITUTIONS AND SOME OF THE FAMOUS GANGSTERS THAT HAVE BEEN PUT BEHIND BARS LATELY.
CHEERIO, MUMSY.
SMACK
BUT LISTEN- SCOTTY, YOU WON'T NEED THAT ARSENAL. WHY NOT LEAVE YOUR GUNS HERE?
NOT A CHANCE, TRACY, OLD CHAP! WHERE I GO- MY GUNS GO.
REMIND ME TO TELL YOU SOMETIME ABOUT HOW I SHOT AN ASSASSIN THROUGH THE HEART IN BUDAPEST WITH A TINY GUN I HAD CONCEALED UP MY SLEEVE.
POLICE
WATCH ME GET THAT CROW!
JEEMINEE! YOU GOT 'IM ALL RIGHT, SCOTTY! BUT WHERE'S THE GUN?
BOOM
IT'S A LITTLE PERFECTION OF MY OWN. A SMALL SINGLE SHOT WEAPON STRAPPED TO MY WRIST WITH A WIRE RUNNING TO MY MIDDLE FINGER. PULLING THE FINGER DOWN FIRES THE GUN!
WELL- HERE WE ARE AT THE PENITENTIARY GATES.
HEY, TRACY- LOOK! SOMETHING'S HAPPENING!
SO YOU TOUGHT I HAD A WOODEN GUN LIKE THAT INDIANA GUY HAD, EH? WELL, TASTE THAT!
BOOM
NO YOU DON'T! DROP THEM RODS, YOU TWO!
TRACY- IT'S.. IT'S STEVE!
BY GOLLY- IT IS STEVE! STEVE, THE TRAMP! HE'S SHOT HIS WAY OUT AND IS ESCAPING IN OUR CAR!
LET ME TAKE A POP AT THE BOUNDER WITH MY MAUSER. IT NEVER FAILS ME!
LOOK! SCOTTY HIT HIS TIRE! HE CAN'T MAKE ANY SPEED!
COME ON- WE'LL GIVE CHASE IN THE WARDEN'S CAR. IT'S NO USE SHOOTING-
YOU AMERICANS!
SCOTTY'S INTRODUCTION TO THE AMERICAN UNDERWORLD CERTAINLY STARTED OFF WITH A BANG! WHAT PART WILL HE PLAY IN STEVE'S CAPTURE . ?

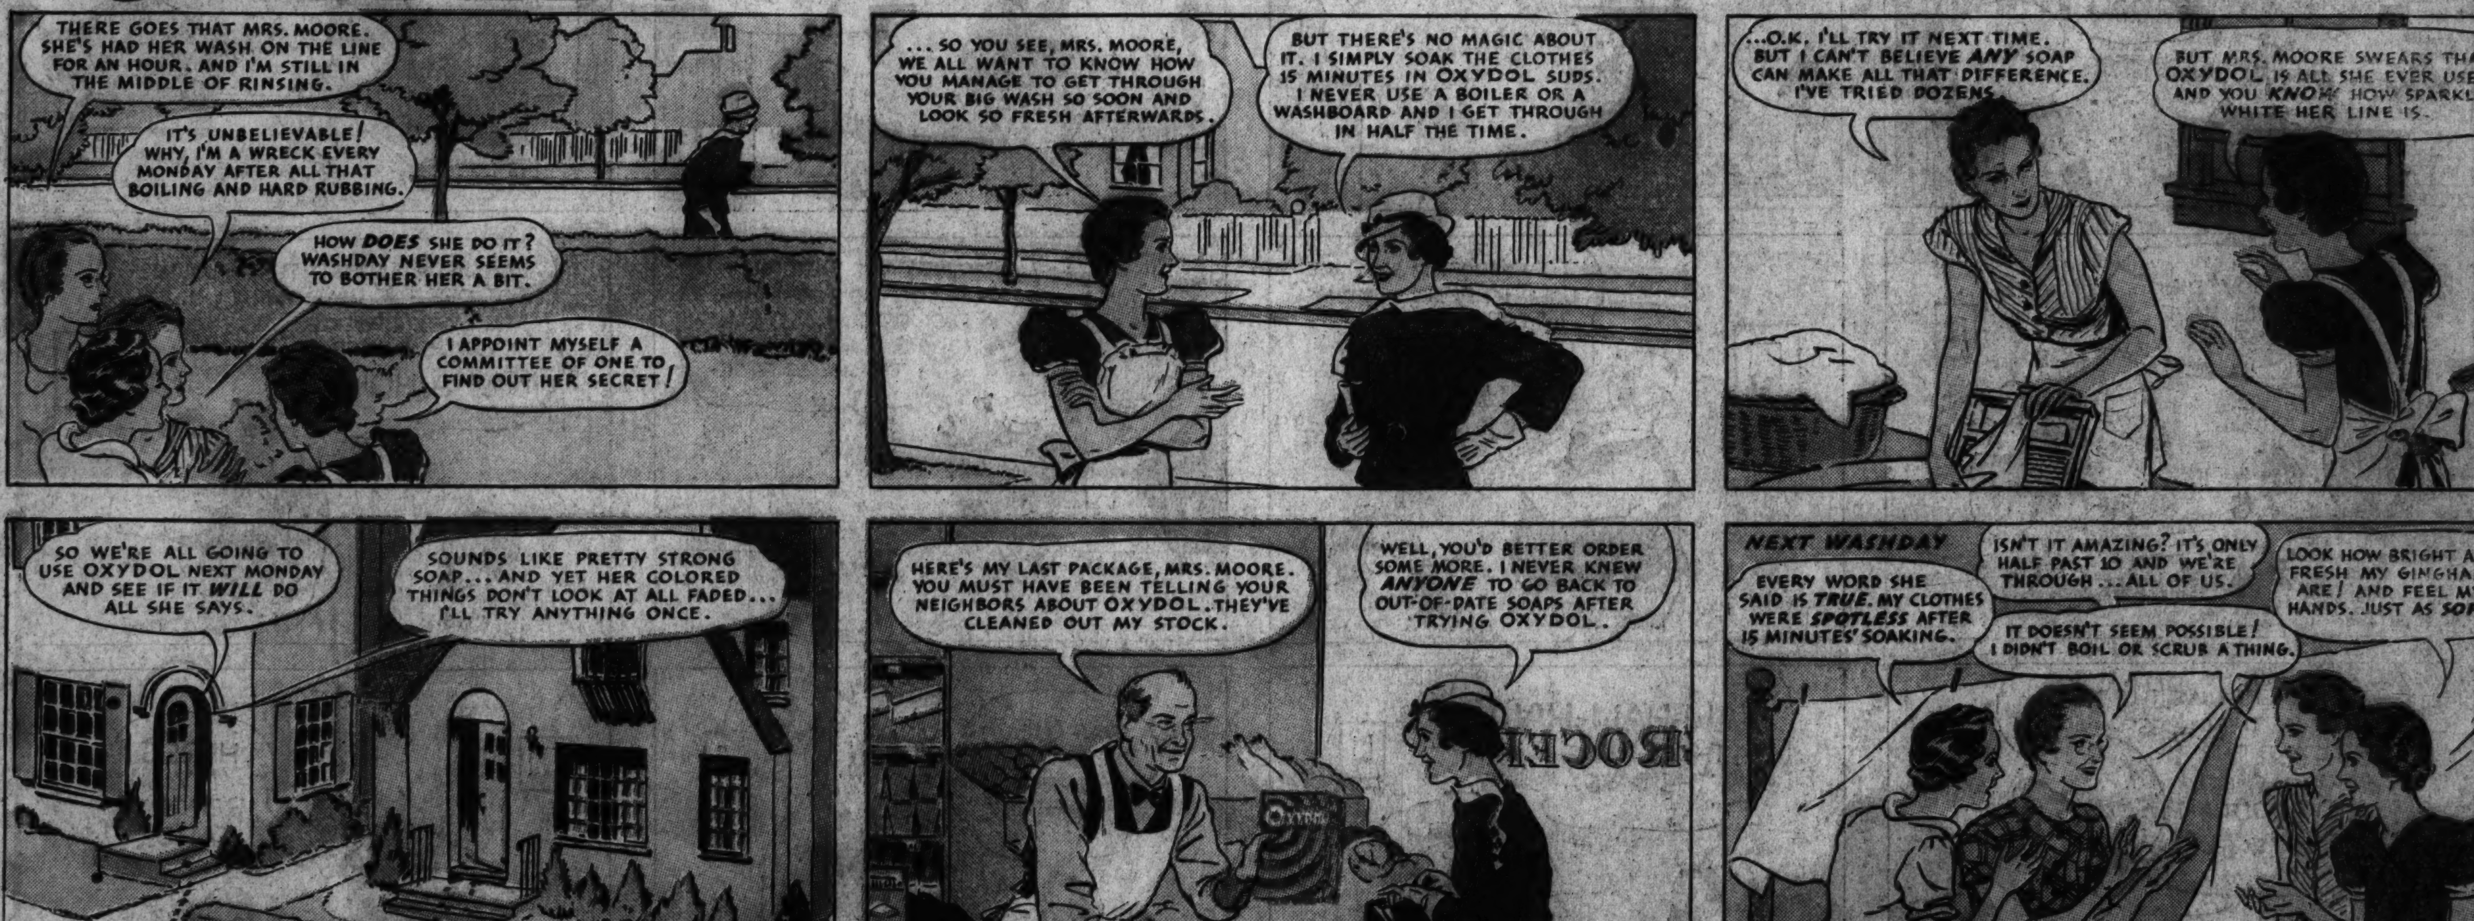
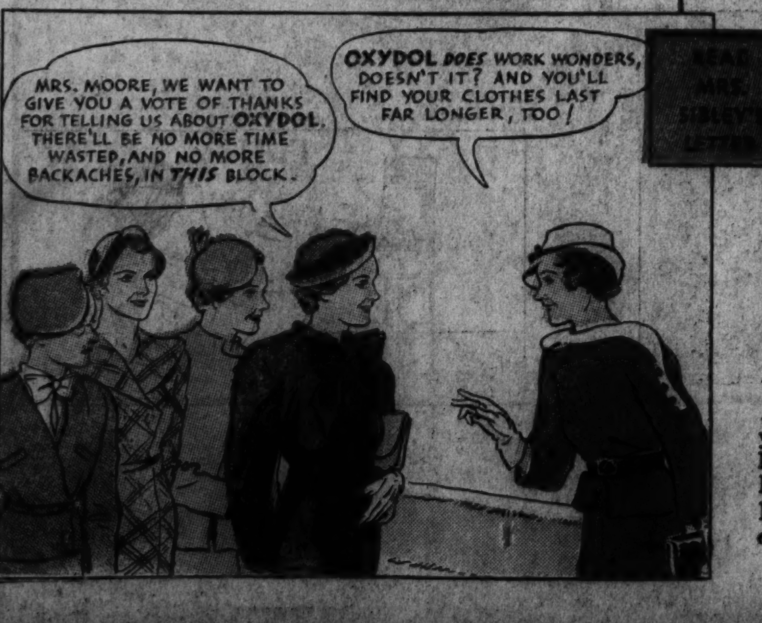
SOLVED! — THE MYSTERY OF MRS. MOORE'S MONDAYS



THERE GOES THAT MRS. MOORE. SHE'S HAD HER WASH ON THE LINE FOR AN HOUR. AND I'M STILL IN THE MIDDLE OF RINSING.
IT'S UNBELIEVABLE! WHY, I'M A WRECK EVERY MONDAY AFTER ALL THAT BOILING AND HARD RUBBING.
HOW DOES SHE DO IT? WASHDAY NEVER SEEMS TO BOTHER HER A BIT.
I APPOINT MYSELF A COMMITTEE OF ONE TO FIND OUT HER SECRET!
. . . SO YOU SEE, MRS. MOORE, WE ALL WANT TO KNOW HOW YOU MANAGE TO GET THROUGH YOUR BIG WASH SO SOON AND LOOK SO FRESH AFTERWARDS.
BUT THERE'S NO MAGIC ABOUT IT. I SIMPLY SOAK THE CLOTHES 15 MINUTES IN OXYDOL SUDS. I NEVER USE A BOILER OR A WASHBOARD AND I GET THROUGH IN HALF THE TIME.
. . . O.K. I'LL TRY IT NEXT TIME. BUT I CAN'T BELIEVE ANY SOAP CAN MAKE ALL THAT DIFFERENCE. I'VE TRIED DOZENS.
BUT MRS. MOORE SWEARS THAT OXYDOL IS ALL SHE EVER USES. AND YOU KNOW HOW SPARKLING WHITE HER LINE IS.
SO WE'RE ALL GOING TO USE OXYDOL NEXT MONDAY AND SEE IF IT WILL DO ALL SHE SAYS.
SOUNDS LIKE PRETTY STRONG SOAP . . . AND YET HER COLORED THINGS DON'T LOOK AT ALL FADED . . . I'LL TRY ANYTHING ONCE.
HERE'S MY LAST PACKAGE, MRS. MOORE. YOU MUST HAVE BEEN TELLING YOUR NEIGHBORS ABOUT OXYDOL. THEY'VE CLEANED OUT MY STOCK.
WELL, YOU'D BETTER ORDER SOME MORE. I NEVER KNEW ANYONE TO GO BACK TO OUT-OF-DATE SOAPS AFTER TRYING OXYDOL.
OXYDOL
GROCE
NEXT WASHDAY
EVERY WORD SHE SAID IS TRUE. MY CLOTHES WERE SPOTLESS AFTER 15 MINUTES' SOAKING.
ISN'T IT AMAZING? IT'S ONLY HALF PAST 10 AND WE'RE THROUGH . . . ALL OF US.
IT DOESN'T SEEM POSSIBLE! I DIDN'T BOIL OR SCRUB A THING.
LOOK HOW BRIGHT AND FRESH MY GINGHAMS ARE! AND FEEL MY HANDS. JUST AS SOFT!



MRS. MOORE, WE WANT TO GIVE YOU A VOTE OF THANKS FOR TELLING US ABOUT OXYDOL. THERE'LL BE NO MORE TIME WASTED, AND NO MORE BACKACHES, IN THIS BLOCK.
OXYDOL DOES WORK WONDERS, DOESN'T IT? AND YOU'LL FIND YOUR CLOTHES LAST FAR LONGER, TOO!
READ MRS. SIBLEY'S LETTER

(AN ACTUAL EXPERIENCE FROM REAL LIFE)

Says Even a Blind Woman

Couldn't Help But Get Clothes Clean With Oxydol

MRS. GRACE SIBLEY
South Bend, Indiana

"Changing brands with great frequency, some of us eventually tried Oxydol. The news spread like back-fence gossip. Here was a soap that a blind woman could use! Oxydol has many advantages over others. But the biggest is that it takes half the labor out of washing!"

IF you, too, want the far faster, far whiter way in washing that Mrs. Sibley has found—then you are urged to try this latest discovery of the Procter & Gamble experts, makers of famous Ivory—the New and Improved OXYDOL!

It does 3 things no other soap can do or has ever done:

Cuts washing time 25% to 40% in tub or machine. Hence, gives you your afternoon free!

Gets clothes 4 to 5 shades WHITER, by the scientific whiteness-measuring Tintometer test. Whiter EVEN than other granulated soaps (heretofore considered "whitest washing") can do in TWO washings!

Yet, due to its utterly new and improved formula, colors won't fade; fabric won't wear out! Even cotton prints and children's dainty frocks are safe. Yet, despite its amazing cleaning power, it leaves hands soft, finger nails lustrous and uncracked.

It works without back-breaking rubbing. For it works by dissolving dirt. OXYDOL SOAKS dirt out in 15 minutes. So you never have to scrub and boil clothes clean.

Thick 3-inch Suds in Any Water

OXYDOL is specially fitted to water conditions in each district where it's sold. The OXYDOL you get here already contains just the right amount of water-softener to fit the water you use. You can see the results in the suds. OXYDOL multiplies 500 TIMES in suds! Makes rich 3-inch suds in any water, hard or soft!

And OXYDOL is economical. Many ordinary granulated or flake soaps cost 8% to 30% more for the same amount of soap!

Make This Test

Get OXYDOL from your grocer and make this two-way test: (1) With a ruler, measure OXYDOL's thick suds and compare with the suds made by your usual soap—note how long they last; (2) watch the clock to prove to yourself that OXYDOL does soak out the dirt in 15 minutes!

THE NEW AND IMPROVED
OXYDOL
MULTIPLIES 500 TIMES IN SUDS

MOLER'S

Hundreds who have already done this, very gratefully testify to this fact.

It's not like serving a term in the penitentiary to learn at Moler's.

These professions are taught delightfully by a shorter, more intensive, more common sense schooling that costs no more than the old methods.

A plan that saves months of useless drudgery.

Why not be out earning, where you would otherwise be drilling.

If out of the City, can earn your living while learning. Day and evening classes.

AT DeLEE You Learn BEAUTY CULTURE

Quickly—Easily Thoroughly

QUICKLY—Because you receive individual instruction under the personal direction of Madame Louise, internationally famous stylist and beauty expert.

EASILY—Because the DeLEE "University type" of training simplifies learning. You learn by practicing on living models. Classrooms are colorful, light, and spacious. Equipment is 100% new, up to the minute.

THOROUGHLY—Because DeLEE does not graduate a student until she has attained genuine proficiency. At DeLEE you receive unlimited instruction at no extra cost. In fact, you'll find DeLEE tuition fees surprisingly reasonable.

Free Employment Service to Graduates

DeLEE helps its graduates to obtain good paying positions—without charge. Not only at the time they graduate but at any time thereafter when such service is requested.

Register now and assure yourself a place in the class which is now forming. DeLEE classes are restricted to size in order that each student will receive individual instruction. Come in tomorrow and talk with the DeLEE Dean, Miss Ruby Lorrain Stevens. Convenient terms can be arranged. If you can't come in, write for the interesting, illustrated DeLee Book.

BOTH DAY AND EVENING CLASSES.

MEN—WHO HAVE HELD RESPONSIBLE positions naturally do not like to take something way beneath their ability. The fact that I have with me a number of men, formerly executives and managers in other lines of business and now more successful than ever, prompts me to again offer this opportunity to a few more men of that type. Also several executive positions to be filled from within our own ranks. I average $10,000 a year. Others here from $3,000 to $7,000. We help you make it—but we prefer not to talk to men who feel that that kind of comm. money is over their heads. Old, prominent annuity org.; permanent; state exp. Address O X 52, Tribune.

THE SUCCESS OF ANY SALESMAN IS DUE to his training and reflects in his production. The agents in our office are thoroly trained. Their production in April was an excess of 140% over April, 1933. This year we are 44.7% ahead of same period a year ago. Business is good. A new sales class will start soon. A limited number will be accepted. You can sell and earn commissions during instruction period. You may be the one with a small amount of training and this opportunity to get well started on the road to recovery and independence. An exceptional opportunity for a real ambitious man. See Mr. Bailey. NEW YORK LIFE INSURANCE CO., Room 827, 222 W. Adams.

A FEW MEN WHO WOULD LIKE TO GET INTO BUSINESS WITHOUT INVESTMENT ON THEIR PART WILL BE SELECTED MONDAY!

If you are a steady, dependable man, known in your community, a North or N. W. side resident, and have wished seriously to get into a business of your own, being held back chiefly by lack of capital or fear of failure, you will be interested to know these facts pertaining to this immediately available proposition:

Our business is based on backing good, dependable men in an independent business, calling for no investment on their part, no overhead or other obligations. It is year 'round and is good for certainly the next 10 years or longer at an expanding rate. It will pay, according to the man's ability and willingness to apply himself, from $1,600 to possibly $3,000 the first year, and gradually more through succeeding years, and commission checks will be paid promptly, we furnishing everything.

We have developed some of the outstanding electrical equipment in the world, and in this particular line have a unit that is rising head and shoulders above the field. I have been placed in charge of organizing men in different communities north of the river, and am prepared to talk to a few good men between 27 and 48 preferably, without respect to their past experience, who will come to see me promptly at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon, May 21, in Suite 215 at 1046 Wilson-av., being prepared to spend an hour and a half up to two hours if I require it, and it looks as though we could get together without delay.

ATTENTION:

MEN WHO ARE UNEMPLOYED.

In and around Chicago are men that are complaining about work being very hard to find. Some of these men actually want work, others are not looking for work, or want something that is easy to do for a mere existence. To the men who are looking for a chance to prove their ability with possibilities of earning a good consistent living for themselves and their families, we can present a splendid opportunity.

In our previous announcements we have repeatedly made the statement that we are not interested in men who are merely concerned with the limitations of a small income. However, we will go a long way in helping a man to a lucrative and permanent future if that man is big enough and willing enough to realize that he must pay the price and prove his worth to us by actual and conscientious hard work.

In order to assure that no man will remain in a rut because of a stipulated income used as a harness over him, we pay our men commissions weekly, giving them a chance to receive in dollars and cents what they actually earn. This business is modern and it is mutual in nature. No investment is required from any man. We finance everything.

Our requirements are: Good references, willingness to work hard, neat appearance. Such men will be personally interviewed and shown the complete plan of merchandising our unique mechanical specialty, an outstanding unit in the electrical field. This plan has been and is now very successful; this year promises to be well ahead of 1933, our biggest year for our entire national organization.

This ad gives no honest, industrious man an excuse for being out of work. Our openings are especially for West Side and West Suburban men. Apply in person, Room 329, at 9 So. Kedzie-av., Monday, May 21, from 11 to 3 o'clock.

This is a special interview, and if you can qualify for a position with us, may mean the turning point of your life, regardless of your present occupation.

This is not an ordinary ad, but this is not an ordinary selling job. We firmly believe this represents one of the outstanding opportunities of the decade in specialty sales work.

FONTANA FARMS

IN SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA.

MRS. HALLIE HANSEN WRITES:

"FONTANA is a beautiful place. . . . A healthy place to live. . . . Lots of good drinking water. . . . People are sociable and our neighbors are really neighbors. . . . We enjoy the community clubs. . . . The people co-operate, causing whatever project FONTANA undertakes to go over with a bang. . . . A wonderful community for children—plenty of clean fun and entertainment. . . . Schools are the very best and the churches are splendid. . . . Fontana is near enough to the resorts, mountains, desert, beaches, and cities. . . . We can live quite cheaply, as we raise almost everything in the rich soil. . . . All in all, I would rather live in FONTANA than any other place in California."

READY MARKETS—NO PIONEERING.

FINANCIAL SECURITY AND HAPPINESS.

REAL ESTATE—FARM LANDS.

California.

IN SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA SMALL farm homes near established communities yield good income; ideal climate for fruit and poultry; moderate price lands; easy terms; paved roads and good schools. Only ten years ago life on the farm meant an almost primitive existence. Today wide spread distribution of modern conveniences make pleasant and profitable the hours that used to be tedious and difficult. The Santa Fe railway has no land to sell, but offers free information service to help you get right location. Low fares to California. Write for illustrated Southern California folder and our farm paper, "The Earth," free for six months. C. L. SEAGRAVES, General Colonization Agent, Santa Fe Railway, 900A Railway Exchange, Chicago.

Ask About
Household's
Reduced Rate
ON $300 LOANS

LOANS $30 TO $300.

On all balances above $100 Household's charge is below the maximum rate permitted by the State Small Loan Law. We have branches throughout the Chicago district and do the largest business because:

1. We give good service at reasonable cost.
2. We do not question your employer, your neighbors, your relatives or your tradespeople.
3. All of our offices are equipped to handle your business in a private room.
4. We give free, authentic information on managing family incomes.

Household makes loans in amounts from $30 to $300 to men and their wives on their own signatures. Repayment arranged in convenient monthly installments. Household charges only on that part of the loan remaining unpaid.

Pianos and Players.

Pianos Tuned to Your Purse.

Divide the old $2,400 Steinway B price by 4 and you get $600. A prominent family at 999 Lake Shore-dr. asked us to sell their piano in a hurry. So we did the above arithmetic and someone's lifelong ambition to own a truly glorious piano will be quickly satisfied.

Our basement is crowded to the gills. And there's a 5'7" Lyon & Healy grand that's taking up just that much room. $265 is NOT the down payment—it's the price!

When the shop foreman heard the price of the Brewster grand that he'd just spent three weeks on, he asked us if we were in business for our health. It's 5' long and pretty as a picture in rich mahogany. It's the ideal piano for the bride who wants a piano that looks like new. The price tag is pinch hitting for sales effort.

Dishes Dress Up Pineapple for Springtime

Tangy Fruit Is Healthful and Appetizing Basis of Seasonal Recipes.

By MARY MEADE.

MOST delightful of all malapropisms on record is Mrs. M.'s historic remark, "It's the pineapple of perfection." But one often thinks how neatly and truly that famous dowager could have saved the situation if she only had had the nimble wit to whip her phrase around and say, "Or I should say, my dears, it's the perfection of pineapple!"

For these luscious, prickly, brown-and-green fellows have been munched on and raptured over too many years to count. And not content just to make friends through their goodness and fair looks, they're now assuring us that when it comes to guarding the health pineapples, either cooked or raw, are running neck and neck with spinach and all the rest of the vitaminful foods.

So, since this is the height of the joyous season of pineapples, let's hoist a flag of discovery and sail out after new ways to bring these tingly, golden wedges, cubes, and slices back into the family.

Fruit Must Be Ripe.

There may not be any sign posts, however, to mark which of the sticklers are best to eat, so may I present a few tips? Since the fruits are picked and shipped before they are fully ripe it's important to choose for ourselves the ripest fruit available on the market. It will give a girl the richest flavor, be less acid and less inclined to be woody. The ripe laddies are orange brown rather than greenish in color. A slight jerk dislodges the center leaves or spines of a properly ripened pineapple.

In figuring out your family in regard to their pineapple capacity keep in mind that a medium sized pineapple, weighing about 2 pounds, will yield about 3 cups of cubed fruit.

With which few polite remarks we arrive at the luscious business of the day, conjuring up new and more joyful things to do with pineapple. And, as the real "pinnacle of perfection," may I present—

CHILLED PINEAPPLE TIDBITS.
[On the Shell.]

For this delicacy, which may be used as a breakfast fruit, an appetizer course at dinner, or even as a luncheon dessert, choose a medium sized, fully ripe pineapple. Brush it thoroughly under running water to remove any sand or dust. Leave the eyes in and the leaves on, split it straight down from leaves to the bottom, using a heavy butcher knife. Now split down each of the halves into lengthwise wedges, laying each on a board, skin-side down. Each of these is an individual serving.

How to Cut It Into Cubes.

Next, with a sharp, flexible knife, preferably a grapefruit knife, cut all the way under the flesh of the fruit, between it and the skin. Leave the fruit in the shell and cut it lengthwise once in half, then cut it down crosswise in fourth-inch tidbits, slicing completely through the skin. Perk in a wee sprig of mint and serve with powdered sugar to pass. Cocktail forks are the best implements of attack.

Still at this same first course, or for a tinkly refreshment in the afternoon, comes a chilly, half-frozen something called

PINEAPPLE FRAPPE.

⅞ cup sugar
2 cups water
2 cups ice water
3 lemons
2 cups shredded fresh pineapple

Cook the sugar and water together for 5 minutes, then add the lemon juice and pineapple and chill. Add the ice water and freeze in a refrigerator tray or a hand freezer until frozen to a mush. Serve in little frappe or fruit juice glasses with a sprig of mint tucked coyly down the side.

Likewise you may omelet your pineapple. One of your puffiest omelets is called for. Just before folding it spread half the omelet with freshly grated, sweetened pineapple. Fold over and serve up your delicacy with a spoonful of pineapple at either end and a nosegay of parsley perched on top of the fat, browned side.

Pineapple and Tomatoes Are Wedded.

And pineapple has an odd little flavor which seems to wed it to the tang of fresh tomatoes. Together they form a salad in this way:

TOMATO PINEAPPLE SALAD.

Blanch, remove the skins and cut a slice from the top of medium sized tomatoes. Remove a considerable amount of the seeds and pulp and sprinkle inside with salt. Drain upside down for half an hour, then fill with diced pineapple and chopped walnut meats blended with a little mayonnaise. Use about twice as much pineapple as there are nuts. Dash the top with paprika and chill very well before serving.

Above: The smart beach ensemble this season has shorts, a split skirt, and a beach coat like this Marcel Rochas model. It is shown complete in front and back views and also without the coat.

SNAPSHOTS FROM PARIS

All over Paris jewelry styles are going Roman. Heavy chains, bracelets, head bands, and whatnot, copied from Roman jewelry and made of heavy gold, are being worn.

Hot weather handbags are capacious, squared, boxlike affairs made of coarse linen with handles of cork, bound by gold or copper.

Molyneux is featuring semi-precious jewel colors in his new mid-season styles. Jade, coral, pearl, lapis-lazuli, turquoise, and such shades are prominent.

Hip length capes made of turquoise colored ostrich strands and capes made of silk and chiffon flowers are stunning summer wraps in the Molyneux show.

Linen beach pajamas in the Molyneux show are accompanied by silly but charming flattened gob hats made of striped cotton.

Sashes of the same striped cotton are tied around the waistline of the pajamas.

Suits for morning wear are universal favorites of the season. The most successful of these usually consist of black or blue frocks with loose, knee length coats made of light or printed material.

A favorite evening turban is made of stiff black net dotted with chenille and has a veil that just covers the tip of the nose.

Lingerie touches such as plaited white organdy ruffles at throat and wrist are seen on almost all of the trim black frocks Parisiennes like in the daytime.

Cumbersome Details Are at Last Repealed

Popularity of Shorts Symbolizes Trend Toward Freedom and Comfort.

By BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—The influence of more serious fashions on active sports clothes has been reduced to zero this season. A small group of young dressmakers in Paris have practically cornered the sports style market. They make action clothes with a big idea of wearing 'em in action. They have got rid of that particularly French handicap of too much decoration and too little freedom.

Shorts are scattered all over the Paris sports styles. The shorts worn with open-necked sports shirts are used a lot over here, and so are the one-piece shorts that may or may not have vestiges of sleeves.

Beach shorts often serve as trousers which are worn over a bathing suit. The long skirt, open almost all the way up one side or the front, is a second unit of the beach mode in France. In more bohemian atmospheres this kind of skirt is buttoned on around the waist when the ladies dance of an evening at the casino. With one piece shorts it is considered an excellent dancing costume.

Dresses for Tennis.

Shorts for tennis need no comment. They are less worn on French courts than is the tennis dress. Tennis dresses have tops about as extensive as that of a sun backed suit on the shore, but they do have skirts. The smartest tennis dresses shown in Paris are those that have apron tunics which go over the dress and cover up its extreme décolleté en route to and from the tennis court.

Most golf dresses here are two piece, with jumper and skirt.

Styles for the active sport of dancing in hot weather are translated in terms of sheer materials, and most of the dance frocks worn around Paris are made of silk organdy, lace, tulle, chiffon, flax chiffon, marquisette, and georgette. The sports effect in the dance dress is produced by use of checkered, plaid, and striped designs in these materials.

Dance Frock Like Gingham.

The ideal of French dancing daughters is shown in the upper left hand corner. This is the kind of dance dress that is smartest and coolest for torrid temperatures. Mainbocher makes it of gingham checked silk organdy, in cherry red and white. The bodice is simple, with a V neckline and squared armholes. It ties on in two big bows at the back of the arms.

The skirt, which is rather wide, has full circular floating panels at the front and the back, hung from small triangular yokes at the front and back of the skirt just below the beltline. Women wear a wide brimmed hat of transparent straw, lace, or tulle with such a dress when they go out to dine and dance.

Below on the left is the latest Paris tennis ensemble consisting of a dress and an apron tunic. Lucille Paray designed this model. The blouse is just like the top of a bathing suit with two straps for the back. The skirt has a plaited front and back panel.

Golf Ensemble Made of Knit Cotton.

The complete beach ensemble from Marcel Rochas is shown in the center. It has a loose knee length coat which, in the Paris model, is made of cornflower blue linen, banded at the back with stripes of brown linen, which appear also on the loose sleeves. The big hat from Maria Guy is also made in the original of blue linen, as are the shorts shown at the bottom. The long skirt is split in front and at the sides.

In the upper right is the smart golf suit from Anny Blatt. Her version is done in white knitted cotton with a lacy stitch. The jumper blouse has a plaid organdy bow at the neck.

[Copyright: 1934: By The Chicago Tribune.]

FRIVOLOUS CHOUS AND SCARFS AND SASHES—FEMININE APPEAL!

[TRIBUNE Photos.]

Summer's Daring, Fragile Frocks Justify Feminine 'Ohs' and 'Ahs'

Lithe, Thin Velvets, Sheer Organzas, Printed Nets and Marquisettes Prepare for Season's Vagaries; Checks and Squares Typify Its Color Harmonies.

By Rhea Seeger.

WHAT makes a successful summer dress? Usually it's the materials. The crisper and cooler they are the better. Next come the color combination and contrasts, and next the brilliant way in which a new combine of hues flashes across the sky. Summer dresses of this year's vintage are marked with criscross checks, huge squares, baffling plaids, and plenty of bold, bright colors.

This time the fabrics are something to lose your mind over . . . the patterns and designs everything to write home about . . . and the colors all any one ever dreamed about. Ginghams have gone high hat, trotted right out of the kitchens, and crashed the gates at the smartest parties. Seersucker, despite its rather depressing name, whirls about on world tours and transcontinental trains with all the knowing airs that silk crêpe and smart knitted things used to have.

Summer velvets that go into the tub and emerge as colorful and as smooth as they were at first sight are the newest excitement . . . you can buy washable, waterproof velvet for swanky travel suits in a herringbone tweed pattern that is as smart as anything imported from the British stronghold of tweeds. It's comfortable, it doesn't wrinkle, and it's cool. What else could you want?

Sheer crisp organza liberally sprinkled with designs in velvet will whirl around the best dancing clubs . . . you will find dots, plaids, and stripes in all pastel and high colors with a gorgeous shade of raspberry red taking all medals for charm and beauty.

Printed nets and marquisettes are hauntingly lovely and just what you want for coolness . . . most of the dance dresses of this airy stuff are made with ruffles, swirling skirtlines, and still more ruffles around the shoulders. Cotton nets are likewise used for the smartest of street and afternoon costumes—especially the dark blues, browns, and black, for they make the best air cooled street outfits ever discovered.

Plaid taffeta is still going strong. You use it for everything from hats to blouses, trimmings, gloves, and handbags . . . and watch the stuff go to sea with white terry cloth in new 1934 swim or beach costumes. One of the best looking white crêpe suits of this summer is made with a gay plaid taffeta blouse for contrast. A stiff bow sash adds a demure, dainty note.

Last, but certainly not anything to overlook, are the stunning new costumes made of cravat silk, a superswishy material that is amazingly soft and yet stiff enough to fashion the new puffed gowns for evening wear. It's marvelous material to manage, for it falls in almost a liquid perfection in the sleek, slim lines as illustrated in the photographed evening gown. In this frock a big chou is planted on the chest and a cascade of these old-fashioned chous or puffed rosettes make a train that can not be achieved with any other material. The gown also has a short white cotton jacket, not shown here, that looks like a postilion's cape and that harmonizes with the silvery white dots in the cravat silk.

PHOTOGRAPHED IN CHICAGO SHOPS

The newest fabric of fashion. Soft, slithering tie or cravat silk, the exact sort of stuff that is used in fine English cravats. This evening gown, which clings so smoothly to the figure, is made with a long peacock train that cascades with old fashioned chous. An extra large chou is planted directly under the chin and almost covers the chest. The color is old blue, dotted with pin points of silvery white.

THIS WEEK IN THE GARDEN

Monday, May 21.

As soon as the peas, radishes, onions, and lettuce have made good growth, plant another batch for succession. If head lettuce is sown in a box and later transplanted to the garden it will develop rapidly and uniformly with good, solid heads. All leaf crops require plenty of nitrogen. Root crops require potash. A phosphoric supply gives the crisp, stiff flowers and stems.

Plant a few gladiolus for early flowering and repeat the planting every ten days into June. The bulbils should be sown at once to give them a long season to grow. Soak them in water for twenty-four hours before sowing, and they will start quickly.

Tuesday, May 22.

Prepare the beds for outdoor plants. If the soil is lacking fertilizer dig under some well decayed humus for it adds food to the soil. Spade the beds deep and rake carefully. Tie up all vines securely after removing dead wood.

Many roses [climbing] were frozen out in various sections. Cut out all frozen and useless wood and retie to the supports. On the first appearance of insect pests combat them.

Wednesday, May 23.

Sow a row of Iceland or icicle radishes for they are fine when crisp and quickly grown. Plant a few hardy lily bulbs, such as the regal, speciosum rubrum, tiger lily, and others of equal beauty. Plant a few coral lilies in the rockery for they are low growing and brilliant. Remove unnecessary growths from fruit trees as fast as this appears. Keep the orchard and small fruit plantations cultivated to conserve the moisture, to keep down weeds and aerate the soil.

Thursday, May 24.

Transplant all house plants requiring it. Keep from bright sun for a few days and protect from drafts. If borers appear in the stems of plants carefully remove them, if possible, with a thin wire or cut out the infested part and destroy. Dig around peonies but do not disturb the roots unnecessarily.

Field crops such as carrots, mangels, and parsnips should all be sown. Perennials may be transplanted now. For best results these plants require a deep, rich soil. See that the varieties are given sufficient space to develop properly. Plant out pansies to give them the advantage of the cooler weather. Work over the rock garden plants, replacing any stones that may have been injured during the winter.

Friday, May 25.

Finish the lawn if it has not been done. A late sown lawn is certain to require much attention. Top dress with any good commercial fertilizer. Trim the edges of all shrubbery and flower beds to present the best appearance. Sow a few hyacinth beans along the wire fence. The pods are brilliant and interesting. Hardy annuals should have started. Thin them as soon as large enough to handle. Give sweet peas support [either chicken wire or brush is sufficient] as soon as the plants appear above the ground. The spring drouth has killed much of the grass which made a fall growth. Reseed the bare spaces at once. Divide hardy chrysanthemums and replant. Other autumn blooming perennials should be divided.

Saturday, May 26.

Plant evergreens now. Buy only balled and burlapped stock. Keep them well watered throughout the first year and syringe them occasionally. These plants do best under suburban conditions. They cannot be so successfully grown in the city.

Mow the lawn only when the growth has reached two or more inches. It is even best to wait until it is so long a scythe is necessary for the growths are strong by that time and well established.

Water plants only when they need it and then water thoroughly.

Ministers Split on Subject of Sex Education

Some Think Church Should Give It, Others Hold It's Entirely Parents' Job.

By Gladys Huntington Bevans.

THE subject of sex education for children always arouses discussion. Those who believe in it believe in it so strongly, and those who don't believe in it are so shocked by the idea and so violently opposed to it that one seldom gets a mild reaction when the subject is brought up.

Naturally, then, when the Rev. John Thompson, the well known Chicago pastor of the "skyscraper" Methodist Episcopal church, decided to have courses in biology and sex instruction given the boys and girls in his church much discussion was aroused. Dr. Thompson believes that if home and school do not take care of this aspect of a child's training, it is the duty of the church to do so.

What do other ministers think of this procedure? The question was put to a number of New York pastors. Their answers are of much interest whether you have already formulated your own ideas on the subject or not.

Reisner Thinks Formal Instruction Over-Emphasizes Sex.

Among those who were interviewed were Dr. John Haynes Holmes, the Rev. Randolph Ray, the Rev. Lorin Bradford Young, the Rev. Luther E. Woodward and Dr. Christian F. Reisner.

Dr. Holmes of the Community church believes that the church should give boys and girls the benefit of expert instruction. He believes this is especially necessary during adolescence, because children then need not only facts but the spiritual aspects of the relationship between men and women brought home to them, and he thinks the church can do this.

Dr. Reisner of the Broadway temple believes that church instruction on sex overemphasizes the whole subject. He thinks parents are the proper ones to answer their children's questions. But he believes that many parents will not take the trouble to read and think so that they are prepared to inform their children properly. He believes—and this is an interesting point—that it is more important for the church to foster a wholesome social life for boys and girls than to teach them biology.

That biology and sex instruction in the church have the effect of overemphasizing the subject is the opinion also held by Dr. Woodward, Lutheran clergyman. He believes that such a course takes sex out of the context of life and sets it apart. Parents are the ones to handle the subject, he says, in an everyday informal way at home. That children really don't want complete knowledge is one of his points—they usually just want a question answered. The important thing, he feels, is that every one must talk naturally to the child about sex, so that he will know it is all right to think about it and talk about it.

Facts of Life May Be Given Only When Asked For.

The ideal approach to sex education, in the opinion of Dr. Ray of the Little Church Around the Corner, is not group instruction in church. He makes a point of especial interest, namely, that in talking to groups of children some have much more knowledge and understanding than others and it is difficult to give them all what they need and are able to digest mentally in that way. He believes that sex instruction should be given individually and gradually, as the child asks and as he develops. His father or his mother should, in a frank and natural way, give him what he needs. Dr. Ray does think that courses for parents, instead of for children, might be offered by the church.

A rigid formalized sex instruction course is not advisable, according to Dr. Young of the Church of the Holy Trinity in Brooklyn. He believes that information should be given as the occasion arises. Children begin so young to notice sex differences and to ask questions so early that he believes home is the place for them to gain that knowledge. Dr. Young gives talks on sex problems to young people between 16 and 21.

All Agree Sex Education Is Necessity.

These opinions show some variation on the subject of the giving of definite courses in church with sex instruction as their aim. But there are some points on which all agree.

They all agree that sex education is absolutely necessary from the time a child's first question, "Where do babies come from?" is asked.

They all agree that sex instruction comes about best in the home, from the parents. One clergyman even goes so far as to say that it is absolutely criminal to allow a boy or girl to reach the age of 14 or 15 without any instruction about sex.

If you feel unprepared to answer the first questions of your small boy or girl—to deal frankly with the more definite demands for information from your eight or nine year old—or want help in giving the more mature instruction needed by your sons and daughters in their teens our sex education booklet will help you. It contains reading references on all these subjects, on a vocabulary of correct names for the parts of the body, and even the name of a booklet explaining why there is need for sex education in the home. A stamped, self-addressed envelope brings our booklet to you.

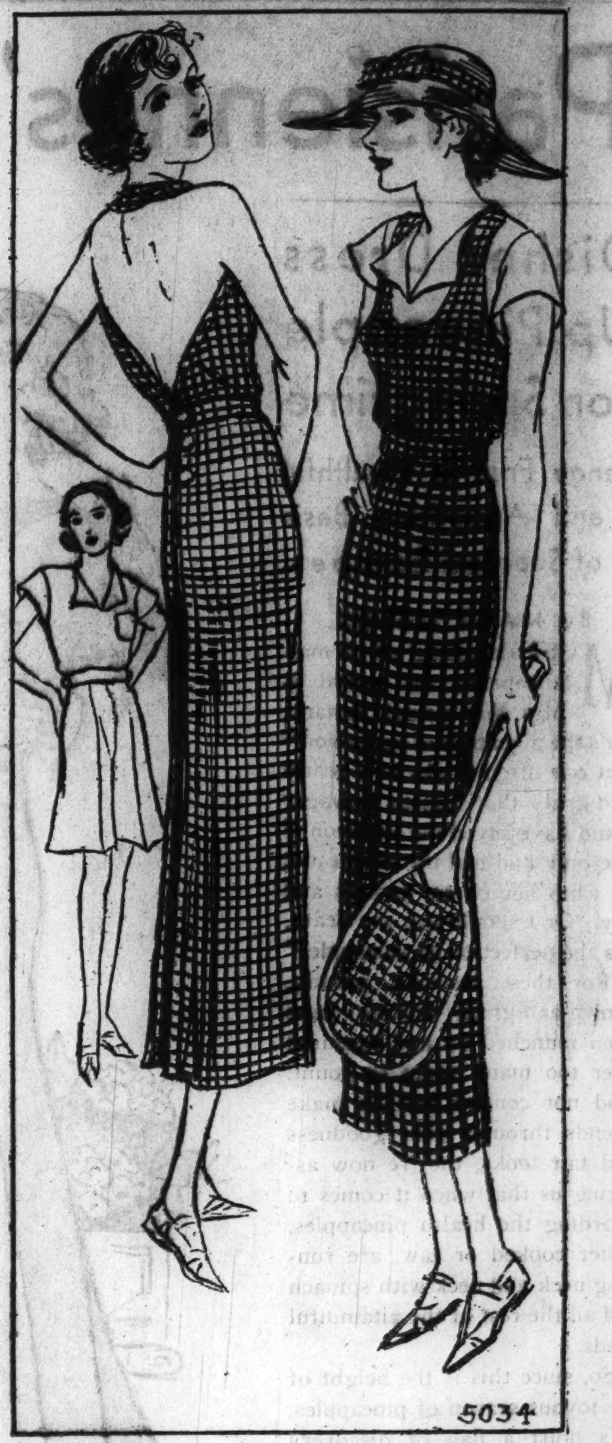
Beach and Tennis Needs Are Served by New Paris Pattern



No. 5034—The Paris Pattern for this sports ensemble is available in sizes 14 and 16, and in 36, 38, and 40 inches bust measurement.

By Bettina Bedwell.

PARIS.—[Special.]—One of the great Paris dressmakers in the Place Vendome designed a combination beach and tennis ensemble, like our pattern today, No. 5034, which was the hit of the French shows. It consists of shorts and an apron that slips over them. You can wear the apron over the short trousers, leaving off the sports shirt when you want to take a sun bath on the beach. The apron, worn over a knitted swim suit, makes a lounging outfit to wear before and after the dip in the water.

The shorts of our pattern are two piece, with a simple little shirt and smart, tailored trousers that button on at the sides. You can make the shirt sleeveless if you like. The original model shown in Paris was made of white linen shantung, and the apron of checkered gingham in bright red and white. The apron is worn to and from the courts and the shorts for the actual game.

This season, when cottons are the height of fashion, you can find many different cotton fabrics that will make up well in this ensemble. Make the shorts of checkered gingham, if you like, and the apron of plain gingham, or other cotton, in one color of the checkered material of the shorts.

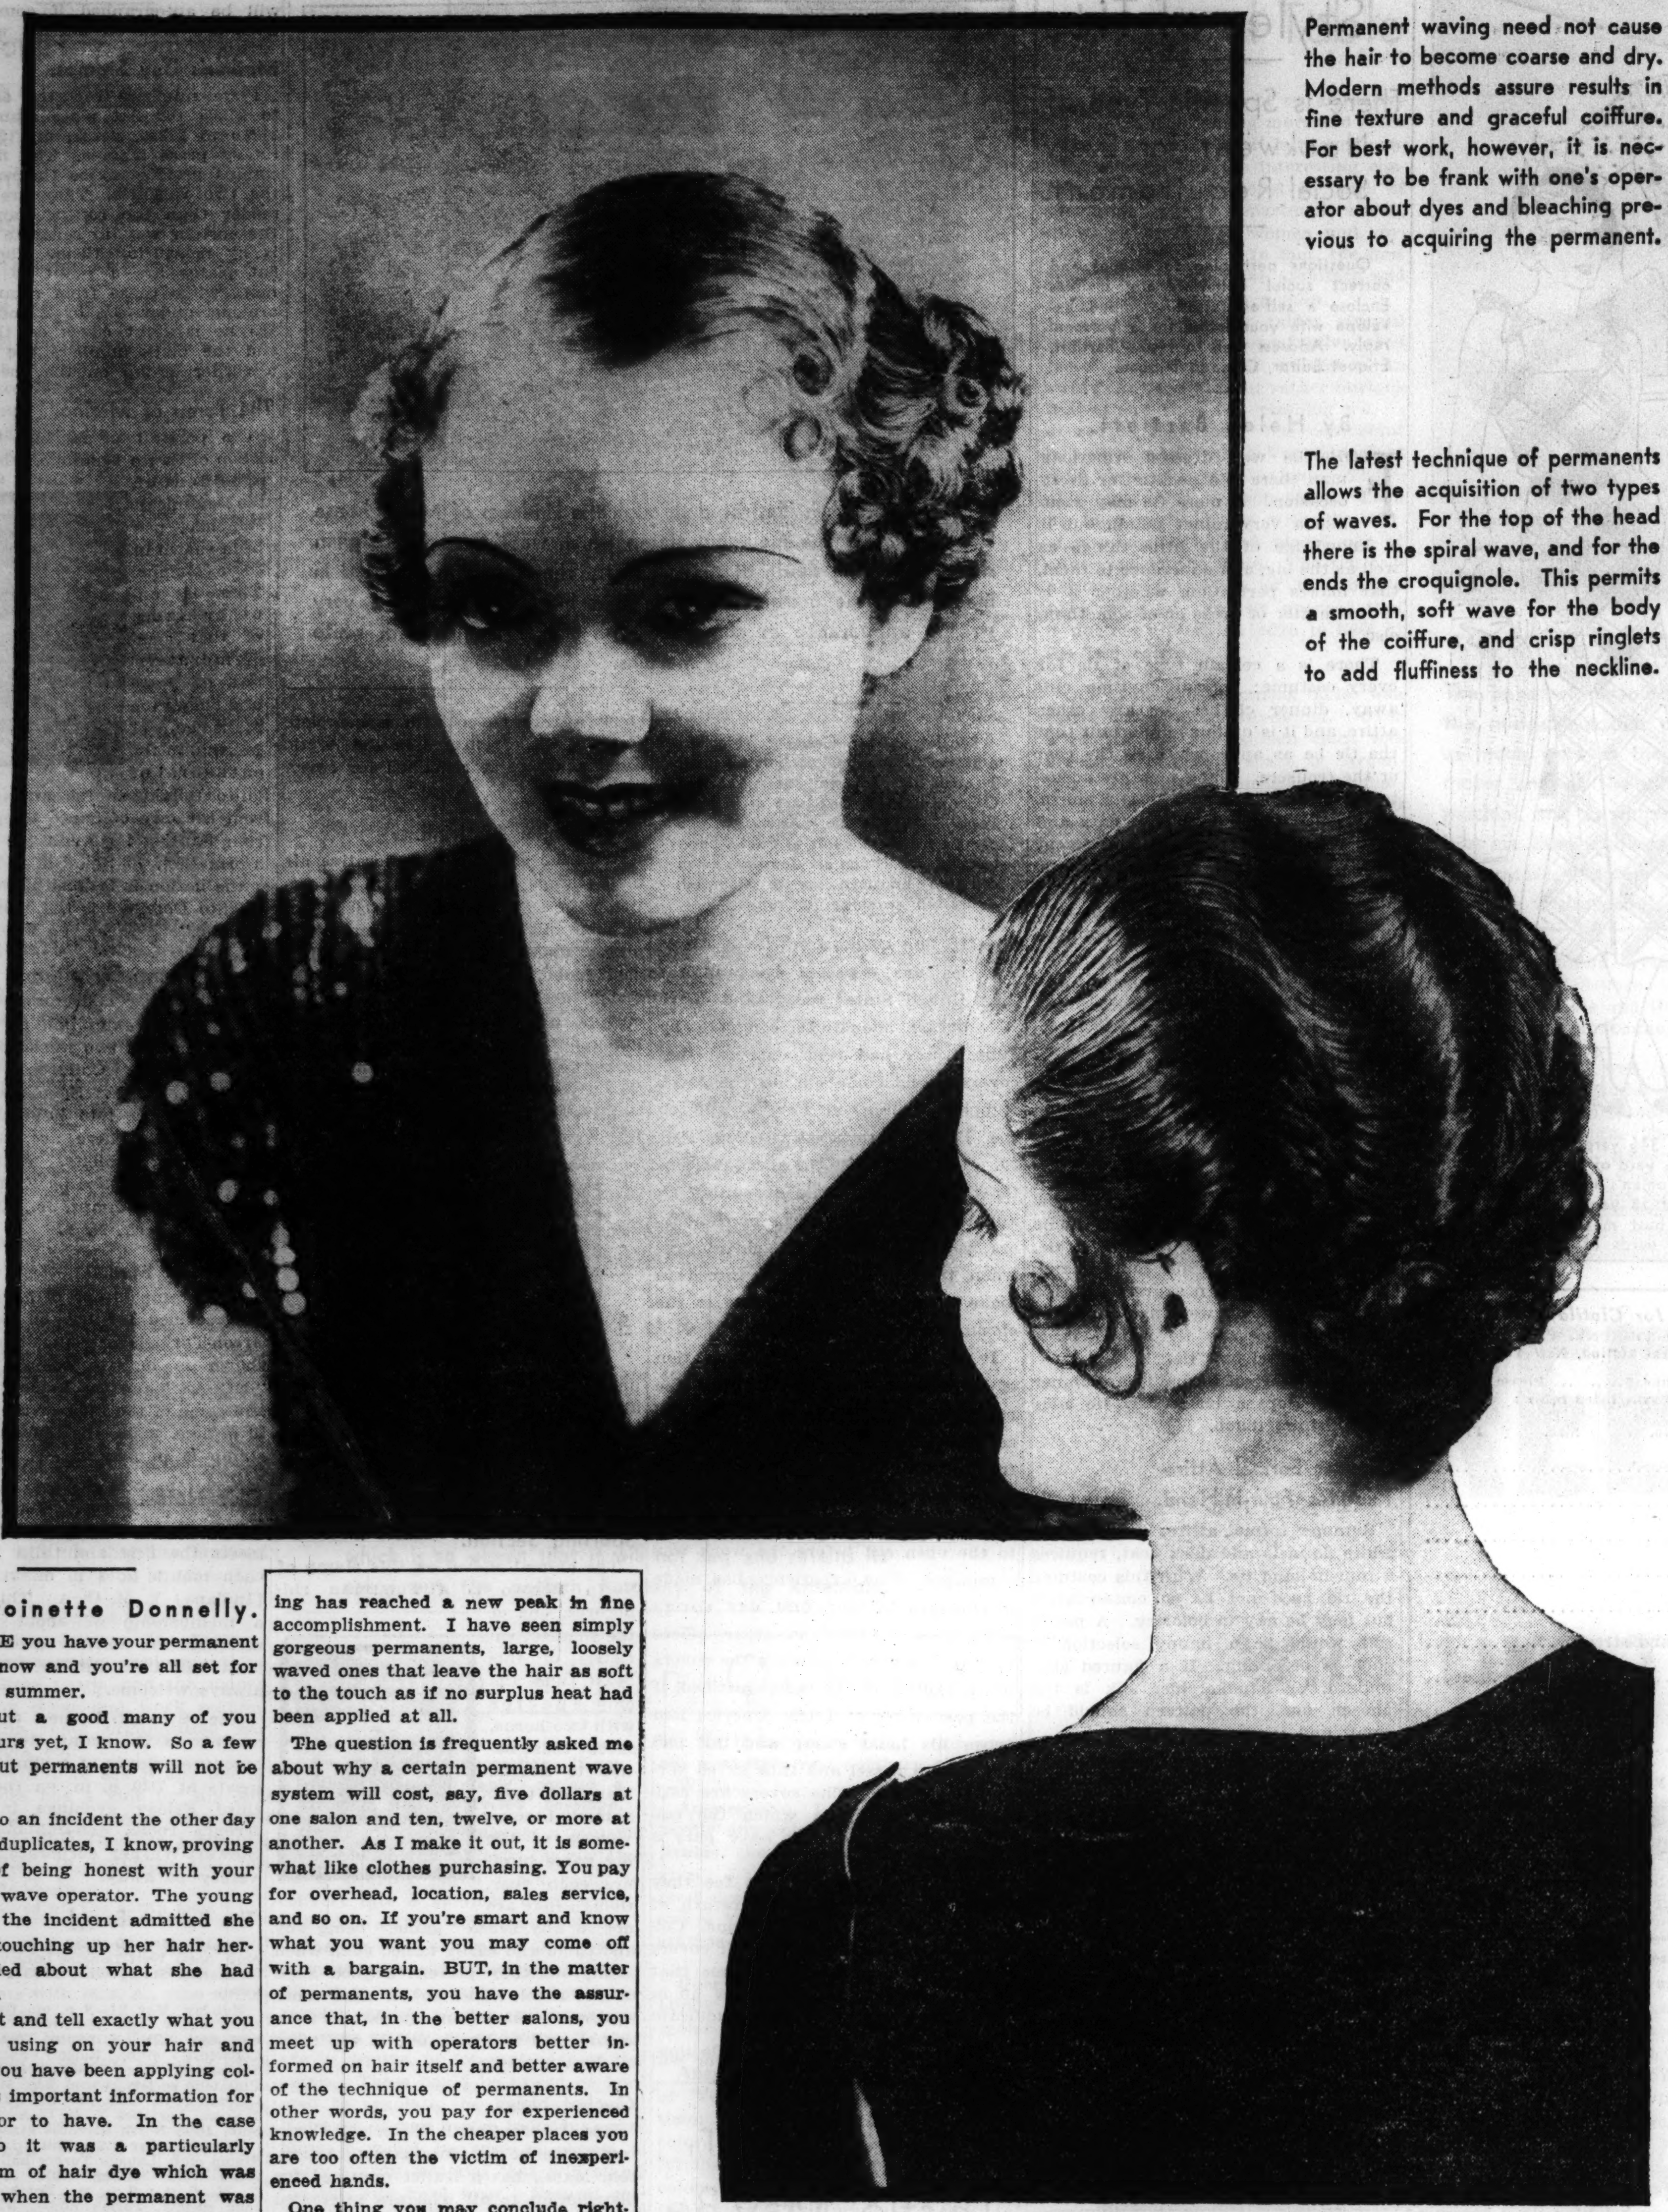
THE HAIR NEEDS EXPERT ANALYSIS BY BEAUTICIAN



Permanent waving need not cause the hair to become coarse and dry. Modern methods assure results in fine texture and graceful coiffure. For best work, however, it is necessary to be frank with one's operator about dyes and bleaching previous to acquiring the permanent.

The latest technique of permanents allows the acquisition of two types of waves. For the top of the head there is the spiral wave, and for the ends the croquignole. This permits a smooth, soft wave for the body of the coiffure, and crisp ringlets to add fluffiness to the neckline.

By Antoinette Donnelly.

MAYBE you have your permanent by now and you're all set for the summer.

But a good many of you haven't yours yet, I know. So a few things about permanents will not be amiss.

I ran into an incident the other day which has duplicates, I know, proving the need of being honest with your permanent wave operator. The young woman of the incident admitted she had been touching up her hair herself, but lied about what she had been using.

Be honest and tell exactly what you have been using on your hair and how long you have been applying coloring. It is important information for the operator to have. In the case referred to it was a particularly vicious form of hair dye which was used and, when the permanent was finished, the curls simply came right off the head with the combing.

If an operator advises treatments preparatory to a permanent, take his or her advice. And if you have been touching up your hair, do spend a bit more money and get the best professional attention possible.

For white hair, too, I would urge the best service that can possibly be afforded. With dyed, bleached, and white hair extra skill is required. You want the white hair to come out as white and beautiful as possible, and it can be done and is being done with expert treatment.

It's true this year permanent waving has reached a new peak in fine accomplishment. I have seen simply gorgeous permanents, large, loosely waved ones that leave the hair as soft to the touch as if no surplus heat had been applied at all.

The question is frequently asked me about why a certain permanent wave system will cost, say, five dollars at one salon and ten, twelve, or more at another. As I make it out, it is somewhat like clothes purchasing. You pay for overhead, location, sales service, and so on. If you're smart and know what you want you may come off with a bargain. BUT, in the matter of permanents, you have the assurance that, in the better salons, you meet up with operators better informed on hair itself and better aware of the technique of permanents. In other words, you pay for experienced knowledge. In the cheaper places you are too often the victim of inexperienced hands.

One thing you may conclude righteously. If your hair comes out harsh and dry you have not had as good a permanent as your money entitles you to.

You can get wide waves, what is called a French wave, but you have to pay for this sort of skilled handling. You can have both spiral and croquignole wave on the same head today—the croquignole for the small ringlets at the back of the head and the spiral for the upper part.

My advice would be to inquire around, do a little shopping first before you commit your hair to a machine wave, and learn about the kind of permanent you may hope to get.

Allow One-Fifth of Budget for Milk, Cheese

By Dorothy Parkhurst.

NOW that food prices are starting on an upward jaunt and many budgets are remaining down where they've been for months, we're discovering that to balance books we must squeeze every penny. And the summer brides who had thought that two could live as cheaply as one are admitting that it's not so simple.

So—how to economize? It's easy, Mrs. Cook-next-door will tell you, just use up all the leftovers! An excellent suggestion—but what of the family that come to the table with enormous appetites and clean every platter? In that case the answer is—more sensible marketing.

Daily Food Requirements for Each Individual.

We know that to protect our health, every day we must allot to each member of the family the following: One pint of milk [one quart for each child under 14 years of age], at least two servings of vegetables, not including potatoes [one of these must be a green, leafy vegetable such as lettuce, spinach or other greens]; a fresh citrus fruit or canned or fresh tomatoes and one other fruit, cereals and bread, a small amount of fat and a serving of butter and eggs, cheese, fish, or meat, besides the four or five eggs required each week per person.

Though we well know these requirements, they are so important that they bear repeating often. Perhaps if we heard them enough, we would unconsciously balance our meals without having to check on these factors each day. Such a habit would be a great time saver!

Nutrition experts recommend that the money set aside for food be divided into fifths: One-fifth for milk and cheese, one-fifth for bread and cereals, one-fifth for vegetables and fruit, one-fifth for meats, fish and eggs, and one-fifth for fats, sugar and other groceries. Just try checking up on yourself. With this system it will be simple to discover where the leaks are.

Milk, Cheese Important Item of the Diet.

Now that we've decided where the money should go, let's set out on our first marketing trip and spend one-fifth of our dollar on milk and cheese. This one-fifth is an important item in the diet, and it is the one-fifth most often cheated. We've known any number of housewives who, when they decided to cut expenses, simply cut down the milk order.

Try these marketing tips, each of which will result in small savings. The small savings soon become solid sums, you know.

If the amount of money you've allotted for food doesn't allow for cream for the coffee and cereal, use top milk. If milk is purchased the day before it is to be used and allowed to stand overnight, it will yield a rather thick cream, satisfactory for all purposes except whipping.

Evaporated milk contains the same food value as pasteurized fresh milk. Since it does not sour as long as it remains unopened and because of the ease of handling the product in cans, the price of evaporated milk is less than that of fresh milk. Occasionally substitute it for fresh milk in cooking.

Evaporated milk may be used instead of cream in coffee. Or try it on cereals with brown sugar.

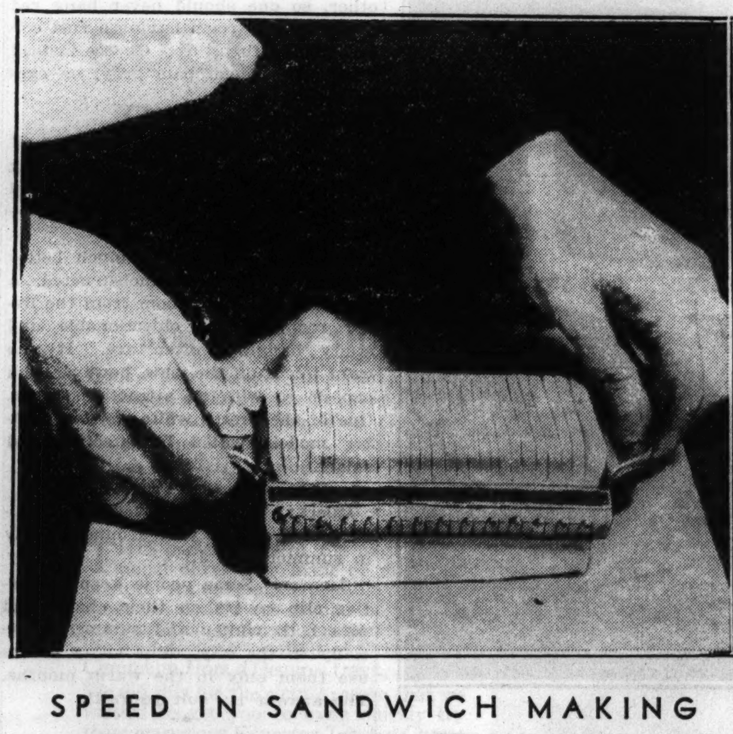
Substitute whipped evaporated milk for whipping cream. In fruit whips and flavored frozen deserts and salads, the difference in flavor cannot be detected.

Select Cheese with Definite Tangy Flavor.

When you purchase cheese be sure that it has a definite cheese flavor. Some of the cheaper cheeses have so little tang that it is necessary to use a great deal to attain the desired flavor in certain dishes.

Take advantage of large quantity prices on canned milk or on cheese. Wrap the cheese tightly in waxed paper and set in a cool place to keep it fresh. Bulk cheese is usually cheaper than the packaged cheese.

And remember, a little grated cheese topping will transform the most lowly dishes into "something different," for the tangy flavor of cheese combines well with bland starchy foods.



SPEED IN SANDWICH MAKING

Modern Pieces of Jewelry Are Made from Old

Heirloom May Be Recreated to Complement Wardrobe of Spring and Summer.

HAVE you a little heirloom in your home? If you have, and if it's jewelry, the problem of getting the right accessories either for spring and summer ensembles, or for all year round wear, isn't an expensive one. Jewelers have made a craft of modeling old rings, necklaces, brooches, and watches, and "rebuilt" pieces may now be both distinguished looking and inexpensive.

One jeweler showed us several charming pieces made from the ornate jewels of Victorian days which have become recherché. An old fashioned diamond cluster had been turned into a simple geometric design. A cumbersome sapphire ring, with fifteen small stones, was transformed into a chaste circle to complement today's streamline silhouettes by a new mounting and the addition of a few baguettes. Old fashioned sunburst brooches were the basis for some stunning clips.

Outmoded Wrist Watches Are Cleverly Remodeled.

Early models of wrist watches are now out of date and some of the jewelers' most clever work is done in simplifying their ornate designs. The changes in these are small, usually involving only a revision of ornamentation. But they mark the difference between a 1915 watch that spreads awkwardly over the wrist and the dainty models of 1934. Usually a complete overhauling is the only thing that will make an old watch look correct with the new black cords and slender silver and platinum bands.

Baguettes are the jewelers' standby in remodeling. These chips of diamonds replace the colored stones once popular as detail in jewelry design. They not only enhance the pattern by their contrasting brilliance, but because of their clear, pure tones, make an ornament wearable with costumes of any color.

Some Old Pieces Need No Complete Alteration.

If you're going to have your jewelry modernized, take it to a reputable shop where you will get honest advice. Many old pieces of simple, aristocratic design and fine quality would be spoiled by remodeling. Their quaint dignity enhances any ensemble. Only when a ring, or brooch, or watch seems baroque, or when it strongly reflects the peculiar style of its period, does it need rebuilding.

Jewelers, after studying an old fashioned piece, submit a number of designs. The customer makes his own selections. Cost usually includes only the price of materials used and, if the piece is really valuable, may be one-half, or one-fourth, or one-third the cost of a new ornament.

Practical Roaster Helps in Summer Tasks of Kitchen

WHEN the hot, sweltering, summer days bear down upon the busy housewife and mother, the knowledge that her brood must be fed, that dreaded lighting of the oven cannot be denied when there are calls for strawberry shortcake, pies, and such food for which the oven is brought into use.

The most improved little roaster which has been seen in some time rests on one burner and will simplify the cooking problem for those who purchase one of these little top of the stove ovens which are shown in a Chicago department store.

As baked and roasted food is so much better for our health than that which is fried, no well equipped kitchen should be without one of these little heat reducers, as well as gas savers. It will make cooking a joy when the thermometer hits the high spot.

Believe it or not, this little oven will roast chicken or meat, bake cake and pies, scalloped food, etc. The oven is made of aluminumized steel base, with heat deflector lined with heavy asbestos, tinned wire stand, and polished aluminum hood. A great improvement in oven styles.

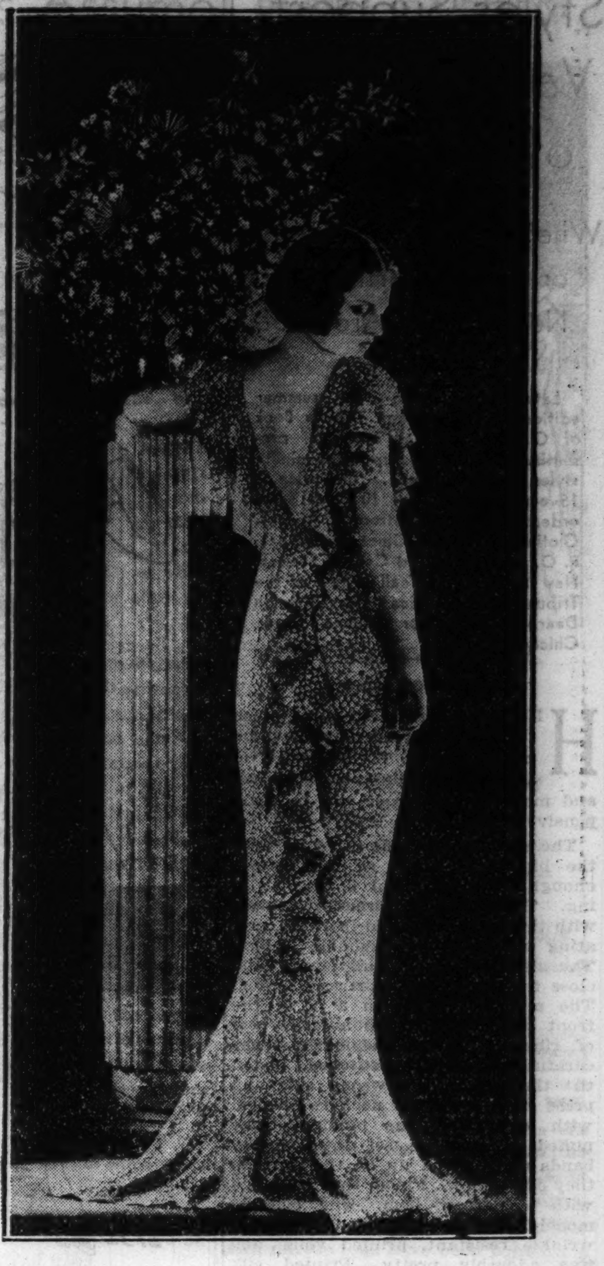
Shower Curtains Combine Beauty and Practicality

ONE of the nicest possible shower curtains for the summer bath has a pure white background and a design of scarlet squares, checker fashion. On each square a white sea gull with wings outspread is depicted. Or, the same white curtain comes with gulls in deep, clear blue squares.

Another good looking shower curtain is of plain, solid color, powder blue. If you like frills you'll enjoy the little valances that are sold with some types of 1934 merchandise, and the bathroom curtains of water resisting fabrics, too.

Many of the nicest shower curtains do not even faintly resemble rubber. They look like fine, silky material, and can be washed and ironed, but they have all the practical qualities of the old, smelly, rubber ones. They won't stick together in folds, or mildew, either.

They're on sale in the State street stores.



CASCADES AND PRINT

A sheer rayon fabric with print in bas-relief lends distinction to this formal gown. From the shoulder line and the decolletage there falls a cascade ending in a train. This style feature achieves grace and individuality for an otherwise simple dress for evening.

Waste Baskets Fit Into the Modern Home Decorations

IS your living room done in the modern manner? Perhaps you have had a difficult time to find just the sort of waste basket to harmonize with the furniture. Most are still the conventional types, intended for use with mahogany or walnut pieces of traditional design.

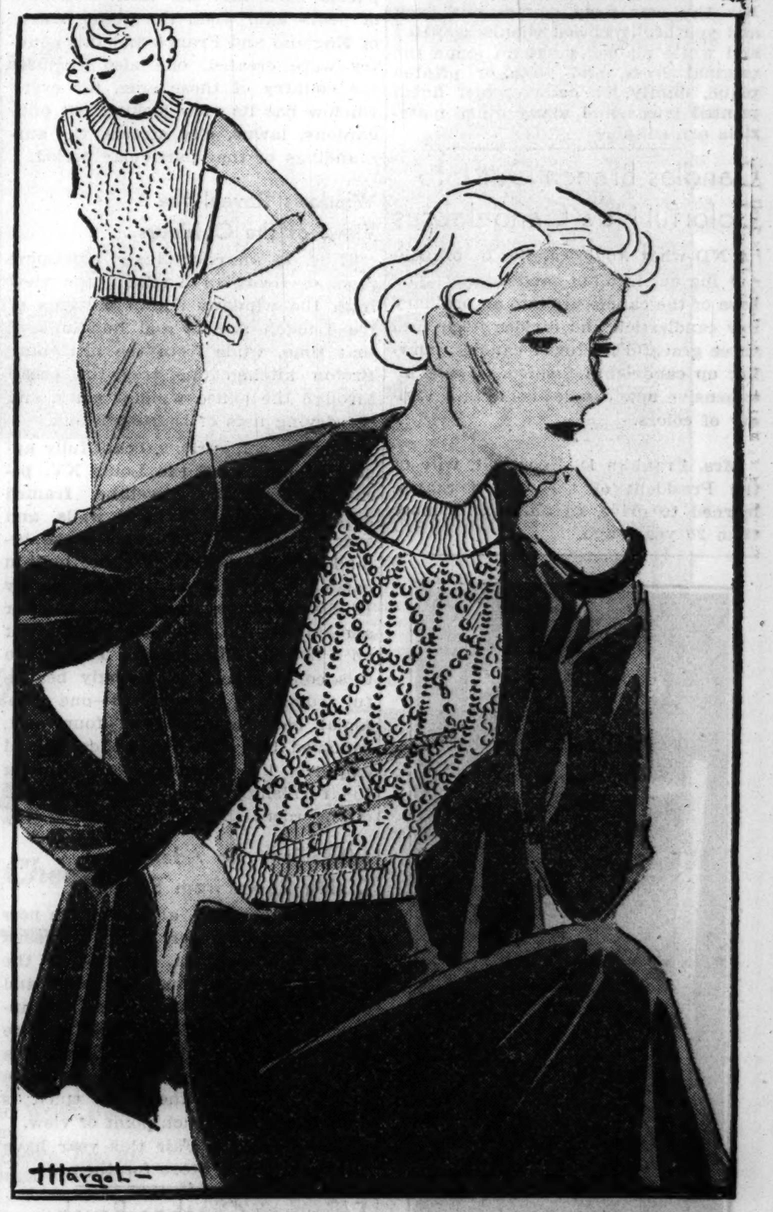
One manufacturer, however, has made two interesting waste baskets that will fit as neatly into the modern room as a finger into a glove. The first has an ordinary oval shape, and is done in chromium that has the appearance of being slightly fluted, with a top band of black shiny material.

The other has sides of gleaming black fabric, apparently braided very finely, and a top band of chromium, simple and good looking. If you wish you can get some book ends made of the chromium, with compartments for holding flowers. They are all in the gift department of the same Chicago store.

Convenient Copper Tongs Solve Iced Drink Problem

For those of us who like our ice tea very cold on a torrid summer evening and who hate dumping ice cubes in it with our fingers there is now on the market a good looking little copper gadget no bigger than a minute. You simply push down the top and prongs pick up the ice cube. It's hardly larger than a lemon fork and twice as convenient, and the price is small, too. It comes boxed ready to make a fine little bridge prize or as a gift to your self. Seen in a Chicago store.

Knit Vestee Should Replace the Blouse or Sweater on Hot Days



By Jean Macdonald.

THE vogue for suits—both two and three piece ensembles—necessitates a generous assortment of blouses in the wardrobe. The vestee illustration today may be worn in warm weather in place of the usual sweater or blouse.

Fitting from underarm to underarm and fastening in back with a belt at the waist and a snap at the collar neckline, this lacy patterned knitted front creates the desired cool effect without the back thickess of a sweater.

This vestee is one of those things that may be made of fine linen, cotton, bouclé, angora, or silk and wool crêpe. While the pattern may look difficult, it is really one of the more easily knitted. The clerical collar and plain edging and simple, old fig leaf design take only a few days work and a small amount of yarn. A complete sweater requires both more time and more material.

If the vestee is laundered at home care must be taken that it does not shrink or stretch.

If you wish instructions for knitting the vestee illustrated today, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to Jean Macdonald, Chicago Tribune, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street or Tribune Tower.

Styles Support Various Needs of Sports Life

Whether for Spectators or Active Participators, New Frocks Are Ideal.

Latest style news: The summer edition of the Chicago Tribune Book of Clotilde Fashions is ready, presenting in color up-to-the-minute styles for every need. The price is 15 cents a copy, but 10 cents when ordered with a pattern. Address Clotilde Patterns, Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central Station, New York City; or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street or Tribune Tower, Chicago.

By Clotilde.

HERE is a dress cut along lines that make it perfect for town or country wear. The pattern, No. 2732, is exceedingly easy to use and making it yourself will be inexpensive and decidedly smart.

The skirt is cut to fit perfectly over the hips, and flares at the bottom enough to be graceful during walking. The bodice has raglan sleeves, with the top fulness laid in tucks, creating the new drop shoulder effect. The sleeves may be full length and close fitting, or cut short and puffed. The neckline is cut in a V at the front and finished with a large bow of ribbon. Lay the shoulder tucks carefully and, when stitched, fasten the threads on the wrong side and press flat. Then the neck is finished with a narrow bias binding. The puffed sleeves are set into narrow bands and pushed up on the arm, so they don't show. Finish the skirt edge with a narrow hem. The original model was made of a brown and white, wrinkle resistant, printed voile, and was adorably pretty. Printed silk crêpe will also make up well.

Shirtwaist Frock Finds Popularity.

Shirtwaist dresses are much in mand this year, and no wonder, for a woman or girl always looks smartly gowned in one. This pattern, No. 3430, is in two pieces, and use a stick candy striped seersucker for it. You will be perfectly dressed for spectator or active sports.

The skirt is prettily and simply cut, preserving the slender silhouette, and the waist comes to the hips. It buttons down the front, has four patch pockets, plain short sleeves, and at the neck the fronts roll back becomingly.

Piqué, silk or cotton broadcloth, percale, and linen are other attractive materials.

The lines of the dress made by pattern No. 2740 have been carefully studied to disguise overweight. Bodice and skirt are beautifully cut, and the short sleeves are finished with circular ruffles. Long sleeves may made if you prefer.

Trace all lines carefully and turn in the side gores on the skirt on the front edges and across the top, and baste in position over the front. Stitch close to the edge, then a quarter-inch above. Put the bodice together in the same manner.

Tub Silks Are Cool for Summer.

Tub silks in white or pastel shades are cool looking and delightfully pretty. Lawns and other washable materials are also suitable.

If you like the sun back dresses you will want the one made by pattern Nr. 2830 as soon as you see it. It's easy to make, and no doubt you'll wear it a good deal. This dress has the new deep square cut back and youthfully bowed shoulders. Red and white plaided gingham made the original dress, and plain or printed pique, dimity, or handkerchief finish printed lawns and many other materials are suitable

New Miniature Rooms Add to Thorne Exhibit

World's Fair Collection Contains Delightful Lilliputian Decors.

THOUSANDS of visitors to the World's Fair last year saw and delighted in the marvelous rooms in miniature exhibited by Mrs. James Ward Thorne, each room being absolutely perfect in its period furnishing, color scheme, and scale. Yet each was so small that the furniture was built on Lilliputian lines, the accessories so tiny that a breath might knock them over. More exquisite and wonderful even than the queen of England's doll's house was this series of rooms.

This year Mrs. Thorne has added fifteen new rooms to those she displayed last season, and a preview of them proves they are just as fascinating as the others. Not only does one have a feeling of being transported back into the time, hundreds of years ago, when the great houses of England and France and this country were created, one also glimpses the country of those eras, for every window has its view looking out onto gardens, lawns, city streets, the surroundings of that particular period.

Windows Reveal the Views of the Outdoors.

Thus, in an exceedingly handsome room of Georgian England, the view from the windows shows portions of the London streets and buildings of that time, while from the intriguing Breton kitchen one sees the ocean through the paned window glass, and the drying nets of the fisher folk.

There is a luxurious, beautifully appointed library of the Louis XV. period, the details jewellike, framed miniatures on the paneled walls, and ever so many tiny lether books behind wire screening in the built-in cases. There is an unusually tiny English cottage scene, and another similar one, the open door looking out on a little bowling green. Turning to this country, two exceedingly beautiful rooms will be exhibited—one a colonial bedroom with the four post, canopied bed, and a complicated and exquisite little dressing table among the furnishings; the other, a federal dining room.

Medallions for Adam Dining Room from England.

Most elaborate of all the fifteen new apartments, however, is the gorgeous Adam dining room, for which the medallion decorations of walls and ceiling were made in England. Stunning in a combination of gold, empire green, and deep coral and black, is a Chinese modern drawing room, while another room in the same spirit is done from the French point of view.

Efficient Clothes Brush Has Hairless Construction

AT last—a successor to the time honored "bristled" brush that dusted the dirt from our clothes, and held it. The new hairless brush is made of corrugated friction rubber. In one fell swoop it picks all the dirt from a woolen surface.

It, in turn, is dusted off by a tiny, soft haired brush which is sold with it.

Mrs. Thomas A. Edison, widow of the inventor, has been made the "first lady" of Fort Myers, Fla., by her election as an honorary president of the chamber of commerce.

REMODELING QUERIES

"Dear Mrs. Bargelt: Is it wise to lay a new oak flooring in our living room this spring, or should we wait until summer? Will our woodwork have to be removed? HARRISON R."

Answer: Winter or spring is a better time than summer in which to lay a new wood floor in an occupied home. The heat in your house will keep your old wood floor in good shape for its new cover. Only the quarter round molding at the baseboard will have to be removed.

"Dear Mrs. Bargelt: We want so much to have a new thatched roof on our old home, but we want one that is fireproof. What fireproof roofing could we get of this type? H. S."

Answer: There are now manufactured asbestos shingles in thatched design. These come in the new red and green blends, in copper, gray, and in mottled blue and black. With such a roof you have a noninflammable asbestos cement covering for your house, and, besides, the charming effect of thatch.

"Dear Mrs. Bargelt: Is a wide board flooring suitable for a very small room? Is maple a durable wood? MRS. T. R."

Answer: Narrow flooring will make the room look larger, since the greater number of strips will produce an illusion of greater size. Maple is one of the toughest and most durable of woods. Beautiful color stains are now being applied to it.

Dear Mrs. Bargelt: What should I do to sappy places, and knots in wood, before I begin to paint? Do you putty nail holes and cracks in interior wood before or after the priming coat has been applied? Would you paint or varnish the ceiling of a porch which runs across the front of the house and makes the living room quite dark?—Mrs. F. D.

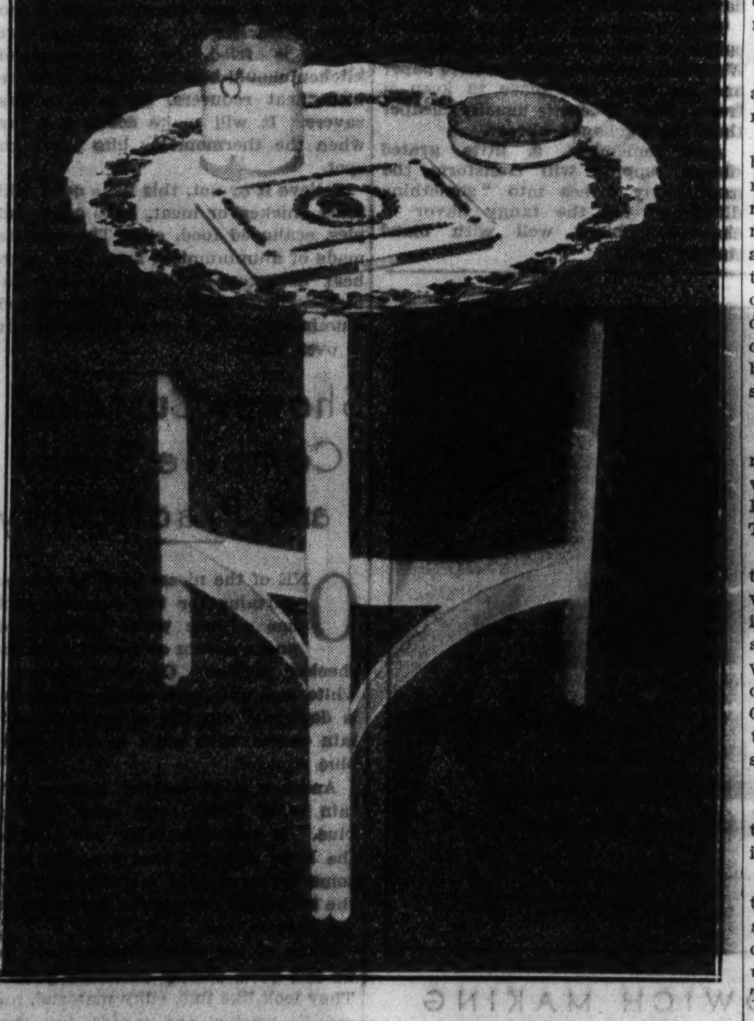
Answer: Apply orange shellac first, putty after the priming coat has been applied. You can bring more light into your living room by painting the porch ceiling white, or ivory, or even sky blue.

Dear Mrs. Bargelt: I have heard that one may brighten up a basement with aluminum paint. Is this O. K.?—Dave S.

Answer: Yes, very "O. K."

"Dear Mrs. Bargelt: We want to have our woodwork cream, and then give the plain enamel finish a wood-grain effect. How can we do this? "S. E. L."

Answer: Apply a good grade of varnish stain in the color desired and, while the finish is still wet, drag a whiskbroom through it.



DECORATIVE TABLE IN GOLD AND WHITE

This little white and gold tole table is a highly decorative item. Smoking accessories, also made of tole, are seen on its attractively fluted top. The flat box holds fifty cigarets.

Correct Attire Requires Many Styles of Ties

There Is Specific Type of Neckwear for Every Social Requirement.

Questions pertaining to etiquet and correct social behavior are invited. Enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope with your letter for a personal reply. Address mail to Helen Bartlett, Etiquet Editor, Chicago Tribune.

By Helen Bartlett.

FOR the well dressed American man there is a necktie for every occasion. A mere tie may seem like a very minor detail, but it is knowledge of the little things as well as the big, and adherence to them, that makes perfection, whether it is in the matter of dress or of something else.

There is a certain type of tie for every costume; formal daytime cutaway, dinner clothes, or any other attire, and it is quite as important that the tie be as appropriate as the coat or the trousers. Many men are accustomed to "dressing up" in stiff shirts, wing collars, and high silk hats and need no advice from a department such as this. But there are still others, judging from our mail, who would appreciate and benefit by a word or two, or direction and a knowing pointing of a finger.

White Lawn or Pique Proper for Full Dress.

Beginning with full evening dress of swallow tail coat, white waistcoat, and high silk topper, a white lawn or pique bow tie encircles the stiff wing collar.

With formal afternoon attire distinguished by the cutaway coat, a black, black and white, or gray bow tie complements the costume. Some men prefer to wear a throw-over tie, ascot, or black and white four-in-hand. The cutaway is worn a great deal for formal afternoon weddings, and for such occasions the tie should be a white or pastel bow tie.

Next in order of formality are dinner clothes. Here a black bow tie adds the finishing touch.

Summer Formal Attire Requires Four-in-Hand.

Summer formal attire, consisting of white flannels and dark coat, requires a four-in-hand tie. With this costume the tie need not be so conservative but may be gay in coloring. A pastel tint would be a happy selection if such is becoming. If a figured silk, foulard, or handkerchief silk is the chosen one, the pattern should be small and inconspicuous.

Finally there is the tailored business suit. Here the man has an opportunity of demonstrating his good taste in his selection of ties. He is not oppressed with having to wear a certain style or a particular color. Either a bow tie or four-in-hand may be worn with business clothes, and there is a wide choice in regard to colors and materials. There are figured foulards, cravat silks, summer ties of cotton material which are washable, and knitted fabrics. The man's principal problem will be to select one of a becoming color, one which becomes his personality and harmonizes with his suit as well, without being gawdy.

In any case, formal or informal, summer or winter, let the tie be faultlessly clean and neatly pressed.

FURNITURE QUERIES

Query: "Will you please tell me if I can find some table a little different from the usual night stand to place between twin beds? The beds are mahogany.—V. G."

Answer: Have you seen the new, small, white lether tables? They are shaped like columns, having rounding sides and the front being open. Two or three shelves make them practical as well as decorative, and I think one of these will answer your purpose nicely.

Query: "I have a rust colored sofa and rug in my living room. Would red draperies be suitable?—V. B."

Answer: A surprisingly large number of queries come to this department concerning the combining of rust or henna with red. It is simply never done. Just as you never wear a pink hat with a red dress, knowing the two tones fairly shriek at each other, so one should never hang red draperies in a room having a rust colored rug or furniture. Choose instead blue-green, beige, pale gray, or egg-shell.

Query: "My dining room opens off my living room, the doorway being very wide, arched, and open. Should I hang portieres in this opening?—T. F."

Answer: It would be much better to leave the doorway unobstructed. A vista of the dining room from the living room is not objectionable and stuffy hangings often are. If you want to cut off the view, however, you can do so with an attractive screen. One of the pretty white wooden shutter models would be effective and smart.

Query: "Are slip covers for furniture used all the year around or only in summer?—B. J."

Answer: Some people keep decorative slip covers on their chairs and sofa both winter and summer, especially in the city. But many others use them only in the warm months. The answer is: suit yourself.

Query: "In a small, three room city apartment should the same carpeting or rugs be used in each room?—G. E. O."

Answer: Yes, this would be the wisest thing to do.

THE STAMP COLLECTOR

By Richard McP. Cabeen

This cover, which is illustrated through the kindness of M. Alphonse Delhaye, shows the mourning stamp which was issued by Belgium shortly after the death of King Albert. The stamps are printed in black, even the margins being in that hue, and present a very striking appearance as compared with similar stamps with white margins.

Booklets by Mr. Cabeen: "Starting a Stamp Collection," 5 cents by mail; 3 cents at Tribune Public Service Offices, 1 South Dearborn or Tribune Tower. "Philatelic Agencies," 5 cents by mail; 3 cents at Public Service Offices. If you ask questions when ordering booklets, inclose stamped, addressed envelope for reply.

THE first covers from Little America are expected back in the United States today, and distribution should be complete by June 1. It had been expected that covers would come out on the Jacob Ruppert, sailing on Feb. 5, and on the Bear of Oakland, sailing Feb. 20. On April 22 the headquarters for the Byrd Antarctic expedition II. announced that two-thirds of the covers were left behind in cold storage when the latter ship was forced to make a hurried departure due to the closing in of the ice fields.

It was noted that the transportation of the covers from the ship to the postoffice at Little America, and the canceling of the stamps, and the return of the covers to the ship consumed a great deal of time, and that the Bear of Oakland had to escape to the open sea before the work was completed. Past experience has made it conceivable that first day covers have been canceled in other offices than that whose townmark the covers bear, and it would seem justified if the postmaster at Little America had taken his hand stamp and ink pad aboard the vessel and thus saved several days' time. The covers are estimated at 56,000, on which the collectors of this country have paid a service charge of $28,000.

For the payment of this fee they had a right to expect the return of their covers at the proper time. Collectors who do not receive their covers early this summer must assume that theirs were held and will show up in 1935 with a special cachet to indicate the reason for the delay.

Next week the Stamp Collector will show a rare cover with a complete story of its adventures in the Arctic regions, where it remained for seven years.

Tripolitanian Air Mail.

A special set of commemorative air mail stamps is announced in connection with a "Circuit of the Oasis," an airplane flight by a squadron of 16 planes under the command of Marshal Balbo, governor of Tripoli. The stamps are of the same designs as the current air mail stamps of Tripolitania, but in different colors and will bear the inscription, "Circuito delle Oasi, Tripoli 15 Maggio 1934—XII." Only 5,000 sets are to be issued, of which 600 are for the Universal Postal union. The stamps were on sale for about three weeks prior to the event and may now be obtained through the Italian Philatelic agency—Unione Filatelica Nazionale, S. A., Piazza di Spagna, 43-45, Roma, 106.

Sporting Section.

The animal shown on this stamp of North Borneo is a Sumatran rhinoceros, one of the smallest varieties of this beast, and the only species with two horns, except those native to Africa. Many of these animals become victims of the big game hunters each year, though they are not in any sense "game," being shy and timid and easily tamed even when adult, but they present a good sized target, much easier to hit than those squirrels which our ancestors were accustomed to knock out of the trees in days gone by.

Cachet News.

The International Historical Cover committee of 68 Gray street, Arlington, Mass., has a leaflet prepared for distribution to all who are interested in a proposed series of historical covers commemorating the outstanding events of all nations. This is perhaps the first time that collectors interested in foreign stamps have been given an opportunity to obtain their favorite issues canceled on national holidays, etc.

Monmouth college at its 78th commencement on June 7 will celebrate 50 years of guidance by Dr. J. B. McMichael and his son, Dr. T. H. McMichael, as presidents of that institution. A cachet will include the seal of the college. Send 6¾ size covers "ready to go," but unstuffed and unsealed, to S. E. Kyle, 733 East Broadway, Monmouth, Ill., by June 5. Commemoratives on wrappers will be appreciated.

The Hoboken Business Men's association will sponsor a cachet to celebrate the visit of several vessels of the navy following the review at New York. An attempt will be made to have all covers canceled aboard a cruiser. Send covers "ready to go," but unstuffed and unsealed, to Lester J. Kramer, 84 Washington street, Hoboken, N. J., by May 25. Covers will be autographed if commemoratives are used on outside wrappers.

Mother's Day Stamps.

Plate numbers reported are 21201 to 21205 for flat plate stamps, and 21210 to 21219, 21221, and 21224 for rotary press stamps. The flat plate stamps promise to be the scarcer of the two varieties. They are slightly redder than the rotary stamps, but the certain way to separate the two is by measuring them. Those from flat plates are a scant 36 by 21½ mm., while those from rotary plates are just under 36½ by 22 mm. There are no straight edges on the latter and the plate numbers are opposite a corner stamp on the sheets.

The Tomb of Merino.

The portrait of Merino, the archbishop of Santo Domingo, who became president of the Dominican Republic, has been shown in these columns. This is another stamp of that commemorative set of 1933 and shows the Mausoleum of Merino, in the cathedral of Santo Domingo. Recent cancelations from the city of Santo Domingo, and from Santiago, contain the following information, in Spanish: "The name of the nation is Republica Dominicana—Santo Domingo is the capital of the republic."

Junior Stamp Exhibition.

The younger collectors of America will have an exhibition of their own during the last two weeks of June, at the Brooklyn Children's museum, Brooklyn, N. Y. Sponsors and advisers are urged to have their clubs represented. There are no charges for entering exhibits. Full information will be supplied by Frank L. Wilson, Director Stamps, Jr., 100 6th avenue, New York, N. Y.

Greek Air Mail.

This stamp is one of a very recent set provided for use on the Italian-Greek-Turkish air route. The example shown is in two colors, the word "ELLAS" and the value "50 lepta" and some of the lines of the sky being in orange, while the remainder of the stamp is in green.

Club Notes.

The Gary Stamp and Coin club meets the first and third Fridays of each month at 8 p. m. at the Gary [Indiana] Y. M. C. A. This club has a membership of about sixty and meetings are usually attended by at least half that number. Visitors are always welcome.

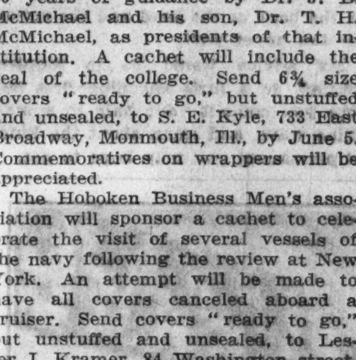
Tassel Flower, Thistle, May Be Joined in Quilt



TASSEL FLOWER.

Patterns of this quilt design are 5 cents each, stamps or coin. Address Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices, One South Dearborn or Tribune Tower.

By Nancy Cabot.

THE thistle seems to be a close relative of the "Tassel Flower" block, which is made in two shades of green and a soft heather blue. The quilter who desires a combination of thistle and tassel flower may buttonhole the edges of the floral motif, thereby creating the rough edges needed.

It's ready—Nancy Cabot's new booklet, presenting 96 illustrations of favorite quilt designs, together with one pattern of a popular quilt, "The Framed Rose." Price, 5 cents; by mail, 7 cents. Address Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune; or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices.

Notebook Helps Gardeners Keep Orderly Records

THOSE whose interest in gardening or botanical studies leads them to want a record of the plant life which crosses their paths will be intrigued by a new "Practical Garden Notebook" which has just been privately published by Ellen Browder Bean, 5748 Harper avenue, Chicago, and is available in many book stores. The large, stiff covered, and loose leaf notebook contains several unique aids to recording vital statistics about the garden and its contents. It contains also information on the culture of plants, and provides for plotting, sketching, and orderly arrangement of notes one would take in the course of developing the gardening hobby in intimate detail.

LOOKS 17 YEARS YOUNGER
A delightful cream can be made right in your own home to remove wrinkles, clear the complexion, make radiant beauty. Mrs. Minnie H. of Kansas writes: "I have used Eptol cream for years, and find it has no equal. It makes me look 17 years younger. I haven't a wrinkle on my face."
Get two ounces of Eptol from your druggist, mix it with water and a tablespoonful of glycerine. It lifts the wrinkles right out, leaving the skin smooth, firm and lovely. If your druggist hasn't Eptol, send 10c and we will send you special a whole month's supply. COOPER COMPANY, 343 Thompson Bldg., Chicago

A FRIEND IN NEED

Will You Help Some June Graduates to Dress Appropriately? These Events Deserve Only Pleasant Memory, and Youth Is Sensitive.

By Sally Joy Brown.

HERE comes June, plus graduation ceremonies, plus, in some cases, disappointment and heartache.

The completion of a school course, eight or four years of constant effort, should be and is, of course, its own reward. Nevertheless, it's mighty difficult for youngsters of high school and grammar school age to take part in such ceremonies without being properly outfitted. If you are able to supply any of the following applicants with presentable discarded clothing won't you let me know? It will mean a great deal to the boys and girls and will make the ceremonies in which they are to take part the truly joyful occasions they should be.

Here's a typical letter:

"Dear Miss Brown: I am writing you this little note in hope that you can help me, and I'm telling you the truth, I wouldn't be if I didn't need to. I am sixteen years old and have a brother and sister and my mother. My brother is graduating from grammar school in June, and as he is the boy with the highest honors in the school he'll probably be called upon to give a little speech at the exercises, and he wants to look well, because it's an occasion he'll probably never forget. My mother has been ill and unable to do much work, so she cannot afford to buy him any clothing. If you could help me I'd be very grateful to you. He is tall for his age, 5 feet 7½ inches, and weighs about 130 pounds. He needs a pair of white flannel trousers and a blue coat. I do hope you can help us."—Miss R. B.

An appeal from a mother:

"Dear Miss Brown: Please help me. I am in need of a suit for a boy fourteen, of a dark color, a white shirt, size 13½ collar, and a white dress and white slippers, size five, for my daughter, aged thirteen. They are both graduating the last of this month, and as there are six children in the family I am unable to buy these things for them."—Mrs. F. H.

Mrs. H. tells me that her husband is in a veterans' hospital at present.

Mrs. G. N. writes as follows:

"Dear Miss Brown: My husband has not had regular employment for the last three years, and the money provided by occasional work secured through the relief organization has gone for bills, etc.

"I am writing to ask if any one of your readers has a suit for my son fifteen, a boy of average size, who will graduate this June, as I am not in a position to purchase one for him."—Mrs. G. N.

Mrs. N. lives on the south side.

If you have more than one canary I'm sure you'd like to share your cheerful pets with Mrs. A., who wrote to me recently.

"Dear Miss Brown: Could you possibly get me a canary? I have been caring for a bird belonging to a friend, who is now established in her own home again, and I must return it to her. I know I shall miss it very much, as I have become greatly attached to it. I am an elderly woman and alone and find the bird is company for me, as I recently lost my husband and feel the loss keenly. I am unable to purchase a bird and thought of coming to you."—Mrs. H. J. A.

R. D. has several beginner's piano instruction books to pass on to any one interested in having them. If you wish to take advantage of this offer write to Miss D. in care of this department. Letters will be forwarded to her for selection.

W. F. C., a patient in a veterans' hospital, writes as follows:

"Dear Miss Brown: We have a miniature golf course here, and now that I am out of bed I'd like to play a little to while away the long hours. However, I have no club or ball, and if one of your readers has an old putter and a golf ball he no longer uses I'd appreciate having them."

Several of our readers have jigsaw puzzles they no longer wish to keep. If you know of some invalid or shut-in who'd like to have some write to me. Please do not telephone.

Decoration Queries

Miss Winslow will be glad to answer queries on home decoration. If you wish a personal reply, enclose a stamped, self addressed envelope.

Query—Will you suggest a suitable color scheme and material for curtains for a sleeping porch I am going to convert into a summer living room? There are eleven windows.—S. A. K.

Answer—The making of eleven pairs of curtains is rather staggering, isn't it? If it were possible I should use regular porch shades, allowing one for each group of windows, if they are in groups, or for each side of the porch. These could be raised or lowered to regulate the light and heat. However, if you prefer individual curtains it would be wise to choose a fairly sturdy material that will stand the sun and hard wear. Natural colored monk's cloth would be good. Or heavy cretonne. Green and white would be a pleasant, cool color scheme.

Query—"Can you tell me of any way to protect a handsome new silk lamp shade? It is a bisque color.—B. N.

Answer—You can cover it with sheets of cellophane. Most of the new shades are displayed in this fashion in the shops now.

Query—I'd like a touch of black in an all white room furnished in the modernized Victorian style. Do black draperies sound crazy?—T. G.

Answer—Perhaps they do sound a bit strange, but they do not look so. I recently saw some stunning glazed chintz having a black background and an old fashioned floral design in brilliant, natural colors. This would be ideal for your room, as it is Victorian in feeling. Do not line the draperies. When the light streams through the flowers the whole room becomes more beautiful.

Query—Do you think gray too somber for living room walls? Our room has a western and northern exposure.—W. W.

Answer—No, I do not. There is hardly any color more pleasing, more livable the year around than pale grap. I refer to a gray in which a good deal of white has been mixed, and a touch of pink. A cold, slate gray is another matter.

Query: "I'd like to have Venetian blinds in my sun room to give it a cooler appearance for summer. Can you offer any suggestions?—B. Y."

Answer: One Chicago manufacturer of Venetian blinds has introduced them in graduated shades of one color. Starting with a light green, for instance, at the top, the slats are colored darker and darker green to the bottom. This produces a most interesting effect. Another idea is to have the blinds a different color on the two sides, the tapes matching one of them.

Answer: I think one of the pretty white wooden shutter screens, or a screen covered in wallpaper that harmonizes with your color scheme would be nice to shut off your closet from the room.

Query: "As my bedroom has too many doors, I'd like to remove the one leading into my clothes closet. I don't want a hanging there, however, so will you please tell me what I can use?—A. S. F."

Query: "Will you suggest a fabric for recovering a lounge chair? I want something practical, and must have a neutral color.—E. D."

Answer: One of the new novelty woolens or serges in beige or tan would be attractive. So, also, would a corduroy. The latter material is being made especially for upholstering and draping and is not to be confused with the old or garden variety of corduroy.

Here Are Plans for Setting an Unusual Table

THAT the setting of an attractive table is becoming more and more of an art in itself is proved conclusively by the interesting contest, recently conducted by one of the large Chicago department stores, in which prominent women and several men took part. In fact, the first prize was awarded to an architect, and another also went to a man.

Few of the many tables strayed from the tenets of conservative good taste. One, considered worthy of an award, had a slight but rather obvious flaw—there were two clashing shades of red in the décor. The contestant had filled misty white Venetian glass soup cups with tomato juice. These, of course, were at each place. Then he filled white bowls with the tops of red carnations and placed one at either end of the table. The red carnations and the red of the tomato juice were so violently opposed that it put one's teeth on edge to look at the two colors.

One of the most amusing tables was called "Depression Breakfast." Over a robin's egg blue sateen cloth was spread a matching shade of Argentine. The setting consisted of aluminum goblets, plates, wooden handled knives and forks, and a centerpiece of an aluminum bowl filled with nuts. The morning paper was propped up before father's place, while mother's displayed a brown cradle telephone and a brown roll of market list paper with the day's orders scribbled on it. At the children's places were bibs of brown, rough towelling.

At the other end of the economic pole, so to speak, was the "Midnight Supper for Two After the Theater" table. It was the creation of a society woman and a well known actor. On a cloth of shimmering silver sequins were arranged crystal plates, finger bowls in which floated blossoms of pink azaleas, crystal candelabra, and stunning crystal glass ornaments and glassware. At one side was the little table and the inevitable bucket of iced champagne.

The first prize was given to a "homey" looking buffet supper table laden with eighteenth century English silver and candelabra. The cloth was white with small flowers in color around the border. There was nothing unusual about this table. It was handsome, eminently correct, without flair.

A deep blue linen cloth and lipstick scarlet napkins made gay a table set for an informal supper. Another showed milk glass on a brown handkerchief linen cloth.

Still another glittered and gleamed, laden with mirror glass and crystal. The centerpiece consisted of four crystal ornaments, tapering columns. There was no cloth on this table.

FOR HARD-TO-GET-AT PLACES

The handiest cleaning gadget shown in electrical departments is this midget vacuum cleaner. Weighing only 4½ pounds it does as much work as the larger size. It posseses the same powerful motor and all the cleaning equipment provided with a full sized machine and as simple to use as an electric iron. Hard-to-get-at-jobs are done quite as efficiently with this hand cleaner. The body, motor case, and cap are of aluminum. The bag is chemically treated to make it dustproof. It is available in all the department stores.

Mirrors Assume Important Role as Decorations

MIRRORS are doing lots of things these days to make modern homes more attractive. They have ceased to be merely necessary adjuncts to a woman's beauty rites, or something to hang in the hall, and are taking their place as highly decorative accessories in the best dressed homes.

Applied in narrow cornices just below the ceiling on a dining room wall, they are glitteringly lovely. In one room deep blue mirror cornices matched the blue mirror top of the Biedermeier dining table. In a white dining salon, ordinary mirror glass appeared as a wide molding.

Between windows in a small living room, a long mirror panel serves to add depth and beauty to the place. In the smart new Hollywood home of Carole Lombard are two huge, four panel screens made entirely of mirrors and edged with a white enamel rope cording of wood. They are placed at either end of her Directoire daybed, which is arranged lengthwise along the wall.

Again mirror glass is used to cover the frames of windows and to set off the beauty of diaphanous, gauze-thin silk draperies. Visitors to the model house at the World's Fair last summer were as delighted as they were startled by seeing vivid green mirrors set in the head and foot boards of a silver-gray modern bed, carrying out a Greek key design. In this same room the drawers in a silver finished chest were all faced with white mirrors and reflected the interesting colors used on the walls, chairs, and floor.

Fireplaces, too, are being faced with looking glasses. Not so practical, perhaps, but lovely in a theatrical way. And different.

Deep amber glass extends from the back of an Empire console table to the floor and the effect is beautiful. And for a long while dressing tables with mirror tops have been popular.

One has a choice of colors, too, in these new mirror glasses—blue, green, rose, peach, gold, and gray.

Home Facial Treatment Is Wonderfully Effective with Two Fine Creams.

By Eleanor Nangle.

THE dear old budget may not permit a visit to a salon regularly, but here's where we urge you to go to a certain one in Chicago for a demonstration treatment. You may never go again, but what you'll learn in the way of home treatments will stand you in good stead for the rest of your feminine life.

Just as a starter you'll learn some surprising things about the use of cleansing cream. The cream of this house, by the way, is rather a superlative one, all melty and nice, that's a joy to use. Here's how you do it: You have a supply of cotton close at hand. You make a pad of it, wring it out in cold water, fold in the edges to make it round, and then dip it in skin tonic—a very nice one, too. This cold water stunt is by way of economizing; cotton is so absorbent that you'd use quarts of skin tonic if you didn't use water first.

Treatment Follows a Definite Route,

Your little pad all wet, first with water and then with skin tonic, you dip it in the lovely liquefying cream, then proceed to cleanse. With cream laden pad in hand, you have a definite route to follow over that face and neck of yours. First you bring it around the throat on the collar line, moving up about an inch after each neck circling. Then you bring the pad along the contour line on both sides, from chin to ear; then from chin to outer eye corner; from chin to the center of the lower lid, and from chin to the inner corner of the eye. These movements are followed on both cheeks. Cream is brought around the eyes and down the nose, then the creamed pad is drawn across from the center of the forehead to the temples on both sides, then in three parallel upward lines from the bridge of the nose to the hairline right in the center of the forehead. Movements, you'll notice, are invariably upward and outward.

It's a cleansing, but it's contour ervation, too . . . a tremendously pres nt point in beauty. importa fect thoroughness, toning of For per nanded by the individual the type de llow this, and then skin should fo ing. For dry skins comes cream patt ds a skin cream this house recommen nt of orange that is rich and redol ded with a flowers. This, perhaps ble n layer little oil, is spread in a th over face and neck.

Pink Rubber Patter Aids in Circulation.

Then you pull a special pink rubber cream patter out of the dressing table drawer. Its flexibility and resiliency are enough to make you pause in admiration; there are tiny rubber prongs to create suction, which in turn promote circulation. The patter is held firmly but lightly, with just enough pressure to cause an agreeable tingling. You start at the base of the neck and follow the exact route you went over with cleansing cream.

She's cleansed face and neck with a liquifying cream,, spread on a pad of cotton wrung out in cold water, and dipped in skin tonic; now she is using a special, perforated rubber patter to work in a rich cream combating dryness.

patting the lines around the mouth and at the corners and around the eyes (here you go very gently). With the furrows on the forehead you can be a bit rougher.

The rich cream and the patting combined give the oil hungry skin a marvelous dinner—and it radiates contentment. If this is a night treatment, off you trot to bed; if it's stepping out you are, you wipe off the cream when the patting operation is ended and proceed with a grand and glorious makeup.

One week of this home treatment and you'll see a difference; the skin is nourished and pepped up. You'll feel that the money for creams, tonic, pink patter, and perhaps a demonstration salon treatment was well spent.

Betrothed Should Settle Salary Needs Before Wedding

This Age Demands a Rational Outlook on Finances and the Management of the Home.

By Doris Blake.

THESE are days when old fashioned romancing about the Romeo and his best girl had better be revolutionized according to the financial need of the times.

In other days it may have been all right to go into a marriage arrangement in imbecilic ignorance of what the young husband was earning and what the young wife was able to do in household occupation and management. Personally, we think it never was all right to be ignorant on either point. It's just a way we have of relegating mistakes to the past, the better to build a new tomorrow. And then, we clutter the past with all errors we can possibly attribute to what is fondly called a romantic era.

Today romance has to be taken with more than a grain of realism. Reality has to be faced. But we have had training in this respect in the last four years, and our training is not yet finished. So now young people are in a position to catch the infection. And it is only a blind group of young, or blinder parents trying to save daughters and sons from the realities who today are not in a position of vantage to begin their married careers on a basis of solid understanding about the financial needs, and this goes for girls as well as boys. For the financial needs, as applied to the bride, means wise management of money as represented in her husband's salary, whether her fortune is twenty-five a week or two hundred and fifty.

Women Must Realize Their Obligations.

There isn't an excuse under heaven, today, for a young woman, old enough to marry, to proceed into the honorable institution without an understanding of how much money there will be with which to run the new home, and what is rightfully expected of her in connection with that money.

Nor is there any excuse today for the young woman entering marriage with a chap of modest income to expect of him, and demand of him, that she be supported in a manner characteristic of the irresponsible pre-depression era. By which is meant that even the humble duties of the household are not to be looked upon as "beneath her," an expression common to the reckless era brides of the late twenties. It became so, in those frivolous, reckless days before the panic that a girl got to thinking of herself as a martyr if she were asked to rise and get her husband's breakfast. Women got a grotesque sense of their own value in the scheme of things at that time when money could be conjured out of a stock certificate. As one, whose marriage ended in the divorce court after a brief try, recently said: "And I thought I was abused because I couldn't have a maid. And here, latterly, the only job I could get was acting in a maid's capacity in another's woman's house.

"Yes," she added regretfully, "we were a spoiled lot of girls then. Today's brides have a better chance of starting out on the right foot."

If they accept the chance and adopt the modern code of doing their rightful share.

Youth Should Have Open Money Discussion.

First, we think that there should be more open discussion among young people on the subject of how much money is necessary to establish a marriage. It goes without saying that an engaged pair would discuss this as frankly as they would discuss the date of their wedding. But some of them still do not. They trust to the blind chance that everything automatically will turn out right with the wedding seal.

But, discussing the financial features of marriage among young couples not engaged, we believe to be a form of education from which both sides would profit immeasurably. At least, it would clear the air of a lot of hopeless dreaming. Girls, we think, need this education more than does the other sex, because it is the nature of a woman in love to believe that her adored one can move mountains and will, to please her. Well, the mountains are not so moveable these days. Salaries, as is well known, are away below the vision of the bride of the 1920's, and quick promotions or "windfalls" are not in the calendar as in those other years. Men in love are just as eager to work, and earn, and indulge the girl of their hearts, but the day of indulgence is slower, and will be for a few years yet to come.

Realism Is Needed in Facing Marriage.

It's a curious phase of the girl today that, although she may, from her own working experience, be fully acquainted with salary reductions, she fails to apply the necessary logic to her young man's income. Somehow, she argues in her nonrealistic soul, he will solve all the money difficulties.

He will, but only with her coöperation, and this on a scale of thrifty household and personal management. We are talking about the average couple who calls at the license bureau this year, not a still favored few.

A recent questioning of a number of young persons proves our contention that young women look upon a salary of less than fifty dollars a week as unequal to the marriage test. If they feel that way about it, it is, and marriage is not for them right now. But where, as has been asked a thousand times by young men reading girls' views on the salary need for marriage, are the fifty dollar a week earners? Of course, there are men of marriageable age earning fifty dollars a week, but there are more of them whose earnings are a great deal less, and who want marriage and should enjoy marriage during these best years of theirs.

False Hopes of Affluence Are Futile.

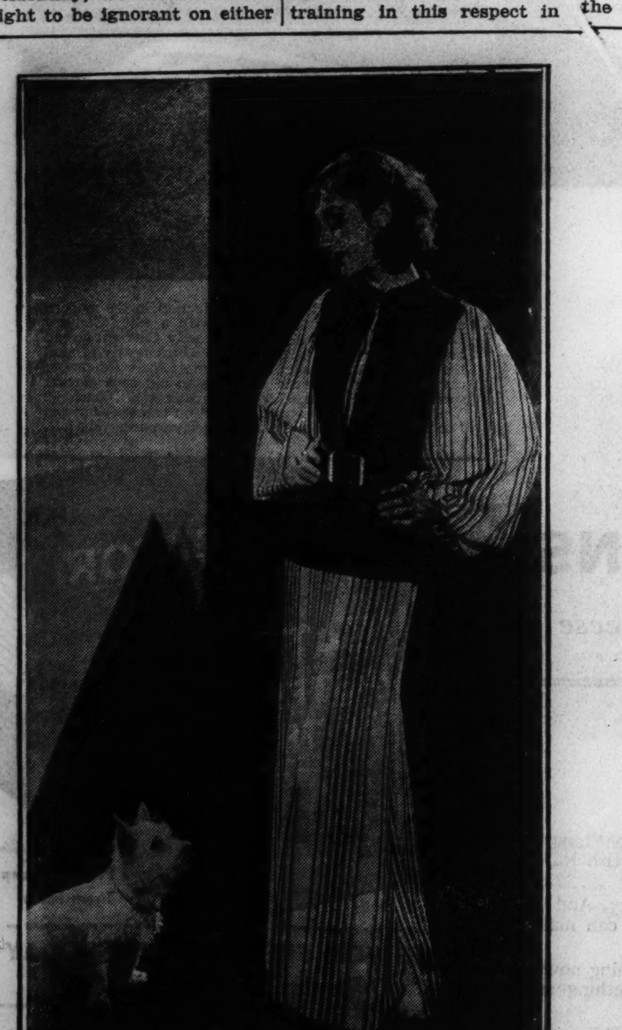
As has been said, the young couples will have to hold the discussion on the subject. Face it squarely, honestly, uncluttered with the false hopes of falser days. Let the young men not be afraid to state their earnings and let them be less afraid to ask for a skilled, managing partner. Now is the time, if ever, in the history of young love and marriage, when man and girl can get down to a sane and endearing, working understanding about the respective duties of each partner. It is not less romantic to talk over the cost of rent, food, clothes, insurance, dentist bills, etc., than to spend the time dreaming dreams of that future day when everything will be lovely. As a matter of cold fact, it gives the dreams real substance, and makes the future day of loveliness just that much more assured.

And, girls, you get down to figuring out with your mother what is the least on which a young bride can get along. It's the least that you can manage on that is going to make life easier for you the next few years. Then, learning that you can save here and there if you are skilled yourself in buying, cooking, knowing meat cuts and food values, sewing, mending, general budgeting, you are going to learn how to do these things well.

From where we sit this household working knowledge is going to let a number of girls marry who wouldn't dare try without said knowledge.



SIMPLICITY IN STRIPES

It's a perfect outfit, even from a canine point of view! Ann Dvorak's puppy registers approval in those sparkling eyes. This dinner dress is black and white striped, in heavy silk. The body of the jacket is black, and its sleeves carry out the stripe motif of the graceful skirt. The frock has a tailored air, but its flowing lines make it ideal for wear at simple dinners.

Razor Sharpener May Improve Your Husband's Temper

IF your husband is cross after his morning shave present him with one of the new electric razor blade sharpeners on his birthday or on Father's day. This sharpener will eliminate dull blades and friend husband will be able to shave in comfort every morning.

These electric motor driven sharpeners obviate razor blade expense. Blades last much longer and in time the saving on blades will more than pay for the sharpener.

Small and compact—hardly larger than a child's toy block—the sharpener is inclosed in an attractive black lackered metal case. Directions for using are simple to follow. The instrument stops automatically when the blade is sharpened.

Princess Ileana's Speech Breaks Hapsburg Tradition

PRINCESS ILEANA of Rumania recently broke a Hapsburg tradition when she spoke at Moedling, lower Austria, at a meeting of Fascist heimwehr members. It is said that this was the first time that any Hapsburg housewife addressed a political meeting.

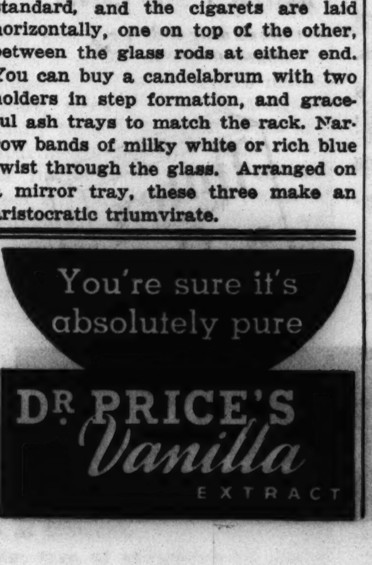
Tricky Gadget for Cigarets Is Made of Imported Glass

JUST when you think the possibilities for new designs in cigaret gadgets are completely exhausted, along comes a tricky little rack of imported glass to upset your convictions. It's mounted on a base and standard, and the cigarets are laid horizontally, one on top of the other, between the glass rods at either end. You can buy a candelabrum with two holders in step formation, and graceful ash trays to match the rack. Narrow bands of milky white or rich blue twist through the glass. Arranged on a mirror tray, these three make an aristocratic triumvirate.



You're sure it's absolutely pure

Crochet Capes High in Favor as Vogue of Beach Pajama Wanes

By Ellen Bruce.

SINCE the beach pajama vogue has departed, fashion offers an interesting new style in the way of a crochet beach cape. And not only as a seaside wrap does this cape fill its mission in life. It is also a friend to the traveler as a steamer cape and steamer rug.

Youngsters dote on a wrap of this type. With the present range of yarn colors it may match or contrast with the main color scheme of the season's wardrobe of both young and old.

The cape is fashioned in a simple afghan stitch that is the easiest crochet work known in the needlework field and one that may be done rapidly.

Sizing this all purpose cape is included in the instructions for making.

If you wish instructions for crocheting the beach cape illustrated today, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to Ellen Bruce, Chicago Tribune, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street or Tribune Tower.

Mexican Ware Is Ideal for Outdoor Meals

WHEN the glorious summer days arrive, which make dining outdoors possible, whether one may boast of an arbor, patio, or just a porch, no serving dishes could be more fitting than the colorful Mexican earthenware.

There is fruit made by the Mexican potters to grace the center of table or buffet, and natural-looking nuts made of clay. Imitation pecans, almonds, Brazil and hazel nuts, when grouped with fruit, make a nice decoration.

Mexican earthenware is practical as well as decorative. It may be used with perfect safety in the ovens, since it is made to stand direct heat. Large sized and individual casuelas, which is a sort of casserole, are excellent for toothsome hot foods.

Mexican ware is gay and cheerful, for most of it is in brown, tan, and deep cream shades, with primitive borders of semi-circles or horizontal lines, and on the inside bases are exotic birds and flowers in rich colors.

Lovely water jugs in shaded greens, with cactus spiked leaves, are smart for water or other beverages. There are tubby little teapots with quaintly shaped teacups and saucers to match.

Drip Coffee Pot Brews Single Cup

WHEN father wants his dinner early, or late, or when mother feels the urge of a mid-morning cup of coffee, there's no need of warming over stale coffee. For one cup of fragrant beverage may be made with a small sized drip coffee pot which fits over the top of a cup, the coffee dripping directly into the cup. One of these gadgets is so designed that more than one cup of boiling water is poured into it, part of the water remaining in the top to keep the dripping coffee hot.

California Has Woman Judge

The only woman judge in California is Theresa Meikle, who decided to be an attorney when she was seven years old.

YOU REMEMBER HOW FAT I WAS 2 MONTHS AGO
—WELL I'LL TELL YOU HOW I GREW THIN EATING 3 BIG MEALS A DAY.

Now You Can Do It... Take Off a Pound a Day

Scientists have just announced a remarkable discovery which enables the fat person to grow thin at a cost so small that it hardly need be considered!

Indeed, in this way you can eat 3 full meals daily and lose—comfortably—as much as a FULL POUND EVERY DAY!

All for about 14¢ a week!

All You Do

It's amazingly easy. You do just two simple things. Get a bottle of the new Condensed JAD Salts and take a teaspoonful in a glass of water before breakfast. Make two small changes in diet—as explained in the folder inside the Condensed JAD package you get. That's all.

You look pounds lighter from the first day, for the Condensed JAD Salts banishes excess moisture weight and all puffiness and bloat at once. And the system is quickly cleared of depleting poisons . . . yet you never need know a hungry moment.

Costs Only 2¢ a Day

Just ask for the new Condensed JAD Salts at any drug store. A month's supply is only 60¢. You actually can follow this scientific plan for 2¢ a day. Don't forget: ask for the new Condensed JAD Salts.

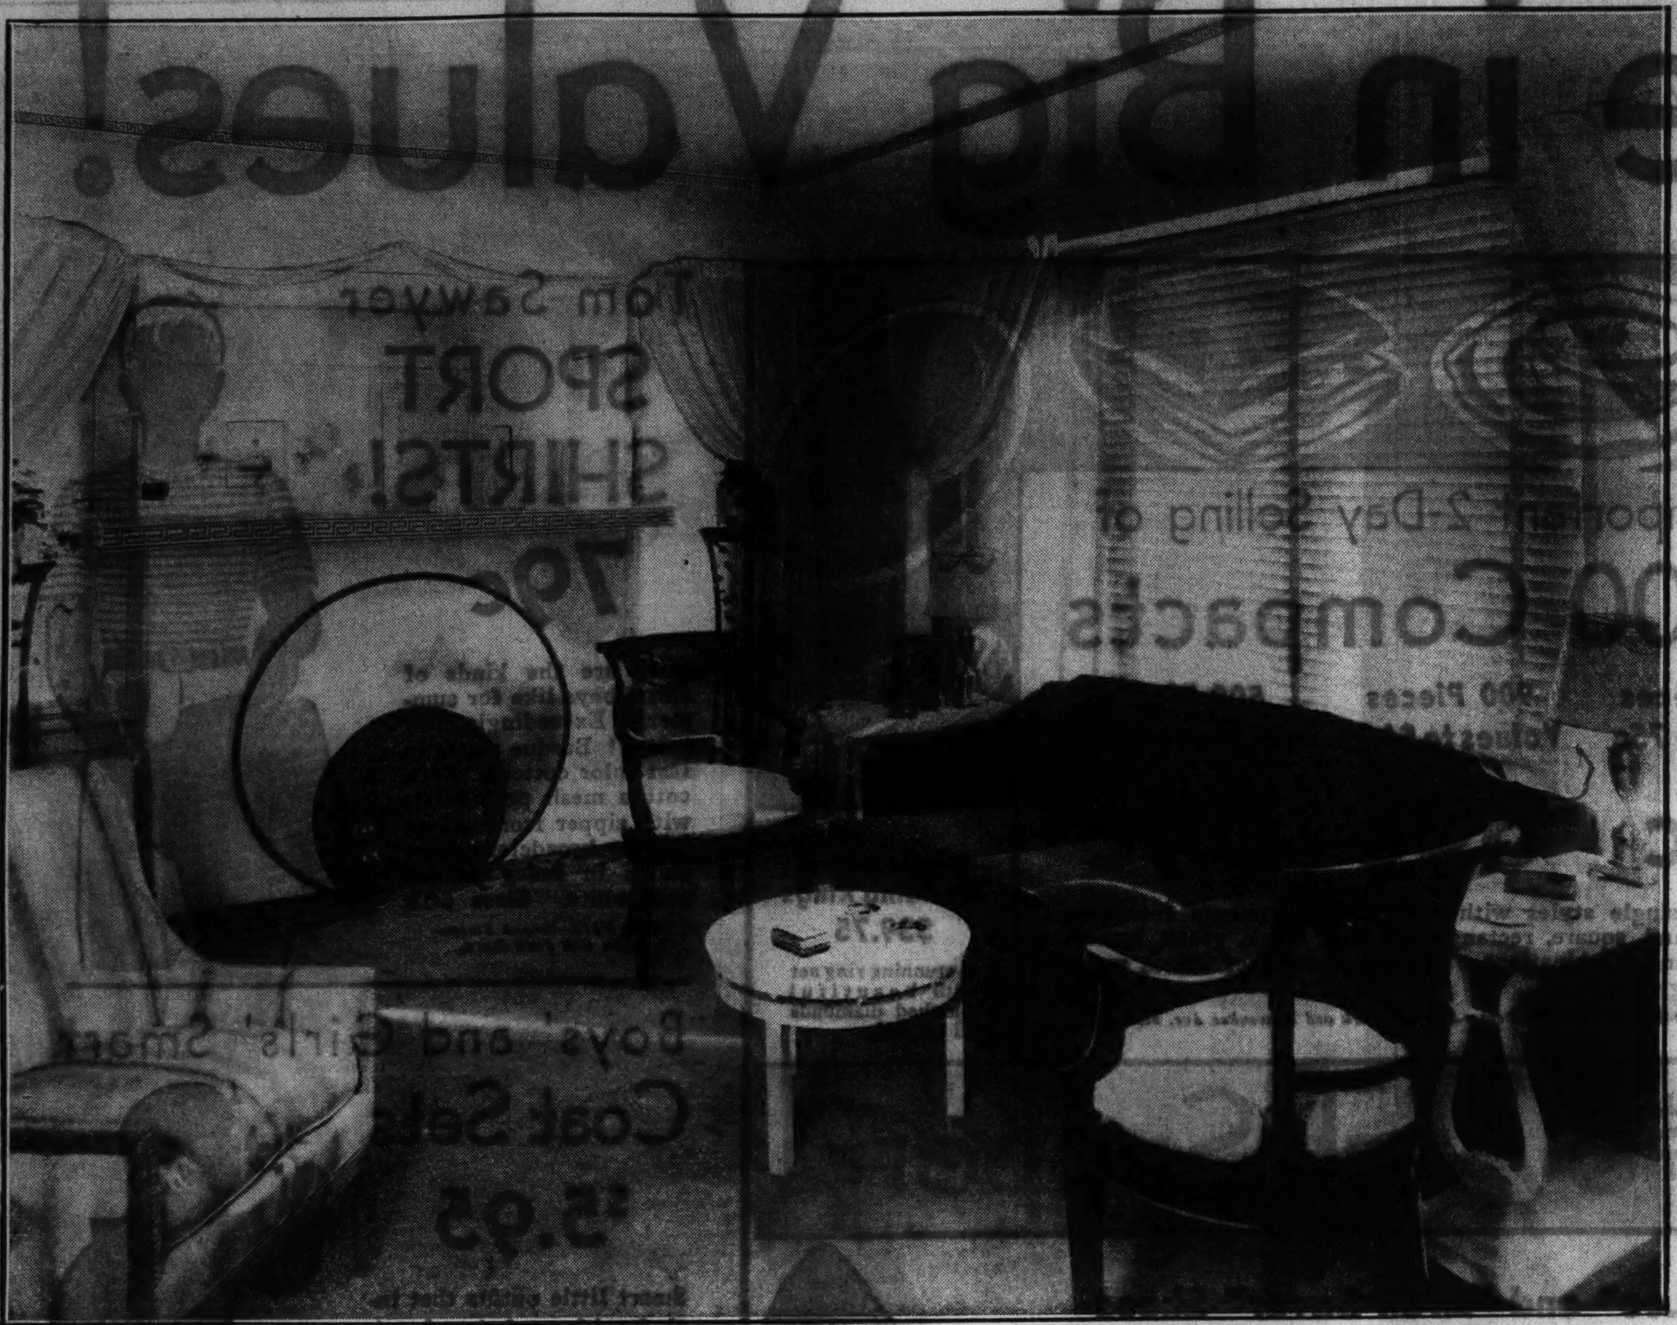
Begin the quick JAD method of reducing—tomorrow morning. The Condensed JAD Salts—remember—is urged as a poison-banishing agent . . . to banish unhealthy bloating and to eliminate body moisture—but not as a reducing one.

Modest Budget Adequate for Transforming Old Apartment if Beaver Board, Draperies, Furniture Are Used Artistically



You'd never guess this room was once entirely without style or character, because yellow paint, Venetian blinds, wallboard and the new classic-modern furniture have completely altered its former appearance.

Families of Moderate Incomes Need Not Dwell in Unattractive Rooms.

"Spring and Summer Draperies," a new booklet on the latest fabrics for the well dressed window is 2 cents, 3 cents by mail. Address The Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn and Tribune Tower, Chicago.

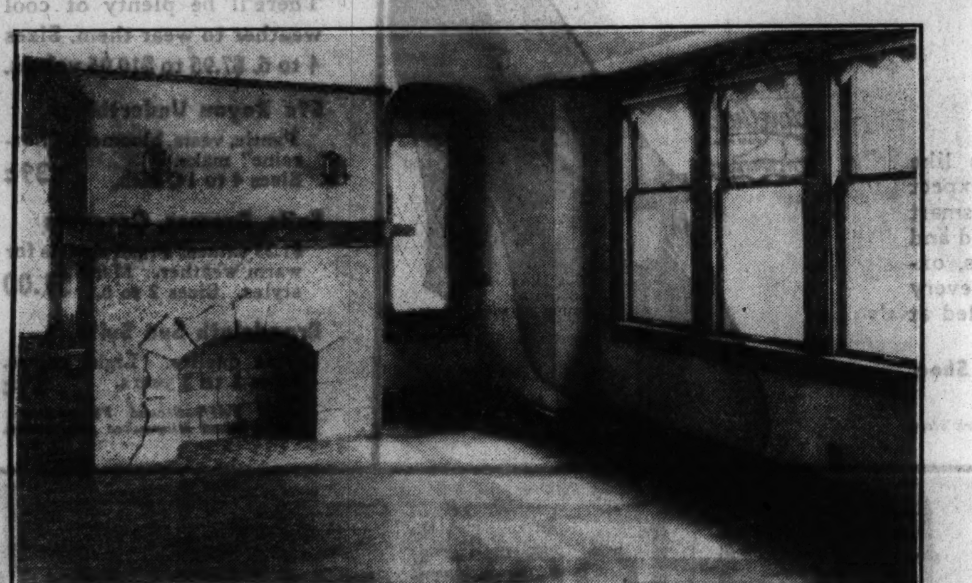
By Claire Winslow.

THE sum of a brand new house or apartment plus an ample budget is [or certainly should be] successful interiors. But a great many women who decorate and furnish their own homes do not have either the advantage of a modern, up to date building, nor a fat pocketbook. And theirs is a different problem.

So, for those thousands of people of moderate means, living in simple and even outmoded quarters we'd like to tell this story of a "before and after" decorating venture. It bolsters up one's spirits and gives a new slant on an old subject to see what some enterprising folk have done with an apartment that had little to recommend it on a budget that was not in any way extravagant.

With practically no architectural changes, but simply by using beaver board, plenty of light springlike paint, Venetian blinds, and smart new draperies and furniture, an almost hopeless, nondescript apartment was changed into a charming, comfortable, up to the minute home. One of the pictures today shows you the living room before anything was done to beautify it. There was the golden oak woodwork, still prevalent in interiors everywhere, there were the uninteresting windows, the usual heavy, homely brick fireplace, and the dated lighting fixtures. What to do?



This is the living room as it was before Frederick Rank designed a transformation: homely heavy fireplace, golden oak woodwork, fixtures, insignificant windows and all.

Non-Wood Burning Fireplace Covered with Wall Board.

Frederick T. Rank of Chicago designed the transformation shown in the larger photograph. As the fireplace was not wood burning the problem there was easily solved by covering the bricks with wall board painted the same color as the walls—yellow—and decorated with a silver half-moon outlined in a molding of cobalt blue. The top of the cove was finished in a Greek key design border in brown to match the molding at the top of the walls.

The windows were made beautiful by hanging Venetian blinds to cover the center ones and by draping the end ones with yellow gabardine glass curtains. The over-draperies are of white basket weave cotton fabric. A platinum gray carpeting is on the floor in this room and in the dining room next it, which has the same yellow walls.

Bookcase-Desk Made to Fit Door Space.

Furniture of the classic modern style is used effectively. The sofa at the right is cobalt blue, and the pair of antique mahogany side chairs have seat cushions of gold, yellow, and white. The chair in the left foreground is done in a striped fabric that contains all the colors appearing in the room. The clever little circular modern coffee table is of bleached maple with a white lacker top. At either end of the sofa are a pair of end tables in white with intriguing lyre supports.

Because one door leading into the bedroom was really not needed a most ingenious use was made of the opening it afforded. A combination bookcase and desk in one piece was made to fit exactly in the space. Its cobalt blue lining contrasts with a yellow exterior to match the walls and a lower section is ornamented with small chromium rods. Beaver board on the bedroom side has provided space for twin beds.

Another bright idea used in the bedroom is a wide mirror panel filling the wall space between two windows and increasing the apparent size of the room with its reflections. In the dining room an ugly built-in corner cupboard was made attractive by taking off its doors and by painting it yellow to blend with the walls. A modern, stainless steel lighting fixture takes the place of the old one, and one wide Venetian blind is hung over two windows. Draperies are of cobalt blue chenille with a chic little valance made of Christmas tree balls of silver.

If you are living in an apartment that is not what you'd like it, to be, don't despair. Wonders are worked, nowadays, as a matter of course.

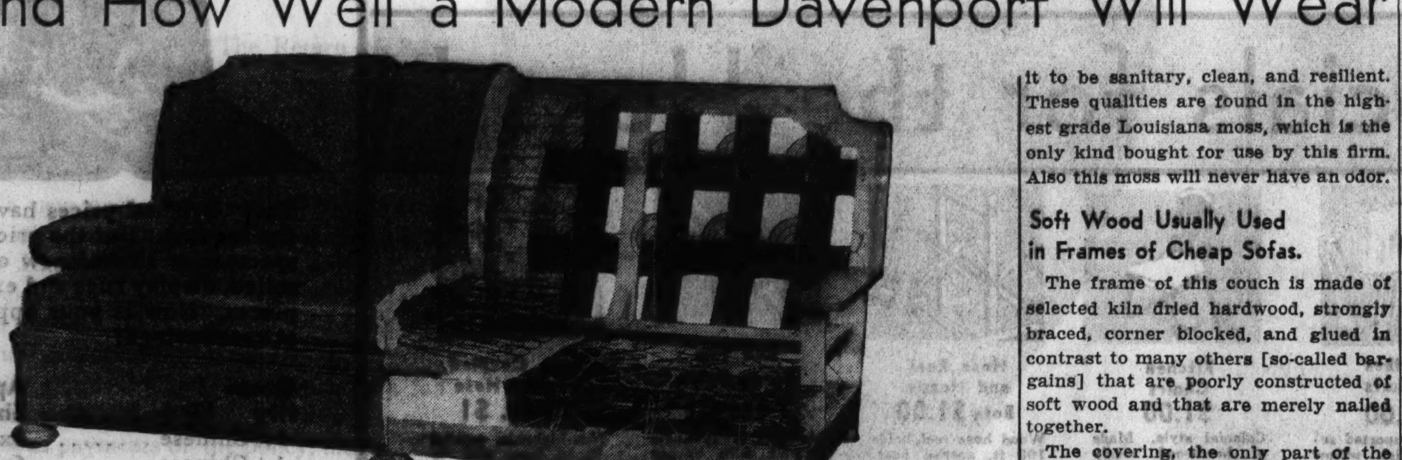
"What's in a Sofa?" No Idle Question; the Answer Determines How Long and How Well a Modern Davenport Will Wear

Cheaply Made Pieces No Bargain, for They Sag, Grow Bumpy, Squeak.

By Edith Weigle.

YOUR sofa may be good looking on the outside, but what's inside it? Who cares what's inside so long as it's comfortable, you say? Yes, but it won't be comfortable long if it is poorly made. It will get bumpy in places; it will groan or squeak when stout Uncle Cuthbert sits down on it, and it may even sag in the space of a year or two. A sofa or davenport still costs too much money to warrant careless buying.

So, for those women who like to know where their dollars are going here are some facts on furniture construction. A couch or davenport consists of the wooden frame to which the webbing is stretched and fastened, the springs, the canvas or material used for covering them, and the filling or stuffing—which may be of hair, fiber, or moss—a muslin or scrim covering, and finally the upholstery fabric.



Know what's under the cover of your new sofa? This picture tells the story of a piece of furniture that is well constructed and that sells at medium price. It is from the factory of a firm famous the country over and is available in Chicago stores and in many other cities.

Method of Tying Springs Determines Sturdiness.

In large sofas the hour glass coil spring [larger at the top and bottom than in the center] is attached to the braided webbing. Because of the resiliency of the coils it is necessary to tie each spring, and this tying process is an art in itself. It can be well or miserably done. In the finest sofas and chairs the springs are of tempered steel and each is tied nine and ten times. Two or three tyings only are given on the cheaper pieces.

When all the springs are tied a canvas covering is put over them and tacked to the wooden frame of the sofa or chair. Then the filling [hair, fiber, or moss] is laid on top of this and covered with a layer of cotton and again this stuffing is covered with light canvas or scrim, denim or muslin. Lastly the exterior covering, the upholstery fabric is put on.

The seat cushions of your sofa may be down filled, or they may be made, like the rest of the piece, with springs and filling, in which case they consist first of a spring unit, the springs being smaller, of course, than those used in the back and lower sections of the couch, and each bein; tied with a wire cord. This spring unit is slipped into a tight canvas bag, and then around all four sides is placed a layer of cotton padding. Finally, the upholstery fabric is put on and the cushion is finished.

Moss Said to Be Sanitary and Resilient Filling.

The sofa shown in the picture today shows how a well constructed piece of furniture looks in the making and when completed. You cannot see, however, one fine feature of this work. In the lower section strong steel bands about an inch wide run back and forth the width of the sofa frame, attached by means of small, tightly coiled springs to this frame. Over these bands is attached the wide webbing in lengthwise strips. It is the steel bands that prevent this sofa from sagging, that hold the weight, no matter how great, and that do their share to make for resiliency and comfort. The webbing is merely used to keep the springs from being pushed over. The springs never touch the steel bands because the webbing comes between, so there will never be any squeakings or groanings.

In this sofa the filling used is moss. There are three types of filling on the market today: hair, moss, and fiber. The hair, when the best horsehair is used, is expensive. The cheaper grades of hair are unwise to buy, as they may not be sanitary and they may carry an odor. This is true of the cheap grades of fiber also.

The company making the sofa pictured prefers moss for filling, claiming it to be sanitary, clean, and resilient. These qualities are found in the highest grade Louisiana moss, which is the only kind bought for use by this firm. Also this moss will never have an odor.

Soft Wood Usually Used in Frames of Cheap Sofas.

The frame of this couch is made of selected kiln dried hardwood, strongly braced, corner blocked, and glued in contrast to many others [so-called bargains] that are poorly constructed of soft wood and that are merely nailed together.

The covering, the only part of the "makings" to meet the eye when you go shopping for furniture, has been selected on two points: first, its beauty [harmony of color, appropriateness of design]; second, its texture quality [ability to retain its luster and loveliness through years of service]. You may choose from mohair, jacquard velour, linen frieze, radnor cloth, moquette, tapestry, leather, etc.

A good salesman of furniture will not laugh away the questions of an interested customer, nor hand her the old bromide of "You don't need to know anything about the inside of this sofa. The store stands behind its merchandise." Feel free to make queries and you'll get intelligent answers. It pays to know what's underneath the cover of that couch or chair you're spending money on!

Any Apartment or Home Can Be Air Conditioned

If Mechanical Unit's Too Expensive, Fan or Ventilator Will Help Greatly.

By Louise Bargelt.

LET'S look into ways and means to make our houses and apartments cooler and more comfortable this summer.

Air circulation is one of the important functions of any air conditioning system or unit conditioner. And simple methods are available to all of us by which we can improve the circulation of air in our homes, giving to rooms better ventilation and thus assuring ourselves greater efficiency, health, and comfort.

We all know what the simple, portable electric fan will do for us. Each year these fans are manufactured to assure quieter, speedier, more effective action. Now models are on the market, oscillating or nonoscillating, with bracket arm supports. We can have several such brackets around our home, mounted near a window, to blow out smoky stale air, draw in fresh air, and deliver a constant, cooling breeze.

Ventilation Mechanism in Attic Cools the Whole House.

For a little more money we can consider ventilating fans or ventilators which may be instaled in a window, or a wall, or an attic.

Proper ventilation of an attic will help decidedly in making a home interior more comfortable. There are a number of excellent makes of ventilators, and some of them are portable. That is, if we live in an apartment we can take them with us when we go.

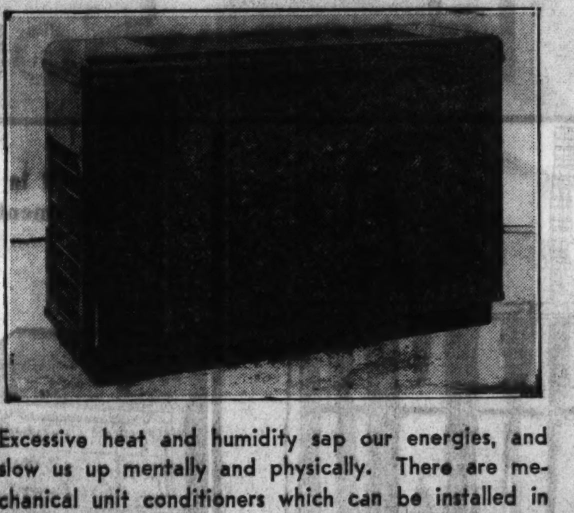
Such a ventilator may be placed in an attic dormer or wall. We should select a large enough model to afford us adequate air changes per minute—that is, from two to four minute air changes. Such a unit will draw out the blanket of heat which settles in our unventilated overhead spaces. Then at night it will circulate cool night air throughout our houses.

Portable Fan Changes Kitchen Air in Three to Five Minutes.

The kitchen is another room where these ventilators are of great value.

The portable types are simple to install. They can be had mounted on a panel and in this way they do not interfere with window openings or closings. This panel is sometimes of glass so that the obstruction of light is reduced to a minimum. A well made, efficient unit will deliver many hundreds of cubic feet of air per minute and can renew completely the air in an ordinary kitchen in from three to five minutes. Since cooking odors are generated at the rate of 500 or more cubic feet per minute it is easy to see that a ventilator must have power to handle and to change this air as rapidly as it is generated.

Other types of these units are made for permanent wall instalation. In the new 1934 models quietness of operation, powerful air delivery, and attractiveness of appearance are all stressed. The outside shelves are weatherproof and close automatically when the ventilator is not working so that no dust, dirt, wind, rain, or snow can gain entrance.



Excessive heat and humidity sap our energies, and slow us up mentally and physically. There are mechanical unit conditioners which can be installed in a room to change the hot, humid atmosphere into air which is cool and refreshing. Such a unit is shown here.

Mechanical Conditioner Cools, Cleanses, and Circulates Air.

If we are considering the installation in our home of equipment which will perform a thorough summer air conditioning job—that is, equipment which will definitly cool, dehumidify, cleanse, filter, and circulate our air—we have a choice of the products of a number of nationally known manufacturers. Some of these are designed especially for houses, other types are for apartments and hotel rooms.

The fundamental purpose of this summer air conditioning equipment is to change our hot, humid indoor air into atmosphere which will be cool and healthy—air in which we can work efficiently, play with zest, sleep restfully—air moreover which is a heaven sent boon in nurseries and sick rooms. For it is a fact we all know that excessive heat and humidity sap our energies. Dusty, dirt ridden air impairs our health. And stagnation of air slows us up mentally.

Units Are Decorative as Well as Efficient.

What type of equipment we select will depend somewhat on whether we live in a house, an apartment, or a hotel.

If we live in a house we can consider installing a warm air conditioning system for summer cooling as well as for all year round conditioning. Or we may install an air conditioning system in connection with a hot water, steam, or vapor heating system.

A number of manufacturers of national repute have developed mechanical unit conditioners which will deliver cold air into our rooms. They will also reduce the humidity in this air. With these units warm air is drawn in and passed over the chilled surfaces of the cooling coils, humidity is removed, and then the cool, dehumidified air is circulated through the house.

Ugly Machinery Is Hidden Under Sink.

These units are handsome pieces of furniture as well as highly efficient in the performance of their tasks. Some of them are connected with the heating system. Others are entirely independent. Some of these units are "self-contained." With some the compressor, or condensing unit which supplies the refrigerant to the room cooler, is in a special cabinet. This cabinet may be in the same room with the cooler or in another room, in a closet or hidden in some out of the way place.

In one recent air conditioning installation in Evanston the space under the sink was commandeered for the mechanical parts of the conditioner, while the ornamental cabinets were out in full view in living room as well as bedroom—a decorative as well as a "cooling" piece of home furnishing.

It is possible to touch but briefly the types of air conditioning equipment available. One thing we can say—there are types for installation wherever we may live, whether in a home of our own, a rented apartment, or a hotel suite. Naturally, equipment which will properly condition the air of our home at certain seasons or all seasons is intricate. Experts in this field have been working for a long time to perfect this equipment, to provide safeguards whereby it may function faultlessly in every respect. Therefore, selection of units and systems from manufacturers with a firmly established reputation for the excellence of their products is the part of discretion—and safety.

HOW TO KEEP COOL

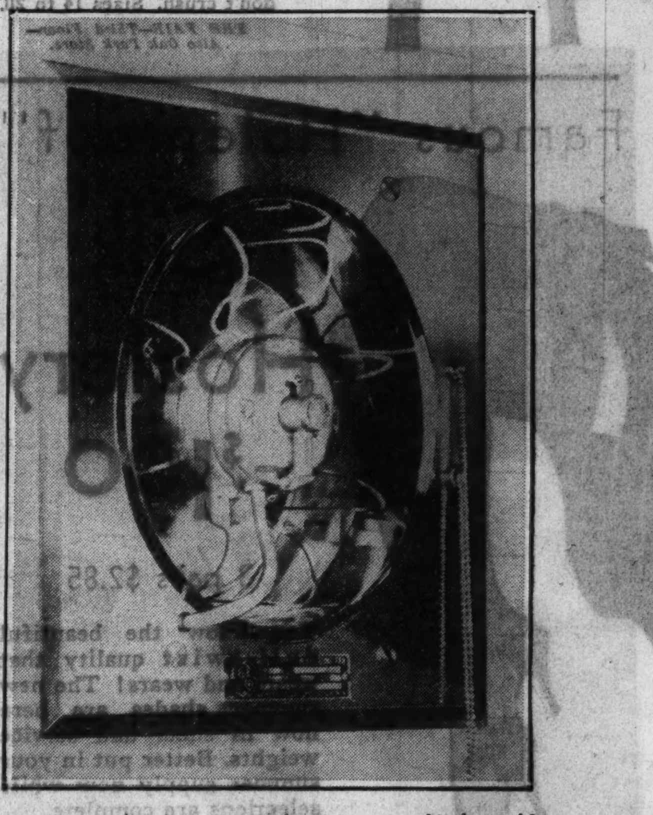
Good ventilation is a real boon in our kitchens on a hot day—and any other kind of a day, too! Here we see ventilation provided by a fan located in the ceiling over the electric light and controled by a lever.



If we are planning on modernizing our kitchen this summer we can have a ventilating fan or ventilator built into the wall. Or again, we can select a "portable type" for window installation in case we move!

With "I, Myself," Broadway's Theater Goers Again Wander in Spirit World

By BURNS MANTLE.

NEW YORK.—(Special.)—Whenever the drama goes soul hunting and hangs 'twixt heaven and earth to discuss penitents in purgatory or the rewards of faith, you can count on audiences of definitly mixed reactions.

One-third of those present will be awesomely moved, except possibly on Saturday nights. One-third will be moved to polite acceptance of the drama or amused curiosity, and one-third will openly hoot the proceeding or, lacking the courage to hoot, will snicker in its sleeves.

Such has been the experience of all spirit plays from "The Return of Peter Grimm" to "Outward Bound," from "The Well Remembered Voice" to "Smilin' Through."

Husband Obligingly Has Himself Murdered.

Such was the experience last week of a new one written by Adelyn Bushnell called "I, Myself." Both theme and title stem from the conclusion of the enlightened investigator of the Rubaiyat of Omar Khayyam, who sent his soul into the invisible some secret of the after life to spell and whose soul returned to report the discovery that he himself was heaven and hell.

"I, Myself" poses the half fantastic, half real problem of a man who, feeling himself a failure, overhearing both his wife and daughter speak of him as a failure, hires himself murdered that his family may collect a $50,000 life insurance policy which he has been secretly carrying. It was payments on the policy, incidentally that kept him broke and aroused the resentment of the family.

After a Few Seconds Wakes from Dead.

The tramp who fires the fatal shot is a war veteran to whom the taking of human life is no novelty. He is not eager for the job, but his wife is in a Pittsburgh hospital and he is broke. He does the murder for $140, musses up the house so it will look like a burglar's work, and makes his escape.

A few seconds later the dead man, Bill Trent is his name, awakes. There before him on the living room floor lies his cold carcass, but he is particularly alive and clear minded. The door opens noiselessly and in walks a war buddy. He, too, is dead and hovering about taking orders from a celestial first lieutenant while trying to fit himself for heaven proper by doing good deeds as a wayfarer.

At his own funeral Trent stands around trying to comfort his family. Then he has more serious work to do. The police smell out a crime. Mrs. Trent probably had Bill shot, they reason, or shot him herself so she could get the insurance and marry his best friend.

Desperately Bill tries to get through to his wife to help her in her siege with the district attorney. But he cannot make her understand. The wife unquestion-

Catterina of "Thirty Day Princess" Modeled After Famed Dowager; Portraying Royalty in Business, Movie Satirizes Public, Dignitaries.

By MAE TINEE.

GOOD Morning!

The visit of Marie, queen of Rumania, to America set wheels whirring in many a writer's head. "Thirty Day Princess," from a story by Clarence Buddington Kelland, was undoubtedly suggested by this royal foreigner's descent on our fair nation.

In case you run out on me before reading the entire review, let me say at the start that "Thirty Day Princess" is G-O-O-D! It's fun. It's clever. It's suspenseful and it presents a running fire of bright dialog that keeps the corners of your mouth turned up in the way so strongly recommended by Antoinette Donnelly.

There's not a dud in the cast and if you don't like Sylvia Sidney in the title rôle—a dual one—better than you've ever liked her before, why I'll eat the w. k. hat. She does one beautiful job of acting!

Action starts in the famous mud baths of Taronia—a mythical kingdom. Occupying adjoining mudderies are King Anatol of Taronia and the great American banker and windbag, Richard Grosham.

"The Most Precious Thing in Life." Jean Arthur, now playing in "Whirlpool," and undoubtedy is that to somebody, but as used here the phrase refers to a coming picture featuring her.

Action All Starts in a Mud Bath.

The two men strike up a friendship and when, later in their acquaintance, King Anatol remarks wistfully that he yearns for money enough to provide sanitary living accommodations for the poor of the realm, Grosham answers, "Why not?" and proposes that a bond issue for $50,000,000 be floated. . . .

To do this, he says, it will be necessary for Anatol to tour the United States and convince the inhabitants thereof that neither he nor his project are phony. Anatol demurs. Awfully sorry, but he can't get away.

Enter Anatol's daughter, Princess Catterina, riding on a bicycle and looking cute as can be. Grosham pricks up the ears! Why couldn't Catterina go?

Landed in America, Catterina Gets Mumps.

Catterina sails for America. And no sooner are news reel men and assorted reporters and photographers through with her than she gets the mumps! . . .

Alack and alackaday! What to do! Well, Grosham is a man of ideas. One of these is that everybody in the world has a double. . . .

New York is combed for the speaking likeness of Princess Catterina, and Nancy Lane, actress-out-of-a-job, emerges from oblivion. . . .

While essentially a comedy drama with a pretty, romantic twist, "Thirty Day Princess" is at the same time a deftly turned satire. Its kidding is gentle but shrewd, and neither press, public, nor high mucky mucks escape the tickling prickle of its merry lance.

Cary Grant, smartly and itfully, plays a handsome young newspaper publisher who sets out to bait the bond-desiring princess and ends by becoming just a fishie on the hook of Nancy Lane.

Henry Stephenson is splendid as genial King Anatol. Edward Arnold is smooth, powerful, and in the end gullible, as Banker Grosham. Vince Barnett as the wormy little Count Nicholaus whom Catterina is supposed to marry for reasons of state, is funny, and Robert McWade is delightful as Madison's crusty managing editor.

Superb direction, the classiest of staging, etc., are added boons.

I really believe you'll have such a good time watching "Thirty Day Princess" that you'll be sorry when the picture's over.

It is rumored that the JOAN CRAWFORD-FRANCHOT TONE romance has ended, and that FRANCIS LEDERER is the new Head Man.

Extra from Hollywood: "Newly perfected microphone permits for the first time the ACCURATE RECORDING of OSCULATORY SOUNDS, but the solving of one studio problem brings a fresh difficulty in its train, for the supersensitive device also picks up the sound of CRACKING NECKS and CREAKING RIBS in amatory embraces." . . . Because she is the owner of a set of trained plates that she can do funny tricks with upon demand, MAUDE EBURNE, well known character actress of stage and screen, has been cast for the rôle of FRANK McHUGH'S mother in the new Warner Brothers picture, "Hey, Sailor," starring JAMES CAGNEY and PAT O'BRIEN.

DOROTHY SEBASTIAN, who has returned to the screen to appear in Educational's comedies, raises chickens, ducks, and turkeys and owns a large orange grove. . . . DIANA WYNYARD, co-starring with CLIVE BROOK in the current RKO Radio picture, "Sour Grapes," always takes off her shoes and stockings and puts her feet up—a something when she rests in her stage dressing room. . . . LILIAN HARVEY is sure white is her lucky color. Most of her clothes, her automobile, and decorations in her home are white. . . JAMES DUNN will throw the nearest object at the person who whistles in his dressing room. Once he was in a taxicab smash immediately after some one whistled in his dressing room. Another time he fell and broke his ankle. . . . LEW AYRES considers Tuesday his unlucky day. He'll never start a picture on that day. . WARNER BAXTER is sure things won't go right for him during the day if everything isn't exactly in its proper place on his dressing table when he leaves for the studio.

Sick list: RALPH MORGAN is recovering from an operation on his jaw. He had a tumor on a tooth removed and this necessitated several stitches in the jaw. MERRY FAHRNEY, who had just recovered from a heart attack, is confined to her bed again, this time with a severe cold.

See you tomorrow.

A Husband Unselfishly Has Himself Murdered, Then Comes Back to Life.

ably would have gone to trial if the tramp had not read in the paper of her predicament and hurried back to confess the murder. His own wife had died in childbirth, and he had nothing more to live for.

Audiences, as said, are divided. I have little hope for "I, Myself," however, not because of its subject, but rather because it is a play in which the mechanics are boldly exposed. It is all palpably framed and set. Audience interest is not inspired by belief in the story, but only in such individual imaginings as may be stirred up. And there are not many imaginative people who like to think of death, favorably or unfavorably. Heaven has been painted in glowing colors, but you couldn't pick up a busload of eager investigators in all the world.

Charles Trowbridge plays earnestly as the disembodied Bill and Harry M. Cooke is particularly good as the tramp. Regina Wallace is the wife and Eleanor King the daughter.

"Milky Way" Gives Men at Least Good Laugh.

We had one good laugh this week. A farce called "The Milky Way" came rolling into town on a milk wagon, and practically everybody liked it. Well, anyway, the men liked it. I'm not so sure about the women. "The Milky Way" is a story of an amiable sap who drives a milk wagon but is forced by circumstances over which he has no control in the play to become a prize fighter. Quite as implausible as most farces and just as silly as most, but funnier than a lot of them.

Burleigh Sullivan [that would be Hugh O'Connell, whom you should remember as the weak minded vaudevillian who cracked Indian nuts in "Once in a Lifetime," thus producing a sound effect that practically revolutionized the movies] is a good natured milkman who has a sister named Mae. Mae sells cigarets in a night club, and one night Speed McFarland [Brian Donlevy], middleweight champion, a little tight, wanted to take her home. [You may also recall that something like that once happened to Mickey Walker, then champion, in New Jersey.]

Burleigh, trying to protect Mae, got mixed up in a brawl with McFarland. Everybody was hitting at everybody else, but Burleigh, who had once been an artful dodger with his head pushed through a canvas for hicks to throw baseballs at, ducked all the blows. The prizefighter was knocked cold by his own trainer and didn't know it. He thought it was Burleigh.

Burleigh Butts Way to Fame in the Ring.

The story spread to the papers. Burleigh becomes a new sensation. An amateur who knocked out a champion with a single punch!

Before he knows what is happening, McFarland's manager has grabbed him away from the dairy, taught him to box a little and dodge a lot and put him through a series of fixed fights. Burleigh wins all these and is matched with McFarland for the championship. This is to be the grand finish with all the money bet on the champion.

But again Burleigh wins, tries to duck one of the champion's knockout blows and comes right up under his chin. Butts him into insensibility and is declared the winnah. Then the trick, or John Golden finish—sister Mae had bet all the Sullivan savings on brother by mistake. With their winnings Burleigh quits fighting and buys the dairy.

O'Connell, the best of the inspired nitwits, is a lot of fun as Sullivan. Leo Donnelly blusters amusingly as the manager, and Donlevy is always good in athletic drama. Gladys George, a new tough gal who is doing well, and Emily Lowry, who plays Mae, are the feminine interests.

Imported English Drama Proves Sad Mistake.

Even favorite actors can make mistakes. A. E. Matthews, who has as many friends in the theater as any player I know, undertook last week to cast and stage a comedy called "These Two." It had been a one night success in London at one of those Sunday night art theater showings, and Matthews evidently thought it might go over here.

He selected Bramwell Fletcher, a talented young Englishman who played successfully in "Ten Minute Alibi," and Helen Chandler, who is again back from the movies and going through a particularly attractive period of her development, to play with him.

The play is a fairly muddled account of a diffident young bachelor who falls quite desperately in love with a young girl and is ditched for another fellow. The other fellow proves a rotter, and soon the girl is in with the report that she is to have a child.

They Can't Manage to Be in Love at Same Time.

The good young bachelor loves her so much that he is eager to marry and protect her and ask nothing in return. The girl agrees, and for a year they live together as man and wife in the record only. Then the girl discovers that she, too, is in love, and one of their beds is sent to the thrift shop.

That, you might think, is the whole play. But there is still another act.

Another few months and the boy who was so deeply in love finds he no longer likes the girl, while she, perverse creature, is more in love with him than ever. So what? Well, the boy goes running after other women and the girl is contemplating suicide at the curtain.

Muddled is the word for it. Muddled and dull. And despite Matthews' staging, a thoroughly unfinished job. Several times the audience was of a mind to jeer. Only the quality of the cast saved the play. Lionel Hale, a London newspaper man, wrote it, and I have a suspicion there is more to it than came out in this performance.

"Bitter Sweet" Most Popular of Current Revivals.

The revivals have been piling up. They often do in the spring. The young man Chartock, who was a born assistant, started it by organizing a Gilbert and Sullivan season. Then Charles Purcell and Donald Brian got together and revived "The Chocolate Soldier," agreeing to alternate in the name part with Bernice Claire of the movies, and a good prima donna, playing and singing opposite them.

Last week the Shuberts brought in a revival of Noel Coward's "Bitter Sweet," with Evelyn Herbert singing the Evelyn Laye rôle and Allen Jones, who was in Chicago and Boston with Mme. Jeritza and "Annina," as the tenor.

All these revivals happened to be housed in Forty-fifth street, and rivalry for the transient trade was at least keen. "Bitter Sweet," report has it, got a little the best of the break. At least Brian and Purcell have decided to take the "Chocolate Soldier" touring in place of going through with a series of other operettas, which was their original intention. They already had scheduled "The Desert Song" for next week.

New in Chicago

"I LOVED YOU WEDNESDAY," a comedy by Molly Ricardel and William Du Bois, will begin an engagement in the Studebaker theater tonight with Edna Hibbard in the leading rôle. This play was staged in New York last season by Crosby Gaige. In addition to Miss Hibbard the cast includes: Jack Marvin, Frances Woodbury, Philip Dakin, Arie Lorenz, Victor Sutherland, Forbes Dawson, Frank Wollencott, Margaret Saye, Paul Fay, Oscar O'Shea, Ward Bishop Miles Putnam, Emmett Moore, Marie Kinser, Sidney Slon, M. J. Romano, Geraldine Spear, Viola Sills, Raleigh Karl, Jay Collins, Horace Randall, Celia Law, and Sadie Walsh.

◆

"The Organ Grinder," a Yiddish musical comedy with Julius Nathanson as its star, will begin an engagement of one week in the Blackstone theater tomorrow night. Nathanson, now popular on the Yiddish stage in New York, is of Chicago origin. Luba Kadison and Michael Rosenberg will have prominent rôles in the cast.

◆

"The Drunkard," a melodrama of temperance which dates back to 1840 and which was first used by P. T. Barnum, the circus impresario, as a side show, is now on view in two places in Chicago. Charles O'Neal, who claims to be the pioneer in the current vogue of "Drunkard" revivals, started an engagement in a hall at 820 North Clark street last night. His company is composed of professionals. Free beer and pretzels are available to the patrons. . . . Tomorrow night another staging of "The Drunkard" will be launched in the Opera club, 18 West Walton place, also with free beer as an inducement.

LOVERS IN "KING'S HORSES"

Guy Robertson, the leading tenor of many long-run operettas and a favorite hero of matinee audiences, has returned to the Chicago stage with Nancy McCord as his opposite in "All the King's Horses," the musical play now at the Grand Opera house. Robertson's recent appearances here were in "Nina Rosa," "Marching On," and "The Blue Mask." Miss McCord, a product of the extinct American Opera company, was prominent in "Three Little Girls" in 1931.

Shakespeare as Side Show for New Exposition

Old English Village to Give Classic Dramas in Elizabethan Style.

By Charles Collins.

THE first season of A Century of Progress was, among other things, a carnival of cabaret shows, but it was singularly lacking in the higher forms of the theatrical arts. The notable pageant dealing with the evolution of transportation, called "Wings of a Century," was an outstanding attraction, but there attention to the drama halted. Children's plays by amateurs on the Enchanted Island, an exhibition of Chinese juggling and acrobatics, and a scattering of feeble marionette performances were the Exposition's only other formal stage amusements.

The second version of the Fair, however, will boast of the only Shakespearean theater west of Stratford-on-Avon. This will be the Globe in the Old English village, a structure designed after the theaters of Shakespeare's time and offering condensed versions of Elizabethan dramas in the style of their historical period. This experiment in highbrow entertainment sounds like a decidedly jolly idea to me, and in spite of its background of scholarship and archeology I believe that it will have a popular appeal. Old England's visitors are likely to develop a curiosity about the stage of Shakespeare's time to an extent that will surprise the pessimists who go about saying that the Swan of Avon is dead and forgotten.

Reproduction of Shakespeare's Playhouse.

This playhouse will visualize all the available data on the architecture of the theaters of London in 1600. The specifications for the Fortune theater, erected in that year, are extant in part, and it is a matter of record that they were based upon the plans for the Globe, where many of Shakespeare's plays were first acted and which had been destroyed by fire in the preceding year.

Moreover, to guide the modern architects, a perspective drawing of the interior of the Swan theater, a rival of the Globe, dated about 1600, has survived the wear and tear of the centuries. Therefore this World's Fair reconstruction will be a close approximation of the real thing—the environment in which Shakespeare and his fellows made their magnificent contribution to the world's culture.

The popular idea that the Elizabethan stage was barren of ornament and scenery is erroneous. The stage settings were primitive, it is true, but were something more than placards reading "This is a castle—this a blasted heath." The costumes were decidedly rich and colorful, although often historically inaccurate.

Scenery and Costumes of 1600.

Henslowe, the manager who built the Fortune theater and who had formerly conducted the Rose [1587], was a meticulous old gaffer who kept a diary which has luckily been preserved. In it he occasionally mentions sums of money paid for costumes, and they are almost Ziegfeldian when the value of the Elizabethan pound sterling is taken into account. Ten pounds for a suit and gown, nineteen pounds for a "rich cloke"—these items are among Master Henslowe's notations.

In fact, I doubt if the Globe theater at the Fair can afford to dress its characters as sumptuously as the Globe theater of 1600. An actor playing a nobleman then had to dress like one, and the Tudor bluebloods were tremendous swells. Theatrical wardrobes were often the actual clothing of persons of title, bought at second hand from their servants after their death.

A SIGHT FOR WEARY EYES

A sight to rest the eyes is "Pat" Paterson—to appear soon in a film labeled "Call It Luck." She's wearing an ensemble of white linen with double breasted bolero belted and buckled in back. Collar and cuffs are of embroidered navy blue linen with vest of plaited organdy beneath. Gloves are cuffed to match collar and the linen hat is banded in blue.

Auditorium Theater Is Super Cabaret

Battle Spectacle at the Cascades; Samovar Gets New Management.

THE transformation of the Auditorium theater into "The Cascades," a supercabaret with an elaborate stage entertainment, took place last Friday night. The idea of this venture, in brief, is dinner at a fixed price [$2], public dancing, and a copious program of stage amusement—all in an opera house environment. People who wish to see the show but omit the table service may find seats in the balcony at motion picture prices.

The program of entertainment has a ballet-pantomime called "The Sidewalks of New York" as its chief feature. This diversion is staged in five scenes—Fulton Market, Brooklyn Bridge, the Bowery, Chinatown, and Election Night. The story of the ballet is based on the careers of Al Smith, Steve Brodie, Chuck Connors, and other characters of the Manhattan legend.

The Duncan sisters, Rosetta and Vivian, lead a program of vaudeville with a travesty on "Rigoletto." A burlesque on "The Afternoon of a Faun," famous item in the repertory of the Russian ballet, closes the bill.

A. N. Rebori is the director in chief of "The Cascades." Col. W. W. Yaschenko, formerly of the Opera club and the Petrouchka café, is the manager. Edgar Miller, mural painter, is the scene designer.

"The Cascades" opens at 6:30 p. m. and starts its first show at 8 p. m. A second stage performance begins at 11 p. m.

The Samovar café at 624 South Michigan avenue has been reopened under new management. An air conditioning plant has been instaled. The floor show is headed by Grace and Charlie Herbert, recently at the Opera club. The Roddy Twins, dancers, and Yvonne Bouvier, French songstress, are also on the program. Don Fernando and his orchestra supply the dance tunes.

- Riverview park will throw its gates open on Wednesday, May 23, for its twenty-ninth season. Russell Glave's orchestra will play in the open air ballroom.

- The M. and C. Italian restaurant at Erie and St. Claire streets has started a practice of giving away a bottle of champagne every evening to the patron who draws the lucky number. Place cards for the diners are shuffled together in a hat and the drawing becomes a gay little sporting event.

- Eddie Court, recently stage director at the Club Royale, has been engaged to produce the cabaret shows at the Old Mexico café on the new Midway of A Century of Progress. Szita and Anis, dance team of last summer's Old Mexico, and Rosita Carmen, fan dancer, have already been placed under contract for this show.

- The ballet girls at Chez Paree claim that their group is more deserving of a record for unbroken series of night club performances than the Merriel Abbott dancers at the Palmer house, who claim 1,095 consecutive shows. They figure that from Nov. 29, 1932, to May 12, 1934, they have given 2,090 performances.

- Charlie Agnew and his singing orchestra will return to the Boulevard room of the Stevens hotel next Saturday night for the World's Fair season. Agnew features ensemble singing in his orchestra. His soloists are Emrie Ann Lincoln, Dusty Roads, and Frank Casey.

Anson Weeks and his Californians band began an engagement in the Aragon ballroom last night. Featured members of the organization are Bob Crosby, baritone; Frank Saputo, accordionist; Kay St. Germaine, prima donna; Fred Williams, and the Weeks trio. This is Weeks' first Chicago engagement.

Religious Drama

"JUDAS ISCARIOT," a drama by the late Temple Thurston, will be staged for the first time in America in the Goodman theater during the week of June 4. The production will mark the first independent theatrical venture in Chicago by Ben Guy Phillips. It is sponsored by the Chicago Church federation and is planned as a religious theatrical contribution to A Century of Progress.

The play, in seven scenes, depicts the psychological conflict of Judas, his love for a Gentile girl, Hulda, and the forces that brought about his betrayal of Christ.

Temple Thurston is known more as a novelist than as a playwright. He wrote continually from 1895 until shortly before his death in 1931. Some of his better known works include "John Chilcote, M. P.," "The Apple of Eden," "Sally Bishop," "The City of Beautiful Nonsense," "The Wandering Jew," and "Mr. Bottelby Does Something." He spent fourteen years in the preparation of "Judas Iscariot."

A cast of 250 has been assembled for the production of "Judas Iscariot." The settings for the seven scenes will be designed by Louis Putnam.

Following the production of "Judas Iscariot," Ben Guy Phillips plans to bring to Chicago the Negro folk play, "Run, Little Chillun." This production, like that of "Judas Iscariot," will have a large cast, and, in addition, a Negro chorus of sixty-five voices.

"Mary of Scotland"

INSTEAD of closing on June 2, as announced, the Theater Guild's production of "Mary of Scotland" will continue in New York indefinitly with two new principals. On June 4 Margalo Gillmore will replace Helen Hayes and Stanley Ridges will take over the part of Lord Bothwell, played by Philip Merivale. Helen Hayes is forced to leave the company because of Hollywood contracts and Mr. Merivale will sail for England for a vacation. Both will return in September for a tour in "Mary of Scotland."

CABARET CO-ED

Chicago Librettist

FREDERICK HERENDEEN, who wrote the book and lyrics of "All the King's Horses," the musical comedy now in the Grand Opera house, is a native of Chicago. He began writing for the theater while he was still in his 'teens, and by the time he was 20, and a student at the University of Chicago, he was receiving royalty checks of considerable sums.

His first play, "The Elopers," was produced when he was 20 and ran for eight months in Chicago. He received royalty checks each week ranging from $400 to $600.

Believing that a playwright should know whereof he writes, Herendeen spent five years on the stage as an actor. He is at present working on the libretto of a new musical show which will be staged by Harry L. Cort and Charles Abramson.

Blanche Sweet at State-Lake; Variety Bills

BLANCHE SWEET, famous actress of the silent period of cinema entertainment, is prominent on the new vaudeville bill at the State-Lake theater which begins today. She appears in a number called "A Rhapsody of Songs." Pat Kennedy, well known radio tenor, is also featured on the bill.

Other acts on this bill are: Serge Flash, juggler; Barney Grant, rural comedian; Joe Phillips, Ilene Cook, and Marion Kingston in "Under the Bridge"; Howard Sadelle and Bernice in a dancing skit; the State-Lake ballet, and Verne Buck's band.

A revue called "Hot and Bothered," with a company of fifty performers, represents the stage entertainment at the Palace theater this week. It consists of the Disappearing Water Ballet of 18 girls; Lottie Mayer and Lottie Mayer Jr.; Howard, Fine, and Howard, a trio of Ted Healey's "stooges"; Armida, Mexican dancer; Mary May and Jean Carroll in a song and dance skit, and David and Hilday Murray, dancers.

The Chicago theater offers a spectacle of musical and dancing numbers called "Lilac Time" as the chief item of its current stage program. Among its players are Ilomay Bailey and Lee Sims, singer and pianist; Al Gordon and Boys, collegiate comedians; Hal Mencken, dancer, and Park and Clifford, European novelty entertainers.

The current bill of vaudeville at the Oriental theater includes the Radio Rogues, a trio of singers and impersonators; Rome and Gaut; Melson and Irmanette; Dale Rhodes; Freddie Craig Jr.; Gini De Quincey and Lewis; Ted Cook and his Melody Masters; Lewis and Van, and the Alton dancing girls.

Young Artist Studies to Be Film Director

Gordon Wiles of Jerseyville, Ill., One of Movies' Bright Young Men.

By George Shaffer.

HOLLYWOOD, Cal.—[Special.]—There's something about the movies which makes a person who is successful in one line wish to dabble in another, and Gordon Wiles, Jerseyville, Ill., young man, is no exception.

Wiles started with ambitions to become a naval officer, which led him to the football team at United States Naval academy.

He jumped to a study of art in Paris and then a tour of the orient with Somerset Maugham. He returned to the United States as personnel manager for a steel plant. From the contracting business in California, young Wiles drifted into the movies.

Learning Mechanics of Plot Development.

In several years he was art director for the Fox studio. Recently Wiles threw up this job, which rates as an important one in Hollywood, because he wanted to become a movie director, and with it he discarded an art director's heavy salary. At present Wiles is assistant to the story editor at Fox "movietone city" studio, and is regarded as one of the promising young executives of the film business.

Paints Portrait of Famous English Film Beauty.

At the height of his career as art director he won the Motion Picture academy gold award for the most artistic film of the year with his work on "Transatlantic" in 1932. When he decided his life ambition would be satisfied if he could become a film director, W. R. Sheehan, boss of the Fox plant, put him in the story department as the best place to learn story selection, development of characters, working out of plots, and other details that go into preparation of scripts for ultimate transference to the screen.

Wiles started his school career in Jerseyville, Ill., public schools and Culver Military academy. He won an appointment to Annapolis, intending to follow naval architecture, and played for Navy against University of Washington in the Pasadena rose bowl 10 years ago, suffering several broken ribs in the game.

He knocked about Europe after that, sketching and acquiring art technique, attending Paris art schools, and ending with a world trip on which he met Maugham. He recently painted a portrait of Madeleine Carroll, English film beauty, which ornaments the Café de Paris building, of which his film studio is proud.

"I'll either be a big success or a terrific flop in the film business," the Jerseyville young man says.

Critics Agree on Hepburn

HOLLYWOOD—Many critics, professional and otherwise, said any actress might have played the rôle in "A Bill of Divorcement" which introduced Katharine Hepburn.

They said this before they saw her repeat in "Christopher Strong" and in "Morning Glory," and again in "Little Women." Most of them will admit gladly now that she is an actress, a new and interesting personality—on the screen. And Hollywood thinks so, too, for it voted her work in "Morning Glory"—a story which closely paralleled her own career—the "best."

Her work was ranked by her fellow workers with that of an equally young but more experienced actress from England, Diana Wynyard, and also with that veteran of the stage, 70 year old May Robson.

After seeing her first picture, Miss Hepburn was displeased with her performance; at least that's what she said. She then left here, went off on a vacation to Europe, expecting, she said, never to return. Her answer to an RKO executive's cable, pleading with her to return to Hollywood and a new contract immediately, is a classic.

"Okay, Baby," she replied.

And then Katharine came back and resumed her antics and grotesqueries. She told a friend who chided her for "carrying on":

"It's hard for an American actress to create any glamor about herself without taking her hair down in public. You either have to make up outlandish lies or keep utterly silent and build an air of mystery which may serve to intrigue the public."

Katharine did both.

Those who have worked with Hepburn are enthusiastic when you ask about her.

Jean Parker, who was in "Little Women," says Katharine is the sympathetic, understanding kind, "the sort of girl I'd like to have for a pal." Paul Lukas, who was the German professor in the same picture, believes Katharine "one of the hardest working and most reliable girls I have ever known." But he doesn't like her practical jokes, such as the electrically wired chair on the set.

PROMISING DIRECTOR

After winning the Motion Picture academy gold award for the most artistic film of the year with "Transatlantic," Gordon Wiles of Jerseyville, Ill., decided his life work was movie directing. So he has given up his lucrative job as art director for the Fox studios to become assistant to the story editor at Fox and "learn the business from the bottom up." Besides being an artist, Wiles is a football player.

THE VOICE OF THE MOVIE FAN

Letters published in this department should be written on one side of the paper. If you wish a personal reply, please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Fan Finds Several Discrepancies in Films.

Dear Mae Tinée: Every once in a while one reads of the meticulous care in regard to details in the production of moving pictures. Yet, in the last few weeks, I have noticed so many discrepancies in the few movies which I have seen that I conclude that producers are either unaware or careless about some of these slips.

For instances, in "Queen Christina," in the last scene after Christina has abdicated and goes to meet her lover at the boat, she leaves the palace in a blinding snowstorm, riding on horseback. The next morning she arrives at the port where the boat is about to sail in glorious midsummer. I don't believe that seventeenth century horses could do any such jaunt as that, nor is the distance from the capital of Sweden to the nearest port so great that there would be such a change in climate.

Then, in "Spitfire," Trigger leaves the cabin of the engineer at breakfast time in full daylight, but arrives at her own shack shortly afterward in such darkness that she has to light the lamp.

And how did she come by the nightgown she wears in the engineer's cabin, when she hadn't planned to stay there?

And where are the snow-capped mountains in Kentucky or Tennessee?

Not to mention the lapses from mountain dialect to excellent diction, and the gingham dress made with great care in the prevailing mode.

Then, also, in "Little Women," Paul Lukas sings Tchaikowsky's "Nur wer die Sehnsucht Kennt" in the late sixties, I'm sure the song wasn't written then, much less sung in the United States.

None of these lapses were necessary and are only ridiculous to audiences of some discrimination.

Sincerely yours, M. E. B.

Editor's note — "Little drops of water, little grains of sand . . . ," etc.

Appreciates Clean Caliber of Picture.

Dear Miss Tinée: After seeing a picture of the type of "Twenty Million Sweethearts" it would be interesting to hear the defense of the producers of the picture containing the suggestive, indecent lines that some of them have been known to put forth.

It certainly is refreshing to attend a performance of a picture of this high caliber, and it certainly had anything that could be wished for: acting, humor, drama, and all round good performances by all players.

Too bad that there aren't more pictures of this kind and less of the "hotcha" type.

As usual, your review of this picture, Miss Tinée, was 100 per cent correct. Sincerely yours,

Rex Clark.

Editors Note—Glad you agreed with me.

STAR AND GARTER LADY

Patrons of the burlesque shows at the Star and Garter theater on the west side regard Mary Sunde as the last word in feminine pulchritude. She has become the Sally Rand of West Madison street. This picture shows Miss Sunde elaborately costumed as a queen of burlesque entertainment. [Theatrical Studio Photo.]

"Ice Cream and Gravy" Keep Shirley Working

Hollywood's 5 Year Old Star Receives Sundae When She Works Well.

By Rosalind Shaffer.

HOLLYWOOD, Cal.—[Special.]—The way the studios keep precocious 5 year old Shirley Temple in amiable, hard working mood is by feeding her "ice cream with gravy on it"—in other words, chocolate sundaes. Her mother, Mrs. Gertrude Temple, will let Shirley eat a sundae when she has been a particularly good girl and gotten the commendation of her director.

● They say the final squabble that busted up the Harlow-Rosson marriage was that Hal Rosson, who is Miss Harlow's cameraman, wanted less art and more adornment in a couple of shots on Jean's current film, "One Hundred Per Cent Pure," and, like most husbands, got howled down.

AND—it seems he never liked living in Jean's house, which is a big, expensive place that she built for herself, but wanted her to live in a home that he would provide on his income. This had been a bone of contention from the beginning, which was at first settled by their living in a suite at the Beverly Wilshire hotel. After her illness Jean went home to recuperate, and after that it was this and that, with dissatisfaction growing.

● Claudette Colbert and Norman Foster have been busy denying those separation rumors again. Meanwhile Claudette lives with mama and plans to leave for New York on a vacation trip with her, not Norman, following her completion of "Cleopatra." Foster is on his way to Tahiti.

● You'd think that all these things would teach some kind of lesson to folks, with June coming on so soon. They don't. Carmelita Geraghty bravely donned the bridal veil this week and married Carey Wilson. It was at her party that the news broke about the Harlow divorce and Joan Blondell's expected baby.

● Thelma Todd was offered $50,000 for five years out of her life by some adoring fan. Bargain hunter!

● Hollywood is simply sizzling with all sorts of romantic, scandalous, and exciting news these days. One matter that has everybody simply atwitter is the case of the two movie stars, both married to other persons, who are in love with each other.

So far the feminine part of the duo seems to have done most of the proverbial "paying." She has lost one good job and things are pretty much on the seesaw for her on another one, as the gossip has made her a poor bet for a new film.

To top it all, her husband, so gossip says, is threatening to sue for nonsupport and also to sue any man who marries her for alienation of affections! Meanwhile the man in the case is comfortably taking one good rôle after another. Nobody seems to blame him at all!

● Then there is another famous movie queen: She's just separated from her husband, and her ex-sweetie is dumb enough to say they're going to be married when she only married the husband so as to be rid of an alienation suit threatened by the ex-sweetie's then wife! Yes, it's quite complicated.

● Hollywood is going legitimate theater in a big way. There are art theaters and little theaters and just plain theaters with guys like Will Rogers in the cast all over town and adjacent suburbs. "The Drunkard" has been running to packed houses for ten months. Beer, sandwiches, and pretzels are served in a red tablecloth, sawdust on the floor atmosphere between the acts, with impromptu entertaining by film folks from the audience.

Leslie Fenton is doing a stage version of the life of Byron, the poet, entitled "Bitter Harvest" and staged by the well known Dickson Morgan out at the Beverly Hills High school auditorium. It is attracting a good deal of attention.

Pasadena Community playhouse, which is a training ground for young talent for pictures and an experimental theater for older talent, is presenting Douglass Montgomery shortly in "Playboy of the Western World," with a curtain raiser of Gloria Stuart in the balcony scene of "Romeo and Juliet." Helen Morgan is at the downtown Biltmore in "Memories." Will Rogers opens in "Ah, Wilderness" at the El Capitan on the boulevard with Henry Kolker and Charlotte Henry of "Alice" fame. There are many less pretentious art theater ventures around town, including Lela Rogers Hollytown theater [Lela is the mother of Ginger Rogers] and the foreign talent at the Tingel Tangel theater which is backed by Francis Lederer with his fiancée, Steffi Duna, in the cast.

● Earl Carroll, impressed by the talent in Hollywood, is planning to take movie personalities and furnish them with plays and present them a week locally, a week in San Francisco and a week in Detroit, Chicago, Pittsburgh, and finally New York. He has already approached Mae West on the idea. This allows a picture star to use his or her twelve week yearly vacation to make stage appearances which so many of them yearn to do.

Carroll's plan has this advantage, that the actors and actresses would be presented in a way more interesting to the public than in the general run of personal appearances. Also this business of movie stars doing floppos in New York is a menace some studios feel, as in the case of Hepburn, in which a fine box office star of pictures was damaged in prestige by appearing in an unsuccessful play. Carroll figures he can iron out any difficulties long before the play hits the big town.

● Joan Crawford sent her phonograph and all her records, along with her operator, to Constance Bennett's set, where she is making "The Green Hat." Joan enjoys the machine and its records—some classical and some indeed not—between shots on her set, and now that "Sadie McKee" is finished she's being generous with the amusement.

● Clark Gable has been alternating between swordfishing at Catalina and trout fishing at Pyramid lake, Nev., where he says trout are caught weighing twenty pounds.

● Jack Oakie calls his mother "the district attorney."

● Fresh flowers in the hair are rapidly replacing the artificial ones for evening wear in Hollywood.

● Jimmy Durante proved he could take it when he got off the train this week and was presented by Betty Furness with a freak orange that had a schnozzle bigger than his.

● When Dolores Del Rio did a broadcast on the radio this week her main trouble was with her Spanish. Seems silly, but it's true. All of her voice placement and expression work has been in English, and evidently it can't be transferred to another language readily, even when it's her native tongue. Part of the broadcast was in English and part in Spanish, and the difference was markedly in favor of her English.

Twenty Years of Drama at Carnegie Tech

TWENTY-THREE revivals of Shakespeare's plays, a record that is equaled in the English-speaking world only by the Memorial theater at Stratford and the "Old Vic" in London, is the achievement attained by the theater of the Carnegie Institute of Technology in Pittsburgh, Pa., which celebrated its twentieth anniversary on Shakespeare's birthday, April 23. The celebration included the production of the two parts of "Henry IV." under the direction of B. Iden Payne.

The anniversary program contained a list of the 387 plays which have been produced by the Carnegie drama school since it made its first presentation on Shakespeare's birthday, April 23, 1914, when the play was "The Two Gentlemen of Verona," directed by the late Donald Robertson of Chicago. Other Elizabethan plays produced in the theater include Ben Jonson's "The Poetaster," staged under the direction of William Poel, the English authority on the staging of such plays, who gave to the school a valuable part of his famous collection of costumes. The plays of this impressive list range, through all times and countries, from Greek tragedy to Noel Coward comedy.

Music to Play Important Role in World's Fair

Civic, Scholastic, Industrial Orchestras to Present All Types of Harmony.

By Edward Moore.

THOUGH what is going to happen in music at A Century of Progress this summer has been announced more or less item by item as the various attractions were confirmed, one may lose sight of the fact that they add up to an amazing total. It would seem as though the exhibitors wanted plenty of music this year and went out and got it as never before.

First in interest is the fact that two great symphony orchestras are to be playing simultaneously during the most important period of the Exposition. The Chicago Symphony orchestra is due for ten weeks in the big auditorium of the Swift & Co. exhibit at the Twenty-third street bridge. The Detroit Symphony orchestra is to be here for twelve weeks in the Ford gardens further south.

Both orchestras will give two concerts a day during their engagements. Apparently the Detroit organization is to begin some two weeks earlier than that of Chicago, but meanwhile the Swift theater will be by no means idle. It is told that from the opening of the Fair, May 26, until July 1, when the Chicago Symphony takes it over, the band shell of the Swift auditorium will be occupied by an orchestra of thirty-six pieces and a vocal group of seven under the direction of Palmer Clark. Here twice a day there will be concerts of arrangements of the lighter classics, musical comedies, and jazz symphony.

Dunham to Be Organ Soloist with Chicago Symphony.

With the Chicago Symphony there will be the augmentation of a large organ to be played by Arthur Dunham, musical director of the First Methodist church of Chicago and well known as concert organist, composer, and conductor. It is planned that the organ will be heard not only with the orchestra but as a solo instrument in the intervals between concerts.

Frederick Stock is to conduct, at least during the first part of the season. When he leave for his annual rest in Europe, the baton will be taken up by Eric DeLamarter, associate conductor of the orchestra, and by various guest conductors not yet named. Victor Kolar, associate conductor of the Detroit Symphony orchestra, is named as director throughout that organization's series.

While there would seem to be no official Exposition band, there will be many concerts of bands and other musical groups, mostly in the newly erected setting in the court of the Hall of States. Through the coöperation of the Chicago board of education various school organizations will give concerts there during the summer. So far it is said that there will be forty bands, twenty-five orchestras, and sixty choral groups, with additional groups being scheduled almost daily. Industrial and choral organizations also will contribute concerts, and, presumably, the large number of musical events by different nations of last summer will be repeated.

Massed Chorus to Sing at Opening of Fair.

Details of the musical features on the opening day, next Saturday, have not yet been issued, except that there will be a massed chorus of 1,500 voices under the direction of George L. Tenney, president of the Choral Directors' league. This lyric army will sing such numbers as "The Heavens Are Telling" from Haydn's "The Creation," the Hallelujah Chorus from Handel's "The Messiah," and other compositions made famous by massed choruses.

Thus the Exposition visitor will have his opportunity to wander from symphonic offerings to programs in lighter vein and back again, according to his taste and mood. This is by no means all that is going to happen. James A. Mundy and his Negro choristers, who were immensely popular there last summer, are to be wandering minstrels throughout the area of the Fair this season, with programs stressing spirituals and folk songs of the south. And Coe Glade, the greatly gifted young contralto of the former Civic Opera company and the new Chicago Grand Opera company, has been engaged to give a series of concert appearances in the Canadian club café. And there will be many others.

South Shore Music Festival Held This Week.

This is the week of the South Shore Musical festival, an annual event conceived by the late Peter Christian Lutkin of Northwestern university, and now carried into its third and largest year by the people of Gary, Crown Point, Michigan City, and East Chicago. It will extend from tomorrow night until next Sunday night, when the final event, a combined concert, will be given in the University of Chicago chapel.

Each of the Indiana cities will have its own concert, and each has its own sectional president and music chairman, the group combining into the general festival association. The concert of tomorrow will be given by the Northwestern university a cappella choir and the people of Gary in the Gary City church as a memorial to Dean Lutkin. Michigan City will have its concert Tuesday, and East Chicago Wednesday night. Thursday night will be given over to the Gary Philharmonic association. On Friday night Crown Point will present its program, and on Saturday night there will be another concert in Gary.

Bethuel Gross, organist and choir director at City church, Gary, musical director at Hotel Gary, and music supervisor at Argo-Summit, Ill., is the general director of the Festival association, of which LeRoy Wetzel is president. The committee of musical directors consists of John W. Beattie, Eric DeLamarter, Karleton Hackett, Edgar Nelson, Leo Sowerby, Horace Whitehouse, and Edoardo Sacerdote. The sectional presidents and music chairmen are as follows: For East Chicago, O. P. Manker and Robert J. White; for Gary, William E. Clark and Mrs. Alice McNamara; for Michigan City, Don M. Nixon and Mrs. L. F. Mutch; for Crown Point, John C. Fisher and Mrs. Florence Thomas.

Business Men's Orchestra Has Annual Concert

Conductor Only Professional Musician of Group, but Program Is Ambitious

THE Chicago Business Men's orchestra will give its annual concert at Orchestra hall on Wednesday evening. Founded by the late George Lytton, it has always maintained a completely amateur standing as far as membership is concerned. Its only professional is its conductor, Clarence Evans, the principal viola player of the Chicago Symphony orchestra. Its players are professional and business men whose callings take them outside of music.

Its annual programs are of a kind such as are given by symphony orchestras throughout the world. The symphony on Wednesday night will be Tschaikowsky's fifth, and there will be briefer numbers by Wolf-Ferrari, Weber, Jarnefelt, and Greig. Margery Maxwell, the Chicago soprano, will be the soloist, singing Mariette's Lied from Erich Wolfgang Korngold's opera, "Die Tote Staat."

Ten church choirs of the Lakeview district will meet in a festival next Friday evening in St. Paul's church, Orchard and Kemper streets. The feature of the program will be the singing of the great hymns of the church, which will here be arranged in four groups. E. L. Fitch will read Van Dyke's "The Lost Word," and Charles Espanshade will play the organ.

At a recent meeting of the Choral Directors' guild of Chicago, George A. Carlson, director of the choir of the Ebenezer Lutheran church, was elected president to succeed George L. Tenney of the New First Congregational church. Two hundred and thirty-four choruses are included in the guild. They represent something like 5,000 members. This organization will coöperate with THE TRIBUNE at the Chicagoland Music Festival in Soldiers' field in August by providing a huge chorus as it did last summer.

Evanston will hold a music festival in its high school gymnasium next Friday night under the auspices of the Evanston Township High school Parent-Teacher association and the chamber of commerce of the city. Primarily it will be a benefit for the high school welfare fund which is used to clothe, feed, and buy books for needy students. The program will be presented by the high school chorus of 350 under the baton of the director of music, Sadie Rafferty. Raymund Koch, baritone, and Mae Barron, contralto, will be the soloists.

An interesting announcement from the University of Chicago tells that Henry Purcell's opera, "Dido and Æneas," will be given for the first time in Chicago at Mandel hall Monday night, May 28, by the university chorus and Orchesis, the university dance organization. It was first performed in the year 1689 and then forgotten for over two centuries, but recent revivals in England, New York, Poughkeepsie, and Cleveland have developed the opinion that a masterpiece was lying dormant.

In the coming performance, it is said, a modern setting and creative lighting effects will set off stylized costumes drawn from the seventeenth century period. In the cast will be Maurine Parzybok as Dido, Kenneth Johnson as Æneas, Janet Fairbank, Alice Mary Baenziger, Ruth Emery Riddle, Maurine Barrett, and Laurence Goodnow. There will be a chorus of fifty and an orchestra drawn from the string players of the university symphony orchestra with Robert Wallenborn at the piano. The choreography is planned and directed by Marian Van Tuyl, and Cecil Michenor Smith will conduct the performance.

New Operetta Singer.

BARRE HILL, young baritone of the Chicago Civic Opera company, has signed a contract to appear with the Municipal Opera of St. Louis during its approaching summer season. He sang leading rôles with the Civic Opera here and on tour for several years, including that of Pelleas with Mary Garden in "Pelleas and Melisande." His appearance with the St. Louis company will mark his debut on the operetta stage.

New Firm to Present Seven Plays in Fall

ARCH SELWYN, prominent theatrical producer, and Harold B. Franklin, until recently an executive of Radio City and the RKO theaters, have formed a stage producing company with an ambitious program. Seven plays and musical comedies are on the schedule of the firm, four of which will be done in association with Charles B. Cochran, the London impresario.

Of the four latter plays, two are current London successes. These are "Escape Me Never," by Margaret Kennedy, author of "The Constant Nymph," and "Conversation Piece," with book, lyrics, and music by Noel Coward. Elizabeth Bergner, star of the film, "Catherine, the Great," will make her American début in "Escape Me Never," which will be staged the latter part of October. Yvonne Printemps, French actress, will be starred in "Conversation Piece." This musical play is expected to open in October.

The two other plays in which Mr. Cochran will have a share are "Nymph Errant," a musical comedy by Romney Brent and Cole Porter, and a dramatization of Edward Knoblock and Frederick Lonsdale of "The Naked Lady," based on the life of Adah Isaac Menken, by Bernard Falk. Gertrude Lawrence will be starred in "Nymph Errant." "The Naked Lady" is on the schedule for the Christmas holidays.

The remainder of the Selwyn-Franklin schedule includes "The Old Folks at Home," now in its sixth month at the Queen's theater, London, in which Marie Tempest is the star; the importation of Lucienne Boyer, famous diseuse of the French musical halls, in an intimate musical show, and A. E. Thomas' dramatization of Ward Green's novel, "Cora Potts."

Buster Crabbe Wants to Keep His Shirt On

HOLLYWOOD, Cal.—Pity the distressed athletic champion who aspires to make his mark in films. If there's any spare sympathy around, he needs it.

There is the serio-comic case of Larry Crabbe, nee Buster, former world's champion swimmer who is safely under contract to a studio, but who is experiencing no end of minor mental troubles.

Buster's complaint is that he is being typed as a chesty exhibitionist—just because he can expand four inches and recently was an amateur swimming camp.

He wants to keep his shirt on—and that is no figure of speech, but a literal truth.

His perfect physique started most of his troubles. His 190 pounds of trim muscle had created a new motion picture asset after the release of his first film, "King of the Jungle."

Fan Mail Began to Roll in Soon.

Within a month, Buster received a great quantity of fan mail. Most of it came from very young and very elderly ladies who penned effusively in praise of his physique.

What irks Buster is the possibility that he will be forced to continue as an athletic leading man.

Give him his choice, he says, and he'd pay for the privilege of being a "heavy" just to throw his weight into a leading man rôle.

His campaign to prove he can act bore some fruit. In one picture, he wore a bathing suit. This step up from the chest expanding stage wasn't much, but it was his first break in the direction of what he terms "better things."

The second came more lately when W. C. Fields heard his complaint and influenced Buster's casting in "You're Telling Me." And he wears clothes in that.

But the future holds further chest revealing rôles and that is what spoils his rest at night.

Poor Johnny Is Doomed to Loin Cloth.

Another swimming champion beset with the same troubles is Johnny Weissmuller. Johnny is typed as Tarzan and his full wardrobe when at work is a loin cloth.

Johnny wants to drop his Tarzan character and get into clothes but his bosses believe Johnny means more at the box office in his skimpy costume. So nothing has happened.

JAUNTY AND NOVEL

Muriel Evans, Hollywood featured player, is smilingly confident in this decidedly unusual suit, fashioned of tan wool, in a novelty weave. Three-quarter length sleeves, bell-shaped according to a late idea, lend flourish to the smart jacket.

A PATRON OF OUR MUSIC

The most famous of all living pianists, executant musician, composer, philanthropist, statesman, Paderewski is, through a fund established by him many years ago, making it possible for American composers to compete for a prize of $1,000 for an orchestral composition. The work will be chosen in October and played by the Boston Symphony orchestra.

What is there about this picture that makes you think of spring, wedding bells and Japanese rice fields? Cary Grant and Sylvia Sidney as they appear in "Thirty Day Princess." (Chicago.)

Winning Beauty Prize Doesn't Cinch Career

Victorious Belles Arrive in Hollywood Often, but Few Achieve Fame.

HOLLYWOOD, Cal.—Winning a beauty contest is no sure recipe for getting some place in the movies.

In fact, beauty contest winners are handicapped by being arbitrarily cataloged as too beautiful to be of any use.

A winner is arriving from some place every week. Few of them win cinema fame.

Those who have can be named in short order, with Clara Bow heading the small list, followed by Laura La Plante, Dorothy Dell, Mary Philbin, Gertrude Olmstead and Corliss Palmer.

Two beauty contests were won last year by Gladys Jeans, who today has to be content with being Claudette Colbert's stand-in. After four years of motion picture work Gladys thought her titles would break the barriers which kept her from bigger parts, but she found that they served only as further obstacles.

"Just to mention to a director or casting director that one is a beauty contest winner can do more damage than I thought possible," says Gladys. "The old phrase, 'beautiful but dumb,' seems to have stuck in their minds as a never failing measuring stick for contest winners."

Last year Gladys was elected Miss Personality in a nearby beach city. In the same year she became "Miss Hollywood." Ironically enough, Miss Hollywood found that the town whose name she bore thought less of her for it.

Two years ago she was playing small speaking parts, waiting for some fortunate "bit" to raise her to a higher status. Winning the contests acted as a wet blanket to her career.

"And I was doing pretty well, too," says Gladys, recalling her parts. Her first bit was in "Abraham Lincoln" and next she had a small part in "Kismet." But since she won her two titles she has been only an extra and a stand-in.

Most promising of the newer arrivals is Detroit's Agnes Anderson, who won a beauty contest there. She is under contract to a studio where she has played several small parts, and she was chosen from among dozens of others to play one of the leads in the local stage production of "Men in White."

More sensible than most beauty contest winners is Mabel McCarroll of Spokane, Wash. She looked Hollywood over and talked to many about her possibilities in it. Then she decided not to try to break into the movies because a committee judged her beautiful.

"I'd rather be a somebody in Spokane," she said, "than a nobody in Hollywood." Then she went home.

"Shining Hour" for London.

"The Shining Hour" will end its New York engagement May 26. The entire company, including Gladys Cooper, Adrianne Allen and Raymond Massey, will return to London, where the play will be presented in August.

Italian Actress.

Plays from Abroad

NEW YORK, May 5.—[Special] Lee Shubert, who recently returned from London and Paris, announces that he has acquired seven foreign dramas for American presentation. Scheduled for the next season are "First Episode," by Terrence Rattigan and Philip Heimann, now running in London; "Sexes and Sevens," by Anthony Prinsep and Alfred Savoir; "L'Homme Qui Inspire Confidence," by Paul Armont and Leopold Marchand, and "Finished Abroad," by Joliffe Metcalfe, which will be made over into a musical comedy.

Mr. Shubert also purchased the rights to a new play by the French author, Louis Verneuil; Hans Adler's "Alpine Sun," and "Belle of the Night," by M. Pierre Wolff.

While in London Mr. Shubert arranged for English productions of the "Ziegfeld Follies" and the A. E. Thomas comedy, "No More Ladies." C. B. Cochran will present the "Follies" in London with the American cast. "No More Ladies" will be done in London by Gilbert Miller. The producer described the London season as one of the best in many years.

Laughton Lacks Typical Actor's "Temperament"

But He Will Slump Into Depressive Mood When Something Displeases.

HOLLYWOOD.—Movieland looks upon Charles Laughton as one of the most gentle and untemperamental actors. He never complains about a scene he felt wasn't being played right, nor has he ever complained to executives about his rôles, although he sometimes tells his friends he doesn't like all of them.

The hefty English actor—winner of the 1934 Academy award—will sulk himself into a depressive mood when something displeases him. Then he will avoid speaking to people, a mannerism which causes many to dislike him.

Famous for His Disregard of Money.

The actor is fabled for his lack of regard for money. As long as he can eat and drink sufficient to keep himself in good health, money holds no interest for him. Thus he left a large motion picture salary, and endangered a contract, to go to England to work in the theater for about a hundred a week.

He prefers a cheap car to a good one. He bought a small, second hand car when he came here, but he never drove it himself because he didn't want to risk the possibility of hitting some one and going to court where he would "have to act before a mob of mere curiosity seekers."

Laughton is fond of parlor tricks. He knows several hundred and he used to try them on guests in his home. His home, incidentally, was a studio affair which was very carelessly furnished. This house was run for the convenience of Nero, a black alley cat which Laughton bought from the Paramount property department for two dollars. Sometimes the Laughton meals were designed for Nero's culinary preferences.

Bohemianism Pervades Laughton Household.

A charming Bohemianism pervaded the house at all times. Informality reigned. When the actor was indisposed it was the right of Mrs. Laughton to go wherever she pleased. And vice versa. They arranged their marriage to be like that.

A feud waged for some time between Laughton and Richard Arlen, and began when they appeared together in a picture. Arlen thought Laughton was childish and made no attempt to conceal that belief. But a friendship grew up between them through the efforts of Mrs. Arlen. The English actor liked her and gradually Arlen and Laughton "made up." The friendship was cemented when Mrs. Arlen bought Laughton five shirts to replace the inexpensive, usually unironed ones he wore.

A director who worked with Laughton says he is almost childlike in his appreciation of favors. Thus a new type of cigaret lighter will hold his interest for days. His house here was filled with gadgets—jig-saw puzzles, cigaret holders, mechanical toys and scores of other inconsequential [illegible]

During the period of their [illegible] Arlen called Laughton "Buster," a nickname which has stuck since. When his co-workers heard he'd won the Academy prize for his performance in "The Private Life of Henry VIII," their only regret seemed to be that they hadn't been associated with him.

Improvements in Movie Photography Hinder Directors

HOLLYWOOD.—A director who averages five minutes' worth of usable film a day is something of a wizard. The great amount of time required to light the set and the players slows him up.

Technical improvements in the art of motion picture photography have so complicated and hindered production that today more than 75 per cent of the time spent in making a film is given to "setups." Setups are the placing of cameras and lights and the adjustment of screen and filters.

Some sort of simplification of set lighting is necessary, Director Paul Sloane believes, because directors and players are being given less and less time for their work.

"If the players were allowed as much time to plan and rehearse their scenes as they had a few years ago when photography was taken for granted," explains Sloane, "it would require three or four times as long to make a picture.

"Peculiarly, the better photography becomes, the more involved it becomes. In contrast, the improvements in sound recording have made that phase of picture making more efficient."

A motion picture set these days is such a maze of lighting equipment that visitors frequently wonder how the players can move around with any sort of ease.

Although the use of super-sensitive film has reduced the amount of light necessary, it has not reduced the number of lights. The increased number of lights, aiming at players from every angle except straight up, causes shadows. And more lights are wheeled in to eliminate the shadows.

Long-Lived Drama.

"The Green Pastures" will start its third and final tour of the country and Canada next September. A second return engagement in New York is scheduled for March, 1935.

Mrs. Dern Snatches Social Plum from Mrs. Grayson

Secretary of War's Wife Elected to Give Democratic Women's Garden Party, Wresting Honor from Admiral-Doctor's Spouse.

By GENEVIEVE FORBES HERRICK.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—(Special.)—The sword is mightier than the lancet. In other words, the military branch of the government has beaten the medical. In still other words, Mrs. George Dern, whose hubby is secretary of war, has gathered to herself a social-political plum that has frequently been given to Mrs. Cary T. Grayson, beautiful wife of Admiral-Doctor Grayson, presidential physician to Woodrow Wilson and close friend of the Roosevelts.

Once a year the Women's National Democratic club gives a big garden party. (It usually rains that day, just as it usually rains the opening day of the society horse show here, just as it usually rains the day the baseball season opens—showing that congress isn't really as important as it seems.)

For the party the club shops around for a lovely house and big garden, the property, of course, of a prominent Democrat. In recent years the first choice has gone to the Grayson estate, a delightful, homelike place not far from town. But this year Mrs. Dern has offered Highwood, and Highwood it's to be.

● Mrs. Wilson is to be there. She always goes to these annual parties of the club. She is much in demand—just to put in her appearance (always effective, and usually set in a framework of orchids). She never makes a speech. Indeed she is so much in demand that the stories are just leaking out of the season's battle between two cabinet wives to get her for an assistant hostess. One of the cabinet wives (well, we'll not keep it a secret, it was Mrs. Swanson, wife of the secretary of the navy) had Mrs. Wilson for her first formal at home.

The next week another cabinet wife (and we HAVE to keep her name a secret) wrote Mrs. Wilson asking her to be assistant hostess and received a pleasant note of acceptance. This she mentioned casually to Mrs. Swanson, who, runs the tale, was terribly distraught, for she thought she had first rights to Mrs. Wilson all during the season, but found she hadn't.

● The Misses Moore, sisters of Assistant Secretary of State F. Walton Moore, are gluttons for punishment. They are having a big at-home today at their ancestral estate in Fairfax, Va., where they are hostesses for their brother. You may remember, I told you, the last at-home they had this winter the guests were so enchanted with the beaten biscuits stuffed with Virginia ham which the Moore cook made that many of them—the guests, not the biscuits—stuffed them, the biscuits, not the guests, into their pockets. "Just to take home to show my cook how to cook them," was the alibi. But the biscuits did disappear.

● A week from tomorrow night we'll all be going to the

Ambassador Saito of Japan Is Current Social Lion Here

Army and Navy Club Invites Thousand Guests to Hear Him Speak at Brilliant Dinner; Louise Dewey's Wedding Also Stirs Society.

By COUSIN EVE.

AN important, varied week leading to the World's Fair and its many colored adventures. A week of high diplomatic pressure when his excellency, Hiroshi Saito, ambassador from Japan at Washington, comes to say his say. A thousand guests are asked to meet him tomorrow night at a brilliant dinner held at the Army and Navy club. Opera singers, gold laced uniforms, pomp and circumstance.

Col. George Langhorne and Acting Consul Kenji Nakauchi are arranging. Tuesday afternoon is Japan's reception to the ambassador in the Blackstone ballroom from 4 to 6 o'clock when Mr. and Mrs. Nakauchi will receive.

Wedding Recalls Days of Prairie Avenue's Grandeur.

Col. Langhorne writes from Washington that his friendship with Mr. Saito dates from the Japanese earthquake. It was he who made the mission of the American relief expedition a success because he was "so understanding." Mr. Saito's speech will be the only one at the dinner.

Wednesday afternoon at five o'clock at Chrysostom's, church pageantry, beloved of society, a fashionable spring wedding. At this ceremony lovely young blonde Louise, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Dewey, will become Mrs. Edward Byron Smith, bride of Edward, younger son of Mr. and Mrs. Solomon Smith. The names of Dewey and of Byron Smith bring back Prairie avenue's days of social grandeur, early banks where grandfathers hobnobbed, with sons who were college pals. Now third generations love and marry.

A large reception follows at the Casino. Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Alger Jr. of Detroit, brother and sister of the bride, are here for the great event.

Charity Ball in Chastened Streets of Paris.

The large frivolity of the week will be a charity ball. At the World's Fair, in the utterly renovated, reformed, and chastened Streets of Paris, May 26 at 10 p. m., it is the project of the Children's Home and Aid society, of which Chauncey McCormick is president.

Returning from New York, Mr. McCormick announced that the William K. Vanderbilts would be here for the party. Elsie Torlonia, lovely Roman duchess, is coming.

A spectacular supper of the evening will be the three in one party when Mr. and Mrs. Chauncey McCormick, Mr. and Mrs. John A. Carpenter, and Mrs. Jacob Baur unite their tables and entertain the following guests of honor: Gov. Horner, Mayor and Mrs. Kelly, President and Mrs. Rufus Dawes, President and Mrs. Robert M. Hutchins, Mr. and Mrs. Charles V. Hickox of New York. Also Adlai and Ellen Stevenson, coming from Washington.

Mrs. Robert R. McCormick's ball poster competition, a side issue in connection with the ball, took place Thursday afternoon in the lovely rooms of the Georgian house, 1519 Astor street. It was so springlike that, looking out upon the Italian garden with its paved walks and classic statues in their niches, I imagined almost that new iron leaves were sprouting on the metal trees that line the high brick walls.

The poster competition was open to students at the Art institute and other art schools, also graduates. On Mrs. McCormick's committee of judges, of which she is chairman, are Mrs. Robert M. Hutchins, Daniel Catton Rich, Adelbert Quest, and Walter Brewster.

Model Orphans Are on Parade.

The party was large and mouvementé at Mrs. Chauncey McCormick's tea in Lake View avenue when committees were meeting. Youngsters were brought in, samples of orphans brought up by loving foster parents. They were shy, pretty little things. Made one feel more like working. Lady committee members, prostrated in chairs, under the leadership of Mrs. Jacob Baur, who exhorted them strongly, made astonishing reports. Mrs. Francis Johnson reported ten supper tables sold at a hundred dollars apiece, or was it a hundred tables? And news came that downstate people, keen about the work of this Children's Aid society, were making many reservations.

The Illinois Children's Home and Aid has not given a benefit in three years. The list of fashionable patrons looks to me overwhelmingly important. Even if old man weather opens the flood gates, the party will go on, being under cover.

Dedicate Mount Vernon of Colonial Village.

Another opening of large significance, the Saturday dedication of Mount Vernon at the Colonial village. Invited to be supreme guest of honor is one of the most charming men in the world, Col. Harrison Dodge, custodian of our national shrine in Virginia. A cousin of Mrs. Charles Y. Freeman, he will stay at her house if he comes. Mrs. George A. Carpenter is Illinois regent of the Mount Vernon Ladies' association, and is in Virginia now on a visit with forty other women of the national board.

The ladies have luxurious quarters in a quaint guest house in the gardens of our first President. The Mount Vernon Ladies' association was founded before the civil war when both Virginia and the national government refused to buy Washington's estate as a shrine. Mount Vernon was falling to pieces and the Washington family was too poor to keep the estate in its former elegance for the unending stream of people. There were 88,000 visitors this April.

I motored there a few days ago by a wide new road along the Potomac. Woods not yet green, but great splashes of white dogwood, of red Judas tree. It was a large thrill, that first look at the ancient white house, with its low colonnades and wings. Added by Gen. Washington to please his fashionable wife, they spread out like welcoming arms across the wide bowling green.

Holds One Job Half a Century—and Loves It.

It was a soft, blowy morning with lots of sun. We walked to Gen. Washington's former business office and there met Col. Dodge. This in itself was worth the adventure. How can one describe charm? A host to kings, statesmen, princes, men of all nations, wearing the red ribbon of the Legion d'Honneur, here was a man who had loved his job for over half a century and knew every angle of it. We entered by the front door, a great honor, rapping smartly with the brass knocker. On the left was Martha's drawing room, on the right the family dining room. Much of the wallpaper is original or in duplicate. The floors are the same. I noticed in the parlor an odd little lopsided tea table—at least its stem was on one side. It was Mrs. Washington's tea table and I asked Col. Dodge why it wouldn't tip over with all the tea things.

Washington's Flute Lies Mute on Harpsichord.

Col. Dodge smiled cryptically. It seems the little table had done just this thing a fortnight before when Mrs. Roosevelt was having tea at Mount Vernon. Crash! went the perverse piece of furniture, sending all the cups, saucers, cream and sugar with oddments of tea cake upon the brocaded sofa.

In the front hall, beautiful swords of Washington. Beneath them the heavy key of the Bastille, sent back by Lafayette. The house is full of lovely things, gifts, originals, or repurchased. There are the brass fire dogs given to Alexander Hamilton and sent back by his family. Also silver bracket lamps, clock, and vases. There is a Canova marble, and a beautiful rug sent by Louis XVI. to Gen. Washington, which never reached him. Pirates seized the ship, the British seized the pirates, and the rug was half worn out when it reached Mount Vernon.

There is the little card table where Gen. Washington played at loo with his family. There is his flute lying on Nelly Custis' little harpsichord.

There is his desk in the study, a great globe, a set of books from Rochambeau. Upstairs, the bedroom where the great man died, his plain wide bed, the windows looking out over the silvery Potomac, of which he owned nine miles of shore line. There is the chaise longue used by him at Valley Forge.

From here to the tomb, down the hill. Col. Dodge knew once a man who had looked upon the face of Washington in his coffin. An odd story. Nearby, little lambs are gamboling by an English yew planted by the prince of Wales, and near that a maple set out by Comte de Rochambeau in 1902.

Bird of Passage Gets Historic Bouquet.

Later, after a charming luncheon with the custodian, I received a bouquet, the rarest and most precious that ever was given me. Of it were purple lilacs planted and grown by Gen. Washington. A young spray of pink tinted magnolia blossoms from a tree planted by Lafayette. And a fragrant budding branch of the strawberry tree planted by Thomas Jefferson. Who was I, a mere bird of passage in these gardens of great memories, that I should carry away such flowers? Every tree, every shrub, every parterre just as it was left by the first President. In the museum a marvelous head of the great leader by Houdon.

A great work of maintenance is carried on by the ladies of the Mount Vernon association. The historic house is open seven days a week with an entrance fee of twenty-five cents. Under Col. Dodge is a small army of secretaries, gardeners, farmers, guards. Every American should go there, and to the mountain home of Thomas Jefferson, glorious Monticello, to renew faith in liberty.

"Saddle" Poetic Place to Dine in Spring.

Chicago was lively last week. The Casino was all set for a huge dinner dance, with Hungarian band, in which the new and much decorated bar was to be opened. Out of respect for the memory of Joy Morton, whose daughter, Mrs. Joseph Cudahy, is president

Pan-American Union building—one of the most beautiful in Washington with its patio, its fountain, its marvelously trained parrots who never leave their trees, no matter how many members come in and begin to argue. Dr. Leo Rowe, the director of the Pan-American union, is that night giving a concert of Latin American music. It is sure to be good. There is sure to be a [illegible]. There always is when he gives a musical in the patio. All week long the Latin American diplomats may be bickering, one with another, but that night they'll put on their best clothes, their best smiles, and butter wouldn't melt in their mouths as they bow from the waist.

● One more story about Chicago's Courtney Letts Borden, now the wife of Señor Espil, the Argentinian ambassador. The Espils gave a reception the other afternoon and I liked the way she stood at the drawing room door and greeted guests as informally as if she had been having a few friends in for tea in a small apartment. No man in livery at her elbow to announce the newcomer. Nobody but just a lovely looking lady in a print gown, with a friendly handclasp, a quick memory, and a note of sincere hospitality.

In the drawing room one saw another Señora Espil looking down from a canvas recently completed by a distinguished Argentinian artist. She was painted in a flowered print gown in which the reds predominate. It was a happy choice, what with her dark hair and eyes.

● This town is hard on the pocketbook in many ways. One way is the bill for visiting cards. Back home we buy a hundred cards when we are graduated from school. Then we buy another hundred when we change our name. That hundred lasts us an awfully long time. But here you don't call on people; you card them. So visiting cards disappear almost overnight.

It was only yesterday that I got a new supply. But this very afternoon, at a tea, I reached for the requisite three, one of mine, two of my husband's, and turned them down, in the correct Washington fashion, to indicate to the hostess later that I had really been there and hadn't sent them in by the chauffeur (which would be impossible, of course, since there is no chauffeur). As I put the cards on the silver tray I took one horrified glance, grabbed them back. Instead of my own card I had left one of about the same size. But on it was printed these enchanting words:

Lillian Gusack
[illegible]—One Price—$1.95

● Great heavens! As I wrote those words I looked in my purse to be sure of the phrasing on the card. It's gone. I must have left it on that card tray.

Natalie Coe's Groom Is an Italian; Katherine Lawrence to Marry Briton.

By Nancy Randolph.

NEW YORK.—[Special.]—Marriages in town this spring seem to be international, intersectional, and interurban—anything but local. By and large, however, they are all brilliant and give promise of adding to this gay city a much needed number of younger marrieds who will know how to take advantage of the gayety offered.

Yesterday's nuptials saw Natalie Mai Coe, daughter of the William Robertson Coes, become the bride of Commendatore Leonardo Vitetti at Planting Fields, the Coe estate at Oyster Bay, L. I.

The granddaughter of the late Henry H. Rogers of Standard Oil fame and the young Italian diplomat were united in matrimony by his excellency, Mgr. Cicongnani, the apostolic delegate. Mrs. Alexander C. Forbes, who was Irene Robbins until her wedding last February, was Nat's matron of honor, and the bridesmaids included Mrs. Thomas G. Terbell, one time Louise Boone; Mrs. William W. Kennedy, who was Louise Leeds; Peggy Brokaw, and Lucile Theriot.

Commendatore Vitetti, once connected with the Italian embassy at Washington and now in London, had as his best man Augusto Rossi, Italian ambassador to the United States. His ushers were Giuseppe Tommasi and Bartolomeo Nigone of the Italian embassy, Luciano Mascia, and Capt. M. Pennaroli.

Balfours Will Live in Africa.

Katherine Van Duzer Lawrence has elected to wed a Briton, and Mount Kisco, N. Y., will be the scene of the wedding in—naturally—June.

Early next month the daughter of the Dudley Bates Lawrences will become the bride of William James Balfour at Skywood, the Lawrence estate in Westchester county, with popular Canon Harold A. Prichard of St. Mark's church performing the ceremony.

Mrs. Dudley B. Lawrence Jr., the former Hope Robertson, will be the bride's only attendant. The male members of the wedding party have not yet been chosen.

Young Balfour is the son of George Balfour, M. P., and Mrs. Balfour of Elmstead lodge, Chislehurst, Kent. Following the marriage the couple will trek to South Africa and make their home on the dark continent.

Eleanor Tweed Selects a Fellow Townsman.

Eleanor Tweed has French affiliations, for her mother is now the Countess Paul Palffy of Paris. However, Eleo is to wed a native, none other than Nelson W. Aldrich, on June 15. But not in New York—in Boston!

Eleo is the daughter of Harrison Tweed, who, after his divorce from the one time Eleanor Roelker, married "Michael Strange," once the wife of Barrymore and noted as a poetess.

The wedding will take place at the home of Eleanor's aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Charles P. Curtis Jr., at Cress Brook farm, Norfolk, Mass. Nels Aldrich is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William T. Aldrich of Brookline, Mass., and is a cousin of Mrs. John D. Rockefeller Jr., of Winthrop W. Aldrich, and a grandson of the late Senator Nelson W. Aldrich of Rhode Island.

Another important wedding of early June will be that on June 9 of Beatrice Wagstaff, a débutante of the last season, and her cousin, Lieut. David Wagstaff.

Since both families are identified with the Ramopos colony the wedding will take place on the Jersey side of the Hudson. St. Mary's church in Tuxedo will be the scene of the ceremony, and the wedding will be the sort that gladdens the hearts of women—a military affair.

Military Wedding Brings All the Notables Out.

The Rev. Arthur Kinsolving Jr. of the Cathedral of Garden City, who was formerly chaplain at West Point, will assist the vicar of St. Mary's, the Rev. R. S. W. Wood.

Ann Foster, daughter of Mrs. Seton Porter, will be maid of honor, and the bridesmaids are to include Dorothy S. Wagstaff, Bea's sister; her cousin, Eve Mortimer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley G. Mortimer; Betty Morris, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Gouveurneur Morris; Margaret Salvage, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel A. Salvage, and Mary Demunn, who also made their bows last winter; Mrs. Caleb Fox III., the former Mary Austin Phipps, and Mrs. Crawford Blagden Jr., who was Mary Kernochan, daughter of Chief Justice and Mrs. Frederic Kernochan.

PLAYING LEADING ROLES IN A SCHOOL PERFORMANCE

Miss Virginia Nicolson and Miss Peggy Young took the leading roles in a play, "The Princess Marries the Page," which was given recently by the seniors of the University School for Girls by way of a benefit for their year book, the Castanon.

of the Casino, the party was canceled.

There were, however, parties. Mrs. Patrick A. Valentine had a dinner for old friends, the Misses Willard of Greenwich, and Walter Ayer had sixteen guests to dine in honor of his aunt, Mrs. L. Hamilton McCormick. Also his guest was a remarkably pretty women, Mme. Koerner of Vienna, on her way home from Hollywood. Her Fritzi Scheff type has not definitly appealed to the movie magnates, who are whimsical. This young beauty arrived in a black tulle gown, much ruffled, at the large dinner given by Robert Stevenson at the Saddle and Cycle Saturday night when there was dancing.

The "Saddle" is still the most poetical place to dine of a mild spring night. To the right is the new Clarendon road, which has almost, but not quite, spoiled its privacy. At its feet a great stretch of sandy beach—out to sea, twinkling lights. All around, silent trees.

Mrs. John V. Farwell III. was wearing the smartest frock. A crisp organza of white, plaided in dark blue—much ruffled. Betty Scriven and Harney Bassett were being dined and danced in honor of their approaching wedding June 2 at St. Chrysostom's, Martha Fitts being their hostess.

Evanston Women Dress So Well!

The largest dinner of the week was in Evanston when the University guild entertained its many members in the ballroom of the Orrington. Pretty and gay it was.

This guild is the twin sister of the Renaissance society of the University of Chicago. It carries on to collect and exhibit works of art.

I always think when I go to a large party in Evanston what pretty clothes the women wear. And how handsome and upstanding are their men, so truly clean and well turned out. Presiding at the speaker's table, Mrs. Robert Elliott, and seated near her Dr. Walter Dill Scott, Mrs. Scott, Rufus Dawes, Mrs. Dawes, Mr. Guiseppe Castruccio, Mrs. Edson Fowler, Dr. Wolfe. I am not going to tell of the speeches, which were short and numerous, but to quote from the amusing address of Mrs. Elliott as she welcomed the incoming president, Mrs. Wilson: "You know that the reward for good work is more work," she said, which brought much laughter.

A program of violin by Lota Mundy and tenor songs by William Miller were largely applauded and lasted long with many generous encores.

One of the novel charitable events of the week was a bridge game at Mrs. W. A. Yager's residence, 1430 Lake Shore drive. There were sixty tables spread in the combined Yager and Francis Johnson apartments, and the sum of $500 netted for the linen committee of Passavant hospital. The woman who drew a charming silk gown and wrap paid four cents for the winning ticket.

Off fly our friends — Mrs. Herman Gade and her daughter, the Alice of so much Parisian chic, have left for Boston. Herman Gade, having sealed up the Château of Mesuil St. Denis, is now on the ocean and will spend the summer at the country club, just out of Manchester, one of the breeziest spots on the north shore.

Tomorrow afternoon at Mrs. Frederick T. Haskell's house, 179 Lake Shore drive, an interesting party. The guest of honor is Margherita Sarfatti of Rome, author of "Mussolini Dux," a woman said to have influenced the ideals of the Italian dictator more than any other. Members of the Italy-America society are others asked.

New Evening Gowns of Net Shot with Metallic Thread

TWO new evening gowns that will thrill the young girl are in net shot through with metallic thread; one is brown threaded in gold, the other white threaded in silver. The gowns are sleek, silhouette hugging affairs with a clinging line unbroken except for three triangular insets at the lower back that make a short train. The insets and train are of layers of plain net, a subdued but effective contrast.

Princess Mdivani Now at Newport

NEWPORT, R. I.—[Special.]—Mrs. James Laurens Van Alen and her daughter, Princess Louise Mdivani, are in residence at Wakehurst. Mr. and Mrs. James Van Alen have returned to their home at Roslyn, L. I.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick H. Allen arrived Wednesday from Bolton Priory, Pelham Manor, to occupy the Mount for the season. Mr. and Mrs. Archbold Van Beuren are expected to arrive shortly from Europe to occupy Cut Rock, which they have leased from Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Wiggin, who will be on the coast this summer. Mrs. Maud Howe Elliott is at Lilliput after a stay in Florida. Mr. and Mrs. Maxim Agassiz are at Castle Hill from Boston.

Flowers of Belgian Lace Refresh Workaday Clothes

PICK-ME-UPS for the midseason frock are the crisp white flowers of Belgian lace now shown in a Chicago department store. They come in sizes large, medium, and small. They're intricate both in design and construction.

PLANNING SMITH COLLEGE EXHIBIT AT THE FAIR

Miss Jean Rumsey and Miss Virginia Benjamin are among the alumnæ on Miss Ellen Holt's committee in charge of the Smith college exhibit at A Century of Progress this year. The Chicago Smith club is cramming all its spring activities into the coming week so that after the Fair opens the members can devote their spare time to the booth again opening this year in the Hall of Social Science. The annual meeting and election of officers will be held at the Tavern Tuesday afternoon, followed by a tea for Miss Mary Ellen Chase. On Wednesday the club will meet again at the College club for study purposes, and on Friday Miss Holt is giving a picnic for the alumnæ at her home in Lake Forest, following a lecture by Miss Chase in Lake Forest.

"Season" Opens in London with Edwardian Air

Brilliantly Attired Crowd Hears "Fidelio;" King, Queen of Siam Attend.

By Ann Whittingham.

LONDON.—[Special.]—The "season" has opened with a real Edwardian flourish, as though to prove that the times are on the mend.

The opening night of grand opera at Covent Garden, refurbished and modernized on both sides of the footlights, brought forth a brilliantly attired audience and drew next morning an unusually lyric press. Some said that the display of diadems and coronets was "truly Edwardian" but others felt that some inner restraint prevented the handsomely gowned women from displaying their jewelry in quite the opulent fashion of their grandmothers. Rich brocade dresses of gold and crimson were greatly in evidence. I nearly forgot to report that the attraction was Beethoven's opera, "Fidelio," conducted by Sir Thomas Beecham, and with some striking new scenery and lighting effects by Rex Whistler. My favorite critic, while bestowing judicially his praise of the singing, was carried away unexpectedly by the orchestral accompaniment which he pronounced "the warm bloom of orchestral art."

In the royal box, which the king and queen again have taken for the "season," were the king and queen of Siam, with Princess Helena Victoria and Princess Marie Louise. Miss Rose Bingham, the American ambassador's daughter, was in a box with the Princess Hohenlohe.

Eight Foreign Royalties Receive Much Hospitality.

Perhaps one thing which makes this season unusual is the fact that we have eight foreign royalties in town, who are the recipients of much hospitality.

At the top come the extremely popular king and queen of Siam. King Prajadhipok is the first monarch of Siam to reject polygamy and to raise his wife to full queenly rank. She is his first cousin, a petite, chic, and amusing little lady. They are reputed to be very devoted to each other. The luxurious motor in which they speed about town on their numerous engagements is easily recognized, for it is painted an unusual shade of delicate greenish yellow, has a royal mascot, on the bonnet, in the shape of a crystal cock surmounted by the crown, and its number plate in Siamese lettering furnishes the clue. Inside the car are always two big vases of red roses.

The other foreign royalties are the grand duchess of Luxembourg and the prince consort, who are being entertained at Windsor Castle by the king and queen; Prince and Princess Kaya of Japan, and the duke and duchess of Brunswick [the duchess is the ex-kaiser's daughter]. All of the eight are being shown every attention by the reigning house.

Dr. Hubble Will Give Lectures at Oxford.

Dr. Edwin Hubble, that remarkable astronomer who graduated from the University of Chicago, and subsequently made a name for himself at the Mt. Wilson observatory, is coming to England this summer to lecture at Oxford. His preoccupation at the University of Chicago was with the task of measuring "the exact size" of the universe. Perhaps he is now prepared to give us some definite figures.

The Welsh nationalist movement has encountered some setbacks. Patriots wrote to the Barmouth library committee urging the latter to buy more Welsh books, whereupon the latter investigated and broadcasted the disconcerting fact that during the year 1933 not a single Welsh book had been asked for. Only two books in that language had been taken out during the first three months. Instead of withdrawing prudently from the controversy, the nationalists countered, whereupon the library committees of Machynlleth, Towyn and Pwllheli reported that they, too, had not had a single Welsh book withdrawn in 1933.

This has given exquisite pleasure in the English press, both in London and the provinces.

Unusual Pickpocket Keeps Diary of the Social Whirl.

British business enterprise is much more thoughtful than you might imagine. At the Marlborough street police court they recently dealt with a pickpocket. When they searched him they found a small 1934 diary in which he had thoughtfully put down all the big social occasions on the calendar where crowds might be profitably approached, the Derby, Ascot, the Aldershot Tattoo, etc. He missed little, for one thoughtful item reads:

JULY 4: Reception American Embassy.

As he has now retired from business for six months, my countrymen and I can now eat Mr. Bingham's ice cream and cake in relative security.

Zonta President to Fly to Dinner of Chicago Branch

MISS CORA MacKENZIE of Cambridge, Mass., president of Zonta International, will make an airplane trip to Chicago and arrive on Saturday, May 26, to attend the formal dinner of the Chicago branch of the organization, in the Crystal ballroom of the Blackstone hotel. New members of the local group, comprising business women who have attained prominence in their various fields, will be guests for the occasion, as will the members of the recently formed Oak Park branch, who will receive their charter at the dinner.

Parties will come for the event from the allied branches of Zonta in Moline, Milwaukee, La Salle, and other towns of this region. Miss Mary H. Burris, Chicago president, will preside. Speakers will include Miss MacKenzie, Mrs. Keith Preston of Chicago, and Mrs. Anne Zinser, chairman of membership for the local branch, who will present the guests of honor. More than 200 are expected to attend.

Mid-Victorian Days in the Mid-Continent

Letters from Martha Freeman Esmond to her friend, Julia Boyd, of New York.

By Herma Clark.

Chicago, December 28, 1883.

DEAR JULIA: I am sitting in Martha's little library as guardian of the royal bedchamber—that of King Esmond Macleod the First—while Martha and Sandy are at a dance at Martine's—one of our old dancing academies. Will is out too at a dinner at the Grand Pacific in honor of Gen. Schofield, who has taken the place of Gen. Sheridan. The latter, having assumed command of the armies of the United States, succeeding Gen. Sherman, will live in Washington. We shall miss the Sheridans, for they had been here so long, but Schofield is a fine man, a West Point graduate, who distinguished himself at the battle of Kenesaw mountain.

One thing I am writing about this evening is a concert soon to be given in New York which I do hope you can attend. The soloist is to be Miss Fannie Bloomfield, a young Chicago girl who has lately made a successful debut as a pianist in Vienna, after five years of study with Leschetitsky, preceptor and husband of Mme. Essipoff. Miss Bloomfield was at one time a pupil of Carl Wolfssohn, one of our great teachers, and as Martha has also "taken" of him, we have always been especially interested in this talented girl. I saw my friend Mrs. Henry Solomon at the Woman's club the other day, and she told me Vienna has given the highest praise to the young Chicagoan.

I am glad not to be going out tonight, for I am sleepy. We attended a large reception last evening at the Calumet club, and stayed late, visiting with the old friends we found there. It was a real gathering of the clans. Mr. John Wentworth—our famous "Long John"—gave a party for all of old Chicago, and their descendants, the occasion being his presentation to the club of a portrait of himself, done by G. P. A. Healy. From the outside the club was a gorgeous spectacle, for calcium lights had been placed at different points along Michigan avenue and their glow on the snow from Nineteenth to Twenty-first streets made it look like a Christmas card. Hundreds of univited people stood along the sidewalk to watch the guests enter.

Receiving with Mr. Wentworth were Miss Roxana, his lovely and devoted daughter, and Moses Wentworth, his nephew. There is a real affection between uncle and nephew, and it is pleasant to see them together. It was a great crush. Refreshments were served to 1,800 guests, I heard.

Many friends inquired for you. I saw Bishop and Mrs. Cheney, John Crerar, Judge and Mrs. J. B. Bradwell—dear old friends, prominent in relief work during the war; my much admired young friends, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest A. Hamill; Judge Gary, Mr. and Mrs. John M. Clark, Judge and Mrs. Grant Goodrich, the Rev. Simon J. McPherson, brilliant young pastor of the Second Presbyterian church; Dr. and Mrs. George H. Lorimer, Dr. Lorimer being our eloquent Baptist divine; Mayor Carter H. Harrison, and his daughter, Miss Lina; Joseph Medill and his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Patterson; Arthur Tree, Dr. and Mrs. Clinton Locke, the Manierres, Canon Knowles, the Elisha Whiteheads—and so on, ad infinitum almost.

O, I hear His Majesty Baby Esmond stirring. I'll say good night. Your loving friend,

MARTHA FREEMAN ESMOND.

FOOTNOTES.

Mrs. Clarence Bowen [Roxana Wentworth] lives in New York. The widowed Mrs. Moses J. Wentworth, whose husband was a nephew of "Long John," lives at 1240 Lake Shore drive.

Many letters have come from those who saw Irving in "The Bells." Joseph C. Ficklin thinks Edwin Booth the only actor who can be compared with him. Harold Hansen, Clifton, Wis., has a fine collection of theater programs. Esther Meyer, Chicago, saw Irving in "The Bells" the last night of the Columbian Exposition and, coming out of the theater, heard the news being shouted on the street of Mayor Carter Harrison's assassination, so that the two events are linked in her mind. Herman Hefter, Chicago, thinks Irving best in melodrama, as "The Bells" and "The Lyons Mail."

Puzzle fans, try your hand at this Chicago acrostic: 1. Name of a half-breed who served the whites loyally. 2. A pioneer admired by the Indians for strength and courage. 3. A well known doctor of early Chicago. 4. A rich bachelor who left the city a handsome legacy. 5. A great meat packer. 6. An early jeweler. 7. A mayor for whom a wide avenue is named. [The initials of the names in the order given spell "Chicago." We shall expect to hear from high school young people, as well as older residents. A copy of "DEAR JULIA," autographed, is the prize for the first correct solution.]

Former Kaiser Fosters Tree Planting Now

LONDON.—[U. P.]—The ex-kaiser often has been reported since his exile as devoting most of his waking time in sawing logs. He has been said to have derived health and resignation from the sawing up of innumerable tree trunks.

Now the former war lord has sent a message to a group of British tree lovers known as "The Men of the Trees" society. It is the first message he has sent to any institution, or organization, since he went into exile at Doorn 15 years ago.

"As a friend and lover of nature I greet your society, and wish full success to your important cultural enterprise," runs the message. "The cultivation and planting of trees in parks, gardens and the open, provides us with the richest source of joy and health.

"From the enclosed pictures of my park at Doorn you will kindly learn that I am also pursuing your aim in developing a tree sense in every citizen, and encouraging all to plant, protect and love trees everywhere."

The ex-kaiser was pleased to learn that the seed from an apple he once ate had produced a fine tree in a Sussex garden.

Brazilian Venders Don Coats at Work

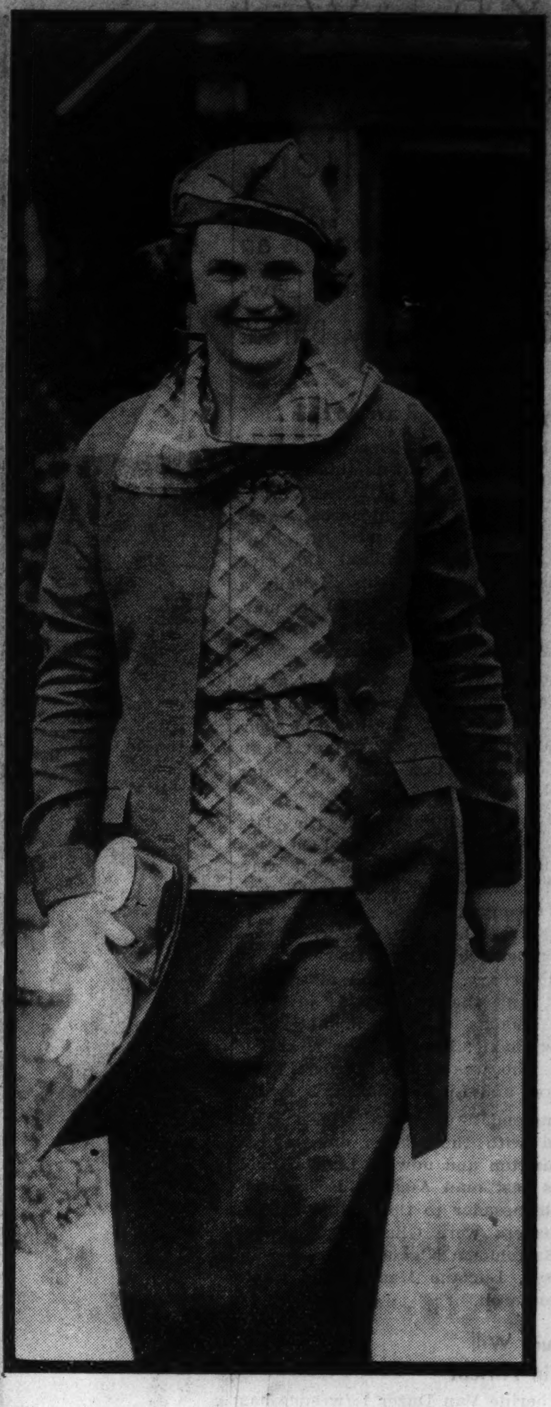
MANAOS, Brazil.—(AP)—Store clerks and peddlers of this steaming port on the upper Amazon received with fine irony a decree by the prefect that all venders must wear coats while at work.

The clerks and peddlers appeared in morning coats, with flowers in lapels, the day the order became effective.

One frock coated peddler called at the prefect's door with a basket of fish.



WHEN PLAID ADDS COLOR

Mrs. Ralph E. Colville chose a plaid silk tunic and a bit of the same plaid on her hat to add color to her new spring outfit. She has been the provisional chairman of the Evanston Junior league for the last year.

"Messiah" Employs Modern Publicity

DELHI.—(AP)—Modern publicity methods are being used by an Indian claiming to be the "Messiah" or "Mehdi" in announcing his advent in Delhi.

Discarding the ritual usually associated with such claimants, the man furthers his propaganda by traveling through the bazaars in a motor car, while at his headquarters his followers use telephones to spread his messages to the public.

The claimant to spiritual sanction made his living formerly by producing caligraphic curiosities. His specialty was writing verses from the Koran on grains of rice.

Mrs. Lindbergh Is Third Woman to Fly Across Sea

A tablet was unveiled recently by the Women's Kansas Day club of Atchison in honor of Amelia Earhart Putnam, who has twice flown the Atlantic. The celebrated airwoman was born in Atchison.

Women in Russia do not use rouge, lipstick, or even face powder. Beauty shops are not permitted in the soviet union.

Mrs. Ellen Binet of Jackson, Mich., winner of several county art contests, is 83 years old. She has painted 1,000 pictures since she was 17.

Miss El Nadi is Egypt's first woman air pilot. She received her training at Cairo and won her pilot's license only a short time ago.

MANDEL'S PHOTO NEWS The Camera Always Tells The Truth

"Modern Art" by Thomas Craven Applies a Sharp Dissecting Knife to Current Isms in Painting

New Book Begins Where "Men of Art" Left Off; Is Written for Laymen.

By Eleanor Jewett.

THERE was once a writer of fairy stories, well versed in the foibles and pretensions of men and in their silliness and vanities, who wrote a story called "The Emperor's New Clothes." Two spinners came from a far country to the emperor's court and promised to weave him the most marvelous clothes if he would supply them with gold and silver threads and precious stones. The emperor did so and the spinners, rogues both, confiscated the gold and silver and jewels and wove nothing on their loom, yet this very nothing they made wonderful in the eyes of the emperor and his court by repeating their tale that only men of intelligence and wit could see their robes.

Neither the emperor nor his statesmen wanted to show themselves as men of little sense, so all backed the spinners in their mischief. Each in turn admired with extravagant phrases the increasing nothingness upon the loom. Finally the day came when the emperor was to wear his new clothes in a grand procession through the city. The people had been told of the fine robes woven by the two strange weavers, robes so beautiful that the common and stupid man could not see them. No one wanted to proclaim himself as common or stupid, so as the procession wound through the streets headed by the emperor wearing nothing cries of wonder and admiration were raised about the invisible robes. No one snickered; no one laughed; every one exchanged compliments on the beauty and fit of the royal garments.

Then as the emperor moved down a narrow street a little boy in the crowd leaned from his father's shoulder and in an awed voice cried to his mother: "But the emperor has nothing on!"

Craven Like Boy in Hans Andersen's Tale.

Thomas Craven, in his just published book, "Modern Art" [Simon & Schuster, Inc.], is the little boy leaning from the shoulders of his experience at first hand with modern art to point out that this much admired extravaganza is in fact an empty vessel. The book follows and completes Mr. Craven's first effort to lay open the world of the fine arts to the lay reader, an effort which bore the title, "Men of Art," and was the sensation of the spring it was published, about two years ago. "Modern Art" takes up the story where the first book laid it down, yet the two overlap a bit, as is only natural when you consider the immoderate claims of modern art to have been born with the Primitives and even pre-Primitives.

Mr. Craven condenses into a few brief sentences the present status of modern art. He says: "Today the various sects composing what is known as modernism are officially entombed in the School of Paris, with Picasso as sexton. In that school one finds the shrouds of the ancient past, the splintered bones of Cubism, salesmanship, and the tragedy of the devalued dollar. The new movement is now a subject for the historian."

Discusses Hidden Influences in Studio and Gallery.

Mr. Craven picks up his threads with Cezanne, Renoir, Seurat, and the impressionists. He gives a graphic picture of Paris, the Paris of the artist and the art student. Sex and the aberrations of sex play a large part in the tortuous development of the kinds of painting and sculpture modern art has fostered. Mr. Craven points out with definite detail the influence of matters often left unsung, but as often felt underneath, in the atmosphere of studio and gallery. He paints illuminating pictures of Gauguin, Van Gogh, Cezanne, and the other leaders among the modern art cohorts and of their art.

Of Seurat, for instance: "His figures are frozen in space, flawlessly mummified; his scenes are constructed on the dead level of perfection, without dramatic accents or variations of emotional intensity; his canvases look as if they had been stamped, screened, and sterilized." Read that and with it in mind look at Seurat's large painting, "Dimanche sur la Grande Jatte," in the Art institute. Mr. Craven has hit every nail on the head.

About Picasso he says: "It is talk that keeps Picasso's pictures alive and when the talk ceases his art will cease to exist. Its vitality is verbal." Cezanne is interestingly valued and measured. Renoir is approved and Matisse catalogued as "a rug maker." Van Gogh, Gauguin, and Modigliani are discussed at length and their abnormal lives unveiled in caustic and determined terms that are not without sympathy and understanding. Picasso is stripped of the tinsel trappings that dazzle the eyes of his followers. That the tinsel is not gold Mr. Craven makes plain in one of the most amusing and readable chapters in his book.

Pushes Idols from Pedestals.

The book runs a course spreading destruction in its wake. The little idols so carefully arranged on pedestals by the intelligentsia and dealers looking for profit are ruthlessly swept from their stands. Cults, isms, and sects lie dismembered all over the place. It is a magnificent attack that Mr. Craven has made and before the reasonable and truthful barrage of facts that he has discharged upon modern art, modern art has no choice but to confess its fallibility.

Bringing the war home, Mr. Craven fires a number of pregnant shots at museum directors, rich collectors, and snobs in criticism on this side of the Atlantic. He rescues some of us by finding promise in a group of Americans—Thomas Benton, Boardman Robinson, Pop Hart, John Sloan, and others. In architecture he advisedly praises Frank Lloyd Wright and in sculpture George Grey Barnard. Of the Mexicans he discusses Orozco and Rivera, the last too much the propagandist.

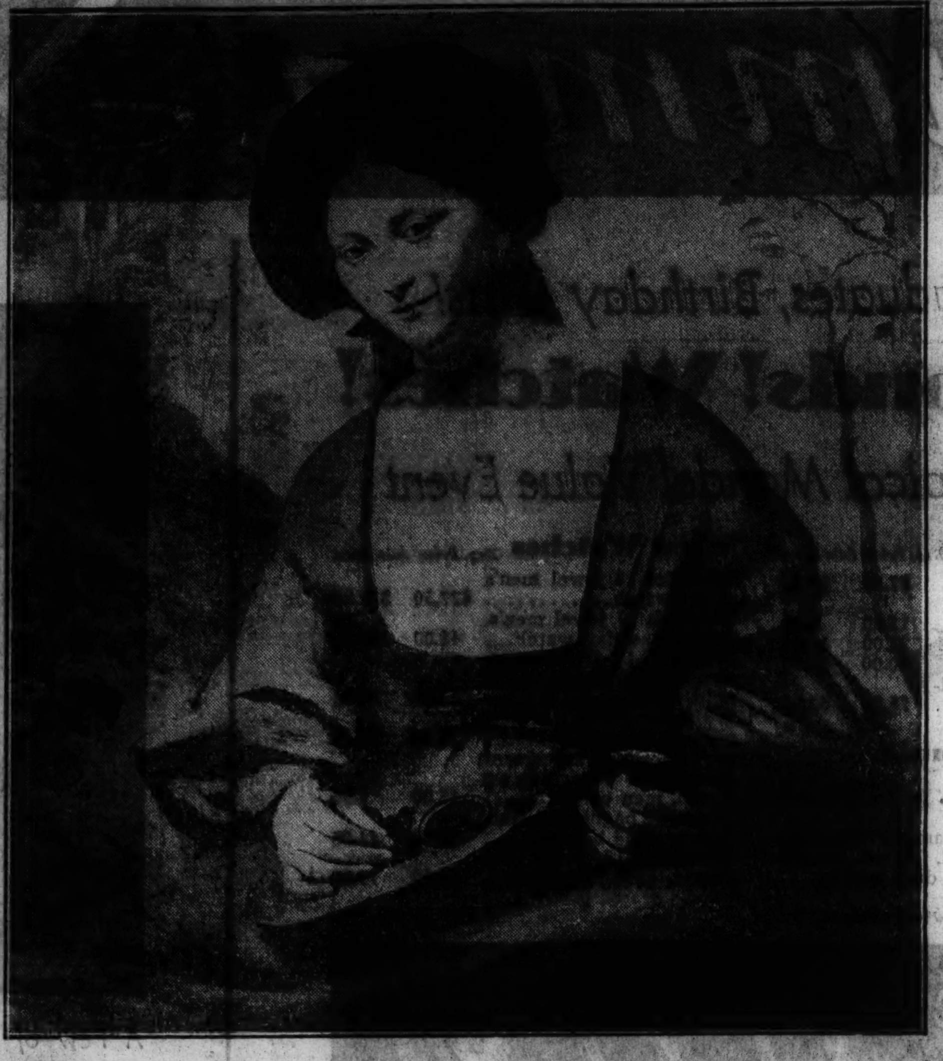
The book is full of dynamite. It voices truths and opinions many of us will agree with. Mr. Craven has taken the charm of mystery from modern art, pricked countless bubbles, and let in the cold wind of common sense upon a field that until now has been too religiously fenced by defenders of the cattle inside. It is reported that "Modern Art" is the June choice of the Book of the Month club.

Rivera's New Book May Arouse Your Anger.

Another book which has come in for comment is "Portrait of America," by Diego Rivera [Covici-Friede]. Rivera is a firm believer in the workingman as opposed to the capitalist, even that capitalist whose beginnings were in the workingman's class. He is an avid and self-confessed Socialist and his painting is entirely and relentlessly class propaganda. Every mural he has painted in America has carried a message to the working class in opposition to the capitalist class.

He has scorn for every rung of society except that of the industrial worker, a class which in the United States is already respected and does not need his backing to be acknowledged of greater value to the community. Where his paintings will not arouse your anger his prose will. The book is a smug insult to and condemnation of the American citizen. Our working people do not need to be patted on the back by Rivera nor lined up in company with the mechanized laborers of Russia. Those who brought Rivera to Detroit and New York let in a self-opinionated radical who would much better have been left outside. His book reveals him more clearly than any criticism of the book can. The illustrations are faithful reproductions of his work here, forceful and ingenuous, but from A to Z communist propaganda.

Those who sit complacently and think these movements mean nothing should consider Rivera's last sentence: "I hope that this portrait [his murals for the New Workers' school in New York] may be in some small degree useful to a few hundreds or thousands or as many as possible of the millions of workers who in the near future will carry out the formidable task of transforming, by means of revolutionary struggle and proletarian dictatorship, the marvelous industry of the supercapitalist country into the basic machinery for the splendid functioning of the Union of Socialistic Soviet Republics of the American Continent." How long will Americans blind themselves to the sincerity of those people who are working for the downfall of our inherited form of government? Lenin, Hitler, Rivera—and we think it means nothing!



"Woman with a Mandolin," by Corot, lent by Paul Rosenberg of Paris to the 1934 Century of Progress Fine Arts exhibit, which will open June 1 in the Chicago Art institute.

News of Interest to Lovers of Art.

Emma Hess Ingersoll, a member of the Pennsylvania Society of Miniature Painters, arrives in Chicago tomorrow. Mrs. Ingersoll is one of our outstanding miniature painters and has received many honors. Those who wish to get in touch with her may do so through Mrs. Robert S. Larimer, 2019 Sherman avenue, Evanston.

The annual exhibit of work by students opened yesterday at the American Academy of Art to continue to June 2. It is the finest exhibit the school has held yet.

Karl Plath, noted Chicago painter of birds, is having a one man show of his decorative canvases this month in the Milwaukee Art institute. His paintings have interested an enormous audience, as they have been shown throughout the country. Mr. Plath is famed for the beauty of his compositions and the brilliance of his coloring. His knowledge of his subject is phenomenal. He has a Chicago aviary where he keeps as pets many of the curious and beautiful birds he paints and in addition he has painted birds in many out of the way corners of the world.

A new gallery in which many remarkable Chinese antiques may be seen is the Lingnan Antique shop, 417 South Clark street. Some of the treasures on display there surpass those in the Art institute collection. Those interested in Chinese art would do well to visit this gallery.

Sculpture by Peter Paul Ott may be seen at the O'Brien gallery, 673 North Michigan avenue, to May 26.

Recent paintings of the sea by Frank Vining Smith were placed on view last Tuesday in the Anderson galleries, 536 South Michigan avenue. It is one of the finest exhibits in town.

Water colors and decorative arrangements by Julius Moessel are on exhibit to May 30 in the Chicago galleries, 220 North Michigan avenue.

Paris Season Has More Than Usual Vivacity

Revue to Commemorate Centenary of Jocky Club Draws Many Notables.

By May Birkhead.

PARIS.—[Special.]—The rather premature warm weather and the early date for Easter have set the social clock considerably ahead for Paris this season. All signs indicate that from now until the Grand Prix late in June the season will be far more active and brilliant than was anticipated six weeks ago. Although the varnishing day for the two societies of artists composing the Spring salon is not such a remarkable mundane event as a generation ago, it still keeps much of its distinctive character and was largely attended by many notables.

But a gathering that elicited a really imposing array of social luminaries was given the other night at the Theater Marigny. The occasion was a sprightly revue to commemorate the centenary of the Jocky club and the organization for improving the breed of horses which was founded just a few months earlier. The great turf events in France and the whole business of raising thoroughbreds, either for racing or cavalry contests, has maintained that aristocratic atmosphere which the creation of the Jocky club helped to give it 100 years ago.

Party Continued with Big Race at Longchamps.

This social cachet, so characteristic of the race meets, contributes as much as ever to the glamor of the Paris season. Among those seen at the Marigny for the big Jocky club affair were Mr. and Mrs. Perry Belmont, Lord and Lady Granard and their daughter, Lady Moira Forbes, Col. and Mrs. Bentley Mott, Mrs. Paul Munn, Col. and Mrs. William Littauer, Gen. Gouraud, Marshal and Mme. Pétain, Marshal Lyautey, Princess Aymon de Faucigny-Lucinge [born Caroline Foster of New York], Count Roger de Perigny and his wife, who was Margaret Thaw, the Hon. Reginald and Mrs. Fellowes, Mr. and Mrs. Lydig Hoyt, Prince and Princess Charles Murat.

The Jocky club commemoration was continued the next day with a big race at Longchamps, the Prix du Centenaire, in which Joseph Widener's Magnus and A. K. Macomber's Bengal were entered with a score of famous cracks.

Return of Dupuy and Bride Causes Stir in Youngest Set.

The younger set are agog over the return to Paris of Jean Dupuy, son of Mme. Paul Dupuy, and his bride, the former Dorothy Spreckels, daughter of Mrs. A. B. Spreckels. For the first week of their honeymoon they are occupying Mme. Paul Dupuy's house in Versailles, which is on the site of a château originally built after the plans of Mansard on the orders of Louis XIV. for Mme. de Montespan. The Dupuy couple are going this week to Arcachon, near Bordeaux, where Mme. Paul Dupuy has her summer villa and where Robert W. Goelet and his wife, the former Mlle. Guestier of Bordeaux, have a villa on the sea. Gen. and Mme. Tauflieb—the former Julia Catlin—and the Duc Decazes, whose mother was Miss Singer of New York, also have summer homes there.

The countess of Gramedo, formerly Ethel Spenser Brown of Chicago, gave a tea and cocktail party the other day for her young daughter, Consuelo, at their home in Neuilly.

Chicagoans who have just arrived in the capital include Ira Nelson Morris, who plans to be here about a week before starting on an extensive trip throughout Europe, and William Ryan, who has taken an apartment at a hotel for the entire summer.

VIKING'S RELICS PUT ON DISPLAY BY U. S. MUSEUM

NEW YORK.—[U. P.]—Funeral urns in which ashes of Vikings' ancestors have rested since placed in Denmark some 3,500 years ago form part of a collection of stone and iron age implements now on view at the American Museum of Natural History.

Oddly enough there are in the collection approximately 3,500 implements among which figure—weapons with which these primeval men fought and amber with which their wives and daughters adorned themselves. Even earlier tools that belonged to their ancestors 5,500 years before are exhibited.

Consisting of daggers, spearheads and scrapers of primitive planes for smoothing rough wood or bone, the oldest implements in the collection are of flint. Razors, molded on much the same pattern as the modern ones came later and were of bronze, dating about 1,500 B. C. Pottery also is represented and often is decorated with simple designs of zigzags, checkers, triangles and dots. Occasionally lime has been rubbed into the pattern to lend emphasis.

In refuse heaps referred to as "kitchen middens" left by these ancient people were found broken bits of pottery, tools, weapons and bones of dogs and of deer and other wild creatures.

These bones indicate, according to Dr. Nels C. Nelson, curator of prehistoric archaeology in charge of the presentation, that the dog was the first animal associated with early man.

Efficiency of the early stone age tools was not far behind our modern mechanical improvements. As a test, Dr. Nelson, felled a four inch maple tree with a flint ax in six minutes. A Danish landowner, several years ago built a block house, necessitating the felling of 25 eight inch trees. When he had finished felling them with a flint ax the flint was undulled. Made entirely with stone age tools, the building was completed in 66 days.

Boy Tells Queen She's No Artist

LEYDEN, Holland.—(AP)—A country lad peered over the shoulder of a woman artist engaged in painting a landscape near here.

"It's not a bit like," he volunteered.

The artist proved to be Queen Wilhelmina and the lad's mortification when he learned her identity was exceeded only by the amusement of the queen at his frank criticism.

Paper Gadgets Are a Big Help in Storing and Serving Foods

Cellophane Bags Keep Fruits from Sending Odors Through Icebox.

THERE is no end to the utilization of paper in a well managed home.

Old newspapers have no place on the pantry shelves or cupboard drawers for the up to date housewife. She uses the new enameled porcelain paper which comes in a variety of colors. When this paper becomes dusty it cleans easily with a damp cloth. As a rule it gives long service.

Cellophane bags are new and useful for placing food in the refrigerator. Bananas and cantaloupes, fruits which can wreck a perfectly good refrigerator by their odors, become harmless when stuffed into these convenient bags.

Another idea for every housewife who tires of washing her best china before as well as after every party is to keep infrequently used dishes in these cellophane bags.

Pie Tape Keeps Berry Juice Where it Belongs.

Paper ramekins in assorted sizes should be on hand at all times, as they are a joy when serving a meal club fashion on one plate. They may also be used with success for baking muffins and cup cakes.

Have you ever balked at making a berry pie because the juice ran all over the oven? That may be eliminated by having on hand a roll of pie tape which keeps the juice where it belongs—inside the pie.

Discriminating women appreciate the niche paper doilies fill and are never without these useful little discs of paper ranging in sizes from 5 to 12 inches. The newest paper doilies are round or oblong in shape, made of cellophane, and have the appearance of glass over lace. They are durable, as they may be washed and do service repeatedly. These doilies will add much to your party if the table is a gayly painted affair.

Absorbent Coasters Protect Tablecloths.

Then there are linen finished tea doilies as well as those of silver or gold paper. In fact, there is no end to the selection from which one may choose. Absorbent coasters which save the wear and tear on tables and clothing come in packages of one dozen in colorful designs.

We have only hinted at a few of the many, many useful gadgets made of paper. Every housewife priding herself on a well regulated home should have a supply of these necessities which are on sale at Chicago department stores.

Dainty Corsage Conceals Purse and Prevents Loss

GONE are the days of mislaid evening purses and of compacts left in escorts' pockets, for purses now are pinned on the dress. They're hidden, however, behind a clever imitation corsage with taffeta edging which may match or contrast with the frock and be pinned to the shoulder. These concealed purses are roomy enough to hold a flat compact, lipstick, handkerchief, mirror, and small change.

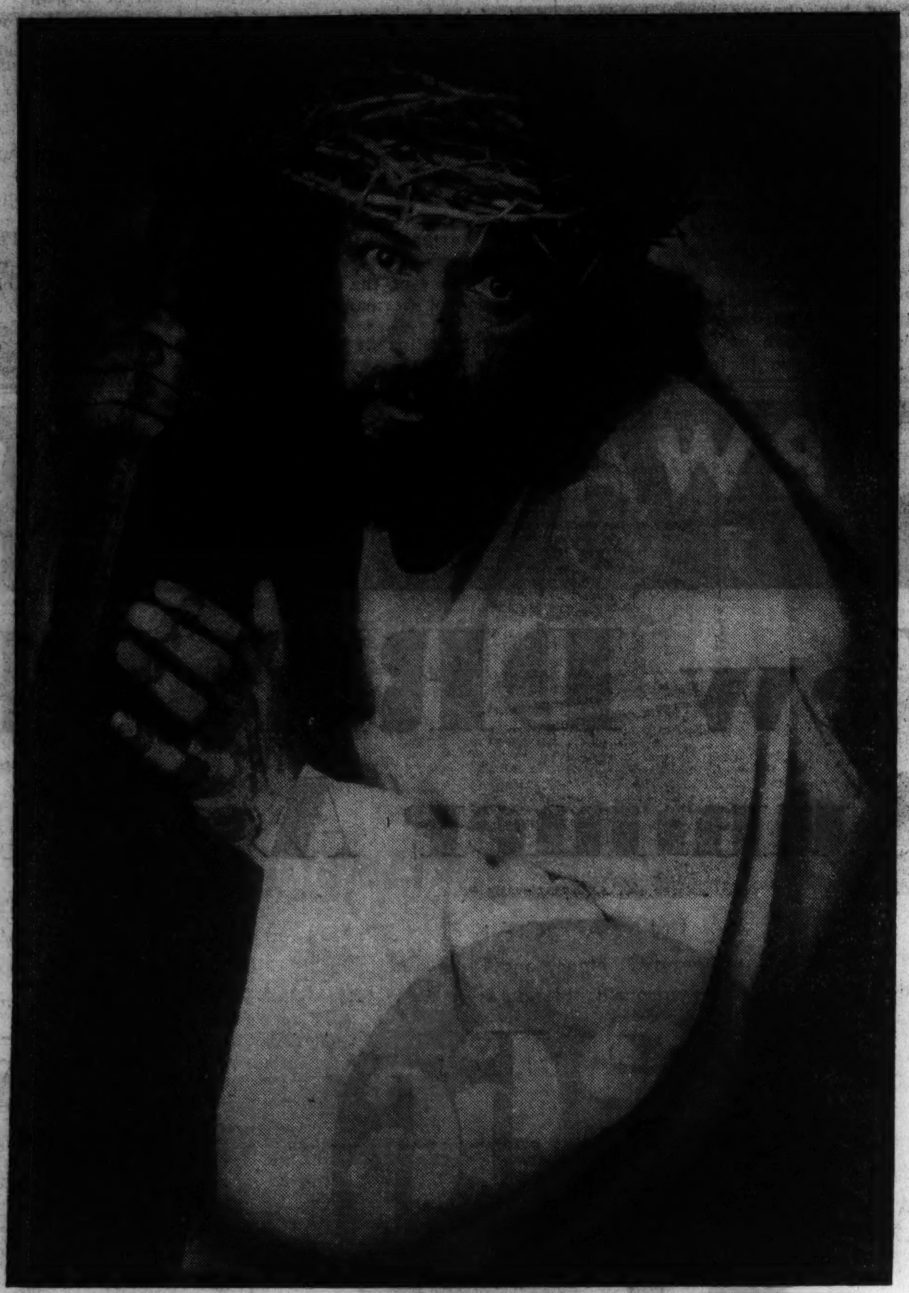
TOURS—CRUISES



ON THE WAY TO THE CRUCIFIXION

Alois Lang carrying the cross in his portrayal of the Christ at the Oberammergau Passion Play. Lang is one of the thousand peasants taking part in the religious drama, performed on an open air stage with the mountains for a background. The play is in eighteen acts.

DETOURS

By Frederic Babcock.

It used to be that whenever we middle westerners were in a grip of a particularly bad blizzard the west coast boosters would see to it that we were informed that "it's June in California." Now the steamship lines operating southward from the States are going the Californians one better. They're letting us know that it's always June in the Caribbean.

The usual idea of those who haven't been there is that it's much too hot to travel in that part of the world in the summer time. But those who've made the trip have another idea. They say it's delightfully cool at all times at sea, and that ashore the trade winds—which the people of the Caribbean call "the doctor"—keep the temperature within reason. Some of the voyagers even claim the summers down there are more refreshing than they are up here.

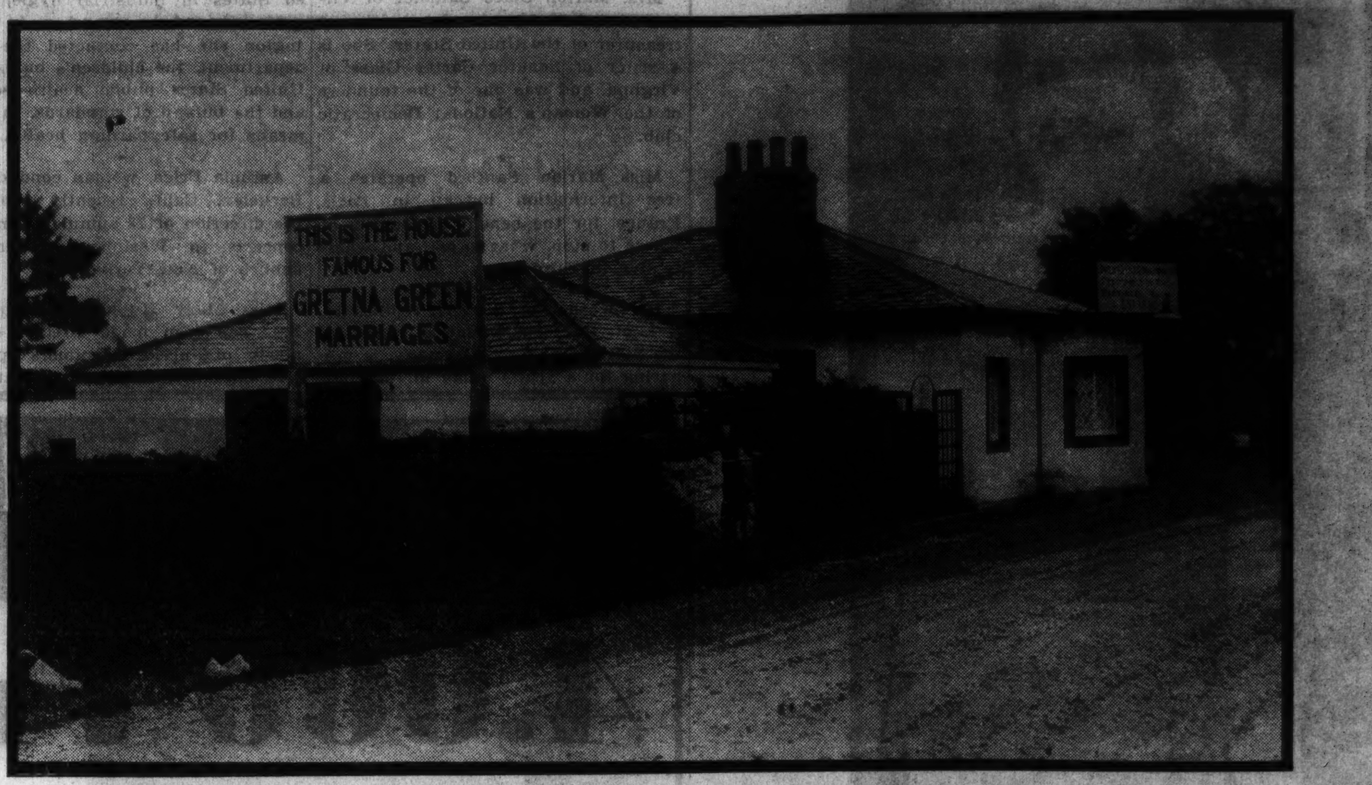
● A new means of proving or disproving this claim is to be made available beginning a week from today. Throughout the summer there will be twelve day all expense tours, leaving Chicago for New Orleans every Sunday morning and calling for stops at such romantic spots as Puerto Barrios, Guatemala; Puerto Cortes, Honduras, and Tela, Honduras. The cruises will be made aboard liners that, throughout the winter season, are jammed with travelers entranced with the Caribbean, but that, heretofore in the summer time, haven't done much with the tourist trade. There will be a number of other trips to Cuba, Panama, Jamaica, Costa Rica, and Colombia.

It looks as if a lot of Americans are going to find out for themselves whether or not it's always June in the lands and ilands to the south of us.

● Americans found out long ago that Bermuda and the like are not to be classed as winter resorts alone. The trade winds blow there also, and in the spring and early summer the semi-tropical gardens reach the height of their brilliance. Vacationers bent on the outdoor life prefer the summers there—more time for swimming, riding, golfing, and all the other daytime sports. Also, more sunshine.

● Every day brings word of projected cruises to far away lands. The Cunard line has scheduled a hundred economy tours to Europe this summer. The Canadian Pacific's Empress of Britain will leave on another globe girdling argosy next January, with all the high spots of the tropical East Indian regions on the itinerary. The Hamburg American-North German Lloyd's Resolute will set sail the last of next month for an eighty day jaunt to South America and all the way around Africa to the Mediterranean. The Holland-America's Rotterdam is leaving early in July for a Midnight Sun cruise to Iceland, Norway, Sweden, Russia, and Denmark. Cunard's Franconia, just now returning from a round the world trip, will go to the south seas next winter. The Matson line's Mariposa and Monterey are going to go to the South Pacific throughout this spring and summer. The Dollar line's fleet is cruising the Pacific the year round. These are just a few of the many.

● Meanwhile, the appetite for travel will be whetted this summer right here in Chicago. When the World's Fair reopens next Saturday it will have fifteen foreign "villages" dwelling in peace alongside each other on International road. Maybe they'll provide a lesson in international friendship. At least they'll provide a lot of ideas on foreign culture and customs.



THE FAMOUS SCENE OF TEN THOUSAND WEDDINGS

Though the law has been changed, the custom hasn't; so Gretna Green, just over the border in Scotland, is still a favorite destination for elopers from England. More than 10,000 marriage ceremonies have been performed in this little building.

SWEDES CONDUCT UNIQUE SCHOOLS FOR LAPLANDERS

STOCKHOLM.—[U. P.]—The Swedish nomad schools for Lapland children are unique institutions and offer many interesting features. A young Lapland school teacher, Miss Kally Holmstrom, recently gave an interesting account of her experiences north of the polar circle, while here.

The Lapp children attend school during four and a half months of the year and roam with their parents and their reindeer herds during the remaining seven and a half months.

While attending school they are lodged in wigwams with an open fire in the center, and the floor covered with spruce twigs, on which the pupils sit. A hole in the roof lets out the smoke. A native housekeeper prepares food for the children and they are allowed to live their usual life, with its customs and peculiarities.

In the winter the classes are held in farm buildings, but during the summer the teachers and pupils live in Laplander huts. In the summer huts the rain sometimes soaks through everything, so that the clothes and the berths do not dry for days.

At first it is a hard task to teach the little nomads, since they know only their own native language and have to be taught Swedish, and part of the instruction must be done by signs. The children, however, are quick and intelligent and eagerly interested in many subjects. Geography and history especially hold their fancy.

The youngsters of the northland are kind, affectionate and eager to repent and to make up for any mischief that they may commit, according to Miss Holmstrom.

Germans Celebrate Invention of the Menu Card by Duke

REGENSBURG, Germany.—(AP)—German gourmets celebrate this year the 445th anniversary of the invention of the menu card or bill of fare by Duke Henry of Brunswick. A local historian, studying the ancient archives of this city, discovered it by accident.

"During a session of the reichstag at Regensburg," the chronicles relate, "it was observed that Duke Henry of Brunswick had on the table at his side a long piece of paper, which he studied from time to time.

"Count Haug of Montford became curious, whereupon the duke showed him the paper, on which the head cook had written in order the dishes that were to be served, so that the duke could save his appetite for the best dishes."

Soviet Authors Open School.

LENINGRAD—(AP)—The Union of Soviet Authors has opened here a college for gifted children displaying literary talent. In addition to special training, the youngsters will study general arts and sciences.

30,000,000 Bugs on Exhibition in French Museum

PARIS.—[U. P.]—More than 30 million insects will take part in the 300th anniversary celebrations next year of the famous French museum of the Jardin des Plantes.

This museum was founded by Guy de las Bross, physician to Louis XIII., who succeeded to the French throne following the assassination of his father, Henry IV. The director of the museum, Paul Lemoine, has announced that 500 of the world's leading scientists will be invited to participate in the celebrations.

They will be shown the museum's valuable collections, which he couples with those of the British museum as being among the finest in the world.

Irish Judges War on Jazz.

DUBLIN.—(AP)—Judges here have launched a campaign against jazz dances, making it a condition for dance hall licenses that 25 per cent of each program shall be Irish dances. They bar liquor and patrons under 16 years from the halls.

Mirrors Aid Paris Trafic.

PARIS.—(AP)—Paris street corners which give American taxi passengers heart failure are being equipped with convex mirrors mounted on lamp posts. The mirrors will permit drivers to see around the corner instead of merely sounding their horns and trusting to luck.

Great Lakes Lines to Cash In on the Fair

Steamers Will Start Operating Around Here Much Earlier Than Usual.

WITH the World's Fair all set to reopen next Saturday, and with a general improvement in business conditions in the middle west, the steamship lines operating on the great lakes are getting ready for the heaviest trafic they have had in years. At least two of them will open their summer travel season much earlier than usual.

A. P. Williams, general agent for the Canada Steamship Lines, Ltd., announced last week that that company's service would begin from Toronto June 8, from Montreal to Quebec June 2, from Montreal to the Saguenay river June 15, and from Detroit to Sault Ste. Marie, Port Arthur, Fort William and Duluth, June 18. All these dates are several weeks ahead of last year's.

Tours Start Here Middle of June.

In addition, on June 16 the Canada lines will inaugurate a series of all-expense tours from Chicago by rail to Toronto, then by steamer across Lake Ontario and through the Thousand islands and the rapids of the St. Lawrence to Montreal, Quebec, and the Saguenay river. The Manoir Richelieu, a chateau-like hotel at Murray bay, will begin its summer season June 20—in time to catch the first of the travelers from Chicago.

A 23 per cent reduction in rates for the June sailings of the steamship North American from Chicago to Georgian bay and return, a four day cruise, was announced yesterday by Earl G. Kirby, passenger trafic manager of the Chicago, Duluth and Georgian Bay Transit company.

Advanced Three Weeks.

"It looks as though there is a swing back to June vacations and by reducing our June rates we plan to encourage this revival," Mr. Kirby said.

In anticipation of increased World's Fair trafic on the great lakes this summer, initial sailing dates of the S. S. South American and her sister ship, the North American, have been advanced three weeks.

The first load of Fair visitors will arrive in Chicago from Cleveland and Detroit on the South American June 19. They will use the boat as a hotel while here.

Zoo Attendant Is Animal Sculptor

ANTWERP.—(AP)—The job of feeding ostriches at the Antwerp zoo left C. H. Trompeners with plenty of time to himself. He interested himself in the habits of other zoo animals and molded them in clay.

A sculptor saw him at work, encouraged him and brought him to public attention.

VAGABOND'S DIARY

THEY say the rush to Alaska this spring is the greatest since the days of '97. . . . The boats out of Seattle are jammed with freight and passengers. . . . The price of gold has rejuvenated the mining business up there, the tourists are going along to see what it's all about, and the steamship lines are putting on more liners to take care of the trafic. . . . About time for a new Robert W. Service or Jack London to tell of the spell of the Yukon.

● Didn't know till the other day that Alaska is one-fifth the size of the United States, and that all we had to give Russia for it was $7,200,000. . . . This year the flowers began blooming in many parts of the territory as early as March. . . . Quite a contrast to the popular idea that it's a land of nothing but ice, and snow, and reindeer moss. . . . People are learning that it's one of the few remaining places of unspoiled and unexploited beauty.

● Another northern place they're finding out more about is Denmark. . . . An oasis in a desert of unrest; a haven of peace in a world of uncertainty. . . . The grandfather of all the kingdoms in Europe. . . . A country full of towering castles built by kings and barons in medieval times. . . . Moats and ramparts recalling an age of knightly splendor, romance, and adventure. . . . A countryside offering idyls of farmland, forest, and lake. . . . Odense, birthplace of Hans Christian Andersen, still has the humble cottage where he lived as a child and where he must have dreamed some of the stories that were to make him world famous.

● Then there's Norway, with its 12,000 miles of fjords unequaled anywhere else in the world. . . . Mountain masses, glaciers, and snowfields. . . . Like its neighbors, Finland and Sweden, land of the midnight sun. . . . Ruins dating back 8,000 years. . . . Land so mountainous that in some parts the farmers reach their farms with the aid of ladders laid on the hillsides. . . . Land of Ibsen, Grieg, and Bjorson.

● And Sweden, home of Nobel, Ericson, and Linnaeus. . . . It's a thousand miles from the flower decked meadows of Skane to the wild Abisko. . . . Gothenburg's canal, known as the world's finest inland voyage. . . . Ancient castles, forest fringed lakes, and the Aurora Borealis. . . . Summertime there amid the costumed peasantry is just one continuous motion picture.

● Summer is rushing toward us, and everybody's thinking of the northlands. . . . The most spectacular of the spectacles in the cool countries must be the Festival of Light, celebrated for centuries on June 23. . . . It dates back to before the time the Swedish crusaders Christianized the pagan Finns, who were in the habit of honoring the sun god on the day he stood highest in the heavens. . . . Now it's known as St. John's day, and the biggest of the celebrations is at Rovaniemi, a trading town just south of the arctic circle. . . . As the midnight sun dips close to the horizon the peasants dance around the kokkos and sing the songs known to their people ever since they were pagans.

Japan's Dragon Society Active Among Chinese

Object of Powerful Group Is Supremacy of Asiatic Races Over Occidentals

By John Powell.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, April 21.—[By Mail.]—The "Black Dragon society," sometimes referred to as the Kokuryukai or "Amur Fraternity," a powerful group of Japanese ronin, has for many years exercised a potent influence in the relations of China and Japan. The word "ronin," which may have some relation to the French word "ronyon," means literally an outcast or outlaw who has adopted patriotism as a profession. In feudal times it meant a samurai who had renounced his clan or who had been discharged or ostracised for some reason and thus had become a wanderer. In the present abnormal political situation prevailing in Japan the ronin, particularly the group in the Black Dragon society might be regarded as an unofficial secret service or department of justice which keeps watch over the nation's prestige and holds out the threat of direct action or even death against those responsible for impairing the country's dignity.

Members Mostly Diplomats.

The Black Dragon society, as now constituted, was organized about 1900 but it claims historical connections with the secret societies which had considerable to do with the Maiji restoration in 1867 or even with the famous "Forty-seven Ronin of Ako" who avenged the death of their lord in feudal times. The Japanese name for the society, "Kokuryukai" referred to the Heilungkiang or Amur river which now provides a boundary between Manchukuo and soviet-controled Siberia.

Its original purpose was to prepare Japan for the war with Russia which broke out in 1904. Its members, composed largely of men in the diplomatic service, argued that the Amur river should constitute the center of Japan's military activities. Later the society worked for the annexation of Korea and in more recent times is popularly supposed to have had considerable to do with the intervention in Manchuria in 1931.

The Japanese-fostered Pan-Asiatic society which has as its objective the alliance of Asiatic races against the occidentals and which holds periodic "congresses" composed of delegates of Asiatic countries, receives the support of the Black Dragon society. The latest meeting of this organization, held in Dairen, in February of this year, passed resolutions declaring that the time had arrived for Asiatics to cease obeying the dictates of western nations.

In 1911 the Black Dragon society helped the late Dr. Sun Yat-sen in his revolution against the Manchus and also against Gen. Yuan Shih-kai, who attempted to instal himself as emperor following the first Chinese revolution, the alleged object in both cases being to prevent the development or continuance of a régime suspected of being under European influence. Some have charged that the society's real object was to prevent the upbuilding of any régime in China or on the Asiatic continent which might become a military rival of Japan.

Active in Chinese Politics.

The society always has been active in Chinese politics and often is regarded as the "X" or unknown element in the relations of China and Japan. The fact that the organization is popularly believed to constitute the chief political support behind the present Japanese foreign minister, Koki Hirota, in his efforts to conciliate China, while at the same time refusing to make any compromises on the Manchurian issue, has served to give the activities of the society special significance at the present time. According to Taketora Ogata, chief editor of the Tokyo Asahi, Hirota wrote the draft of the famous twenty-one demands which were presented to China in 1915, Hirota at that time being a member of the political affairs bureau of the foreign office under Minister Count Kato. The demands, which were largely concerned with the consolidation of Japan's economic interests in Manchuria and the cementing of Japan's relations with the old Peking government then dominated by the Anfu clique of Chinese militarists, naturally received the active support of the Black Dragon society.

"Adroit Diplomacy."

That Hirota's views regarding Japanese policy in Manchuria have not changed was indicated in his recent statements in the diet to the effect that the sound development of Manchukuo "will serve to promote the well being of both Asia and the whole world and that this must constitute the very basis of Japan's diplomacy."

Owing to the importance of bending every possible effort in consolidating Japan's position in Manchukuo, Hirota naturally is determined to avoid serious conflict with any of Japan's neighbors, but particularly with the Soviet Union, China and the United States, in which connection he was responsible for the coinage of the term "adroit diplomacy." Editor Ogata of the Asahi in his reference to this point said that there was some anxiety that Hirota because of his connection with the Black Dragon society, might be suspected of "dangerous and daring scheming" in theaccomplishment of his ambitions, but expressed the belief that Hirota due to his long experience abroad had probably been considerably tempered. Hirota believes that Japan's position in Manchukuo will ultimately have the effect of swinging China into a military and economic alliance with Japan, otherwise the "Japan-Manchukuo-China Bloc."

In these various activities Hirota has the active support of Mitsuru Toyama the actual head of the Black Dragon society who is described as the "uncrowned king" of the ronin or political gangsters who advocate direct action and even assassination as a cure of Japan's domestic political ills and a solution for her complications with China. The extent of Toyama's power in Japan may be realized by the fact that his home is regarded as an inviolable refuge for political offenders wanted by the police.

Political Assassinations.

The prevalence of political assassinations in Japan in recent years has caused suspicion to be centered on the Black Dragon society as chiefly responsible, but this was strenuously denied by Yoshihisa Kuzuu, the secretary of the organization, in a recent interview, who declared that irresponsible ruffians often try to escape justice by claiming membership in the organization. He claimed that, so far as domestic politics in Japan is concerned, the society has constantly advocated the elimination of "impure elements" in the commercial world, which have constituted the chief financial support of the two leading political parties, the Seiyukai and Minseito.

The so-called "Seisanto" or political committee of the Black Dragon society recently advocated that political leaders should withdraw from the parties as a means of accomplishing national reform. A precedent in this regard was set by Yosuke Matsuoka, who served as Japan's chief delegate to the league during the Manchurian discussions. Matsuoka resigned his party affiliations immediately upon his return to Japan from the Geneva meeting. In commending Matsuoka for his action Secretary Kuzuu declared: "Pure elements in the existing political parties should follow Matsuoka's example and resign. To remain in the existing parties is comparable to remaining in a house of lepers. One may explain that he is not a leper, but no one will believe him so long as he stays there with persons afflicted with leprosy. The existing political parties should be dissolved when the reforms of the Showa period are accomplished, just as the feudal system was abolished after the accomplishment of the Meiji restoration."

Austrian Plans to Settle Tyrol Farmers in Brazil

RIO DE JANEIRO.—(AP)—Andreas Thaler, former minister of agriculture of Austria, hopes to have several thousand farm settlers from the Austrian Tyrol established in southern Brazil before long.

Heading an Austrian emigration society, Thaler established an experimental colony in Santa Catharina state last September. The 84 individuals, growing fruits and cereals, have thrived, said Thaler on a visit to Rio en route to Austria.

Thaler plans to bring 200 families from the Tyrol to Santa Catharina in July and said he would bring his own family to the settlement.

"I return to Austria so enthused with Brazil," said Thaler, "that I will expend the utmost effort to have several thousand Tyrolean colonists in Santa Catharina within the next few years."

Kabul to Have German Fair.

KABUL.—(AP)—A German fair is planned for this capital city of Afghanistan, to inaugurate a system of barter between Hitler's country and this Asiatic mountain kingdom. Germany will offer clothing, hardware, glass, dyes, tools, motorcycles, bicycles, and machines for hides, wool, asbestos, and fruit.

Is It Your Secret Ambition to Poke One of 'Em in the Ribs?

A FAVORITE spot for Americans in London is the Horse Guards' parade, a bit of the old city where the pageantry in ordinary times adds color to the lives of the citizens and to thousands of visitors.

Turning down picturesque Whitehall, the stranger sees on the right, just beyond the stately pile of the foreign office, a graystone Georgian structure set back from the street and surmounted by a great clock tower, the main feature of the building. Attention is riveted on the two mounted sentries at the sides of the entrance gate. Here are the mounted soldiers in steel and scarlet and gold.

Motionless as statues stand horses and riders except when a salute greets some passing army officer. Such a salutation is accompanied by so much clatter of metal armor that dreamy officials, not expecting this demonstration of respect, have been brought back to earth with an undignified jump.

He Doesn't Smile; Horse Doesn't Move.

Never a smile crosses the guard's face; his horse seldom moves. There they stand day in and day out, summer and winter. Every hour the individual sentries change, but they're so much alike that the yearly visitor to London has the feeling that the same silent horseman is always there.

Although passing throngs walk almost under the horse's nose, both rider and mount remain almost motionless throughout their period of duty. A favorite trick of visitors used to be to drop a half crown down inside the rider's high boots, but it never induced a flicker of movement from the disciplined guard.

One of England's Free Shows.

The Horse Guards building dates back to the middle seventeen hundreds and is an excellent example of Georgian architecture. It originally served as a barracks for royal guardsmen. An archway under the clock tower leads to an open space facing St. James' park. Through this archway only the king and a few highly privileged persons may drive.

The space beyond is the scene of the annual "trooping of the colors" on the king's birthday. On this day the royal guards pass in review before the king with their regimental colors flying. Uniforms of gorgeous hues, fine drilling and a distinguished audience combine to make this one of the greatest of the "free shows" of old England.

SUMMERTIME RELIEF FROM THE CITY STRAIN

The outlet of Odessa lake and, in the background, Notchtop, in the Rocky mountains in Colorado. Such vistas as this draw many thousands seeking coolness and quietude.

Lost Language with Alphabet Found in Russia

Manuscript Taken from Ruins of Castle Reveals Sogdian Cursive Script.

LONDON.—How a lost language, the Sogdian, and the alphabet employed in recording it were recently recovered in Russia is described by Prof. A. Friemann of the Leningrad Academy of Sciences in a letter to an English colleague, Dr. E. Denison Ross, director of oriental studies in the University of London.

The importance of the discovery is said to lie in the fact that hitherto only fragmentary documents in the language had been found—these by Stein, von Lecoq and Pelliot, in Chinese Turkestan, and none at all in the country of its origin. Professor Freimann's letter also throws considerable light on Uranian philology.

Manuscript Well Preserved.

"In the spring of 1933," he says, "a communication was received by the Academy of Sciences in Leningrad that a manuscript had been found in Tadjikistan written in Uighur characters. A photograph of this manuscript received in Leningrad satisfied me that this manuscript was written in the Sogdian cursive script in the Sogdian language. This engrossed the attention of specialists, since it was the first discovery of Sogdian manuscripts in the territory of Sogdiana proper.

"Dispatched on a mission by the Academy of Sciences at the end of May to Stalinbad I examined the original of the manuscript on the spot. The manuscript [28 cc. x 28 cc.], on thin [Chinese] paper, in a good state of preservation, in twenty-three lines, represents a business letter, and belongs evidently to the eighth century. The manuscript was found in the ruins of a castle on Mount Mug at the confluence of the River Kum with the Zarafshan.

Expedition Sent Out.

"On Oct. 1 an expedition of the Academy of Sciences set out from Stalinbad under my charge. As a result of the work the construction of the castle was made clear; cultural objects [military equipment, clothing, textiles and domestic implements] were found, with coins and more than sixty manuscripts on paper, parchment and pieces of wood—of the last twenty-three.

"The manuscripts, of small size, are well preserved. The contents of them, on a first examination, is the business correspondence of a local feudatory, reports of his servants, and household memoranda. The manuscripts are Sogdian, with the exception of three, of which one is Arabic [on parchment], one is Chinese, of the third it is still too early to speak.

"The available data suggest that the fortress was destroyed in connection with the Arab advance to the east in the eighth century. The influence of China and Chinese culture is noticeable. Traces of the influence of other, temporary, rulers of central Asia are also possible.

"Hitherto no Sogdian manuscripts have been found on parchment or pieces of wood. Iranian philology will be enriched with new material, new Sogdian words, and perhaps new grammatical forms."

Mexican Town Forgets Glory; Turns to Art

Produces Rare Pottery Amid Scenes That Once Echoed to Marching Feet

By Maria Teresa Martinez.

TONALA, Jalisco, Mexico.—Women of this quaint little old town, whom American lady tourists pointed to as dreamers and sunshine lovers, have snapped out of dreaming about the white girl with golden locks and ravishing blue eyes whose enterprise gained her a vast empire extending clear to the Pacific in bygone days, and are busy in back yards putting their town in the running for world renown.

Tonala is attracting visitors from all over the world, most of them nieces of Uncle Sam. The charming little town isn't as hard to reach as it used to be; there is now an excellent highway, through territory dotted with relics of thousands of years ago, from Guadalajara, Jalisco's capital and center of the National Railways of Mexico.

Local women are mating art with commerce in the production of a rare pottery, the like of which is not to be found in all the world. They make it with love and cunning and skill that have come to them from mother to daughter down the ages. Theirs is perhaps the world's greatest home craft.

More Placid Than in Old Days.

When American women reach Tonala and view funny old buildings and mementoes of the glory that was here in its bloom long before the celebrated $24 deal the wily Dutch made with the five nations for Manhattan they are apt to yawn when they look at venerable houses in which everybody seems to be fast asleep. Tonala today is much more placid than it was a thousand years ago, when its streets trembled under the tread of haughty nobles, fiery fighting men, and crafty statesmen. But when the guides lead the tourists into the back yards of these sleepy looked homes the visitors' eyes become round with astonishment, for they find women busy making art works of clay.

Cashing in on the Artistry.

Time was, a long time, when Tonala women made pottery for the love of it and when they felt like doing something. They still make beautiful things of moist and messy earth for the joy of it, but now they are working regularly. Tourists never tire of watching them. In the shade of lean-tos and as children and chickens flit about in the strong sunshine and cows and burros chew their cuds these women make clay into living things as they puff cigarets. Other women squat in other corners, and with tongues out, like absorbed little girl art students, cunningly paint gorgeous colors onto vases, jugs, cups, and ornaments—things of delicate lines—that have cooled after the furnace. These designs are distinctive—no two of them are ever exactly alike. The Tonala pottery coloring artist who can't think up a brand new design for each set just is not.

Other Tonala women are helping their artist sisters to cash in on their efforts. They run funny little shops chuck full of this delightful pottery. But business acumen hasn't got the better of them. They don't try to make each customer make them rich. Their prices are reasonable. For example, a tea set for six persons, a thing of joy and durable enough to stand all wear excepting as vehicles for domestic arguments, sets one back only five pesos [about $1.40, United States]. These shopkeepers are right up to the minute.

Many Tonala women potters are striving to better their art. They are gathering information of how their ancestors of the long ago did the thing. They are consuming a deal of midnight oil, consulting aged tomes, to capture the knacks of their folk of the remote past. This research is making Tonala pottery even more beautiful.

Alpine Climbers Parade.

ROME.—(AP)—Young Alpine climbers, numbering 30,000, paraded before Premier Mussolini recently in a demonstration that the nation was heeding his warning that Italy's mountain frontiers must be well guarded. The marchers were members of the Alpine branch of the Fascist national youth movement.

TIPS TO TOURISTS

What's your travel problem? Address queries regarding where to go, how to get there, costs, and accommodations, to The Travelers' Guide, Chicago Tribune, enclosing stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Are there any flower festivals in the west at this time of the year?
N. C.

Yes; one begins in Yosemite National park Thursday of this week and continues through next Sunday. It is devoted mainly to wild flowers. The famous Rose festival will be held in Portland June 11 to 14.

How would I go about getting a line on canoe trips to be had in the province of Quebec?—E. M.

Write the Topographical and Air Survey bureau, Department of Interior, Ottawa, for a map. There are many attractive routes through interlocking lakes and streams up there.

We wish to visit scenes connected with Alexander Hamilton's early life, and were told they were to be found in the West Indies. Please let us know just where.—C. H.

Alexander Hamilton was born at Nevis, in the West Indies, but spent his youth and young manhood in St. Croix, Virgin Islands. His desk is still to be seen in the dingy store where he made plans that were to come true in the United States.

What's the date of the next Eucharistic congress in Buenos Aires?—M. O'C.

Oct. 10 to 14.

My friend and I wish to make a trip out west this summer, but he is under the impression that a stay at the dude ranches is limited to the wealthy, owing to the cost. Can you please set us right?—G. M. R.

Your friend is all wet. There are dude ranches that still charge pretty stiff prices, but there are others that are extremely reasonable. The rate varies from around $25 to around $75 a week, with room, board and horseback riding included. The ranches are situated throughout the Rockies, with plenty of good ones in Wyoming, Montana and Colorado.

Just what is there to see at Versailles?—G. L.

The great palace and magnificent gardens are the chief attractions. They were the last to be built by France's luxury loving kings. The Galerie des Glaces is of interest because the German empire was proclaimed there in 1871, and the treaty of peace was signed there following the world war. The Grand and Petit Trianons and the "Hameau" of Marie Antoinette also attract wide attention.

THE WORLD'S GREATEST NEWSPAPER

May 20, 1934

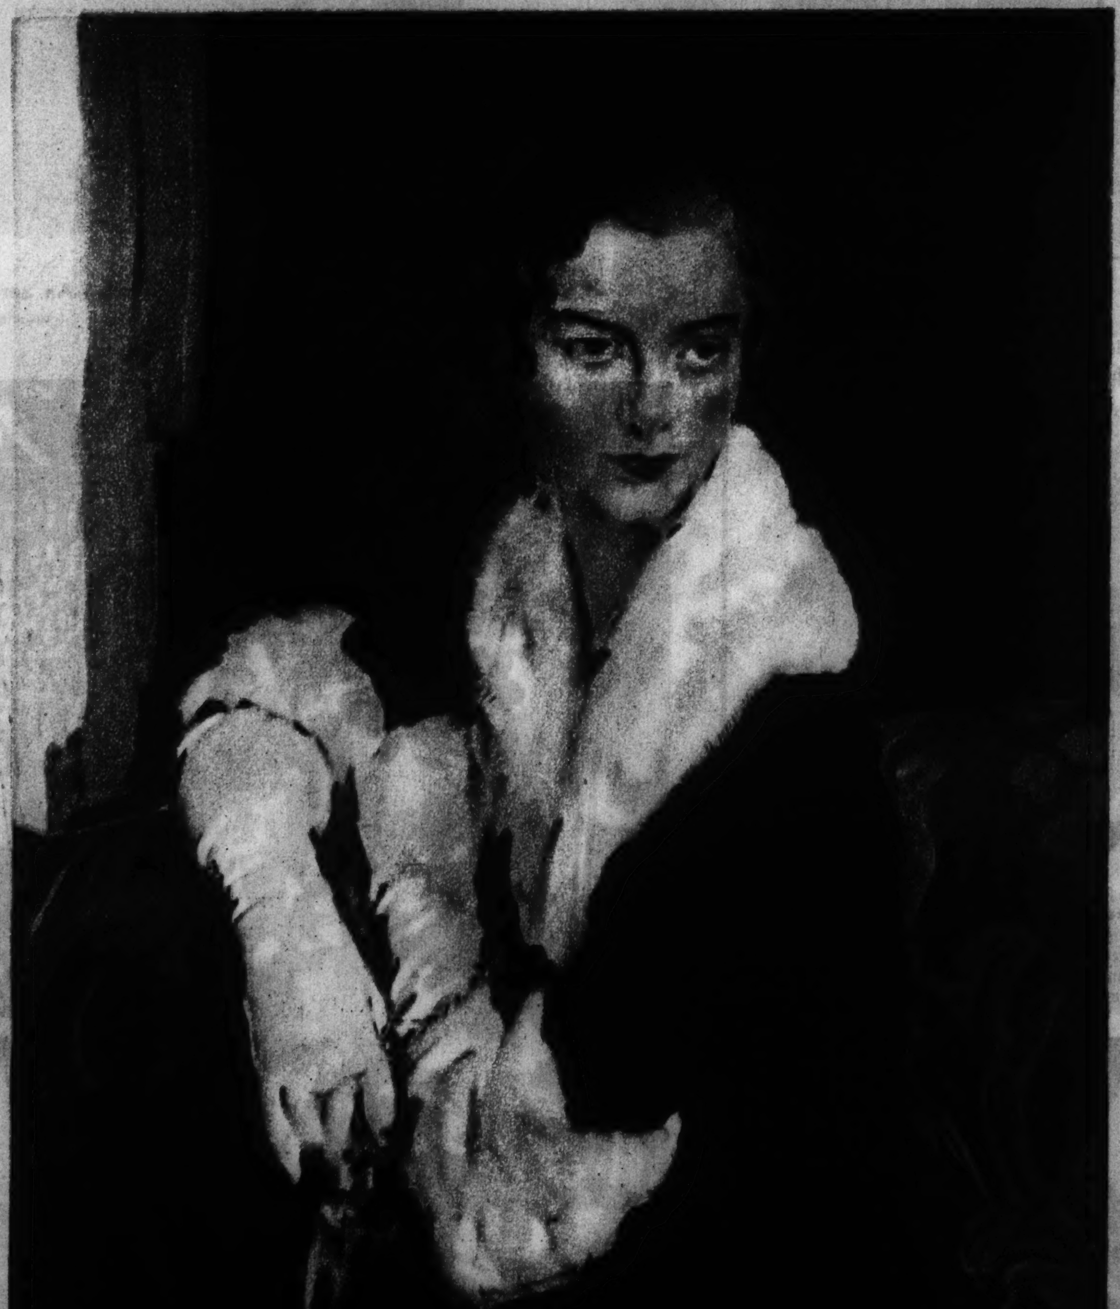
THIS YEAR, AS LAST, THE OFFICIAL WORLD'S FAIR EXHIBITION OF PAINTINGS WILL BE ON DISPLAY AT THE CHICAGO ART INSTITUTE. TWO OF THE PICTURES THERE EXHIBITED ARE PRINTED ON THIS PAGE. "LADY WITH GLOVES," BY CECILIA BEAUX, AN AMERICAN PAINTER BORN IN 1863. SHE RANKS WITH MARY CASSATT, THE TWO BEING THE MOST FAMOUS AMERICAN WOMEN ARTISTS OF THIS GENERATION. THE MUCH-COVETED DISTINCTION OF A CARNEGIE PRIZE WAS AWARDED WITHIN RECENT YEARS TO MISS BEAUX, SHE BEING THE ONLY WOMAN PAINTER TO HAVE BEEN SO HONORED. SHE IS A PORTRAIT PAINTER AND STANDS OUT AS SUCH IN CONTRAST TO MARY CASSATT, WHO IS BEST KNOWN FOR HER TENDER GROUPS OF MOTHER AND CHILD. THE "LADY WITH GLOVES" IS LENT BY THE WHITNEY MUSEUM OF AMERICAN ART, NEW YORK CITY, TO THE CHICAGO ART INSTITUTE FOR THE 1934 FINE ARTS EXHIBITION.



"DEMPSEY AND FIRPO," BY GEORGE BELLOWS (AMERICAN), 1882-1925. BELLOWS' DEATH AT THE AGE OF 43 WAS A GREAT LOSS TO AMERICAN ART. HE WAS RAPIDLY COMING TO THE FRONT AS TYPICAL OF THE BEST IN CONTEMPORARY AMERICAN PAINTING. HE HAD STRENGTH AS WELL AS ORIGINALITY, SINCERITY, AND A PASSION FOR WORK. AS A YOUNG MAN HE WAS DESTINED BY HIS PARENTS TO EITHER THE LAW OR THE MINISTRY; DECIDING HIS CAREER FOR HIMSELF, HOWEVER, BELLOWS BECAME A PAINTER. HE WAS THE BEST SHORTSTOP THE UNIVERSITY OF OHIO BOASTED IN HIS COLLEGE DAYS. THE INTEREST IN SPORTS DID NOT STOP WITH BASEBALL. BELLOWS ENJOYED FIGHTS TREMENDOUSLY, AND MANY OF HIS BEST WORKS ARE CONCERNED WITH THIS SUBJECT. THE "DEMPSEY AND FIRPO" WAS ONE OF HIS FINEST PAINTINGS, DONE AT THE HEIGHT OF HIS POWERS. IT IS LENT TO THE 1934 A CENTURY OF PROGRESS FINE ARTS EXHIBIT AT THE CHICAGO ART INSTITUTE BY THE WHITNEY MUSEUM OF AMERICAN ART AT NEW YORK.

NATURALLY WAVY HAIR...

GINGER ROGERS' hair is always so perfectly groomed—not a hair out of place or out of curl, that nearly everyone thinks she has naturally wavy hair. What's her beauty secret? A Frederics Permanent Wave! "Keeping my hair soft, lustrous, and beautifully waved is no problem. I have a Frederics Permanent Wave." Says

Ginger Rogers

ELLEN: YOUR HAIR ALWAYS LOOKS SO PERFECTLY WONDERFUL, MARY! I WISH MY PERMANENT WAVE WAS AS BEAUTIFUL AND LUSTROUS AS YOURS.
RUTH: SO DO I. PERMANENTS SEEM TO MAKE MY HAIR SO HARSH AND DRY, JUST LIKE STRAW.
MARY: THAT'S BECAUSE YOU PATRONIZE SHOPS THAT USE CHEAP, HARSH PROCESSES. WHY NOT DO AS I DO, GO TO AN AUTHORIZED FREDERICS SHOP? THE FREDERICS FRANCHISE CERTIFICATE IS YOUR GUARANTEE OF PERMANENT PERFECTION.

IT is almost impossible, even for an expert, to tell the difference between a Frederics Permanent Wave and naturally wavy hair. That is why popular screen favorites, like Ginger Rogers, always insist upon Frederics Permanent Waves.

Frederics Waves are unequaled in comfort and gentleness, unmatched in softness and naturalness. They give to your hair that exquisite loveliness—elusive charm, and youthful radiance that is always the subject of much admiration.

If you want a permanent wave as enchanting and alluring as Ginger Rogers, do as she does—Patronize an Authorized Frederics shop. Look for the Frederics Franchise Certificate which guarantees the use of a Frederics machine. Examine all the wrappers used on your hair—make sure no harmful imitations are used.

". . . Heber Jeddy Grant . . . the man who has been since 1918 'prophet, seer, revelator, and head' of the Mormon church . . ." Heber Grant as head of the church is also nominal head of dozens of powerful Utah industrial and commercial organizations.

ZEAL, UNITY, HEBER GRANT EXALT MORMON EMPIRE

By Joseph U. Dugan

EIGHT THOUSAND of the faithful, men and women, are gathered in the large and lofty hall that is the general meeting room of the huge temple of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints. They are assembled in Salt Lake City's most imposing edifice to attend the 104th general conference of the Mormon church. Severely simple, in accordance with the traditions of a century, are the proceedings. Before the faithful sit the president of the church, his two counsellors, and the twelve apostles. Following a general prayer of considerable length, one of the apostles rises. The supreme moment of the conference has arrived.

The standing apostle reads slowly the name of Heber Jeddy Grant. There is a moment of complete stillness, broken by the rustle of movement as the eight thousand, without a single exception, raise their hands in token of approval of the man who has been since 1918 "prophet, seer, revelator, and head" of the Mormon church.

An outsider witnessing a general conference of the Mormons today could not help feeling amazement at the unity, the oneness of purpose pervading the meeting. This unanimity is explained partly by the history of the church, but the whole answer depends on the history of one of its leaders and the influence of this man on his successors. He was Brigham Young. His life and character unquestionably have inspired the five men who since Young's death in 1877 have worn the mantle of Mormon president.

The present incumbent, Heber Jeddy Grant, first native Utahan to be elevated to the position, has had a career eminently suitable as an illustration of the influence of Brigham Young on those who followed him.

Mormonism in Utah is the nearest approach in the United States to a state church. On closer examination it appears to be not so much a state church as a church-controled state. One is tempted to think of the temporal side of this church as a form of communism comparable in many respects to that of soviet Russia. Again, closer inspection dissipates this temptation. The church and its community stand rather as a form of capitalistic communism, if such ambiguous expression may be used.

Heber Grant as head of the church also is nominal head of dozens of powerful Utah industrial and commercial organizations, including mines, factories, banks, and insurance companies. He has the power of an absolute dictator over a vast commonwealth, but no austere and autocratic king is Grant. Close contact with the humblest members of his flock is and always has been a ruling principle for presidents of the Mormon church.

"It is easy for the humblest washerwoman to interview me upon any subject which concerns her, no matter how trivial," said Grant on one occasion. "Literally, we are a brotherhood. Our religion makes us contented."

It is the contention of the Mormons that they are the chosen people of God. All others are gentiles. The Mormons today are a contented and highly prosperous people. The background for this present-day state of affairs is the brilliant leadership of men who triumphed over brutal persecution, inhuman privations, and a literal war of extermination directed against them. When tributes are paid to the indomitable courage and will of the American pioneers, consideration is due the Mormons of 1845. They fought their way across a continent and changed a desert into a prosperous land.

The church within the last quarter of a century has become so powerful financially and politically and has used this power with such wise moderation that the gentile press and people of America and the world no longer are concerned with what once was the burning "Mormon question." Since 1890, when the Mormons gave up and forever banished the practice of polygamy, the chief cause of friction between the Mormon community and the rest of the country has been removed. People not of their faith no longer consider the Mormons as "horned devils, living and glorying in sin," an idea which was given wide publicity even after the Latter Day Saints ceased the practice of plural marriages.

Heber Grant, himself the product of a plural marriage, practiced polygamy as a young man. He had three wives and was the father of twelve children, two boys and ten girls. Both of his sons and two of the wives have died. Recently he was quoted on the subject as follows:

"Plural marriages are no more. Although they used to be in good form among us, today they are condemned absolutely. There are still some who believe in it and who attempt to practice it, but they suffer when they are discovered. Before the practice was forbidden it was different. Contrary to the propaganda spread by the enemies of the church, plural marriages as practiced by the Mormons were not different from any other form of holy matrimony. The laws of the Mormon church were such that a man was required to get a written indorsement before he could enter into plural marriage, and his character had to be of the best. Even when the practice was common, the number of such marriages was insignificant compared with the population."

Heber Grant was born in 1856, nine years after Brigham Young had arrived in Utah with the first party of immigrants fleeing from persecution in Missouri and Illinois. The little colony on the shores of Great Salt lake was putting up a struggle for existence against terrific odds. During Heber's boyhood and young manhood the Mormons under Brigham Young and his stalwart assistants in the high councils of the church were beset by disease, famine, and further persecution. Grant's father, Jedediah, was one of Young's right hand men and was a firebrand in leading the Mormon people in defense of their homes and principles. Heber grew up under conditions of abject poverty, but he early exhibited a talent for business affairs which indicated the possibilities for his future.

Brigham Young, the great leader, had drilled the necessity of hard work and thrift into his flock and with an iron hand had forced strict obedience to his commands. As a result he brought economic prosperity out of chaos and left to the younger men rising to leadership in the church a heritage of good business management. One of the young men who profited most by Young's example was Heber Grant.

Like Young and other of the leaders of the church in Utah, Heber Grant was primarily an organizer and a business man, yet he devoted many of his early years to missionary work and was the first representative of the church to head a mission to Japan. Later he became the head of lesser Mormon communities in Utah, these community divisions being called "stakes." He was not 26 years old when he was chosen an apostle of the church to sit with the quorum of twelve. During the presidency of Joseph Fielding Smith, who was no relation of the founder of the church, Grant rose to the presidency of the quorum of apostles. This position means that the incumbent automatically succeeds to the presidency of the church. Following Smith's death in 1918, Grant became president.

The high point in the career of President Grant was the celebration in 1930 of the one hundredth anniversary of the founding of his church. Nearly one million Mormons from all parts of the world attended the one hundredth general conference and celebration. Modern, bustling Salt Lake City, typical of twentieth century America, was the Mecca that day for hundreds of thousands of men, women, and children who resembled in speech and dress the Mormons of a century ago as little as the skyscrapers of modern Salt Lake City resemble the adobe houses and stores of the first settlers.

In fact, the only link between the Mormons of today and those of yesteryear is the ritual and the organization of the church, and even these have undergone great changes and developments through the years. The government of the church, however, remains essentially the same. On the spiritual side the church leaders rely in these days more upon moral teaching and a modern interpretation of scripture than upon those innumerable and often amazing "direct revelations of God" received daily in the first days of the church's organization by its prophet and founder, Joseph Smith Jr.

Probably no good Mormon would admit it, but in the light of the findings of impartial historians it is probable that the Mormon church would not have survived long after 1844 had it not been for the leadership of Brigham Young. Not that the Latter Day Saints of today are unappreciative of what Young did. His place in the hearts of good Mormons is second only to that of Prophet Joseph.

Joseph Smith, unbiased historians tell us, was from youth a freak evangelist and religious faker. As a boy in Palmyra, N. Y., he had a reputation for laziness and general backward-

BAPTISM AFTER DEATH

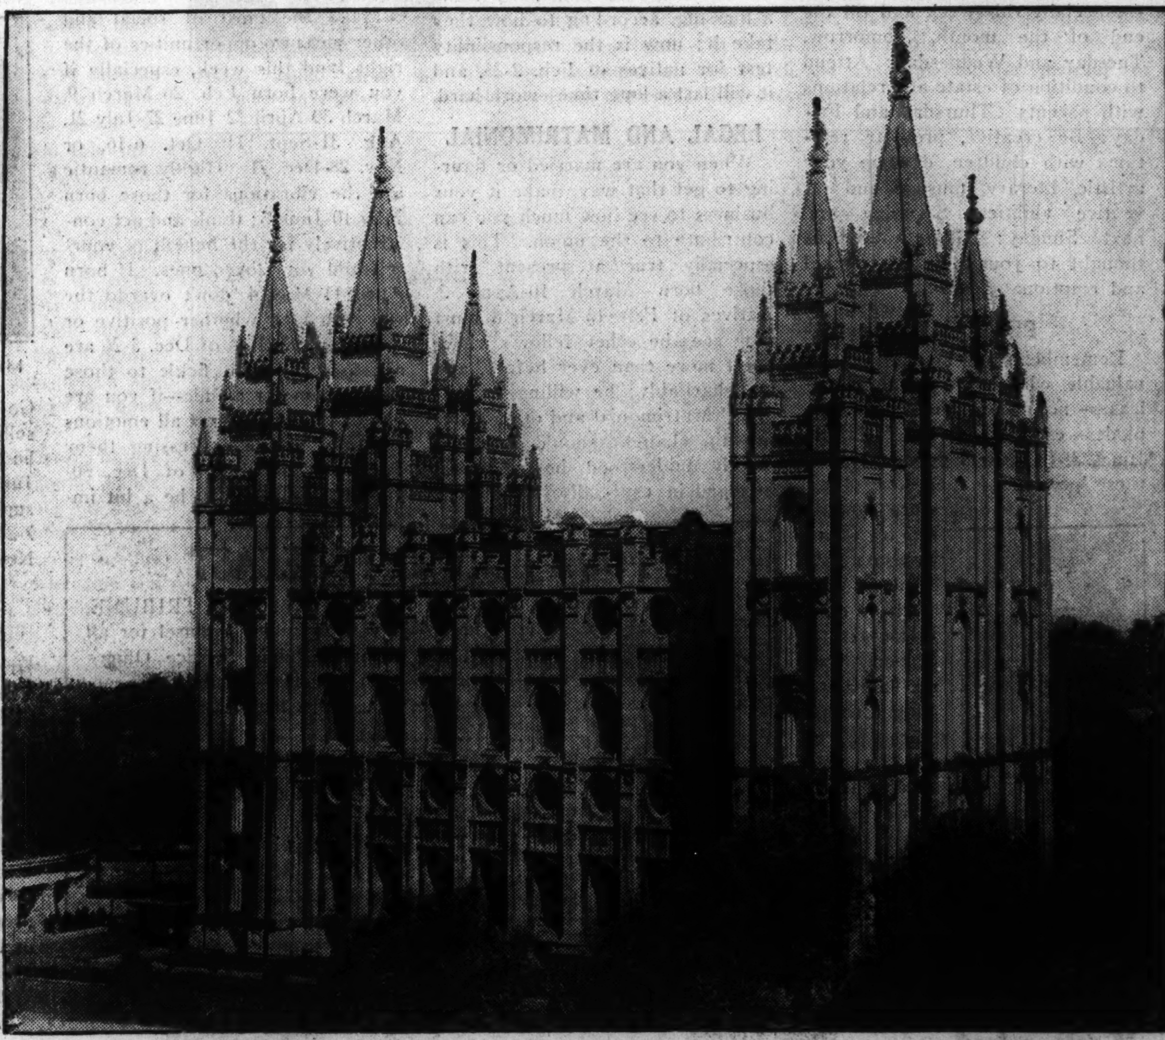
Mormons believe in and practice "baptism after death," in accordance with a tenet of the church which provides that relatives of Mormons, even their ancestors, who died without being members of the faith, may obtain salvation by proxy through baptism. For that reason the Mormons are more interested in genealogy, perhaps, than are the members of any other religious sect. Faithful Mormons, desiring to "save" close or distant relatives who have departed this life and were not members of the Mormon church, appear before the proper church authorities for baptismal immersion.



". . . the huge temple of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints . . . Salt Lake City's most imposing edifice . . ." The temple was erected at a cost of $4,000,000. Only Mormons may enter certain rooms.

SAUSAGE VENDOR FROM ANCIENT NORMANDY

(Acme photo.)

EACH year in France great numbers of sturdy Norman peasants travel to Paris to attend the annual ham and iron fair. A typical representative of the Norman visitors is this sausage vendor, selling his wares to the fair visitors. Although Normandy today has no separate political existence, it was for centuries in ancient times a territory over which both France and England fought many bitter and bloody battles. Normandy, which lies opposite England on the English channel, was united with England from 1106 to 1204, when France regained possession. In 1790, when the French departments were created, Normandy became one with other political divisions of France.

STAGE COACH "ROBBER" CAUGHT BY CAMERA

(Acme photo.)

THIS "big bad desperado" of the west was caught by the cameraman in the act of robbing an overland coach in the manner of the notorious James boys of long ago. The stage coach, modeled after one of the famous old Concord coaches which crossed the continent in the pioneer days of the west, was displayed recently in the windows of a Los Angeles bank. C. N. Wilt of West Los Angeles built the miniature. It took him 500 hours to complete the job. The young man posing as a "robber" is Douglas Knight, son of an official of the bank in which the coach was exhibited.

HISTORY OF NAMES GUIDES PUZZLED PARENTS

By Dorothy Schmidt

PEOPLE who complain that their parents might have expended a trifle more cerebral energy before making final decisions about the names they now must carry to the grave should realize that they have, indeed, waited until adult years to voice protest. For when it comes to bestowing a title on a newly born infant the baby himself is no help whatever. He lies silent, pink, and complacent in his crib, absolutely of no assistance in the momentous debate in progress around him.

It is because of the difficulties involved that this series of articles is presented each week, in order to assist the parents of babies who still are anonymous. This week H names hold the limelight. The number of prominent male personages whose titles begin with this letter are almost innumerable, but the same cannot be said of women. Compared with the masculine faction of celebrities, the feminine does not rank so well in the matter of having H for an initial.

When one considers the number of reasons why parents select the names they do for their babies, the following might be something of a general conclusion. In the first place, names might be chosen because they are borne by some admirable person, much in the public eye, past or present. Secondly, names handed down through a family for generations acquire veneration and esteem. In the third place, especially when mothers have the prerogative, coinages are held in high favor rather than names with long histories behind them. Lastly, parents who spend an unusual amount of concentration on the matter are likely to select a name which reflects some quality of personality that appeals to them.

Here are descriptions of several names headed by the letter H.

Harold—This is derived from a Teutonic root pertaining to war. It soon became one of the most renowned of northern names. Harald Hardrada or the Resolute, was the crown of the poetic sea kings of Norway meeting with romantic adventures in Constantinople, singing the praises of his Russian bride all across the sea. It was from the Danes, however, that Harold came to England, with the son of Knut. The son of Earl Godwin, the Usurper, more than half a Dane in blood and temper, is regarded by the popular English mind as an English patriot, and has had a good many namesakes.

Henry—This name sprang into favor with the Saxon emperor called the Fowler, and his descendant won the honors of a saint, whence this name became a special favorite in Germany. In that country it was borne by six emperors, princes innumerable, and by so many others that the contraction Heintz became so popular as to be given to household pets. Its popularity culminated during the French religious wars, when Henri de Valois, Henri de Bourbon, and Henri de Guise were fighting the war of the three Henris. On the whole this is one of the most universal of Teutonic names and one of the most English in use, although not Anglian in origin. The feminine seems to have been invented in the sixteenth century, probably in France, for Henriet Stuart appears in the house of Stuart d'Aubigne in 1588, and there were some Henriettes to match the Henris at the court of Catherine de Medici.

Herbert—The Franks called it Charibert, when it belonged to the king of Paris, whose daughter brought Christian doctrine to Kent, and prepared the way for St. Augustine. A Norman settler brought it to England even in the time of Edward the Confessor, and one of the many Herberts founded a family in Wales which in the time of Henry V. was one of the first to follow the advice to use one patronymic instead of the whole pedigree of names. It is probably due to the honors accruing to various branches of this family that Herbert has become an exceedingly prevalent Christian name in England.

Helen—From the Greek root meaning "light" sprang the name most noted of al among Greek women, the fatal title of Helene, the feminine of Helenos (the light or bright). The name Helena never died away in Greece. It was copied subsequently by Roman ladies. Beginning with the famed beauty of the "Iliad," this lovely name has been linked, through the centuries, with a host of poetical associations.

Hero—Hera, the goddess, does not seem to have had many persons directly named after her, although there were plenty from the root of her name. The feminine Hero probably was thus derived, belonging to the daughter of Priam, and then to the maiden whose enticing charms led Leander to breast the perilous waves of the Hellespont.

THIS WEEK FOR EVERYBODY: WHAT THE STARS FORECAST

BRUTE STRENGTH will not batter down the door that the tiny key opens almost without effort. Seek the key to happiness in the wisdom of right thought and action, rather than in artificial excitement and emotions—especially this week and till the end of the month. Tomorrow, Tuesday and Wednesday: Attend to condition of estate and relations with parents. Thursday and Friday: Be creative, promote relations with children, develop your artistic, literary, musical and inventive abilities. Saturday and next Sunday: Give a serious thought to your physical, mental and emotional health.

PERSONAL

Remember that steam is most valuable when used in small releases—not when the boiler explodes—especially if born May 1-June 23. This is a good week for these persons if they keep their more volatile emotions reasonably repressed. Take note, Claudette Colbert, Norma Talmadge, Bing Crosby, Alice Faye, and Irving Berlin. Inner development and expansion can be made external and profitable by natives of Sept. 12-Oct. 5. The sands of your affairs are shifting and should be moderately shifted with, if you were born March 30-April 27, Feb. 17-21, Aug. 22-26, or Oct. 21-25. Guard your emotional reactions (don't feel abused or injured, even if you are), if your birthday is Aug. 17-Sept. 9, Feb. 26-29, April 10-13, or Oct. 13-17. Responsibility is a burden to some, to some a blessing, according to how they take it; now is the responsibility test for natives of Feb. 2-25, and it will last a long time—work hard.

Norma Talmadge

LEGAL AND MATRIMONIAL

When you are married or figuring to get that way, make it your business to see how much you can contribute to the union. This is especially true at present with those born March 10-April 2. Natives of Feb 13-March 8 must now see the other fellow's viewpoint more than ever before, and act charitably; be willing to forgive. Matrimonial and other partnership changes should be thoroughly understood before being indulged in especially if you were born Oct. 2-30. Avoid clashes that would cause legal losses this week if born Aug 5-29 or Nov. 3-Dec. 23. Improve your relations with children and others younger, if you were born Nov. 28-Dec. 21 or Jan. 25-Feb 17; now is the time to make lasting gains.

SOCIAL AND ROMANTIC

Make the most of social and other pleasure opportunities of the right kind this week, especially if you were born Feb. 26-March 9, March 30-April 22, June 27-July 21, Aug. 31-Sept. 11, Oct. 6-16, or Nov. 28-Dec 21. Highly romantic are the vibrations for those born May 10-June 3; think and act constructively for the benefit of yourself and your loved ones. If born April 11-May 4 don't overdo the way you feel, whether positive or negative. Natives of Dec. 3-26 are apt to seem a bit fickle to those about them for awhile—if you are one of this group, test all emotions carefully before expressing them. Sons and daughters of Dec. 30-Jan. 31 probably will be a bit impetuous this week; keep the enthusiasm, don't throw it away. Make new friends if born May 24-June 23, or Nov. 11-Dec. 4. Steer around scandal if a native of May 25-July 17, or Sept. 9-Oct. 3.

BUSINESS AND OCCUPATION

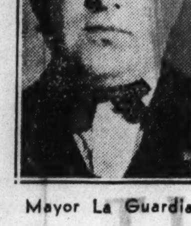
Natives of Dec. 11-Jan. 3, including such well known persons as Mayor LaGuardia of New York, Sally Eilers, Ruth Chatterton, and Marlene Dietrich should grasp the opportunities now in their vicinity for advancement with superiors and the general public. Be cautious with those above you, however, if you entered the world April 29-May 23, or from July 2 to Sept. 20, including all of August. Go after new business, buying and selling wisely according to your best judgment, if born May 29-June 28 or Dec. 16-28. Cultivate superiors this week, if born Jan. 7-21, May 21-June 5, July 9-24, or Nov. 22-Dec. 6.



Mayor La Guardia

TRAVEL AND STUDY

Study for the job ahead, particularly if you were born Jan. 9-Feb. 1, May 31-June 25, or Aug. 31-Oct. 4, including all of September. This is a wonderful week for starting constructive self-instruction or travel for development; if you were born July 29-Aug. 27, start, and then keep going. Natives of Dec. 13-Jan 5 should study and travel as much as possible, but at present only when they are sure of their emotions.

WHERE A CUBIC INCH WEIGHS A TON

Graphs indicate relative density of platinum and substance from companion star of Sirius; of platinum and soft coal; of various metals, the earth, and the sun.

A TON of soft coal of a certain nut size is shoveled into your basement. It occupies a space of some 40 cubic feet.

Suppose now you order 1,559 pounds of platinum—of course you have no use for so much platinum—and place it alongside the coal. This is one of the world's heaviest metals. Of such weight is it that the three-quarters of a ton would form a cube less than 13 inches in each dimension, occupying a total space of only 2,000 cubic inches. Such are the variations in weight of materials in the earth.

Known to astronomers, however, is matter so dense that by comparison platinum is feathery. One cubic inch of material from a certain star less than enough to fill a penny match box, would weigh a ton, it was pointed out recently in New York by Sir Arthur Eddington, the celebrated English scientist. That is not scientific news, but the illustration is striking.

The one cubic inch of star stuff would outweigh the 2,000 cubic inches of platinum you have placed alongside your coal and would equal in weight the 40 cubic feet of coal itself.

The star to which Sir Arthur refers is the faint companion of Sirius, the "dog star." It was Prof. W. F. Adams of Mount Wilson observatory who, in 1914, discovered the density of the star. Astronomers were frankly incredulous. The findings of Professor Adams were corroborated, however, in later tests, which, incidentally, furnished important confirmation of the Einstein theory.

The density of material from the companion star of Sirius appears even more remarkable by comparison with terrestrial metals lighter than platinum. In terms of the weight of water platinum has a density of 21.45, as indicated in one of the accompanying graphs. The heaviest of the metals, osmium—used for electric light filaments and for other industrial purposes—has a density of 22.5; while the lightest, with a density of only .53, is scarcely more than half as heavy as water. This featherweight of metals is lithium, which has medicinal and industrial uses.

Between the lightest and heaviest of metals lie aluminum, silver, and gold, the densities of which are given in the same graph. It will be noted that aluminum, relatively light, is less than three times as heavy as water.

The star stuff in the companion of Sirius also is of tremendous weight as compared with the earth as a whole, the density of which is 5.57; and it is still weightier in comparison with the sun, which has a density of 1.4.

Sirius, the brightest star in the sky, is one of the earth's nearest star neighbors, Sir Arthur points out. Its distance from our globe is a mere 8.8 light years, or 51 million million miles. Its mass is 2.4 times that of the sun. The mass of the heavyweight companion of Sirius is only 85 per cent of that of the sun, and it emanates only 1-360th as much light.

ZEAL, UNITY, AND HEBER GRANT EXALT BATTLE-SCARRED MORMON EMPIRE

ness. When, some time before the year 1830, he told the story that he had been visited by an angel from heaven and directed to recover from a certain hill a book of golden plates, which would be the basis for a new and true religion, only the members of his immediate family and a few friends paid any attention to him.

Joseph later complained bitterly against the attitude of his neighbors and their ridicule of himself and his visions. He said the angel Moroni directed him to the hill of Cumorah, where he unearthed the golden plates and a peculiar pair of spectacles containing stones instead of lenses. These stones were named Urim and Thummim. With the stones Joseph was enabled to read the characters on the golden plates.

A year or so later, with the help of amanuenses, Joseph translated the golden plates and obtained financial backing to publish the translation, which he called "The Book of Mormon." It was a lengthy and exceedingly dull literary work. Each page was choked with scriptural phrases, repeated over and over again. In later years there were charges, none of them proved, that Smith had committed plagiarism by rewriting the work of another religious author, and that much of his Book of Mormon was crude rewriting of chapters in the Old Testament.

In any event, Joseph's book caused no noticeable ripple in the literary world of that time. Members of his family and the man who had financed the printing made serious efforts to sell copies of the book, with little success. In the meantime Joseph continued to receive direct revelations and visions and so impressed his family and a few friends as to encourage him to seek a wider audience. By this time he had been married and was having a hard struggle to earn a living.

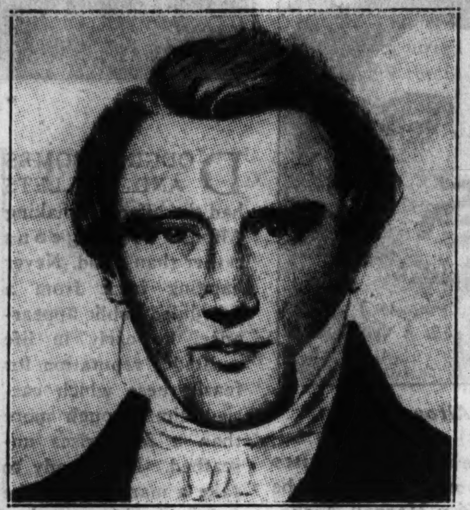
Then Joseph received word from on high that he had been chosen to lead the faithful to a new Zion, there to live and await the judgment day. In the spring of 1830 he organized the Church of Jesus Christ, with himself as prophet, seer, and revelator. The other part of the name of this church, "of Latter Day Saints," was added later.

Vigorous proselyting by Joseph and his family and friends failed to convert many souls to the new cause at first, so Joseph decided that his church should be removed to new and more fertile fields. He took his followers, therefore, to Kirtland, O., a place which at that time was the ideal location. Many of the people of the partly settled middle west were highly superstitious and possessed of almost fanatical religious fervor. In Kirtland Joseph's church swelled quickly in membership and importance. It was here that Brigham Young and many of the other later leaders joined up.

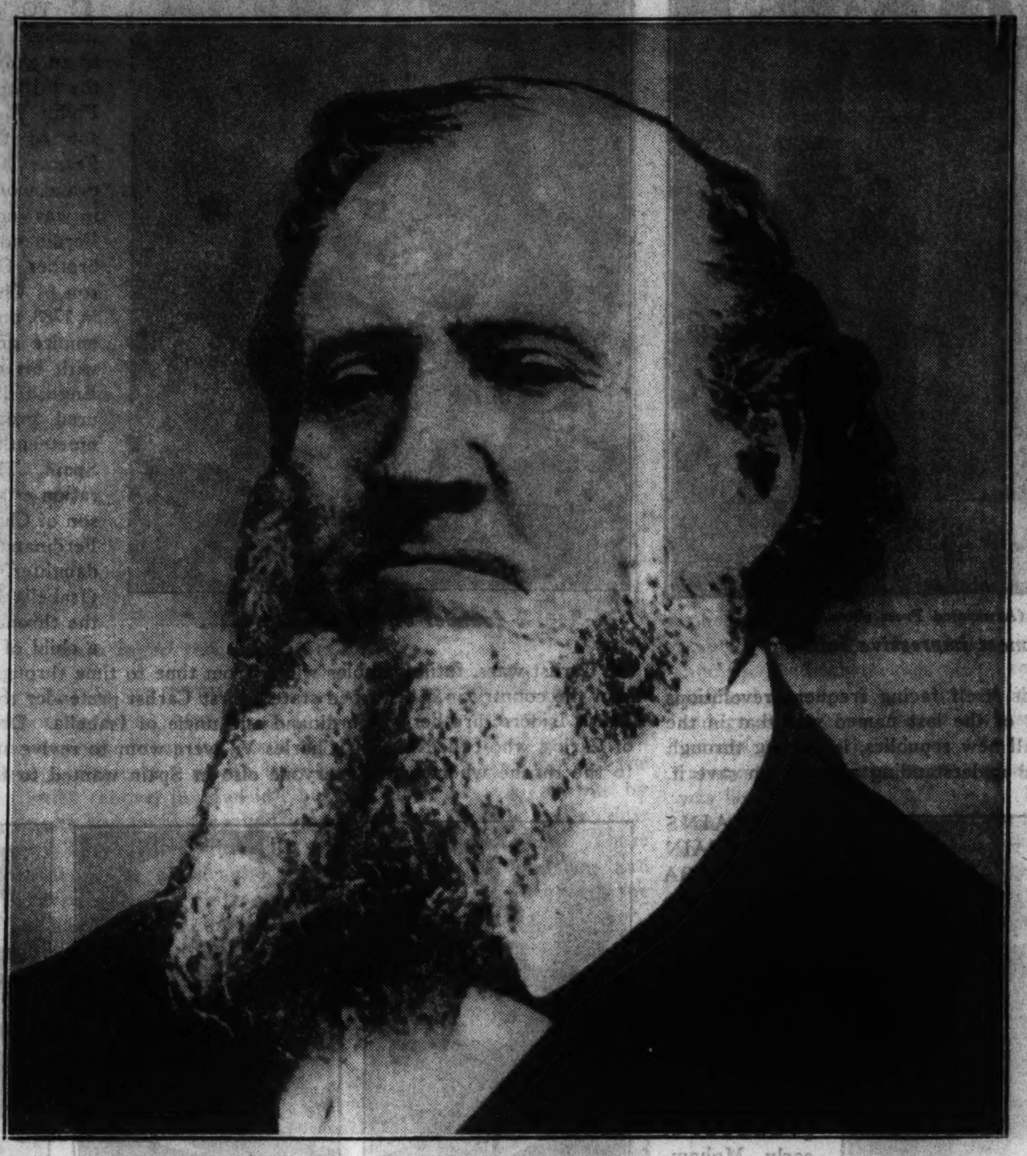
Joseph, for all his dreaminess and in spite of qualities in his character which undoubtedly were bad, was a good organizer. He sent missionaries out who converted scores to the cause of Joseph Smith the prophet. They came to Kirtland, gave property and money to the church, and helped build up the Mormon community in size and importance. Several other missions and colonies were established at other places in the middle west, chief of them in Missouri.

For a time Joseph and those in his close confidence enjoyed high prosperity in Kirtland. Then hard times hit the country. Joseph and some of the other leaders had been plunging into land and other forms of speculation. A bank which Joseph had organized and other enterprises in which he and his church had heavy interests appeared to be on the verge of bankruptcy. Internal dissension threatened Joseph's leadership. He found it convenient at this time to head an expedition to Missouri to aid the large Mormon colony there. The members of this colony were being persecuted by the gentile Missouri farmers.

It must be understood that at this point in the development of the church there had been no hint that Smith or the church believed in polygamy. It is even doubtful if Smith himself had thought at this time of polygamy as a possible tenet of his new religion. The persecution of his followers in Missouri was because of economic rather than moral differences between Mormons and gentiles. The Missouri farmers hated and feared the encroachment of the Mormons and were determined to drive them out. Joseph Smith and his band from Kirtland arrived just before the Mormons were hounded out of Missouri. Many of them were murdered and most of their valuable lands and properties were dishonestly confiscated. On the other hand, it is equally true that the forces of persecution were not without serious losses. The Mormons did not give up without a fight.



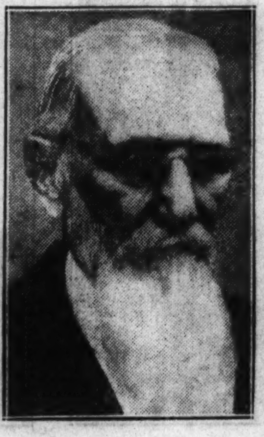
". . . prophet and founder, Joseph Smith Jr." He was killed by a mob at Carthage, Ill.



"He was Brigham Young. His life and character unquestionably have inspired the five men who since Young's death in 1877 have worn the mantle of Mormon president. . . ."

The stronger men of the Mormon defenders at this time formed a band of "avenging angels," calling themselves Sons of Dan. Outsiders later came to know them as Danites, and they were hated and feared as ruthless killers. So effective were the Danites in repulsing Missouri farmers that the governor of Missouri took a hand by calling out the militia. Indictments charging murder were voted against Joseph Smith and other Mormons, and the colony fled across the Mississippi river to the Illinois shore.

In Illinois they received sympathy and help and established a new colony at a little place called Commerce on the river bank a few miles below Carthage. Joseph renamed the town Nauvoo, a word which he said meant "beautiful." Here Smith reached his greatest power. His colony was so large that Nauvoo was the most populous city in Illinois. This was in 1839. Politicians of the state immediately angled for the support of the Mormons, and Smith was in a position to dictate to them. He demanded and got a charter for Nauvoo which made the city virtually independent of the state.



Joseph Fielding Smith, sixth president of church.

In this small kingdom Smith was dictator and king. He organized new industries and enterprises, even formed a private army, the Nauvoo legion, and made plans for the building of a huge temple. The temple finally was started, but it never served any purpose for the Mormons.

Prophet Joseph had begun the practice of polygamy secretly and was converting subordinate leaders of the church to his views on plural marriage. He told them he had received a revelation from the Lord which commanded him to take as many wives as he desired, and that only by obeying this command and instructing his people to obey it could the chosen people obtain salvation. The leaders of the church at first repulsed the idea, but subsequently were won over.

By 1842-'43 polygamy was general at Nauvoo, but secrecy was maintained. Authorities of Missouri were making repeated attempts to arrest Smith and return him for trial on the murder charges, and there was a growing hostility toward Smith and his followers in Illinois. Smith denied publicly on many occasions that his church approved of polygamy, but the fact was an open secret.

It has been estimated that Joseph Smith before his death was "sealed," as the Mormons called marriage, to more than thirty women; but there is no record showing the exact number. It has been reported that he had children only by his first wife. His son, Joseph H., later became the head of a branch of the Mormon church which broke away from the original colony.

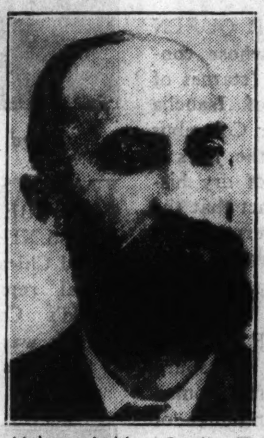
In 1844 hostility between Smith and his outside enemies had reached a climax. There had been frequent clashes between Mormons and gentiles. Smith had used his private army in some of these fights, and there had been considerable bloodshed. Joseph at this time had started a campaign to have himself nominated for President of the United States. In the eyes of the world he had reached the height of arrogance. Warants were issued for his arrest; and with his brother, Hyrum, he fled to a hideout across the river. Church leaders, however, prevailed upon them to surrender, and they were taken to the small jail at Carthage. Soon after their arrival at the jail a mob stormed the place, and both Joseph and his brother were shot to death. Their bodies were buried secretly and were not found until many years later. In recent years a handsome monument was erected over Joseph's permanent grave at Nauvoo.

"Their bodies were buried secretly and were not found until many years later."

"In recent years a handsome monument was erected over Joseph's permanent grave."

The murder of Joseph and the imminent prospect of a war between his followers and the enraged gentiles of Illinois and Missouri threw the Nauvoo colony into chaos. Brigham Young, who had been away in the interest of Prophet Joseph's presidential campaign, hurried back and took charge. The authorities ordered him to evacuate Nauvoo, and under the pressure of threatened forcible eviction Young organized his people into groups of wagon trains and started the long, heartbreaking trek into the western deserts.

That a large portion of the Mormon tribe finally arrived at the site of Salt Lake City was due to the heroic leadership of Brigham Young and to the courage of the pioneer men and women of his flock. A beautiful monument today commemorates this chapter of Mormon history.



Heber Jeddy Grant in nineteen eighteen.

Young built a thriving colony on the shores of Great Salt lake, but his hopes of isolation from the rest of the world were short lived. Chiefly because of the Mormon belief in polygamy, the colony in Utah soon came into conflict with the authority of the United States. There followed a long and bitter struggle. At one time a detachment of the United States army was sent to Utah, and most of the Mormon leaders, including Young, were indicted and jailed for long or short periods.

This clash with authority was continued into comparatively recent times. When Reed Smoot, an apostle of the Mormon church, was sent to the United States senate by the people of Utah, there was immediate opposition to his being given a seat. He finally won this battle and became a distinguished member of the upper house, serving for many years as chairman of the senate finance committee.

In the early days, however, the struggle was more in the nature of actual warfare between Young's forces, bands of pioneer gentiles, and the United States authority. Only the official abandonment of polygamy by the Mormons in 1890 brought a basis for permanent peace.

With belligerent vehemence Brigham Young defended polygamy during this struggle with the outside world. Before reaching Utah he had married nineteen women, and before his death he took unto himself eight more. When he died seventeen of his wives survived and almost all of his fifty-six children. It was the position of Brigham and the other church leaders of this time that polygamy was a right bestowed by divine authority and that its practice was necessary. Only once was Brigham Young's matrimonial career marred by a divorce action. His twenty-seventh and last wife, Ann Eliza Young, sued him for permanent separation.

In Brigham Young's time, although he was territorial governor, the struggle always was bitter. The climax and the darkest stain on the history of Mormonism was the Mountain Meadows massacre in 1857. A group of Mormons and Indians slaughtered a company of pioneer men and women on their way through Utah by wagon train to find homes in the west.

Then came the period of empire building which has brought the Latter Day Saints to their present powerful estate. Throughout this period Brigham Young was the motivating force. Co-operation was his watchword. At the time of his death the foundation of his empire was unshakable. The edifice had not been completed, but the plans had been well drawn. From these plans Brigham Young's successors, including Heber Grant, have created a gigantic structure. It is the only example in the world of a church in which the temporal and the spiritual are unified successfully.

GREEKS HAD A NAME FOR IT. They called it Hesperia. The Romans called it Hispania. But the name Spain as applied to the greater part of the Iberian peninsula, according to the best authorities, came from the Phœnician word span, meaning hidden. Ancient Greeks founded colonies in Spain when that country was the rawest kind of a wilderness. Carthaginians held it about forty years two centuries before Christ. Romans, who left the colossal aqueduct at Segovia (right), a most impressive ruin of the age of Augustus, ruled the land from 200 B. C. to A. D. 414. Visigoths dominated the peninsula from A. D. 414 to A. D. 711. Then came the Moors. When the Moors finally were expelled the country fell to the squabbling kings of Asturias, Leon, Castile, Aragon, and Navarre and the counts of Barcelona. There was conflict aplenty then, as there has been since—even to today—in this land that has dethroned and exiled its Bourbon monarch and finds itself facing frequent revolutions and outbursts of anarchism, of which most recent of the last named was that in the great city of Barcelona. Present-day Spain, like all new republics, is passing through trying times. Courage at home and sympathy and understanding abroad can save it.

FIRST OF THE BOURBONS TO RULE SPAIN, and founder of the dynasty that came to an end with the removal from the throne of Alfonso XIII., was Philip V. (left), duke of Anjou, son of the Dauphin Louis of France and grandson of the grand monarch, Louis XIV. Philip was succeeded first by his son, Ferdinand VI., and then by his brother, Charles III. Charles IV., son of Charles III., became king in 1788, only to be deposed by the empire grabber, Napoleon, who, with his ultimate conqueror, the English duke of Wellington, figured prominently in the early nineteenth - century history of Spain. The first Bourbon restoration established Ferdinand VII., son of Charles IV., on the throne. Ferdinand's successor was his daughter, Maria Isabella Louisa (Isabella II.), whose elevation to the throne in 1833, when she was a child of only three, brought on the Carlist wars, futile gambles which from time to time throughout most of a century kept the country in a disturbed state. First Carlist pretender to the throne was Carlos Maria Isidoro, brother of Ferdinand and uncle of Isabella. Descendants and relatives of Carlos, who called himself Charles V., were wont to revive spectacularly their claim to the throne when nearly everyone else in Spain wanted to forget it.

Moorish rulers entered Spain A. D. 711, later founded the western caliphate at Cordoba, and finally the tag end of them, the last king of Granada, was routed out through the treachery of his son, Boabdil, in 1492.

In 1906 he married Victoria Eugenie (above, bride and bridegroom), daughter of Prince Henry of Battenberg and granddaughter of Queen Victoria of Great Britain. On their wedding day, and amid the acclaim of their subjects, the young royal couple barely escaped death from the explosion of an assassin's bomb. "... ardent sportswomen ..."

DRIVING A HIGH POWERED AUTOMOBILE, climbing dizzy crags in the Pyrenees or the Alps, or sailing a swift yacht under full canvas were all in the day's run of sports for the last of the Bourbon kings of Spain. But, perhaps as much as any pastime, he enjoyed shooting, either from a blind (above) or at upland birds breaking from cover, always, it should be noted, in correct attire. Hidden away on his former vast estates in interior Spain were preserves upon which only he, his closest friends, or his royal guests were permitted to fire a gun.

CHARGED WITH RESPONSIBILITY for the slaughter of 100,000 soldiers of Spain by Riff warriors at Anual, Morocco, Alfonso XIII., who had said he never would relinquish his throne, was driven into exile April 14, 1931, as the result of an almost bloodless revolution. Scarcely a month later howling mobs raged through the streets of the principal cities (above, in Madrid), burning churches and convents by the hundreds, mauling priests and monks, committing all sorts of depredations against public and private property, and beating monarchist noblemen wherever found. These outrages, aimed against the power of the church and engineered by socialists and radicals, occurred in the land once more strongly Catholic than Rome itself—in the land where the inquisition had flourished under Isabella, the religious zealot.

PROVISIONAL PRESIDENT OF THE NEW SPANISH REPUBLIC was Niceto Alcala Zamora y Torres (at right, on the left), who on Dec. 10, 1931, was elected constitutional president for a term of six years. First president of the autonomous state of Catalonia, which declared itself free of monarchist rule five hours after the establishment of the Spanish republic, was Francisco Macia y Llusa (at right, on the right), white-haired patriot of Barcelona. Macia revived the ancient Catalan cortes, the language, and the flag. Macia also fanned into a flame the Catalan separatist movement, which roused the wrath of powers in Madrid. Zamora's troops in Barcelona prevented the setting up of an independent republic of Catalonia, and finally a compromise was reached, designating Spain "an integral republic with ample facilities for regional autonomy." This compromise left the Catalans with self-rule.

"... Zamora ... Macia ..."

"... Durrutti the Desperate ..."

MOST GHASTLY OF THE DEEDS of violence perpetrated during the anarchist revolt was the blowing up of a railroad train on a bridge of the Barcelona-Seville line at Puzol, near Valencia. Twenty-four persons lost their lives in the splintered and flaming wooden coaches of the train. Responsible for a large toll of lives were the rebel leaders, including Durrutti the Desperate (at left). Throughout this, one of the bloodiest episodes of republican Spain's short history, the army remained loyal.

SMALL WONDER, THEN, with Spain almost constantly in political upheaval of one sort or another as a result of flare-ups of socialists, communists, syndicalists, separatists, royalists, and others, that governments come and go overnight. Within the twelve months of 1933 there were four separate and distinct cabinets, one of which was headed by Diego Martinez y Barrios (right), who lasted as premier from mid-October to late in December and saw in his brief reign of authority the uprising of the Barcelona anarchists put down with severity and dispatch. When Martinez lost the premiership he landed another ministry job.

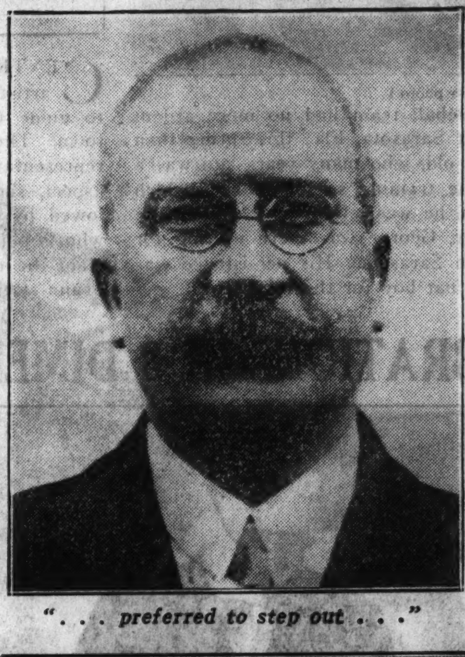
"... lost the premiership ..."



"... preferred to step out ..."

PRECEDING AS WELL AS SUCCEEDING Martinez as premier, the 70-year-old leader of radical republicans, Alejandro Lerroux (left), for the second time took control of Spain's affairs on Dec. 17, 1933. He had previously served as chief of the cabinet from Sept. 12 until Martinez took over the government. In the most recent change of government in Spain, that of April 28, Senor Ricardo Samper Ibanez (below), a more or less obscure politician of Valencia, was installed in the office of premier. Lerroux, it is said, could have retained the premiership by making certain concessions to Zamora, but preferred to step out in the interest of governmental harmony. Ibanez, the new premier, is known as an enemy to socialism, and as such may be the target of frequent attacks from the left. Observers predict another change of government soon.

WHEN DE RIVERA STEPPED OUT of the dictatorship in 1930 the Cuban born hero of the Moroccan wars, Gen. Damaso Berenguer y Fuste, count of Xauer (above), was placed at the head of the ministry, a position he managed to retain only little more than a year—a year marked by disturbances that spelled the beginning of the end for royalty in Spain. General Berenguer, despite his long military career, lacked many stern qualifications of a dictator, as was brought out in the swiftly moving drama of the collapse of royal Spain.

FOREIGN MINISTER FOR A BRIEF PERIOD in Berenguer's cabinet was Don Jacobo Stuart Fitz-James Falco Portocarrero y Asorio Maria de Pilar Carlos Manuel (above), tenth duke of Berwick and seventeenth duke of Alba, then the most popular of the grandees of Spain. Today he is simply Senor Santiago Stuart, under suspicion of the monarchists, who whisper against him, and badly treated by the republicans, who have seized considerable portions of his once vast estates. His wife, the duchess, died on Jan. 11 of this year.

BARCELONA, principal city of the Catalans, remains today the center of anarchism and syndicalism, its reeking cantinas of the Chinese quarter (example at right) being suitable secret hideouts for the hatching of terrorist strikes against trade and industry and murderous plots against the government.

"... hatching ... murderous plots ..."

IT WAS IN BARCELONA'S Barrio Chino, or Chinatown (left), that the most recent of Spain's anarchistic outbreaks, that of December last, is believed to have originated—a wave of terrorism that spread to Madrid, Seville, and a number of smaller cities and towns. Barcelona's citizen police, the somatens, were called to arms to supplement the regular police. Sandbags were piled high in the streets and light artillery wheeled into action against the reckless forces under the red and black flag. Scores were shot down and thousands of terrorists arrested before government army tanks, crashing through rebel barricades, finally routed the anarchists. Leaders of the short-lived revolt were run to earth separately and in groups and marched off (lower left) to prison. No sooner had the echoes of the last terrorist bombs died away than ninety of the prisoners, desperate hired gunmen of the anarchists and syndicalists, escaped from the city's central jail and from a convict ship anchored in the harbor. Outbursts of this nature are what make Spain a country of uncertainties. The Spaniard is a temperamental hombre, sometimes easily influenced by agitators.

OUT OF THE REPUBLIC'S recent turmoils emerges one indication that the country progresses. Women were permitted to vote (above, waiting at the polls) at the most recent election. This may prove a stabilizing influence.

"... victory for the lefts ..."

WITH THE RECENT DEATH of the patriot Senor Macia, Catalonia elected a new president, Louis Companys (above), politician, lawyer, and journalist. His election was considered a decided victory for the lefts. Companys once was Spain's minister of marine.

"... their everyday pursuits ..."

THOUGH cabinets rise and fall in quick succession in this newest of European republics, the common people complacently follow their everyday pursuits (above, see patient ass and driver) or flock to the plaza de toros to see the espada figuratively make a monkey out of a bull (right). If one can forget that nation's political problems, it is possible still to think of Spain as a romantic land.

EX-JOCKEY, 48, A BAT BOY

THE Boston American league baseball team had no more ardent fan at its spring training camp at Sarasota, Fla., this spring than George ("Shorty") Shepard, 48 years old, who many years ago was a professional jocky. At the end of the training season during which George acted as bat boy for the team, he was left behind. When the baseball club reached Boston, however, George was there waiting for the players. He had hitch-hiked from Sarasota His persistence was rewarded. Now George is the regular bat boy for the team.

SILESIAN SIGNS GO COMIC

CENTRAL Europe has many artistic and curious signposts to guide travelers from town to town. The sign pictured above is representative. It has a humorous aspect, showing an old lady, followed by a heavily laden porter, who is pointing out to other travelers the direction of the Warmbrunn station in Silesia.

THESE NEWLYWEDS SCOFF AT JINX

BECAUSE the shipboard wedding of Emma Dorothy Matyi of Astoria, L. I., and Chester Ehrber of New York occurred on Friday the 13th, it was agreed by the principals and Father Ralph Cullen, who performed the ceremony aboard the S. S. Santa Rosa in New York harbor, that they should make some sort of gesture to show their contempt of supersition. Someone suggested that lighting three cigarets on one match would be appropriate, and the suggestion was promptly acted upon, much to the delight of news cameramen present. True to tradition, the camera boys insisted on taking not only one but several shots of the pose, so the bride, her husband, and Father Cullen thoroughly flouted the time-honored three-on-a-match bugaboo. The wedding ceremony and the subsequent picture-taking were witnessed by a large assemblage of ship passengers and officers, who cheered lustily.

MECHANIZED "CAVALRY" IN ACTION

Mechanized cavalry unit at Fort Riley, Kansas, demonstrates how machine gunners on an armored truck can pursue and fire at an airplane. This was one of the feature exhibitions at the recent army maneuvers.

ONE of the outstanding developments of the military preparedness program of the United States in recent years has been the mechanization of various branches of the service. First various batteries of the field artillery were motorized Later cavalry troops were gradually converted into motorized units. The result of this new program was revealed recently at Fort Riley, Kansas, during the most extensive army maneuvers held since the close of the World war Of particular interest were exhibitions of efficiency put on by the former cavalry soldiers. These men, now equipped with fast armored trucks, gave demonstrations of effective anti-aircraft defense. Another interesting demonstration was the commanding of troops in the field by means of radio transmission. Each motorized unit was constantly in contact with the commanding officer by means of radio, thus eliminating the possibility of confusion in transmission of orders, a hazard frequently encountered when orders are relayed as formerly, by spoken command in the field. The trucks are very fast.

THEY ORDERED BEEF—AND GOT IT!

(Acme photo.)

IT WOULD seem that Edward Radcliffe, exalted ruler of the Burbanks, Cal., Elks lodge, and Miss Paris Williams ordered beef for luncheon, but did not specify how they wanted it served. Imagine their surprise when it arrived on the hoof! The steer is a prize member of the herd on the ranch of Jim Jeffries, former champion heavyweight prizefighter. When the picture was taken the steer was in rehersal at the ranch for rodeo performances. The girl riding the animal, Miss Strickland, was a star performer in the rodeo. The steer, "Miss Mabel Riding Bobby," takes hurdles like a college track athlete, as this picture shows "Miss Mabel" also is noted for having a pair of the longest horns in the California ranching country The horns are kept shining by the ranch hands and the brass ball tips are gleamingly polished whenever the prize steer is entered for a rodeo or cattle show As long as the animal can do tricks and take prizes it is unlikely that it will be transformed into steaks and roasts. Long-horned steers of this variety no longer are common in the west.

SYNOPSIS

Cymbaline, idol of a thousand men, is shunned by all the women of Sacramento in the days just after the hectic fifties. She inherited the Calico Shroud, a gambling house, when her adored uncle and sole relative, Tawney Jack, who was its founder, was killed by a bullet meant for another man. Texas Joe, her manager, loves her silently. Cymbaline has become notorious, a proud, beautiful woman of mystery, of speculation, and of suspicion. She lives in luxury in her house on the levee's edge, paying daily visits to her place of business.

INSTALMENT II.

THE man Cymbaline addressed was in all truth a big man. He stood full six feet, and the great body of him was straight as a young sapling, a vast figure of a man, clad in the fine, substantial garments of a rich cattleman They were saddle clothes and he had ridden far that day, as Cymbaline guessed, even from Rancho Santa 'Nita at the Sierras' foot, which was his home. His face was rugged, lined deeply about the eyes and mouth, tanned from years of riding in the sun and wind, and his wide gray eyes were enigmatic to most observers.

For six years she had known John Mattison and liked him. Now she looked him between the eyes and asked a question.

"What's wrong Mr. Mattison?" she said.

"Nothing, really, child," he answered. "Just an old man's fidgeting, I guess Have you seen my son?"

"Sancho? Surely. Today, sir. Has that young rascal been worrying you again?"

John Mattison drew a long breath that was like a sigh of relief, as, indeed, it was.

"Only a little, my dear. He left the rancho three days back. Today you say? And was he sober?"

"Yes, sir If one can call being drunk with rage sober."

She laughed a little at the memory of that brawl on J street.

"He was having as pretty a fight as ever I saw in my born days, Mr. Mattison, and I cannot find it in my heart to censure him, since it was I think, for me."

"H'm—very likely, very likely," said the man relievedly. "Tell me about it."

So Cymbaline told him, her cheeks flushing a little in the telling, for it went hard with her to acknowledge any criticism of herself by men

"So. It's all right then. I don't like the boy's increasing habit of coming to the town and staying over. He leaves more and more the work of the rancho, in which he should be interested, to me and to the vaqueros It has been you, child, that's brought him for the most part, though lately he's been taking to the cups more than I like."

SHE held out her hand impulsively and the old man took it Curious eyes saw the small byplay, but none were near enough to see the quick mist that shadowed Cymbaline's long brown lashes.

She turned her head at that moment, for a step had struck the sill, a swift uncertain step that they both knew and Sancho Mattison stood in the open doorway. His face was flushed beneath its dark skin and it was apparent that he was a little drunk.

At sight of Cymbaline he snapped himself gallantly upright, bowed with unerring grace from the waist very low. Then he came swinging toward them in erratic arcs

"Cymbaline," he said helplessly, then, in Spanish, "thou light of my soul."

And Cymbaline said gently, in Spanish, too: "Foolish one—to be sunk in liquor! Salute thy father."

"Senor!" said Sancho, facing toward that grave and tight-lipped patriarch, "I'm glad to see you, sir."

"Good evening son," said Mattison.

For a little while the three spoke together, and then, at the still anxious look on John Mattison's face, the girl turned to Sancho, once more spoke in Spanish.

"My friend," she said softly, "what would you do for me?"

At the flame of joy which illuminated his tipsy young face the girl winced with self-reproach.

"Thou knowest," he answered in the stately fashion he loved to employ in his speech with her.

"Then I ask you this: Return to Rancho 'Nita and do your duty by it and Senor John. They both need you, the son of the name."

For a moment Sancho weaved on his uncertain feet, considering, though very gravely and with no thought of refusal He was weighing the importance of the request. Then:

"How long, Cymbaline, must I be banished?" he said.

"Not banished at all. Just steadied down to the responsibility that rests upon you."

"Buenos" he said. "It is good. When shall I start?"

"Now. This moment. I bid you good-by Go with God."

She held out her hand, and the boy bent over it, kissed it, straightened, and saluted.

"I'm ready, sir," he said in English to his father.

John Mattison, too, held the soft white hand a moment, and the look he gave its owner was deep as a sea, as teeming with unseen things.

It told her how the anxiety was eased in his heart, how his task of getting Sancho to quit the life of the town for the work of the rancho had been simplified, how gratitude welled in him.

They all three turned toward the doorway and the night beyond, for Cymbaline's visit to the hall was done, and many eyes followed them.

It was perhaps unfortunate that just as they reached the opening a new figure loomed in it, the figure of a miner in a red shirt, its hard face leering in a habitual grin, its right eye set in a circle of greenish blue

At the sight instantly, without a second's pause Sancho Mattison rushed and struck and the man once more went stumbling backward, and this time he landed over the rail of the porch on the ground below a short but sudden fall. The two men walked swiftly away, their feet sounding in rhythm on the board walk, and Cymbaline stood with her mouth open, staring at nothing where the swift scene had taken place a second before.

From the darkness below the porch a savage voice muttered once.

"Damn!" it said

AT THE governor's mansion on N street a soiree was in progress. Gov F F Low was a popular man honorable, with a sense of humor and he liked to see people gathered beneath his roof.

This night the wealth, standing, and beauty of the town were being entertained

Business men, bankers, prominet ranchers of the valley above, officers in brilliant uniforms poured up the broad steps with banter and quip.

And if the men in their colorful clothes presented a splendid sight, how beyond adequate description were the women they attended!

Young and old they bobbed and swished in the wide hoops of the day, their shoulders draped in mantles of richest velvets. Tiny hats dipped upon their brows, long earrings dangled diamonds glittered.

In the vast high-ceilinged rooms, with their chandeliers dripping crystal illumined by the gas of which the town was so proud, their floors of matched and polished woods the brilliant assemblage gathered The governor himself, genial laughing, in his coat of fine black broadcloth with its white satin lining, was a fine figure beside his lady, who wore a redingote of golden taffeta over a front of priceless lace.

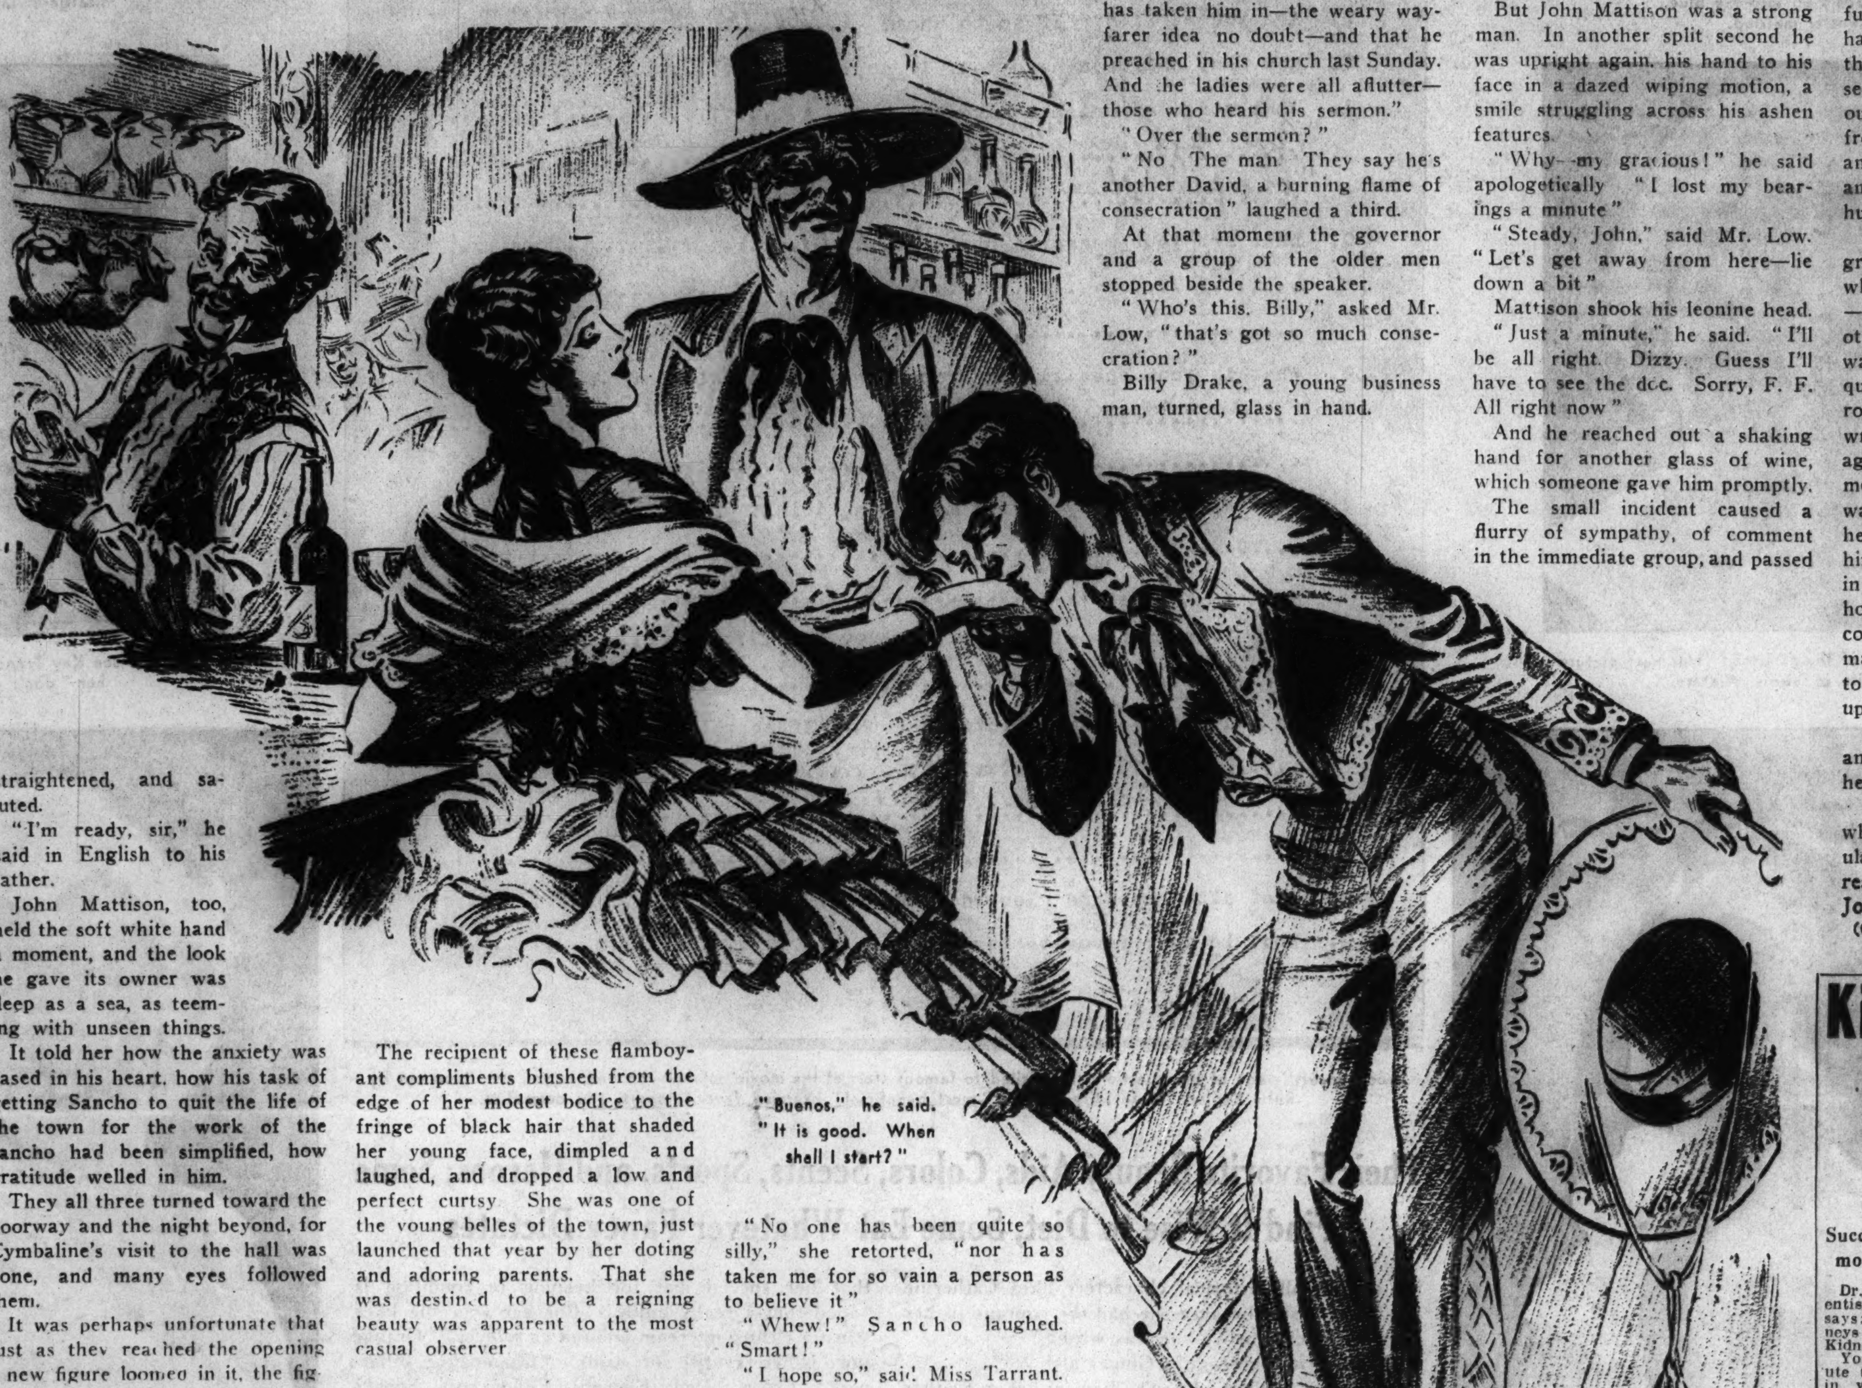
"Ah, Mr Ainsley Mrs. Ainsley. Glad to see you! And how are the children?"

"Very well, thank you."

"And bless my soul," said the governor delightedly, "if here isn't this new sprig of peach bloom! Miss Roselle Tarrant, welcome to your first ball at our humble house! The perfect image of yourself, Mrs. Tarrant, and as beautiful as any rose ever blown!"



"Buenos," he said. "It is good. When shall I start?"

The recipient of these flamboyant compliments blushed from the edge of her modest bodice to the fringe of black hair that shaded her young face, dimpled and laughed, and dropped a low and perfect curtsy She was one of the young belles of the town, just launched that year by her doting and adoring parents. That she was destined to be a reigning beauty was apparent to the most casual observer

AND presently, with the last of the comers there arrived two figures noticeable in any gathering, John Mattison and his son, Sancho, both meticulously and richly clad, both groomed as if they belonged entirely to the town and not to the Rancho Santa Anita. John Mattison was a rich man and one of unquestioned standing for his strict uprightness of dealing and his qualities of heart and mind. The doors of Sacramento were open to him, his counsel was sought on many matters of the commonwealth, but it was a noticeable thing that no matter where he and his handsome son appeared, there was no mention made of any other member of his family no genial question as to any Mrs Mattison

And this while a veiled affair, was well known by everyone.

"Good evening John," the governor said cordially as he shook the other's hard hand. "Happy to see you out. And you, my boy, how goes it with you, you young scapegrace? You'll find plenty of pretty faces to keep you busy tonight. Get along with you. Come with me, John. There's a special decanter in the library for my special friends."

So the older men, being joined by others of their age and tendencies, sought the farther room, while young Sancho went on to where the orchestra was already tuning up and young feet in satin slippers beginning to move restlessly eager for the dance.

Sancho Mattison was a favorite figure on any ballroom floor. The grace of his tall figure was unequaled by any beau of the time; the sparkling strange beauty of his face was fatal to maiden heart beholding it There was something compelling about the boy. It may have been the contrasts of his nature, or the plain lure of him in his mixed bloods—none could say.

For that John Mattison's son was as alien to his father as night to day was too obvious for comment John Mattison was Anglo-Saxon in every line of him.

With a sure and easy instinct, Sancho was soon the gayest youth on the floor It was not long until he was dancing with Roselle Tarrant, looking down at her with his black eyes so languorous that a less astute maiden would have had a seizure of the heart at once.

Not so this girl She met his gay banter with persiflage as gay, refused to be dazzled.

"Has anyone told you yet, senorita," he asked innocently, "that your eyes are like dark gems, your hair the stuff of dreams?"

"No one has been quite so silly," she retorted, "nor has taken me for so vain a person as to believe it"

"Whew!" Sancho laughed. "Smart!"

"I hope so," said Miss Tarrant. "For one so young."

"Is there any fault with youth if one has brains along with it?"

"Who's vain now?"

"Not I," said the girl, her red cheeks dimpling her big eyes full of laughter 'I'm only keeping up with you"

"Not up" said Sancho gallantly. "You're two lengths ahead."

"Well, you know one must stand up for himself and his beliefs."

"Exactly But I tell you again, Miss Pretty your eyes are like——"

"Nuisance!" she cried. "Will you pay attention to your feet?"

"Do you mean to tell me I missed a step?"

"Well——" She laughed again, unable even to hint the heresy in words, for this boy was the best dancer in all the Sacramento valley

"Well nothing' said Sancho. "There must be already another more fortunate than I I think I'll hunt him down and fight him."

"O. Sancho Mattison!" cried Roselle Tarrant "If I didn't know you I'd say you'd been drinking."

"If you knew me better," he flashed back, "you'd wonder that I haven't!"

"Well, anyway there's the end of the music—such a heavenly waltz!—and all we've done is quarrel!"

"Not a bit of it. We've just been sharpening our wits. I hope you're going to have the grandest season imaginable, Roselle. Doesn't seem possible you're grown up! Hasn't been three years since we were quarreling, as you all it at Mr Perkins' dancing school."

"Just that," said the girl. "I was fifteen"

And she swung her rose colored taffeta skirts along the polished floor beside him returning to her seat beside her mother.

A bevy of young men were in the offing, and Sancho made Mrs. Tarrant a gallant speech and surrendered the girl.

HE MADE his way to the dining room of the mansion, where foods of many varieties and descriptions were laid out, along with excellent liquors. A constant throng was passing and repassing, laughing, drinking talking.

Sancho joined a group of youths and stood smiling, listening to their conversation

This was mostly about the work on the capitol building, about the mines in Placer county, and finally about a newcomer in the town.

"I hear," said young Jack Carlin, "that the Rev. Addison Best has taken him in—the weary wayfarer idea no doubt—and that he preached in his church last Sunday. And the ladies were all aflutter—those who heard his sermon."

"Over the sermon?"

"No The man They say he's another David, a burning flame of consecration" laughed a third.

At that moment the governor and a group of the older men stopped beside the speaker.

"Who's this, Billy," asked Mr. Low, "that's got so much consecration?"

Billy Drake, a young business man, turned, glass in hand.

"Why, we were just speaking of that new preacher who came riding in last week."

"O, yes. I heard about that. The ladies are talking of him quite a lot."

"Yes, sir My sister says he has a thin face with a white fire in it and very large gray eyes that look for sin in every face."

"H'm," said the governor. "Let's hope gentlemen, that this paragon is interested only in the evangel It might prove a catastrophe if he turned human."

AT THE laugh which followed the group moved a bit, and Sancho Mattison, turning, looked down into the lifted face of Roselle Tarrant. It was an odd, rapt little face its dark eyes wide, its red mouth open

She seemed to be looking, listening beyond the immediate present, and Sancho hoped she had not caught the last low-voiced remark.

"Yes," said the girl timidly, "I heard him in the church that day. He spoke as angels"

A strange sense of insight and of portent fell upon Sancho. He was about to reach out a hand and touch her sweet, bare little arm, to ask her away to dance, when something happened which took her out of his mind.

John Mattison just beyond the governor had taken a glass of wine and was raising it to his lips when Billy Drake asked clearly in a small silence "But who is the man? Has anyone heard his name?"

"Sure," said young Carlin. "It was in the paper—John Spurlock, and he came from Missouri."

At that moment Mr. Low surged forward, put out a hand.

The vast bulk of the cattleman had sagged against him, spilling the wine from its lifted glass across his broadcloth sleeve.

"John!" he cried. "John! My God! Give me a hand, boys! He's had a stroke!"

He caught the sagging form in both his arms and Sancho, surging like a spring released, was with him.

A woman gave a little scream. There was a startled silence.

"Father!" cried the boy. "Father!"

But John Mattison was a strong man. In another split second he was upright again, his hand to his face in a dazed wiping motion, a smile struggling across his ashen features.

"Why—my gracious!" he said apologetically "I lost my bearings a minute"

"Steady, John," said Mr. Low. "Let's get away from here—lie down a bit"

Mattison shook his leonine head.

"Just a minute," he said. "I'll be all right. Dizzy. Guess I'll have to see the doc. Sorry, F. F. All right now"

And he reached out a shaking hand for another glass of wine, which someone gave him promptly.

The small incident caused a flurry of sympathy, of comment in the immediate group, and passed as such things pass. The merrymakers went on about their pastime, and the talk of the men resumed about other news of the town, the valley and John Mattison, standing steadily, sipping his good wine joined in it.

His friend the governor, and his son, Sancho, however, saw that the pallor which had come on his face did not leave it.

The boy was done with dancing. He suggested that they go home, but his father shook his head.

"No need son,' he said. "Go on—enjoy yourself I'll wait. Perfectly all right now."

"But no sir" Sancho said uneasily "I think it would be better to go if we go now we can make the rancho by breakfast time. What say?"

"O, all right, all right," said Mattison largely smiling. "Pretty good kid eh F. F.? Ready to chuck all this for his old dad."

"He is a good son, John," said the other earnestly, "and he's right about chucking this excitement. But won't you stay here with us?"

"O, no Thanks, F. F. We'll pull along out Got the light chestnut geldings tonight – down at Bauquier's stables—and you know how they'll put the miles behind them. Well so long."

"Good night John. And do let us hear how you come along"

"I'll do that F F So long."

And the two of them, so noticeable in any gathering, made their way from the mansion.

They walked over to K street and at the popular stables of J. Bauquier ordered their horses and light buckboard.

These horses were the pride of Rancho 'Nita the flower of its best, and that best was a matter of fame along the Sacramento. Their blood had come into the country along with John Mattison over twenty years ago, when he rode down the vast levels on a tall brown stallion with fiery eyes and arching neck and the gentlest manners in the world.

HE HAD been a strange man then silent and preoccupied for all his kindliness, and he drove cattle with him, had a small cortege of wagons, goods and helpers. He came from Utah, and no one ever fully knew his history. He had had some gold had made more in the mining days, and finally had settled on the wide spread of land out at the Sierras' foot, bought from a decadent Spanish family and known as Santa Anita rancho, and had prospered beyond all human need.

But there was always in his deep gray eyes that shadow of unrest which Cymbaline alone could see —Cymbaline and one other. This other waited for him now—and always—at Rancho 'Nita, sitting quiet and sleepless in a wooden rocker under the dark fig trees, wrapped in a striped blanket against the autumn chill. For more than half her life she had waited for him, had met him when he came in silence, had brought him food and drink and comfort in her toil-hard hands. No matter how rich John Mattison had become in the passing years, no matter how many there were paid to wait upon him, she never gave up this service.

She had been young and dark and comely when her master took her.

She was old and dark and somewhat comely still, and the inarticulate soul of her had one god, one reason for existence—her master, John.

Kidneys Cause Much Trouble Says Doctor

Successful Prescription Helps Remove Acids—Works in 15 Minutes.

Dr. T. J. Rastelli, famous English scientist, Doctor of Medicine and Surgeon, says: "You can't feel well if your Kidneys do not function right, because your Kidneys affect your entire body."

Your blood circulates 4 times a minute through 9 million tiny, delicate tubes in your Kidneys which are endangered by drastic, irritating drugs, modern foods and drinks, worry, and exposure. Beware of Kidney dysfunction if you suffer from Night Rising, Leg Pains, Nervousness, Dizziness, Circles Under Eyes, Acidity, or Loss of Pep.

Dr. Walter R. George, for many years Health Director of Indianapolis, says: "Insufficient Kidney excretions are the cause of much needless suffering with Aching Back, Frequent Night Rising, Itching, Smarting, Burning, Painful Joints, Rheumatic Pains, Headaches, and a generally run-down body. I am of the opinion that the prescription Cystex corrects such functional conditions. It aids in flushing poisons from the urinary tract, and in freeing the blood of retained toxins. Cystex deserves the indorsement of all doctors." If you suffer from Kidney and Bladder dysfunction, delay endangers your vitality, and you should not lose a single minute in starting to take the doctor's special prescription called Cystex (pronounced Siss-tex) which helps Kidney functions in a few hours. It starts work in 15 minutes. Gently tones, soothes, and cleans raw, sore membranes. Brings new energy and vitality in 48 hours. It is helping millions of sufferers and is guaranteed to fix you up and make you feel like new in 8 days, or money back on return of empty package. Get guaranteed Cystex from your druggist today.

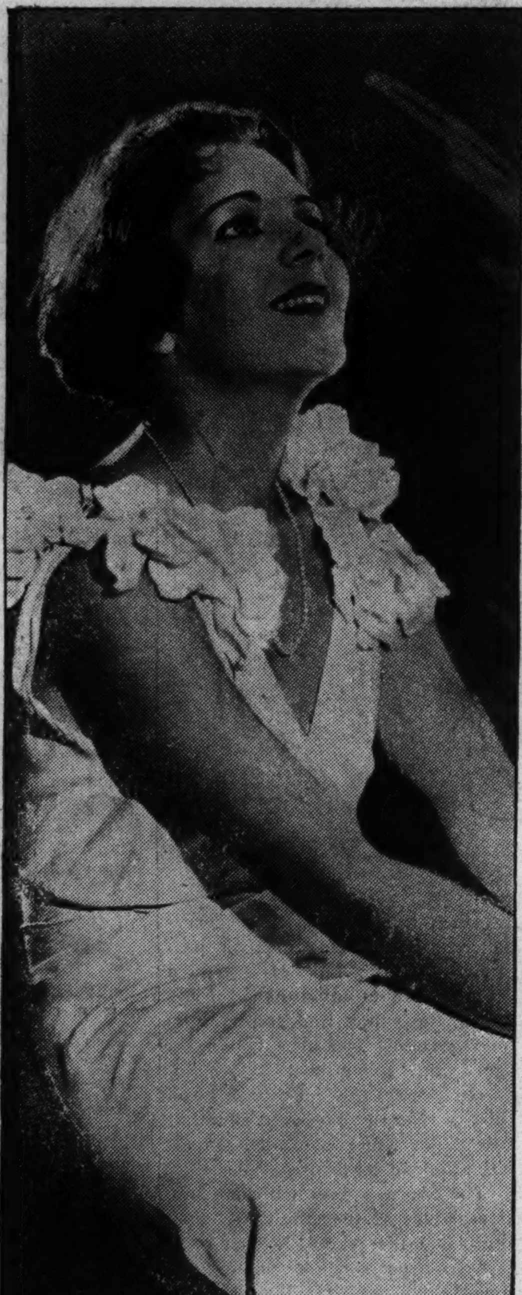
Specimen first page of the questionnaire mailed to famous stars of the movie colony—this one, as you see, filled out by Ruby Keeler. Note Miss Keeler's "most beneficial" exercise, favorite sport, and cosmetics.



Ruby Keeler is that little Mrs. Al Jolson, of whom a lot of folks, including Al, are immensely fond. Miss Keeler, who was born in Halifax, Nova Scotia, says one of the events of her life was learning, when she came to the United States, that the people here spoke the same language she did. The lady, with a not long, but enviable, stage career behind her, made an instantaneous success in "42d Street."

Ginger Rogers, the peppy little number who has been doing so much singing, dancing, and—yes, ACTING—on our screens lately, hails from Dubuque, Ia. Her winning of a Charleston contest was a nudge of Fate. It pushed her into vaudeville, from which she went to musical comedy and thence to Hollywood, where she has made decidedly good. Her first screen appearance was in "Young Man of Manhattan." Her most recent photoplay, "Twenty Million Sweethearts." See questionnaire answers for other info'.

Their Favorite Beauty Aids, Colors, Scents, Sports, and Heroes; Some Find It Wise to Diet, Some Eat Whatever Fancy Dictates

"IN REPLY TO YOURS—LET ME SAY——"

By Mae Tinee

CURIOSITY may kill cats, but it is also an avenue to learning.

This may have been a man's world once—but no mo'! The universe has become woman-conscious, and milady the laywoman never tires of reading about the lives, loves, beauty aids, and what have you of her sister, milady the professional.

With the interests of our feminine readers in mind, one day not long ago we mailed out a flock of questionnaires to Hollywood actresses.

Pretty soon they came drifting home to our files, and we found them so interesting that we thought we'd let you in on a few.

You will note that Miss Keeler finds it unnecessary to diet, does with few beauty lotions. But she does love to swim and dance—and swimming and dancing are considered to be great beautifiers by all our best beauty experts.

We learn that Miss Keeler's favorite color is blue and that the flower and scent she cares most about are violet.

She believes in hunches, has had dreams come true. "had an inferiority complex but overcame it," and of all historical characters likes Catherine the Great best, "because she had the courage of her convictions even when she was wrong."

Her favorite beverage? Ginger ale.

Claudette Colbert doesn't diet, either. Neither does she exercise.

Do you use creams and lotions much? Yes, she answered—nourishing creams.

Miss Colbert wears a 6 glove and a 6-AAA shoe, and prefers grapefruit juice as a beverage. Her favorite actor is John Barrymore. She believes in hunches. Never had a dream come true. Uses "?" perfume, wears white by preference, and adores yellow roses. Her favorite recipe, sole Marguery. Pet aversion? Affectation. She's sensitive to surroundings and has an inferiority complex.

Kay Francis also "seems to be able to eat anything." Tennis and sailing are her favorite sports. These she finds most beneficial to her health. She drinks buttermilk, cares for few lotions, likes creamed mushroom sauce, Alfred Lunt, and Helen Hayes, and goes to the movies on her vacations. Her pet aversions are "questionnaires and fittings for gowns." She believes in hunches, won't tell the name of her perfume, has a penchant for green and chrysanthemums. She experiences strong likes and dislikes immediately on meeting strangers—wears a 5 shoe and a 6 glove.

Du Barry is the historical character who impresses her most—"I have been fascinated by the woman's strength and abilities ever since I first read of her."

The occasion which became most deeply etched into her childhood memory was "the first time I saw my mother play Shakespeare. She was quite well known as a classic actress under the name of Katherine Clinton."

Ginger Rogers says "No! No!" to candy, pie, and cakes—finds dancing the most beneficial exercise—and as to beauty aids, tries "everything that comes out." She sips Rhine wine when partying, and wanted to be a school teacher before she became an actress. The incident that impressed her most when a child was winning a Charleston contest. Her favorite radio personality is Bing Crosby, and the hunch she followed to her own advantage was "coming to Hollywood." John Barrymore's her favorite actor.

Elissa Landi announces, we are sure with pride, that her special diet for keeping in condition is "food that I really enjoy." For her skin she likes "just a cleansing cream and eau de cologne." Orange juice is her favorite soft drink. "Champagne, otherwise." Color? Red. Flower? Yellow rose. Scent? "Aha."

Myrna Loy has been putting on some most becoming weight recently. D'ye like those round cheeks?

To keep in condition Miss Landi rides horseback, gardens, and walks. The incidents that impressed her most as a child were "a fire in Smyrna, a spanking, and a death." Her favorite actress is Katharine Hepburn—and her favorite type of man? "Don't be funny," writes Miss Landi.

She isn't superstitious, but once followed a hunch to her own advantage: "I dawdled, didn't catch a plane—and then it crashed."

Ann Harding, for her beauty's sake, uses good skin food and "plenty of soap and water." Her pet drink is lemonade, her "most beneficial exercise" riding, her favorite type of man "cultured," her favorite actor Clive Brook, her favorite radio personality President Roosevelt, and Joan of Arc is the character in history who impresses her most, for "her sublime devotion to a cause." She doesn't believe in hunches and never had a dream come true. Fried chicken is her favorite recipe, yellow her favorite color, and jonquil the flower she loves best. "Fragrance" she names as her perfume. Ann—art subterfuging? Her pet aversion? "People who ask too many personal questions."

Myrna Loy—suave, clean cut, dark—usually eats only light salads for lunch, swims every day if possible, and uses only a "light cleansing cream." Tea is her favorite beverage, the tuberose her flower. Did she ever follow a hunch to her own advantage? "Yes," Miss Loy answered, "when I accepted the offer of Mrs. Rodolf Valentino to appear in her pix, 'What Price Beauty?' It started my screen career."

Margaret Lindsay "shuns solids for liquids one day each week," finds riding her most beneficial exercise, but likes golf best. She seldom powders. Lipstick and mascara only for her! Prefers milk as a drinking companion. To eat? Yum—Russian salad! Made like this: Chop a hard-boiled egg fine, mix with mayonnaise, add tablespoonful of chili sauce—serve on hearts of lettuce.

Elissa Landi, who writes in her spare moments, looks here as if she'd just thought up a grand new plot for a story.

Her favorite actor is Leslie Howard, and George Washington is her pet historical character, because "he never told a lie." The incident that impressed her most as a child was when her pet puppy was run over and killed. Her greatest aversion is "people who keep time with their feet in the theater." She likes the "suave, polished, masculine type of man," believes in dreams, has had them come true, and doesn't believe in hunches. Color? Blue. Flower? Lily of the valley. Perfume? A trade scent.

She, too, goes to the movies when vacationing.

In wee handwriting you almost need a microscope to read, Jean Muir writes that her special diet is "good plain food," that she wears a 9-AAAA shoe and a 7¼ glove, and drinks milk. Walking is her most beneficial exercise and also her favorite sport, "if you can call it that." Does she use creams and lotions much?

"NO!!!!"

Her favorite historical character is Joan of Arc, "because George Bernard Shaw wrote a good book about her." (So did Mark Twain, for that matter.)

Q.—When on vacations do you ever go to the movies? A.—Have never had a vacation. I guess so.

And now you know a bit more about the private lives of nine lovely women than you did before. Don't you?
